GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY GIVES MEDAL TO MRS. LINDBERGH

Presents Hubbard Award for Her Part in Her Husband's Aerial Surveys.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31. — The National Geographical Society today bestowed on Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh its highest honor, the Hubbard medal, for her part in her husband's aerial surveys. She is the first woman to receive this medal. It bears the inscription: "In recognition of your courageous and skillful work as co-pilot and radio operator during 40,000 miles of flight, over five continents and many seas."

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, who was in the same class at Amherst with Mrs. Lindbergh's father, the late Dwight W. Morrow, made the presentation.

Mrs. Lindbergh responded: "I want to tell you how very deeply, how very sincerely, I appreciate this. I really feel I have not made any contribution to geography. Instead, the contribution of others has helped us. All our work, all our flights have been based on maps such as the Geographical Society makes. I do thank you very much."

Only Col. Lindbergh, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Morrow, and the trustees, officers and staff of the society were admitted to the ceremony.

BRITAIN ENDS FISCAL YEAR WITH $158,855,000 SURPLUS

Expenditures for Period Were $3,464,145,000 and Revenue, $3,623,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 31. — Great Britain closed its financial year tonight with a surplus of £31,148,000 (about $158,855,000).

Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, fishing at Deeside, received a report that his revenue for the period amounted to $3,623,000,000 as against expenditures of $3,464,145,000. The latter figure includes $38,739,000 in the sinking fund and $16,521,000 in debt payments to the United States. Neither was provided for in budget estimates. (The United States dollar closed today at $5.12 to the pound.)

The surplus, however, will have no effect on the forthcoming budget which Chamberlain will announce April 17, except in so far as some factors which put the last budget over the top may be expected to continue. The big question mark of the new fiscal year is whether estimates for defense services may have to be enlarged in the event of a disarmament impasse.

Last year at this time the British Treasury showed a deficit of £32,678,989—at that time about $126,800,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The Government tonight mustered out its civil workers—more than a million and a quarter of them—and pushed plans to either absorb them in public works or see to it that they become workers on State relief rolls.

The Civil Works Administration program, swiftly conceived, was put into effect to stand off starvation for thousands until the public works projects got under way and industry became better able to take on more men.

The Public Works Administration was prepared to take over many of those on the civil works payroll. There was no prospect of taking them over en masse.

The civil workers who stacked their picks and shovels for the last time tonight represented what was left of a work army that reached a peak strength of 4,000,000. The work they did touched all types of trade, industry and profession—it ranged from digging drainage ditches to doing frescoes on the walls of public buildings.

PWA Work Increasing.

The Public Works Administration under the direction of Secretary of Interior Ickes, predicted today that many more men would be given work, directly and indirectly, under the public works program, now swinging into maximum activity and that in many instances the work period would be a matter of years, not weeks.

Public works spokesmen pointed out that where their funds were used for naval vessel construction, the period would run in many instances as high as three years.

The Public Works Administration, when President Roosevelt started it last year, received a $3,300,000,000 appropriation. Out of this $1,380,825,370 was allotted for Federal projects under the direct supervision of public works, another billion was set aside for other Federal contracts such as the civil works, the Civilian Conservation Corps, Army and Navy work, and the other third was allocated for Federal assistance to subdivisions of Government desiring to build public works.

75 Pct. in Contract Stage.

Approximately 75 per cent of the billion dollars for straight Federal projects today was in the construction contract stage, Secretary Ickes reported, the precise figure being $1,041,310,468, of which $936,466,490 represented contracts awarded and day labor work started. The balance, Ickes said, was being advertised for contract.

With the $3,300,000,000 fund now allocated, the administration already is understood to have started plotting out additional expenditures to carry on the program. Although administration officials have not submitted a definite request to Congress for funds, it is understood a $500,000,000 figure has been considered.

In addition to this, tentative plans have been made for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to again take up direct participation in public works.

RFC Plan Indefinite.

The amount involved for the RFC plan is even less definite than that for the proposed public works appropriation. Roughly, the proposal is to use money secured by the corporation from repayments on loans already made. The new loans would be primarily to municipalities, with the Public Works Administration assisting to the extent of making grants of 30 per cent of the projects.

The Navy Department, under the figures Ickes has on hand, stands well out in front of those taking immediate advantage of the public works money. Of the $238,000,000 for ship construction under the new naval program and other navy projects $222,000,000 in contracts have been awarded or used to hire day labor.

The War Department, whose corps of engineers is supervising a $225,422,908 public works allotment for rivers and harbors, flood control and sea coast defenses, have put 78 per cent, $199,623,359 into the contract stage up to date.

7 Bodies Recovered in Chile Crash.

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 31.—The bodies of seven men killed 20 months ago in the crash of a Pan-American-Grace air liner against an Andean mountain were recovered by an expedition today and returned to Puente Del Inca. Two bodies remain in the wreckage. The identification of two, Pilot Charles G. Robinson and C. W. Myers, the radio operator, both Americans, was not established.

ROBBERY APPARENT MOTIVE IN KILLINGS

Neighbor Enters House After Seeing Sedan, With Dogs Locked Inside, Standing There Two Days

By the Associated Press.

BREMERTON, Wash., March 31.—The bodies of four men and two women, who had been bound, gagged and shot to death, were found late today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fleider, a retired grocery operator, at Erland's Point, a summer colony.

The victims, among them Mr. and Mrs. Fleider, had been dead 36 to 48 hours. Their hands had been tied behind their backs and their mouths taped, Sheriff D. L. Blankenship reported.

Those dead, through early identifications, were: Fleider, about 45 years old; Mrs. Fleider, about 50; their housemaid, 17 or 18 years old; Magnus Jordan, 50, a retired Navy man and neighbor, and two other men. One of the two other men was believed possibly to be from Walla Walla. The name of Eugene E. Channuwort, Walla Walla, was on the license certificate found in an automobile which had been left standing in front of the house.

Reports Home a "Shambles."

The house was a "shambles," the Sheriff reported. The immediate aid of Luke S. May, Seattle Criminologist, was called for, and no attempts were made to move the bodies until his arrival.

Robbery was the apparent motive, as the house had been ransacked. Mrs. Fleider had been reported to have diamonds and other valuables in the home.

The tragedy was discovered by a neighbor, Tom Sanders, who had seen a sedan standing in front of the Fleider home for two days, he said, with three dogs locked up inside. Unable to get any response at the home, he called the Sheriff's office, then entered the house.

Daughter Not Located.

The Fleiders had a 10-year-old daughter, but no one else lived with them. There was no immediate information as to the child's whereabouts.

Mrs. Fleider was the former Mrs. Anna Taylor, widow of a retired druggist.

Fleider had two brothers here, Louis, secretary of the Bremerton Lodge of Elks, and Paul, a business man.

Houses Are Scattered.

The Fleider home, a pretentious one, is directly on the waterfront of one of the inlets of Puget Sound, and about 300 feet from that of the nearest neighbor. It is one of the most isolated of the colony.

Although during the summer 100 or more persons live in the colony, at this time there are only several families there, among them the Jordons and the Sanders. The houses are some distance apart.

ROOSEVELT PARTY REPORTS FINE DAY, GOOD FISHING

Easter Greetings Sent from Astor Yacht—President Gets First Official Mail.

MIAMI, Fla., March 31.—Vincent Astor, owner of the yacht Nourmahal, on which President Roosevelt is spending a vacation, wired tonight:

"Had a fine day. Good fishing and expect to remain here over tomorrow. Happy Easter to you all from all of us."

Lieuts. Bowse and Berner took to the President a mail pouch from Secretary Marvin McIntyre's headquarters here.

Returning, they brought James Roosevelt, elder son of the President, ashore for Easter Sunday.

Next April 1 Easter in 1945.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Tomorrow is Easter Sunday and also April Fools' day. This coincidence caused so much querying of the naval almanac office that its director figured out all the April Fools' Easters for 150 years. They fell in 1804, 1866, 1877, 1888, 1923. Tomorrow's of course, will be 1934—and after that will come 1945 and 1956.

FOUR ARRESTED IN CHIROPRACTIC DIPLOMA FRAUD

Two Held Here, Two in Kansas City and a Fifth Is Sought in Inquiry Into Sales.

G. H. LINDHORST SAYS HE PAID $750

Bought High School Credits Too, He Tells Police—Agrees to Turn State's Evidence.

Two arrests have been made here and two in Kansas City, and a fifth man is being sought, in an investigation of the alleged fraudulent sale of two diplomas to a St. Louis man who has lately engaged in chiropractic work without a State license. Warrants issued here make these charges against the five men:

Gustave H. Lindhorst, 36 years old, 4048 Juniata street, former drug salesman; arrested and charged with practicing chiropractice without a license, and charging a fee, after having purchased two diplomas for $750.

George M. Lindsay, 44, head of the Educational Aid Society, 1117 Locust street, Kansas City, arrested last night in Kansas City; charged with conspiracy to commit a misdemeanor in the issuance of fraudulent diplomas and with selling such diplomas.

George M. Lindsay Jr., 35, stepson of Lindsay, arrested with him on warrant charging conspiracy to defeat the State health law.

Henry Feuhrer, head of Feuhrer Preparatory School, Kansas City, and a court interpreter; charged with conspiracy and sale, and with practicing medicine and chiropractic without a license; not arrested.

William T. Gallagher, Kansas City optometrist, arrested here, charged with conspiracy and sale.

Two Arrested in Kansas City.

Lindsay and his stepson, arrested last night at 1220 East Forty-fourth street, Kansas City, were placed in an automobile by Detective Sergts. Cliffe and Bean of St. Louis, who started for this city with them. William J. Hough, an assistant prosecutor, was with the detectives. The Lindsays said they were chiropractors, but denied having engaged in sale of diplomas. Conspiracy to defeat the health law, charged in the warrant carried by the detectives, is punishable by a jail sentence up to one year and fine up to $500.

Gallagher was arrested at the Lennox Hotel here Thursday night, "for investigation," by Detective Sergts. Cliffe, Bean and Wille. They found in his possession a letter addressed to "Dr." G. H. Lindhorst, at the Juniata street address, and reading:

"Dear Friend Doctor: This will introduce Mr. William Thomas, special field secretary, who has authority to carry out my business just as if it was the undersigned. He will collect the balance of $100 due on high school scholarship and speak freely with him. He can give you all the latest information re EVERYTHING. Faithfully yours,

"G. M. L., 1220 East Forty-fourth street, Kansas City."

To Turn State's Evidence.

The detectives took Gallagher to headquarters and called on Lindhorst, one of them presenting himself as "William Thomas." Lindhorst told them enough to cause them to arrest him. He decided to turn State's evidence, and made a statement to Prosecuting Attorney Rosecan on which the warrants were chiefly based.

Lindhorst repeated his story to a Post-Dispatch reporter at headquarters last evening. He said he attended a St. Louis chiropractic school in 1921, and practiced chiropractic here from 1921 to 1923. At that time, the present state laws regulating such practice had not been enacted.

He said he went to Kansas City in 1923, and for three years attended University School of Chiropractic at Tenth and Harrison streets. At the end of that time, he said, as he owed the school money, he was unable to get his diploma, and went to work as a drug salesman.

$750 to Get Diploma.

"In Chicago, a few months ago," he said, "some friends told me that Lindsay of Kansas City could get my diploma for me, and soon after that Lindsay called me up, and I went to see him at the American Annex Hotel. He said he could get my diploma for $650, and when I told him I needed high school credits also, he said they would cost me $100 more—$750 in all.

"Later I sent Lindsay $650, addressing him at Excelsior Springs,

7-HOUR DAY, PAY INCREASE IN ALL SOFT COAL MINES

NRA Head, Declaring Emergency Exists, Approves Amendment to Bituminous Code.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Declaring an emergency existed, Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, late today approved an amendment to the bituminous coal code placing the entire industry on a seven-hour day and revising its wage scale upward.

The action was regarded as the first major demonstration of Johnsons' intention to go ahead with his plan to change codes wherever necessary to create employment without waiting for mutual agreements. The amendment, however, is subject to modification, if justified, at a public hearing set for April 9.

In addition to shortening hours for the miners, the order approved a wage scale recommended for districts outside the Appalachian region by the Joint Wage Scale Committee which earlier this week had negotiated a contract between the United Mine Workers and the Appalachian operators providing for the seven-hour day and an increased basic wage.

The new wage scale establishes a $5 basic daily wage, but increases the hourly rate in some instances and brings up the daily wage in others to conform.

Opposition to the committee's recommendation developed at the bituminous coal code conference, principally among coal operators from Alabama and Illinois. The conference adjourned today, subject to the call of the chairman, after the Recovery Administration had announced it would hold a public hearing on the entire subject.

The "emergency" cited by Johnson was created by expiration at midnight of the wage and hour provisions of the code. Although the majority of operators in the Appalachian fields had new contracts, while wage agreements in the rest of the industry do not expire until April 1, 1935, it was feared miners in the regions outside the Appalachian might strike for the shorter day enjoyed by their fellows.

Informed of the Administrator's action, John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, said he assumed the order would be made effective immediately "in every mining region to which it refers."

"The action on the part of the Administrator is justifiable and commendable in the face of the emergency which confronted the industry," Lewis asserted. "The United Mine Workers of America

AVIATOR INJURED TRYING TO RESCUE 89 ON ICE FLOES

Soviet Pilot Crashes When Landing His Plane in Snow Storm at Kalyuchin Bay.

By the Associated Press.

NOME, Alaska, March 31.—Pilot F. A. Levanevsky, attempting to rescue 89 Russians adrift more than six weeks on arctic ice floes, crashed while landing his plane in a heavy snowstorm at Kalyuchin Bay and was injured, said a wireless message received here today from Siberia.

The message was received by Pilot M. T. Sletneff, who had been prepared to leave with another plane to attempt the rescue of the men marooned on Bering Sea floes when the ice-breaker Cheliuskin sank Feb. 13.

Sletneff postponed leaving until tomorrow, because of bad weather. Reports said the refugees were badly in need of clothing.

Levanevsky was forced down yesterday in a snowstorm 40 miles from Cape Van Karen, Siberia.

Levanevsky and his companions, Prof. George Yushakoff, leader of the rescue expedition, and Clyde Armistead, American mechanic, wirelessed that they had landed safely in a blizzard.

Perils of the refugees are increasing, due to the approach of spring, when their camp may be broken up and float out toward Bering Strait. The party was stranded Feb. 13 by the sinking of the Soviet ice-breaker Cheliuskin. An ice field, where the Soviet plane recently landed and removed 10 women and two children to the Siberian mainland, was carried away soon afterward.

DESPERADO, PAL USE MACHINE GUNS AGAINST OFFICERS

Their Woman Companion Thought to Have Been Wounded in Wild Fight on Third Floor of Apartment House.

SHE AND ONE MAN GET AWAY IN AUTO

Third Fugitive Escapes on Foot and Is Believed by Authorities to Have Been Picked Up Later by the Others.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, MINN., March 31.—John Dillinger, widely hunted desperado, shot his way out a police trap here today and once more frustrated an attempt of the law to capture him. Dillinger used a sub-machine gun. He escaped in a waiting automobile.

Finger prints left behind as he fled with a woman, believed to have been wounded, and a man, presumably John Hamilton, one of the members of his old gang, definitely established, authorities said, that one of the three was Dillinger, who broke out of jail at Crown Point, Ind., last month.

Dillinger's fingerprints, authorities said, were found both on the automobile abandoned by the three and in the apartment. Among the clothing and other effects seized by officers was a bullet-proof vest and a photograph of Dillinger garbed in the uniform of a sailor taken when he apparently was about 20 years old.

Hamilton was identified through a description given police by Mrs. Daniel Coffey, wife of the proprietor of an apartment house, on the third floor of which the three engaged in a fight with officers before escaping.

Behind them the fugitives left blood spots, evidence, officers believed, that a bullet fired by City Detective Henry Cummings had struck the woman. Officers also seized two sub-machine guns and other weapons and road maps of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Wild Fight in Apartment.

The fight started when Detective Cummings and R. C. Coulter, Federal investigator, went to the third floor apartment. The door was opened by the woman who screamed "It's the cops," and slammed it shut. The firing from inside began immediately with Cummings returning it.

As Cummings retreated around a corner in the corridor to reload, one man with a machine gun came out firing, driving Coulter down the stairs and forcing him to cover on the first floor. The gunman continued out the front door, running to the rear of the building.

Meanwhile, Cummings resumed the fight upstairs, crouching in a nook near the front stairway as machine gun bullets tore past his face, nipped plaster from the walls and perforated doors. No one else occupied apartments on the third floor.

For a moment, the firing stopped and in that instant the woman and the other man ran down the rear stairway, to the alley and into a green sedan. They drove off in the car.

Other Man Flees on Foot.

Police believed that the first man who left the apartment was later picked up by his companions. After running out the front door, he sought to drive away in a coupe, but R. L. Nalls, Federal agent, waiting outside, had punctured one of the tires and the fugitive abandoned the machine and fled afoot.

Authorities at first suspected that one of the men had been wounded in the fight. Later, they inclined to the view that it was the woman. It was she, they pointed out, who scampered down the rear stairway from the third floor hideaway in an exclusive residential section after the firing, rushed to the garage the back and started

UPHOLDS CODE PRICE FIXING FOR APPEAL PURPOSE

COMPANY CONTROLS CHAIN OF 32 STORES

Court at New York, Taking Note of Congress' Power, Says Dangers Give Right to Compel Compliance.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 31. — The right of the Federal Government, under the National Industrial Recovery Act, to set a minimum price was upheld today by Federal Judge John C. Knox.

The decision, which had been awaited by the NRA before remodeling its code set-up, was made in enjoining the Spotless Dry Cleaners, Inc., from cutting prices under the minimum rate established by the Cleaners and Dyers' Code Authority.

The Spotless company was given 10 days for an appeal, during which time the injunction will be inoperative. The Judge said:

"If defendant be immediately restrained from continuing its violation of the minimum prices of the codes, and my conclusion should hereafter be held to be erroneous, great damage will be its portion. Therefore, I will suspend the operation of the injunction for 10 days. Within that period defendant can apply to the Circuit Court of Appeals for further delay."

Other cases are under preparation in Washington for court presentation.

In Interstate Relations.

The Spotless company controls 32 stores in New York City. Its cleaning work is done by a plant in New Jersey, reputedly under its control.

Argued in February before Judge Knox, evidence in the case showed the company charged 39 and 45 cents for pieces of work, the minimum price for which under the code was set for 70 and 75 cents.

The Federal Court assumed jurisdiction in the Government's suit to enjoin the Spotless company from price cutting because of the interstate relations of the companies involved.

Judge Knox set forth that, "in rendering this decision, I know full well that it may be a distinct step beyond the boundaries which, in peace times, have been said to circumscribe the powers of the Congress. . . .

"* * * Congress may act as it has, and is competent to authorize this Court to take such steps as will allow interstate trade to be conducted in smoother channels and in accordance with the execution of policies that are believed to be wise and expedient."

The Flow of Commerce.

"For the purpose of my decision," Judge Knox wrote, "I shall disregard the strike of workers in the industry which is said to be attributable to the price cutting of defendant.

"Aside from this, enough has been shown to enable me to conclude that such price cutting as has occurred has seriously impeded and changed the customary and usual flow of interstate commerce in the dry cleaning industry between the states of New York and New Jersey.

"If defendant be permitted to continue its unfair prices, further changes in such currents and flow are inevitable, and these will contribute to the frustration of the purposes of the National Industrial Recovery Act. In this industry, profits are dependent largely upon volume business. With due allowance for equivalency in quality of work, and general type of service, the volume of the business depends largely upon price, and it will go to the establishment which charges the lowest prices."

It has been the history of price cutting, Judge Knox recounted, to "stem movements in interstate commerce" and "there is no reason to suppose that there will be a difference here."

Right to Compel Compliance.

Prefacing his ruling with a review of conditions prior to enactment of the Recovery Act, Judge Knox said "no sane man can deny that a national economic emergency of great severity was in existence * * * highly drastic efforts by Congress, in order to overcome its influences, were mandatory."

He then analyzed salient objectives of the act and continued: "To the end that these purposes might be accomplished, the President was vested with broad and comprehensive powers. With the right of Congress to make such delegation, there can be, in my opinion, no reasonable dispute. * * *

"The power so delegated has been liberally exercised and with ameliorating effect, but the danger of further ravage by our economic depression is still present. If noncompliance with industrial codes contemplated by the act tends to perpetuate the dangers and to frustrate the objects of Congress, then this Court * * * may rightfully interfere to compel compliance."

Judge Knox's decision, said United States Attorney Martin Conboy, was of utmost importance to the NIRA.

"The NIRA and the codes have been attacked on every possible legal and constitutional ground," Conboy said. "Of course, it is gratifying to know that the Government has been upheld upon its first appearance in court on a clean-cut issue involving the aim of national recovery."

U. S. Sues to Enjoin Violation of Code by Cleaning Chain.

PHILADELPHIA, March 31. — The Federal Government today asked the United States District Court for an injunction restraining Bernard Shotkin, head of a chain of cleaning and dyeing establishments, from continuing violations of the NRA code.

In the bill of complaint, filed by attorneys for the NRA authority, and Assistant United States Attorney Robert V. Bolger, the Government charges Shotkin with paying his employes $9 a week, instead of the minimum of $14 a week set by the cleaning and dye code; with working employes more than 48 hours a week, and with price cutting on his competitors.

After Visit to Fugitive Husband

MRS. SAMUEL INSULL photographed on leaving the freighter Maiotis, refuge of her fugitive husband, the former Chicago utilities magnate, following his recent recall by Greek authorities to Athens, to explain his spectacular departure some 75 hours earlier. Allowed to sail again, the freighter pulled out to sea with Insull aboard, and after an extended cruise dropped anchor in Istanbul Harbor, where the vessel was detained by Turkish authorities.

DILLINGER SHOOTS WAY OUT OF POLICE TRAP IN ST. PAUL

into the alley where one of the men leaped in. On the garage floor and in the snow nearby the spots of blood were found.

Officers believed the sedan headed toward Chicago.

Charles Coffey, 14-year-old son of the building proprietor, said two women and a man rushed out of the apartment two hours before it was raided. The women were in pajamas, slippers, and without stockings. They drove off in an automobile.

In six suitcases found in Dillinger's apartment police found one submachine gun, ready for firing, and other weapons. A second submachine gun was found in the abandoned coupe.

The automobile in which the fugitives fled was purchased here last Wednesday by a man who paid in $100, $20, $10 and $5 bills. He gave the name of Carl T. Hellman, North St. Paul. This proved fictitious as did the name and address of Art Norton, another purchaser of an automobile whose occupants, police were warned, were "armed and would shoot." The Norton car was licensed several weeks ago when its owner turned in a set of Tennessee license plates and gave his former address as Hermitage Hotel, Nashville, Tenn.

The shooting occurred a block from where Edward G. Bremer, wealthy banker, was successfully kidnaped two months ago for $200,000.

Almost at the same time the officers were shooting it out with the two gunmen a grand jury reported it could find no grounds for charges made recently by United States Attorney-General Homer Cummings in Washington that St. Paul was a "poison spot of crime."

INSULL DEFIES ORDER OF ARREST; TURKISH COURT TO PASS ON CASE

ed to hear Insull's case is composed of three judges—a president and two assistants. Its sessions may be secret or public, according to the president's decision. The jury system does not exist in Turkey.

The Turkish Government, acting on the basis of article 9 of the Turkish Penal Code, submitted the American Governm[illegible] request to Attorney-General [illegible]n Bey, who was to submit it t[illegible] penal court here.

The court's func[illegible] is to decide whether the alleg[illegible]ffense is, according to Turki[illegible]aw, of either a political or mili[illegible]y nature and whether the alleg[illegible]offender is of foreign nationality. The court may require the presence of Insull to establish the latter point.

The court will then transmit its decision on these two points to Kenan Bey, who will transmit it to the Turkish Government, which then may proceed to take action on the American Government's request that Insull be surrendered.

According to article 9, if the court finds the alleged offense of either a political or military nature according to Turkish law or finds the alleged offender of Turkish nationality, it would refuse the Turkish Government the right to give up Insull to the United States.

Turkish authorities decided last night that Insull's case came under the provision authorizing his arrest for American authorities.

Insull's Greek Lawyer Wires President of Turkey.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, March 31.—One of Insull's attorneys here sent this message to President Mustapha Kemal Pasha of Turkey: "As a citizen of a free state and a friend of Turkey, I protest against the action which your Government is taking against my client, and an American citizen, Mr. Samuel Insull. The liberty of individuals, like that of states, is based on mutual respect."

The lawyer sent messages also to the captain of the Maiotis, advising him not to accede to demands of the Turkish police, and to the Turkish Journalists' Association, asking support on the grounds that the arrest of Insull "lowers Turkey to the position of policeman for the United States."

Washington Officials Think Insull Will Be Returned.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—In a cablegram to the State Department today, Robert P. Skinner, Ambassador to Turkey, reported he had delivered all necessary documents to Turkish authorities and hoped for immediate action on the American request that Samuel Insull be arrested and deported.

Skinner also notified the State Department that Turkish officials had promised the assembly would ratify promptly the extradition treaty with the United States even though the Insull case will not come under its provisions. The United States Senate has ratified the treaty.

State Department officials expressed the opinion that Insull would be given up for deportation.

NRA TRIES FIRST TIME TO IMPOSE UNDESIRED CODE

Western Union Preparing for Legal Fight With Enforcement to Start Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—NRA'S first attempt at imposing an undesired code will get under way Monday, with Western Union, dominant company in the telegraph field, opposing the Administration plan for its industry.

For months aids of Hugh S. Johnson have tried to obtain from the telegraph companies a code they would consider satisfactory. Other concerns are understood to have been agreeable, but Western Union has refused to propose anything but an hours and wages code, and its terms in that regard have been called "wholly unsatisfactory" by Johnson.

The company is said to be prepared to combat the NRA plan on legal grounds. Notice of the Administration's purpose was served March 15 in a hearing call which proclaimed that after the sessions, the submitted code may be modified "in any particular which may be required in the public interest to cure whatever abuses may be prevalent in said industry which are inimical to the public interest * * * including without limitation provisions concerning unfair competition, fair trade practices, code administration, wages and hours and general labor conditions * * *."

On an entirely different basis NRA set today for hearing on April 23 two codes for the telephone industry, which separate the Bell system companies from the independents. Months have been spent in getting to it also, but without conflict showing.

Both telephone and telegraph communication industries have been working under modified Blue Eagle agreements. The telegraph firms came in with a 48-hour maximum work week and minimum wages ranging from $12 to $15. The telephone wages are the same, but 40 hours is the standard work week, with modifications for small exchanges.

Coming under the proposed telegraph code with Western Union Telegraph Co. are: Postal Telegraph-Cable Co.; R. C. A. Communications, Inc.; All America Cables, Inc.; Commercial Pacific Cable Co.; Compagnie Francaise des Cables Telegraphiques; The Mackay Systems, and the Radiomarine Corporation.

Twenty-one Bell companies are enumerated as coming under the major telephone code and in addition it is made to apply to all concerns in which these own more than 50 per cent of voting stock, thus covering everything under control of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The independents, about 6000 small systems, are joined in the United States Independent Telephone Association.

GERMANY TO MAKE TOKEN PAYMENT TO U. S. APRIL 3

Unable to Pay $50,000,000 Principal on Mixed Claims and Occupation Costs.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The German Government notified the United States today it was unable to pay $50,000,000 in principal and interest on mixed claims and army of occupation costs due today, but would pay the $1,250,000 of interest due. The payment will be made on April 3 instead of today, because of the three-day bank holiday in Germany.

Some time ago Germany notified the United States it would be necessary for Berlin to default on today's payment. After several months of negotiation, however, State Department officials secured Germany's promise to make a partial payment.

State Department officials said tonight the token payment was the largest obtainable from Germany at the present time and was in no sense a criterion of the basis of payments to be made by other debtor nations.

WOMAN RECLUSE, APPARENTLY POOR, LEAVES $240,000

Minnesota Widow, 80, Often Given Food, Had Money and Jewels in Dilapidated Home.

By the Associated Press.

OWATONNA, Minn., March 31.—Mrs. Katherine Pike, an 80-year-old recluse, who lived here in apparent poverty, tonight was said by investigators to have left a $240,000 estate.

From her effects they deduced that she left New York City after the death of her second husband, Lawrence Pike, to come here 28 years ago.

Residents recall that baskets of food were left at Mrs. Pike's door by persons who thought she was in need. Visiting her dilapidated home after her death March 10, bank agents and Probate Judge McGovern found $23,000 in money, $3000 worth of diamonds and jewelry and about $14,000 in uncashed checks, many held so long they are of doubtful value. There were also once costly gowns and furs.

In New York, President Paul H. Evans of the Security Bank & Trust Co., who returned today, learned Mrs. Pike had large balances in three banks. In the old Fifth Avenue Bank, her safety deposit box, unopened in 29 years, contained diamonds and other jewels. At a warehouse, where Mrs. Pike had paid storage for 30 years, the banker found a grand piano and once valuable Turkish rugs.

Mrs. Pike is survived by a first cousin, Mrs. Harriet Higby Eddy of Geneva, N. Y., who is 83 years old. Mrs. Pike was born at Oppenheim, N. Y., and married Edward Tingue, a textile broker. They separated. She later married Pike. Under his will she received an annual allowance from a trust fund, the principal of which now goes to Mount Sinai Institution, a New York charitable organization.

UNEMPLOYED MAN ENDS HIS LIFE WITH AUTO GAS

John Rosales, 30-year-old unemployed packing house worker, was found dead in his automobile in the garage in the rear of his home, 665 North Fifty-fifth street, East St. Louis, yesterday. The engine was running and a hose, attached to the exhaust pipe, led into the car.

Mrs. Mary Ramirez, a sister, told police that Rosales had returned at 11 a. m. from looking for work and said he was going to repair his car. She found him at 1 p. m. in the garage. Firemen worked over him with an inhalator for an hour with no success.

Rosales was last employed about five months ago.

The part of the music
no composer can write

A composer cannot write color into his music. There are no musical symbols for purely emotional values . . . and Chopin's Ballades, on paper, are but a succession of notes. Color can be given only by the performer . . . and by the instrument he uses.

Among musicians . . . virtuosi . . . the marvelous color of the Steinway is part of the priceless Steinway tradition. Unromantically, it comes not from the art of making a fine piano, but from the science. It is the result of Steinway invention, available only in the Steinway, jealously guarded by Steinway.

Our salesmen will talk of our Duplex Scale. In terms of piano playing that means color . . . the building up of a tone by bringing out its overtones; by adding the harmonious partials to each fundamental. And the Duplex Scale is just one of a great many Steinway developments.

The price of a Steinway now is lower than it has been for many years. The terms are very convenient.

U. S. TREASURY OUTGO UNDER BUDGET FIGURES

$2,500,000,000 for 9 Months —Roosevelt Put June 30 Deficit at 7 Billion.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The Treasury will have to spend more than $1,500,000,000 a month if the Government is to have a $7,000,000,000 deficit on June 30, as estimated by President Roosevelt. The third quarter of the fiscal year ended today with emergency expenditures far below figures officially forecast by the administration, in submitting the budget to Congress. Figures for all but the last two days of the month showed that all Government outlays totaled little more than $2,500,000,000.

As a result, the huge borrowing program that had been planned has been sharply curtailed. President Roosevelt told Congress early in January the Government would have to borrow $6,000,000,000 in new money before June 30, in addition meeting maturities totaling $4,000,000,000. Since then new securities issues have aggregated $800,000,000, while a total of something less than $1,000,000,000 in maturing issues has been refunded. Regardless of expenditures the $4,000,000,000 refunding program must, of course, be carried out.

Repayments to RFC.

The lag in emergency expenditures was attributed by officials today chiefly to two factors: The Public Works program is still slow in reaching its expected proportions; repayments to the Reconstruction Corporation have kept its needs well below estimates.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, President Roosevelt told Congress public works outlays were expected to reach $1,677,190,800. At the close of business on March 29 they amounted to $379,993,835. If the remainder is not spent in the present fiscal year it will be in the next. Public works officials blame the slowness with which the program is becoming effective on the states and municipalities to which funds have been allocated but which have yet to let contracts for the work involved.

The President estimated the RFC's needs at $3,969,740,000. Thus far the corporation has called on the Treasury for $1,284,445,095. When the estimate was made the administration was considering a program of RFC loans to private industry, since virtually abandoned.

In addition to $400,000,000 of Public Works money for the Civil Works Administration, Congress appropriated $900,000,000 more for that and relief purposes, making the estimate for the fiscal year $1,300,000,000. The life of the Civil Works program has just come to a close with total expenditures of about $600,000,000. The remaining $700,000,000 may be partly or largely offset by increased Federal relief expenditures necessitated by taking men from the civil works rolls.

The effect of increased veterans' payments and increased Government employes' compensation, voted this week over President Roosevelt's veto, is comparatively negligible so far as this fiscal year is concerned. Officials estimate the resulting outlays before June 30 at about $65,000,000.

Of the entire roster of regular Government departments and bureaus and alphabetical emergency agencies, only one has exceeded its budget estimate to date. This is the Farm Credit Administration to which the Treasury has advanced $40,193,722 as compared with its budget of $40,000,000 even.

HERE'S A FORMULA GIVING DATE OF ANY EASTER SUNDAY

Antioch College Professor Recalls Method Developed by German Mathematician.

By the Associated Press.

YELLOW SPRINGS, O., March 31.—Tom Cox Lloyd, engineering professor at Antioch College, commenting today on the changing date of Easter each year, recalled that Gauss, German mathematician, developed a formula which gives the exact date. For those who care to figure out Easter dates, here's the formula:

"Divide the number of the year by 19 and let the remainder equal 'A'; divide the number of the year by 4 and let the remainder equal 'B'; divide the number of the year by 7 and let the remainder equal 'C'; divide 19 times 'A' plus 24, by 30 and let the remainder equal 'D'; divide 2B plus 4C plus 6D plus 5 by 7 and let the remainder equal 'E.'

"Easter will be 22 plus 'D' plus 'E' of March, or, if this sum is more than 31, the number should be carried over into April."

It works out for this year. The final figure is 32, which puts Easter on April 1.

Lloyd said the name Easter came from the Norse Goddess Eostre and many of the Easter symbols originated in European spring-time festivals signifying a new life and a return of fertility to the soil.

10,000 FOREIGNERS IN ROME FOR EASTER

Pope to Conduct Ceremonies Ending the Holy Year Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, March 31. — A new saint will be named and Pope Pius XI will appear before thousands of devoted followers tomorrow when Rome observes Easter Sunday.

The Pope will appear in St. Peter's plaza in a pontifical procession as part of the ceremonies for the canonization of Don Giovanni Bosco, social service worker of the nineteenth century.

The Pope will make a short address in Latin, exalting the virtues of Don Bosco. Crown Prince Humbert will represent his father, King Victor Emanuel.

After the canonization the pontiff will give the apostolic benediction to the crowd in the plaza from the central balcony of the Basilica.

Ten thousand foreign pilgrims, almost half of them from the Western Hemisphere, will witness the ceremony. Argentina, Brazil and other South American countries sent 3000 pilgrims.

Don Bosco was born in Becchi, near Turin, in 1815. He died in 1888. His life as a boy and priest was spent in the diocese of Turin. He founded the Salesian order in 1868, 26 years after opening his first Salesian house for boys.

The Holy Year, which has brought 1,250,000 pilgrims to Rome, will end Monday morning when Pope Pius, assisted by Cardinals and other prelates, will wall up the holy door in St. Peter's. The pontiff will wear an apron and use a mason's trowel. Once closed, the holy door will not be opened until the next Holy Year, scheduled for 1950.

The payroll for these workers has been running about $7500 a week.

City and County Responsible for

St. Louis and the county, with about one-fourth the population of the State, are responsible for about half of the total of those receiving relief from public funds in Missouri. This was shown in the relief census conducted last fall by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

During October, when the census was taken, there were 37,162 employable persons under care of the committee. Of these, 16 per cent had some work, but not enough to support their families. Fifteen per cent of those totally unemployed had been idle since 1929; 14 per cent since 1930; 20 per cent since 1931; 24 per cent since 1932, and 27 per cent had lost their jobs during 1933.

The employable persons on relief rolls included 13,099 unskilled laborers; 5171 semi-skilled workers; 5192 skilled workers; 1824 salesmen; 1140 commercial and clerical workers; 5075 domestic servants; 4621 personal service workers; 442 professional men and women, and 598 executives.

Twenty-nine per cent of those receiving relief had no income other than the relief grant. About 34 per cent received relief grants of less than $10 a month; 31 per cent got between $10 and $20; 18 per cent between $20 and $30; 9 per cent between $30 and $40 and 8 per cent more than $40. Fifty-two per cent of all cases received their first relief grants some time during the year.

On the relief rolls that month there were 99,798 men, women and children. Seventy-seven per cent of the cases were family groups, and 23 per cent were single individuals. Of the total number of families in the city and county, 13 per cent were receiving relief, and of the total number of persons, 9 per cent. Thirty-eight per cent of those helped were children under 16 years old.

About half of the Negro families in the city and county were receiving relief when the census was taken. Negroes, constituting 11 per cent of the population, totaled 35 per cent of the whole number of relief cases.

Approval of the amendment was urged on the Administrator by bituminous coal code authorities for Western Pennsylvania and Ohio, representing operators who produce more than 65 per cent of the nation's soft coal tonnage.

Operators of the smokeless Appalachian region of Southern West Virginia and of the Fairmont region in the northern section of the state have refused to agree to the new wage scale. Neither group, however, is seriously opposed to the shorter day.

The smokeless group throughout has tried to negotiate separate contracts with the miners, and the Fairmont operators withdrew from the general wage conference in protest against elimination of their 24-cent wage differential over the Pittsburgh district.

Operators today expressed the opinion, however, that both groups would be in line within a few days.

Mining men said the shorter day would create a "substantial" amount of employment, and that millions of dollars would be added to the operators' annual payrolls.

When the new wage contract for the 350,000 miners in the Appalachian region was in process of negotiation, one operator said its terms would mean price rises of more than $25,000,000 during the coming year.

Between 150,000 and 200,000 miners outside the Appalachian region are affected by Johnson's order, authorities said.

In reply to contentions of representatives of the West Kentucky Coal Co. that the new wage and hour scale would put it out of business, Lewis told the code conference if this happened "inefficient management" would be responsible.

D. A. Thomas, representing the Alabama coal operators, termed the proposed increases "revolutionary."

"We challenge and deny the validity or propriety of the proposed changes and the right of the Administrator to approve them without a hearing," he declared.

4000 TULIPS IN BLOOM AT SHAW'S GARDEN

To see the Easter exhibit at Shaw's Garden from the top of the stairs in the Floral Display House is like taking a look over a box hedge into an English squire's garden.

A glistening white walk of rectangular marble slabs divides at center a formal, classical garden, geometrically pieced together with tulip and hyancinth beds in all the colors of a rainbow.

The walk leads to and curves around a miniature domed temple of classical design housing a statue. Through its white wood columns, a vista presents a circular garden beyond in formal outline of golden nasturtiums, orange and yellow calendulas. Noticeable is Golden Gleam, a new large-sized nasturtium.

Schizanthus, the butterfly flower, and cinerarias form concentric, ringed beds around the golden center, each competing in a long range of colors from pale pink to shades of red to bronze and dark purple.

Down the steps in front of the fountain is a bed of English primroses and cowslips, showing distinct variations in yellow, and others in dark reds. Blue forget-me-nots are interplanted.

Near the temple, regal lilies rise above the tulips on slender stems, "flexible and tense as steel," wrote their discoverer, the late Ernest H. Wilson, plant hunter, after a trip to their native "hinterland, onward and westward up the mighty Yangtze River for 1800 miles. . . . In summer the heat is terrific, in winter the cold is intense, and at all seasons these valleys are subject to sudden and violent windstorms against which neither man nor beast can make headway. . . . For a brief season this lonely, semi-desert region is transformed by this lily into a veritable fairyland. The air in the cool of the morning and in the evening is laden with soft, delicious perfume exhaled from each bloom." The lilies in the exhibit were grown from seed planted three years ago.

About 4000 early single and double tulips and 2000 Dutch hyacinths, the bulbs imported from Holland, were grown for the display, Superintendent Pring said. The bulbs, rooted in pots, are concealed under peat-moss. It is the first display of its kind in four years, Pring said, and presented difficulties in preparation because of the changing weather conditions. Hundreds of pots had to be moved from hothouse to storage and back again to retard the growth of some bulbs and force others, so the plants would bloom at the same time.

The display was designed by Paul H. Kohl of the garden staff. It opens at 9 a. m. today, and probably will not last more than nine days, although 600 plants are being reserved for replacements.

POLICE CAPTAINS SHIFTED

T. G. Dineen and S. I. Stewart Change Places.

Police Captain T. George Dineen of the Magnolia Avenue District and Captain Samuel I. Stewart of Newstead Avenue District have exchanged places, effective today.

Dineen was in charge at the Magnolia station for six years until the police shakeup last December. Acting Chief of Police McCarthy said the transfer was made at the request of the men.

Liquor Back in State of Washington

SEATTLE, Wash., March 31.—Outlawed nearly 20 years, legal liquor came back to Washington today with the backing of the State Government. Four State liquor stores, two here and one each at Tacoma and Spokane, opened for business. Stores in four other cities are to be opened Wednesday.

WEALTHIEST INDIAN'S MARRIAGE IS INVALID

Jackson Barnett Held Mentally Incompetent; Government to Handle Estate.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—The marriage of a white woman and the "world's wealthiest Indian" was officially terminated today by Judge William P. James, who ruled that Jackson Barnett, 93-year-old Oklahoma Creek Indian, was mentally incompetent.

In the opinion filed in Federal Court here, Judge James declared the marriage of Barnett and Mrs. Anna Laurie Lowe, Texas oil promoter, was invalid and ordered the Indian's $300,000 California estate turned over to the Department of Interior to be administered for the Creek.

The Los Angeles properties of Barnett, who is about 90 years old, include a colonial mansion here and 100 acres of land in Coldwater Canyon, where he keeps his pet ponies, which he visits every day.

These holdings, the Government declared, were purchased by Mrs. Barnett from the proceeds of $550,000 worth of Liberty bonds, which the Government successfully contended in another suit were obtained by her through trickery and deceit.

The suit to recover the property for the Government's ward was filed here several years ago and the case was prosecuted before Judge James a year ago. The suit was filed in behalf of the Government and many of the Creek Indian's relatives.

When Mrs. Barnett obtained possession of the Liberty bonds, the Government contended, on a thumb print signature of the Indian, a gift of $550,000 was made over the same kind of signature to the American Baptist Home Mission Society to endow two Indian schools in Oklahoma.

The Judge said in his ruling: "If he desires to have her continue to manage his household that ought to be arranged, if he is permitted to choose the place. The monthly allowance of $2500 would be ample to cover all charges, including compensation for Mrs. Lowe, this without the slightest reproach of moral impropriety, for none such can even be imagined. Barnett is entitled to peace in the closing days of his life."

TO HOLD EASTER SUNRISE SERVICES IN PARKS TODAY

Ceremonies Under Auspices of Church Federation and Christian Endeavor Union.

With religious services, and, if the weather is fair, with a display of spring finery on the boulevards and park drives, Easter will be observed today.

The prospects of a promising "Easter parade" were threatened, however, by the weather forecast of showers and probable thunderstorms. The temperature, the forecast says, will be warmer than yesterday's, which reached 50.

Sunrise services are scheduled in Forest Park and Tower Grove Park, and several congregations plan open-air early services near their churches.

In Forest Park a tall white cross has been erected near the Lindell and Kingshighway entrance to mark the scene of services sponsored by the Metropolitan Church Federation, scheduled to begin at 5:45. The Rev. Charles M. Laing, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of University City, will preach the sermon.

In Tower Grove Park, sunrise services under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Union will be held at 6 o'clock, with a sermon by the Rev. John W. Leedy of Wheaton (Ill.) College.

Special Car Service.

Street cars and busses arranged special schedules for the convenience of those attending the sunrise services. The Jewel Box, on the Oakland avenue side of the park, was to open at 5 a. m. with a display of lilies and other Easter flowers. It will be open until 9 p. m. Throughout the day Easter music will be played on a hidden phonograph.

In the Catholic churches, white and gold vestments will succeed the somber colors of Lent. Archbiship Glennon, who has just returned from Rome, will celebrate a pontifical mass at the New Cathedral at 11 o'clock.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at Christ Church Cathedral at 6, 8 and 11 a. m. and Dean Sweet will speak at the final service.

Bishop Mead to Speak.

Bishop Mead of the Kansas City area of the Methodist Episcopal Church will preach at 10:45 a. m. at Union Methodist Episcopal Church, 3610 Grandel Square, and at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard, at 3 p. m.

The annual baptism service of the Pleasant Green Baptist Church will be held in the Mississippi River at the foot of Chestnut street at 9:30 a. m., when 61 persons will be baptized. The Hopewell Negro Baptist Church will hold a similar but smaller service at the same time.

An Easter egg hunt will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon by the Carondelet Lions' Club at the pavilion in Carondelet Park. Prizes will be given to children finding the greatest number of the 2000 eggs to be hidden.

National Girl Scout Officer Dies.

3 Faiths in Jerusalem Celebrate Festivals Today

Christians, Jews and Moslems Mark Easter, Passover and Nebi Musa Respectively—City Crowded With Visitors.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, March 31.—Thousands of pilgrims, among them many Americans, thronged this ancient Holy City today to participate in the festivals of Easter, the Passover, and Nebi Musa.

Hotels and private homes were crowded with visitors from many parts of the world and a large number had to go to Jericho for accommodations.

A great crowd assembled at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre for the pontifical high mass said by the Latin Patriarch, Mgr. Luigi Barlassina, before a silver altar directly in front of Christ's tomb.

Services were held also in St. George's Episcopal Church, at which many Americans were present. Preceding the mass at Holy Sepulchre came the ceremony of blessing the lights.

Altar Lights Out Until Mass.

Altar lights in all Roman Catholic churches were put out at the beginning of a mass on Good Friday and will remain so until mass Sunday morning. An exception is made at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre where the blessed sacrament remained.

All Protestant and Catholic churches prepared for capacity crowds at Easter day services.

Solemn masses started in Roman Catholic churches a half hour before midnight. There priests alternated in conducting the rites to permit continuous services at every altar until Sunday noon.

The Rev. J. H. Weber-Tompson of Jacksonville, Fla., and Canon Charles Thorley Bridgeman of New York City will preach in St. George's Church.

Jews and Moslems.

Thousands of Jews knelt at the wailing wall and like numbers of Christians streamed into other churches all day Saturday.

On the other side of the wailing wall Moslems prepared the beautiful Mosque of Omar for tomorrow's Nebi Musa ceremony, which will be preceded by a procession through the narrow cobblestone streets of the Old City.

Despite the different characters and races of the pilgrims for the three ceremonies, there was no trace of disorder. Even pickpockets, who are numerous in the crowded quarters of the walled city, had a poor day, judging from the scarcity of complaints.

The Palestine Jews, who last night conducted the Feast of Seder, observed the first day of Passover in their homes and synagogues.

FOUR ARRESTED IN CHIROPRACTIC DIPLOMA FRAUD

Mo., and about Feb. 1, I received the diploma from him. Then I got the diploma from Feuhrer Preparatory School, showing graduation from that school, though I had never completed a course in any high school. With these, I began practicing, at my home.

"Lindsay soon afterward called and took back the chiropractic diploma, saying it was necessary to make some corrections in it. I was to get it back when I paid him the $100 I owed for the Feuhrer school diploma.

"I consider that I was entitled to a chiropractic diploma, and that I am a qualified practitioner, and I did not know that there was anything fraudulent about the chiropractic diploma Lindsay got for me. Of course, I knew I was not doing right about the other diploma."

Gallagher's Statement.

Gallagher said he had known Lindsay 20 years, and that Lindsay was head of a taxicab company in St. Louis until four years ago. Gallagher formerly practiced optometry on South Grand boulevard here, and now has a downtown office in Kansas City.

"When I saw Lindsay a few days ago," he said, "I told him I was going to St. Louis to see about a job in a store, and he asked me to handle two business matters for him. One of these errands was to see Lindhorst. He gave me the letter to Lindhorst, and a rolled-up package for Lindhorst. I suppose the roll was a diploma, but I didn't know this, and I didn't know what was in the letter, as I hadn't opened it. I was to get $10 from Lindsay for this and the other errand, which was to dispose of some bank stock.

"I don't know anything about the fraudulent sale of diplomas. Lindsay has been selling courses in various schools and colleges, on commission, but that is a legitimate business, so far as I know. I have met Feuhrer only once or twice."

The charges of practicing without a license, made against Feuhrer, are on allegations that he signed diplomas with the letters M. D. after his name on one, and D. C., standing for Doctor of Chiropractic, on the other. Prosecuting Attorney Rosecan said the detectives, in their questioning of Lindhorst, learned that he had taken in between $120 and $125 in fees since March 1, one day's receipts having been $18.

In the warrant charging sale of a fraudulent chiropractic diploma, it is set forth that the Kansas City men sold Lindhorst diplomas "purporting to show he had completed four years' study and had graduated from the Kansas City University School of Chiropractic, when they well knew he had never attended the university."

NEW BANK WINS CHARTER THROUGH RARELY USED LAW

Appeals Board Orders State Finance Commissioner to Grant Request of Byron W. Moser.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 31.—Under a State law rarely invoked, State Finance Commissioner Moberly was directed by a three-member board of appeals today to issue a charter for a new St. Louis bank organized by Byron W. Moser, former president of the Security National Bank, Savings & Trust Co.

Moser had appealed to the board from the Finance Commissioner's ruling rejecting his application for a charter on the ground that there were already too many banks in St. Louis. The board, comprising Gov. Park, Attorney-General McKittrick and State Treasurer Nacy, issued its order to Moberly after hearing evidence presented by Moser that the new bank would not endanger other banks in its neighborhood and had the necessary subscriptions of capital.

The new depository, to be known as the Mutual Bank & Trust Co., will be opened at 718 Locust street. One of the first banks to be organized under the new national banking law which relieves stockholders in national banks of the double liability provision, it will be a member of the Federal Reserve System and will incorporate some features of mutual banking. It will be capitalized at $200,000 and will have $100,000 surplus.

Only in rare instances has the statutory board been appealed to for a hearing following refusal of the Finance Commissioner to issue a charter. Attorney-General McKittrick said this procedure had been followed previously only twice in the last 12 years.

Moser said last night he expected the bank to open some time this month to do a general banking and trust company business, specializing on small "living trusts" and catering to small depositors.

He will head the bank as president, with William P. Gruner, John J. Griffin and E. A. Schmid as vice-presidents and Lewis S. Haslam as cashier and trust officer. Other directors will be John C. Atwood, Ray Bolin, William J. Jenkins, William MacDonald, Eugene R. McCarthy, John B. Meier, and C. E. Zelle.

KREISLER TO BE ONE OF SYMPHONY SOLOISTS

Campaign for Season Subscriptions to Concerts Will Open Wednesday.

Fritz Kreisler, violinist, will be the first soloist of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's fifty-fifth season, it was announced yesterday. Other violinists who will appear as soloists at the Symphony concerts will be Jascha Heifetz, Nathan Milstein and Scipione Guidi. Pianists in the list of soloists are Sergei Rachmaninoff, Artur Schnabel, Jose Iturbi, E. Robert Schmitz and Henri Deering. Another artist in the list in Gregor Piatigorsky, Russian cellist.

Vocalists will also be engaged, including a quartet to appear with the mixed chorus which will sing Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at the final concert of the year.

The roster of artists, which is still incomplete, was announced in connection with the campaign for season subscribers to the Symphony concerts, which campaign is to begin Wednesday. More than 600 volunteer workers will take part in this effort to assure success to the Symphony's first season in its new home, the music hall of the Municipal Auditorium.

The campaign will be under the general direction of Mrs. Charles Mullikin as chairman, and Mrs. Edward A. Faust, Mrs. Edgar Rombauer, Mrs. L. Avon Blue, Miss Frances Conant, Mrs. Henry Brinckwirth and Mrs. C. Oscar Lame as vice-chairman. Mrs. Blue is chairman of a speakers' committee, and Clifford Greve, vice-chairman. The men's committee is headed by Edgar C. Taylor, with Thomas Noel as vice-chairman, and Lesser Goldman, Charles Pettus, Edgar Rand, C. Powell Fordyce, Roland Richards, L. Benoist Tompkins, Lon Hocker Jr. and Dr. Willard Bartlett Jr. as associates.

BORN LUCKY!
If Born Into the Tradition of ORIENTAL RUGS

Lucky indeed is the child who learns his first lesson of art in the simplest, most natural way, at home; who learns a regard, amounting almost to reverence, for objects of beauty by observing the care with which his elders treat them; who feels an early pride in his home, and therefore has poise and self-confidence; who learns to treasure the "genuine" and to avoid imitations.

WOMAN DIES AFTER BEING HIT BY AUTO

Mrs. Elsie Osborn, 76, Struck Crossing Street, Succumbs in Hospital.

Mrs. Elsie Osborn, 76 years old, 1648 South Vandeventer avenue, died at City Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Friday night when she was struck by an automobile as she attempted to cross the street in front of her home.

Mrs. Osborn, who was a widow, suffered injuries about the head and legs.

The automobile, according to police, was driven by P. W. Rosebrough, of Webster Groves.

Man and Wife and Another Woman Knocked Down by Auto.

Jay Kage, 2616 Nebraska avenue, his wife, and Mrs. Nellie Wolfert, 526 Foote avenue, Webster Groves, were knocked down by an automobile and injured last night at Mississippi and Gravois avenues, while Kage was giving Mrs. Wolfert street directions for which she had asked.

The driver of the car, Frank Hronicek, 2709 Virginia avenue, said he did not see them until too late. He was making a left hand turn into Mississippi avenue. Mrs. Kage and Mrs. Wolfert were taken to City Hospital with leg injuries. Kage was treated for bruises.

U.S. SENATOR BULKLEY MARRIED

NEW YORK, March 31.—United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio and Mrs. Helen Graham Robbins of Lindsay, Ont., a distant relative of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, were married late today at Grace Episcopal Church.

The bride is the widow of Henry S. Robbins of Chicago, who died two years ago. Senator Bulkley's first wife, the former Katherine Pope of Helena, Mont., also died two years ago.

MARCH, 1934, UPHOLDS LION-LAMB TRADITION

Temperature 3 Degrees Below Normal, Snow on 7 Days; High Winds.

March, true to tradition, came in like a lion and went out like a lamb, and if Easter bonnets are bedraggled by showers forecast for today, let the blame rest with April or with Easter itself, which this year chose All Fools' day.

On the heels of a 6.3-inch late February snowfall, the heaviest in four years, came March for a day of below freezing temperature. But since then, the temperature chart looks like the track of a roller coaster.

On five days, including last Friday, when March started to gambol out of the 1934 calendar, temperatures in the seventies were recorded. However, the mean temperature of 40.8 degrees was 3.3 below the normal. Eighteen days had minimum temperatures below freezing.

Also true to reputation were the March winds, which provided a leonine roar to its advent, and, blowing mostly out of the northeast, supported many vari-colored kites flown from vacant lots and sent trim white model sailboats scudding in Forest Park when water was free from ice.

Dence fog accompanied the moderating weather of the second and third, and a dense haze was recorded the nineteenth. The smoke pall was heavy enough to be classified as dense on only one day, the eleventh—thanks to high winds. Twelve days were designated clear, 11 cloudy and eight partly cloudy.

Snow fell on seven days, the heaviest being that of the twenty-sixth and twenty-seventh, which measured two inches. There were three days with sleet.

But precipitation of 2.95 inches was .43 of an inch below normal. The Mississippi, on the second, was 2.4 feet below zero on the gauge, the lowest stage in weather bureau history at St. Louis for March. The lowest ever recorded was 4.6 feet below zero last December.

WOMAN MISSING AFTER BEING KIDNAPED BY BANK ROBBER

Man Forces Her to Go With Him in Her Car After Texas Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

MEXIA, Tex., March 31. — Kidnaped by a bank robber, Mrs. Cam Gunter of Mexia was the object of a widespread search in Central Texas tonight.

She was forced to accompany the robber in her automobile from a spot where his car had stalled. The abandoned automobile was identified as the one in which the robber fled from West, where he robbed the State National Bank of at least $1000.

Officers said the man answered the description of Raymond Hamilton, escaped convict.

GUY ESTATE LOSES $115,000 TAX CLAIM

Government Upheld in Contention Trusts Were Created in Contemplation of Death.

Executors of the estate of William Evans Guy, capitalist, are not entitled to recover a $115,854 estate tax paid under protest, under a ruling by Federal Judge Davis yesterday.

The tax was paid on four trust estates amounting to $994,195, created by Mr. Guy in 1921, seven years before his death at the age of 83. It was contended by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that the trusts were created in contemplation of death.

The beneficiaries of the four trusts were Mr. Guy's children, William Edwin Guy, who with the St. Louis Union Trust Co., was executor of the estate, David Wade Guy, Miss Evelyn S. Guy and Mrs. Katherine G. Fenimore Cooper.

Mr. Guy, who resided at 10 Portland place, organized the St. Louis & Eastern Railroad, the St. Louis, Peoria & Northern Railroad, St. Louis Bolt & Iron Co. and the Madison Coal Co. He retired in 1913.

R. F. C. INVESTS $8,000,000 IN FOUR ST. LOUIS BANKS

Chairman Jones Says None Needs Additional Capital Now, but They Co-Operate in Program.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—RFC purchase of $8,000,000 in preferred stock and capital notes of four large St. Louis banks was announced tonight by Chairman Jesse H. Jones, as follows:

First National Bank, $4,000,000 preferred stock; Boatmen's National Bank, $500,000 preferred stock; Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co., $2,000,000 capital notes, and Mississippi Valley Trust Co., $1,500,000 capital notes. Announcing the purchase, Jones said:

"None of these banks has immediate need for added capital, but they are co-operating with the RFC in its preferred stock and capital note program in the interest of the whole country, to strengthen bank capital in aid of the recovery program."

The dividend and interest rate is 4 per cent for the first five years and 5 per cent thereafter until retired.

Detroit Street Car Pay Up 12 Pct.

DETROIT, March 31.—Because of increased earnings by Detroit's municipally-owned street railway system, during the first quarter, some 5200 employes will receive a wage increase averaging 12 per cent for the three months beginning May 1. Motormen, conductors and bus drivers now receiving 75 cents an hour, will get 84 cents an hour. Operators of one-man street cars and bus drivers getting 80 cents will receive 89.6 cents.

Sears Announces... The NEW 1934 line of

COLDSPOT

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS

Made to Meet the Needs and Budget of the Average Family

SEARS entered the refrigerator industry with a fresh viewpoint—not with the idea of marketing a luxury, but with the purpose of producing a genuine necessity of modern life at a price well within the reach of the average family.

Sears triumphantly presents the New COLDSPOT Line! It offers not only every major improvement in electric refrigeration, but, FOR THE FIRST TIME, it provides the size the average American family requires, the Six, at a price suited to the average family's budget.

BUY A 6 Ft. SIZE At Little More Than a FOUR!

BIG news for families of 4 to 6! Now you can buy a refrigerator large enough for your needs at a price you can well afford to pay. This year, by specializing in 6-cubic-foot refrigerators, which is the right size for 90% of the American homes, Sears saves in manufacturing costs. By Sears methods of selling we cut the cost of distribution. And we pass every penny of this double saving on to you! That's why the prices are so startling!

WEALTHY CINCINNATI WOMAN SELLS STOLEN BONDS TO BANK

Mrs. Nancy J. Wright Disappears—Man With Money Obtained From Sale Slain by Police.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, March 31.—The wealthy secretary of a prominent business man is being sought for questioning in connection with the sale of $54,000 worth of stolen bonds and the killing of a bond robbery suspect.

The bonds, identified as a part of the $90,000 in securities stolen a year ago from Mrs. Margaret Gillespie, aged recluse of Marshalltown, Ia., were sold to the Fifth-Third Union Trust Company here last Monday by Mrs. Wright. The next day Harold Cowell, 27 years old, was shot and killed in Marshalltown in a fight with a policeman who sought to question him about the robbery. In his home was found $21,000 in $20 and $50 bills—money which the bank had paid for the bonds.

Mrs. Wright, who formerly lived in Youngstown, O., disappeared. Mrs. Wright had been living in Cincinnati since last September, and had a personal account of several thousand dollars with the bank. Because of her position and recommendations given her, the bank accepted the Government bonds in greatest faith, it was explained.

Mrs. Wright said she was settling up the estate of a grandmother. The $54,000 was deposited to her account, and she immediately cashed a check for $33,000. Later another check was cashed in Youngstown and two in Cleveland. Mrs. Wright was about 35 years old and was understood to be a widow.

POLICE DIRECTOR QUITS UNDER FIRE AT KANSAS CITY

Eugene Reppert's Resignation Follows Election Day Violence in Which Four Persons Were Killed.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, March 31.—Eugene C. Reppert, Kansas City director of police, resigned today as a result of violence in last Tuesday's municipal election, when four persons were slain and many were slugged.

The police department has been criticised, with Reppert bearing the brunt of the attack.

The resignation, which was accepted by City Manager H. F. McElroy, explained Reppert had attempted to resign on two previous occasions, but was persuaded by McElroy to stay.

Reppert, in resigning, said:

"In resigning from the office of police director I wish to state most emphatically that I have no apologies to make in regard to my administration. During my two-year tenure of office economies resulted in a saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the taxpayers of this community. In addition to this, Kansas City, notwithstanding anything that may be said to the contrary, need not apologize for its standing among the cities of America insofar as its police department is concerned.

"Statistics will prove crime has been reduced 45 per cent, and I again reiterate that racketeering does not exist in our community. My profound wish is that the department will continue to function as it has been in the past and that my successor will receive the same unstinted support from the personnel."

Mayor Smith's Statement.

Mayor Bruce B. Smith, who was re-elected in Tuesday's Democratic victory, while silent as to Reppert's resignation, declared:

"My reputation of 50 years in Kansas City is at stake. I am going to use my personal efforts to see that every man connected with the election day atrocities is captured and punished and every gang responsible for such conditions is driven from Kansas City, and I do not mean maybe."

Boss Tom J. Pendergast's political machine, with which Reppert and McElroy are aligned, also won six of eight council seats, in a bitter contest with a Citizens'-Fusionist ticket.

Violence in Election.

Three men have been charged with murder in connection with the killings during the election.

Late yesterday a murder charge was filed against Charles Casciola, naming him as the slayer of William Finley, Negro Democratic precinct captain. Finley was killed at a polling place after he had wounded one of his assailants in a fight. Later Casciola appeared at a hospital with a bullet wound in the abdomen. W. W. Graves Jr., Jackson County prosecutor, announced a witness had identified Casciola as a member of the gang which killed Finley.

John Belfonte, in custody, and John Gadwood, Democratic ward leader, who is sought, were charged with murder in connection with a pistol fight in southeastern Kansas City which resulted fatally for Lee Flacy, a deputy sheriff, P. W. Oldham, a hardware merchant, and Larry Cappo, night club employe.

Gov. Park and city officials were criticised today by the Rev. A. C. MacKinney at funeral services here for Oldham.

"Here we are in Kansas City, one-tenth of the population of Missouri, and our Governor either is ignorant of the facts or heedless of them when he says we got protection election day. We must either impugn his integrity or attack his ability. Which is it? I want to know. His message of indifference as to the election situation here merits the criticism of every citizen."

Word was received from Jefferson City that Attorney-General Roy McKittrick would be in Kansas City Monday afternoon to start his investigation into the election day violence. He has been directed to aid by Gov. Park.

The County Court today offered rewards of $500 each for the slayer or slayers of Oldham, Flacy and Finley.

Child Picked Up Bottle From Floor; Mother's First Aid Attempt Failed.

Lillian Schottel, 3 years old, died at City Hospital yesterday noon, an hour after swallowing ammonia at her home, 5509 Magnolia avenue. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schottel.

The child picked up an ammonia bottle from the floor in a corner of the kitchen and drank some of its contents. She started coughing violently and her face turned crimson.

First-aid treatment, by trying to get the child to drink milk and pounding on her back, failed. She became unconscious soon afterwards. The mother called the police, who used an inhalator unsuccessfully on the child before taking her to the hospital.

Three brothers and four sisters also survive. The father is a laborer in the Water Department.

$10,000 WORLD CHESS TITLE MATCH WILL BEGIN TODAY

BADEN, Germany, March 31.—Two Russians, Dr. Alexander Alekhine of Paris, the title holder, and E. D. Bogoljubow of Triberg, Germany, will begin tomorrow a match of 25 games for the world's chess championship and a $10,000 prize.

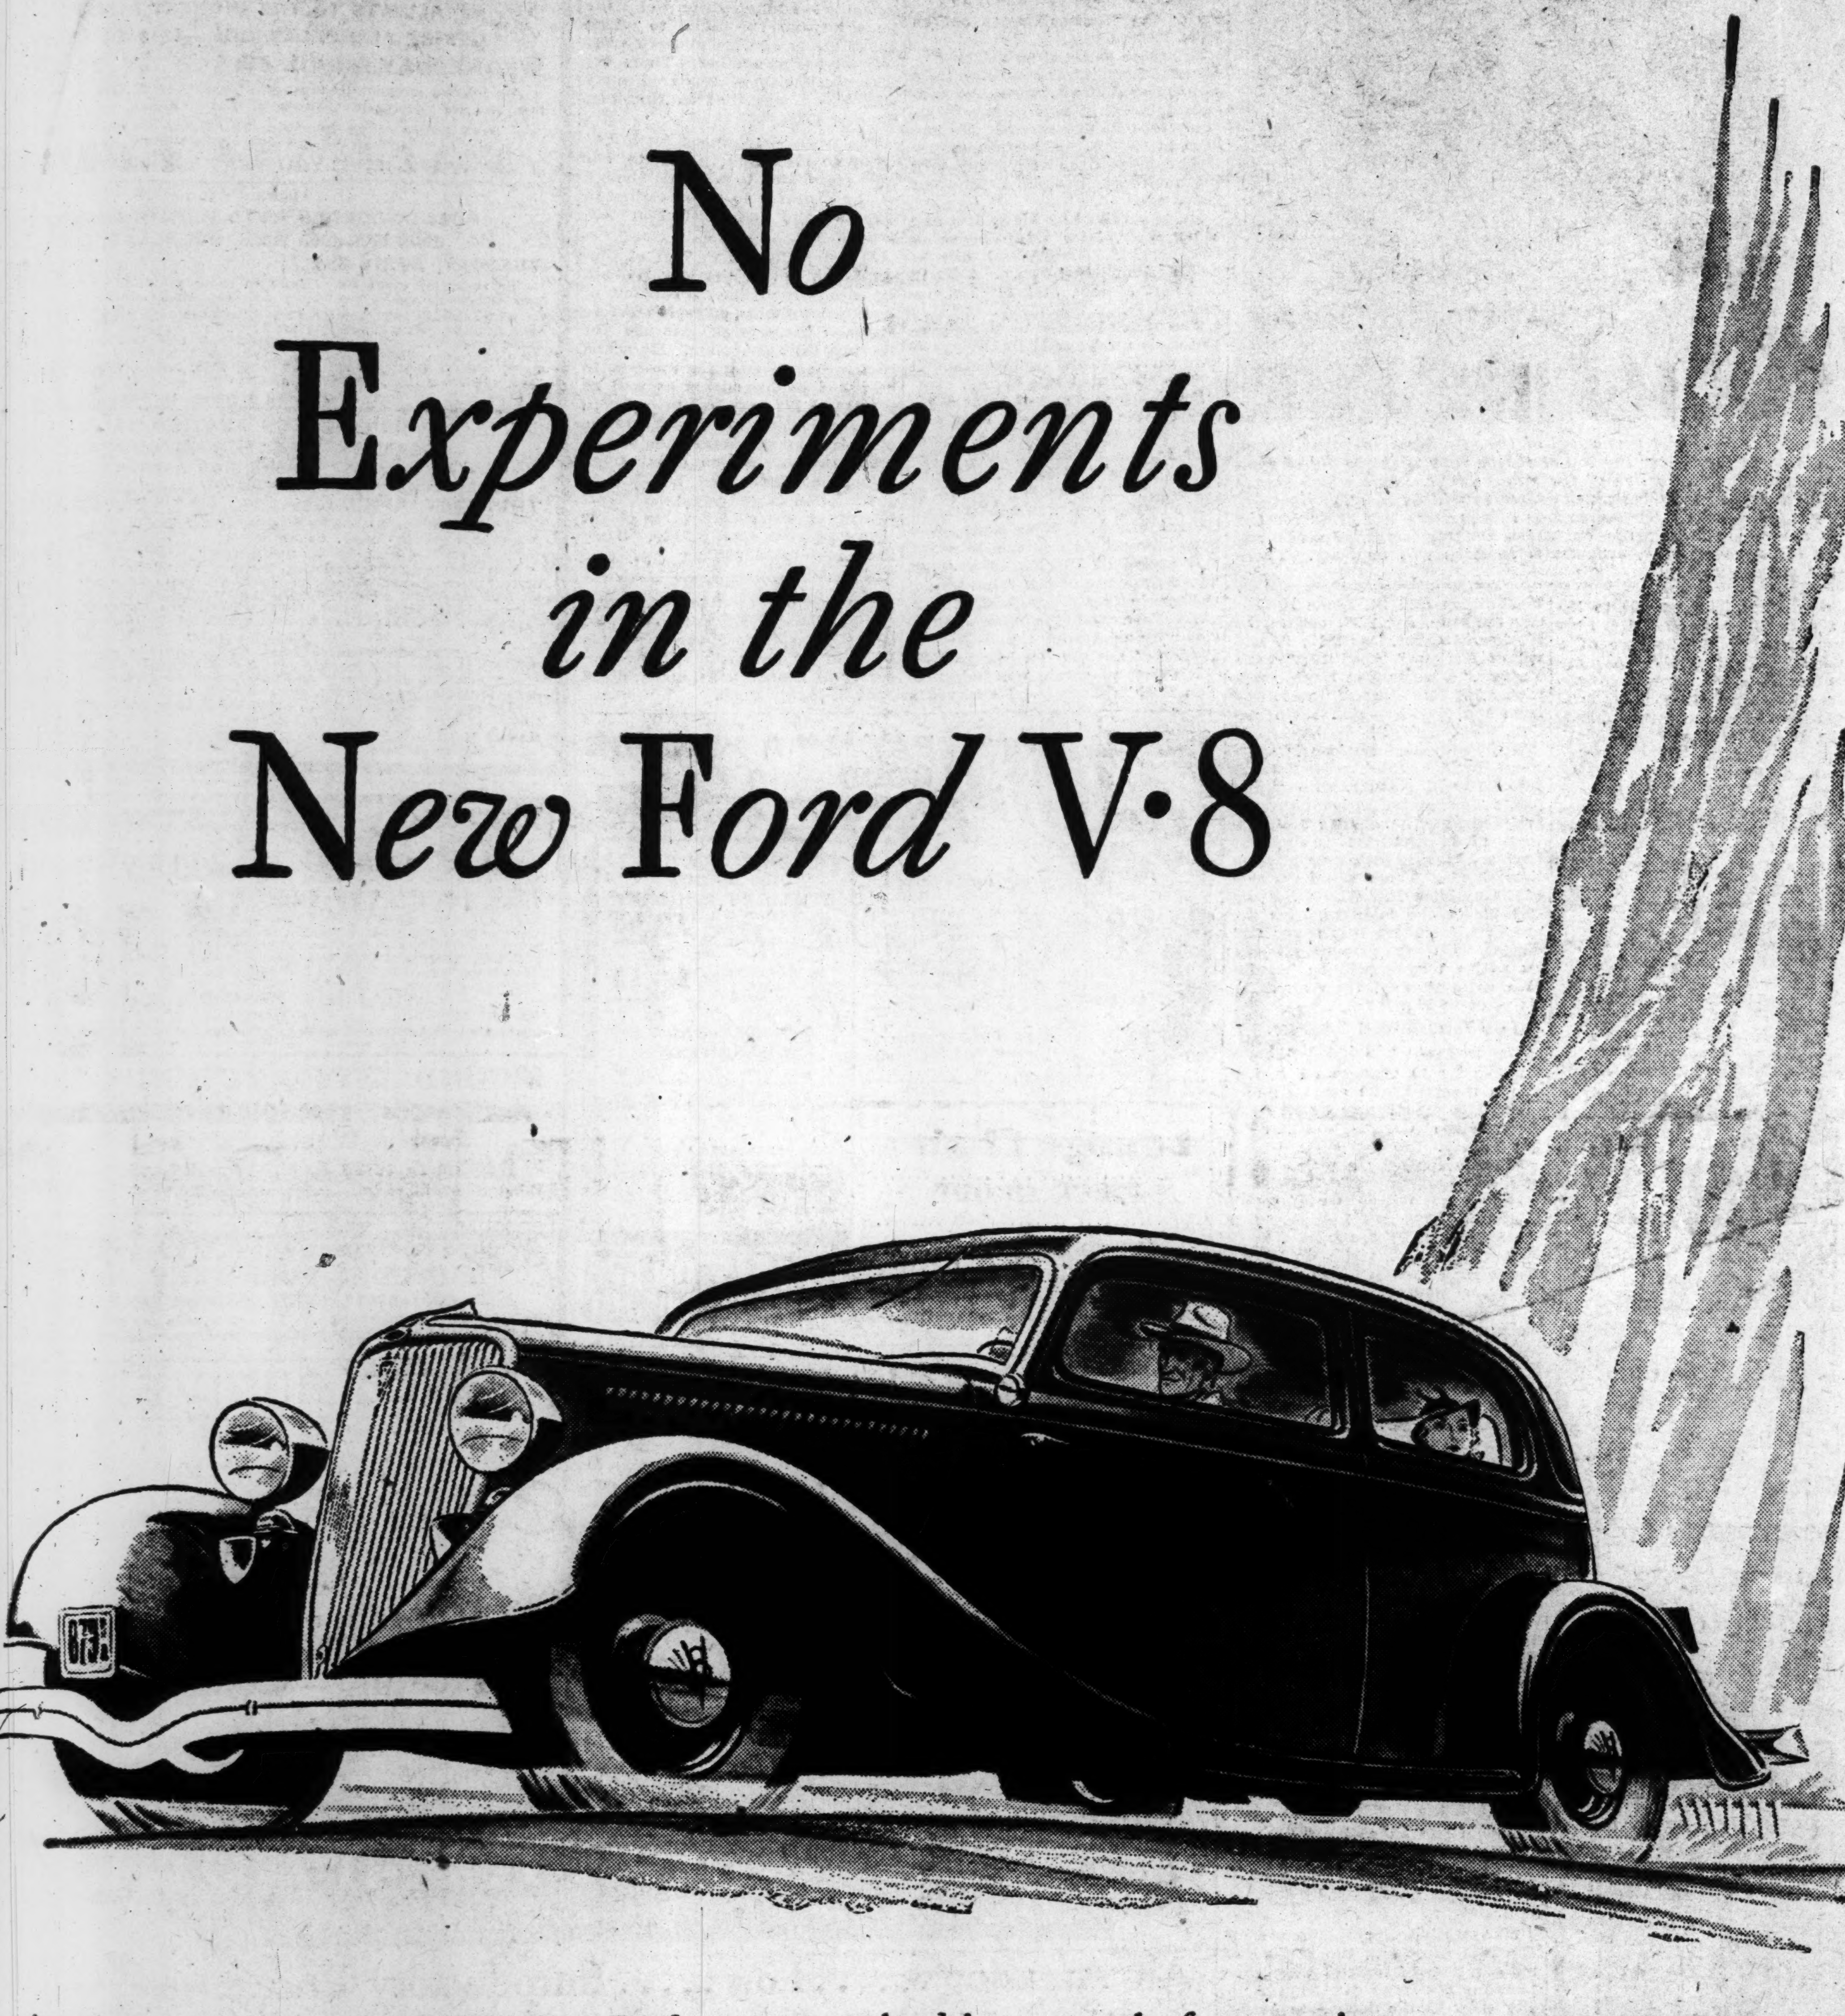
This will be their second meeting for the title. In 1929 the champion defeated Bogoljubow by 11 to 5 with nine games ending in draws.

Conditions governing the contest require that the winner must win outright at least six games. Draws will count as one-half point each, and the victor will be the one who first scores 15½.

Of the $10,000 purse Alekhine, as title holder, receives $2000 for a fee, the remainder being divided 60 per cent and 40 per cent to the winner and loser.

Alekhine has been world chess champion since he won the title from Jose R. Capablanca in Buenos Aires in 1927, when he defeated the Cuban 6 to 3 with 25 games drawn.

No Experiments in the New Ford V·8



THERE are no experiments in a Ford V-8. But there is 30 years of experience. No trivial, temporary gadgets are blown up big to make sales. No fancy coined names. Just solid, tested, substantial value.

That is why we say you buy Proved Performance when you buy a Ford V-8. You know exactly what it will do on the road and how it will stand up under long, hard service.

The reliability and dependability of its V-8 engine, clutch, transmission, torque-tube drive, rear axle, frame, spring suspension and every other vital part have been proved by millions of miles of use by hundreds of thousands of owners. Actual service on the road has also proved that in cost-per-mile and maintenance it is the most economical Ford ever built.

The Ford car reflects the fundamental policy and purpose of the Ford business—to provide transportation of the most dependable quality at the lowest possible cost.

EASTMAN OFFERS BILL TO PUT TEETH IN RAIL LABOR ACT

Federal Co-ordinator Sends to Congress Measure Outlawing Company-Dominated Unions.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31. — A proposal to penalize disobedience of the Railway Labor Act and to outlaw the company-dominated union on railroads was sent to Congress today by Joseph B. Eastman, Federal co-ordinator of Transportation.

Accompanied by a letter explaining the measure, Eastman sent to Chairman Rayburn of the House Commerce Committee a bill to revise the Railway Labor Act and write into permanent law the labor provisions of the emergency railroad transportation law under which he operates.

Eastman would make interference with the formation of organizations of employes and election of employes' representatives punishable by a jail sentence of six months or a fine of from $1000 to $20,000 or both for each day such interference continued.

Board for Adjusting Disputes.

He proposed formation of a national adjustment board to handle disputes between workers and the railroads over interpretation or application of agreements regarding wages, rules or working conditions with power to enforce its decisions. The board of mediation, the principal authority under the present Railway Labor Act, would be reduced from five to three members.

The adjustment board would be composed of 36 members equally divided between the railroads and the workers. There would be four divisions, each having jurisdiction over different classes of employes.

The revisions recommended by Eastman include provisions for including in the operation of the act all companies which furnish service and operate equipment or facilities on the railroads, including sleeping car and express companies.

"The present act," said Eastman in his letter, "contains provisions intended to insure absolute freedom of choice by both parties in the selection and designation of representatives to act for them in disputes over labor questions.

Subversive Practices.

"However, no adequate means of enforcing these provisions were provided and practices were continued or grew up which were subversive of the principle involved. To meet this situation, Congress took the first step when it incorporated paragraphs in the bankruptcy act and these were applied to all railroads by the Emergency Railroad Transportation act, 1933. By reason of these provisions it is now unlawful for any carrier by railroad to:

"Deny or in any way question the right of its employes to join the labor organization of their choice.

"Interfere in any way with the organization of its employes.

"Use its funds in maintaining so-called company unions.

"Influence or coerce its employes in an effort to induce them to join or remain members of such company unions.

"Influence any person seeking employment to sign a contract or agreement promising to join or not to join a labor organization. And if such a contract has been enforced, the railroad is required to notify its employes by an appropriate order that said contract has been discarded and is no longer binding on them in any way.

Says Lines Must Keep Hands Off.

"That the principle underlying these provisions is sound is, I believe, hardly open to question. It means only that railroad managements must keep their hands off so far as labor organizations are concerned."

"Whatever may have been the attitude of employes in the past," Eastman continued, "it is plain that they are now prepared to insist on their right as American citizens to bargain and deal collectively with their employers on equal terms. The principle is recognized in much the same language in the national industrial recovery act with respect to other industries and it is implicit in the present railway labor act and the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act.

"My investigations showed that there were many existing practices which were not in accord with these provisions. The railroad managements, however, have on the whole manifested a commendable desire to put their houses in order in these respects and the situation has been much improved.

"Nevertheless it seems to me not only appropriate but highly important that these provisions should be incorporated in the permanent measure, the railway labor act, which is designed to govern the relations between the railroads and their employes; that they should be somewhat improved in form; and that adequate and permanent means should be provided for their enforcement.

"The emergency railroad transportation act, 1933, is a temporary measure and there should be nothing temporary about these provisions.

"Moreover, no satisfactory or adequate means of enforcement is provided in the emergency act, the organization of the co-ordinator is not well adapted for that purpose and is diverted from the duties for which it was designed by the effort at enforcement and the language used in the emergency act is such that opportunities for litigation are presented. At least one large railroad has made it clear that it will take full advantage of these opportunities.

IMPROVEMENT OF DELMAR FINISHED; STREET OPEN AGAIN

Smooth Pavement Now for 76-Foot Roadway, Between Kingshighway and Clara.

Work of removing the curbed central parkway for street car tracks in Delmar boulevard, between Kingshighway and Clara avenue, and substituting asphalt paving, has been completed. The street was partly closed to traffic for more than two months, while CWA workmen carried out the job. The last section to be closed, for eastbound traffic only, between Union boulevard and Kingshighway, was reopened yesterday.

There is smooth pavement now for the whole 76-foot roadway. Center trolley poles were taken out and the wires hung from poles at the curb. The parkway was 26 feet wide.

A similar parkway was removed also from Union, between Delmar and Pershing avenue, and an unused southbound car track was eliminated, between Delmar and Waterman boulevards.

NEW AUDITORIUM TO OFFER VARIETY OF ATTRACTIONS

Opening April 14 With St. Louis on Parade Exhibit —Six Community Entertainments First Week.

With two weeks remaining before the opening of the Municipal Auditorium on April 14, work of making the big building ready for a fortnight's dedication period is being rushed, and plans are being completed for the wide variety of entertainments to be presented.

Installation of the 3563 wine-red plush seats in the music hall, selected for comfort and practicability, was finished yesterday.

Placing of exhibits in the exposition of local commerce and manufactures, "St. Louis on Parade," will begin this week. Heavy displays must be installed by the end of the week, after which trucks will not be permitted to enter the exhibition hall. In addition to the 94,000 square feet of floor space in this hall, there will be an overflow in the partially finished arena section of the building.

More than 100 exhibitors will meet in an assembly hall of the auditorium at 4 p. m. tomorrow to discuss problems arising. This will be the first public gathering in the place.

The exposition will be open from noon to 11 p. m. daily from April 14 to 28. Five floor managers and 10 assistants will be on duty. Exhibits will occupy from 100 to 15,000 square feet each, the latter area being taken by the makers of a popular light automobile. A number of exhibits will show processes of manufacture from raw material to finished article. Among objects to be shown will be food, steel, shoes, building materials, wearing apparel, drugs, automobiles and accessories, radios, furniture, flowers, electrical appliances and office equipment, and there will be demonstrations of X-ray use, watch making and paper making.

Six community attractions will be presented without charge during the first week of the auditorium housewarming. Tickets will be obtainable from sponsoring organizations. These attractions will be: Religious pageant, with a massed choir from St. Louis churches, Sunday, April 15; collegiate revue by Washington and St. Louis University students, April 16; concert by Musicians' Guild, April 17; "Festival of Nations," April 18; "Black Majesty," a pageant of Negro progress, April 20; "Stars of Tomorrow" from the Post-Dispatch radio station, KSD, April 24.

The Festival of Nations is sponsored by the International Institute. It will portray, with appropriate and authoritative costumes and settings, the culture and customs of 14 countries through St. Louisans tracing their descent from these lands. There will be a cast of 1000. Miss Harriette F. Ryan, director of the institute, says the program, including folk songs and dances, with each group employing its native tongue, will be "creditable entertainment from an artistic point of view."

On International Program.

The program will include:

German songs by a male chorus of 250.

"A Venetian Night," with the illusion of gondolas gliding on canals, and music of mandolins, guitars, violins and accordions accompanying singers.

A Rumanian folk dance, "Calusaru."

"Russian Easter," a tableau, by the choir of St. Michael the Archangel Orthodox Church and the Russian Club. This will include a procession, with lighted tapers, crosses, ikons and banners, led by a priest, and the choir in full vestments.

A maypole dance to the midnight sun by the Swedish National Society and the Baltic Society.

Several Ukrainian dances by a group of 50, with solos by some 6-year-olds.

Many technical problems are offered in arranging the festival of nations, not the least of which are handling the large cast—largest of any show in the dedication period —and arranging quick changes of scenery.

The first performance of a brief season of grand opera will be given April 21.

Folk Festival First.

Following the dedication period, the first event will be the National Folk Festival, April 29 to May 2. Tickets for this will go on sale tomorrow at 1011 Olive street. Prices will be 25 and 50 cents for matinees and 50 and 75 cents for evening performances, with boxes $1 at all times.

Among participants in this festival will be a group of old-time sailors from Snug Harbor, a sailors' home on Staten Island, N. Y. They will sing chanteys, such as were heard on sailing vessels while the men were at work or in their quarters. This, it is said, will be the first time a group has been permitted to leave the home for a public entertainment.

Musicians who have inspected the music hall believe it will have excellent acoustics. The arrangement of the descending orchestra platform is expected to help singers in the opera casts to send their voice out to the audiences.

It has been necessary to install a system of key filing for the auditorium, which is estimated to have 685 doors, in addition to numerous cabinets. Among facilities which may be locked are 30 ticket offices, 55 washrooms, 12 locker rooms, 42 storage rooms, 33 corridors and 25 passageways.

A Peep at the City's Newest Music Hall

IT became possible last week to photograph the 3563-seat music hall of the new Municipal Auditorium in nearly finished state. This view was made from near the top of the balcony with the aid of temporary ceiling lights. Over the proscenium arch is a replica of the statue of St. Louis which stands in Forest Park. Beneath the arch is a steel frame on which plush draperies will be hung.

The soundproof, fireproof curtain weighs 25 tons. On either side of the stage are grills for the organ. The incomplete orchestra pit is lowered, showing the entrances for musicians. In the tall apertures on the side wall, duplicated on the opposite side, ornamental lanterns will be hung. These are not boxes, box seats in reality being mezzanine loges.

THE REV. J. C. JONES, WEBSTER GROVES, DIES

Rector Emeritus of Emmanuel Episcopal Church Was 72 Years Old.

The Rev. Dr. J. Courtney Jones, rector emeritus of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Webster Groves, died yesterday afternoon at his home, 514 Gray avenue, of heart disease. He was 72 years old, and was rector of the Webster Groves church from 1903 to 1931.

Dr. Jones suffered an attack Friday afternoon, after returning from Emmanuel Church, where he conducted the first half of the three-hour Good Friday service. He had been in failing health since his retirement from the active duties of the rectorate, two and one-half years ago.

He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Miss Edith Jones of Urbana, Ill. The funeral will be held at Emmanuel Church, 9 South Bompart avenue, at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The parish house, now being completed, is a memorial to Dr. Jones' long service to the congregation. It will be dedicated this spring.

Dr. Jones was one of three Webster Groves professional men who were guests of honor at a dinner held in the suburb in 1932. The others were the Rev. Dr. D. M. Skilling, who then had served 30 years as pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and J. T. Hixson, who had been high school principal 25 years.

A native of Virginia, Dr. Jones was a graduate of Randolph-Macon College in that State, and of Virginia Theological Seminary. The seminary conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity on him in 1927.

His first pastorate was in a mission field in Georgia. He served a Baltimore church five years, and Christ Church, Millwood, Va., for seven years, before beginning his Webster Groves pastorate. He successor at Emmanual Church is the Rev. J. Manly Cobb.

WALTER G. FRANZ ESTATE PETITION UNDER ADVISEMENT

Trust Company Filed Plea Seeking Distribution of $500,000 Property in Missouri.

A petition filed by the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., asking permission to distribute the $500,000 estate of Walter G. Franz of Cincinnati, was taken under advisement yesterday by Probate Judge Holtcamp.

Franz was a son of the late Ehrhardt and Sophie G. Franz, St. Louisans, who left a large estate, consisting principally of shares of stock in the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. of Detroit. He died in 1922. The trust company was appointed administrator of the son's Missouri property, to which his estate is entitled under a trust created by his mother. There are 22 beneficiaries of Walter Franz's will, which was filed in Hamilton County, Ohio.

The trust company set forth it is ready to distribute the estate, but asks permission to withhold enough of the property to cover claims in dispute and administration expenses.

Attorney Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, a son of the late William Howard Taft, former President of the United States, appeared before Judge Holtcamp as attorney for the two Ohio executors. He asked that the court consider the fees to be asked by his clients as well as the fee of his law firm in ordering the distribution. A representative of the Ohio executors said a reasonable compensation for them would be $25,000 in addition to about $4000 previously paid. Taft testified a reasonable value of his firm's service was $25,000. They have been paid $2500.

ST. LOUIS ASKS FOR DIRECT AIR MAIL LINE TO SOUTHWEST

President Dysart of Chamber of Commerce Cites City's Trade Interests.

A request for direct air mail service from St. Louis to Oklahoma and Texas cities has been made to Postmaster-General Farley by Thomas Dysart, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

Dysart pointed out that a large volume of business with the Southwest is transacted by St. Louis firms. He stressed the need for direct service to Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Dallas. According to the announcement of routes on which the Postoffice Department will ask for bids, Oklahoma and Texas cities would be served through Kansas City. St. Louis is on a transcontinental route, from New York to Los Angeles, and is included in the Chicago-New Orleans service.

TWO SENTENCED IN $10,000,000 BANK FAILURE

ALLOWED UNTIL APRIL 28 TO APPEAL

Three Cleveland Standard Trust Officers So Far Penalized for Fraud in Its Collapse.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., March 31.—Alvanley Johnston and C. Stirling Smith were sentenced to terms ranging from one to 30 years in the Ohio State penitentiary today. They were convicted a month ago of misapplying $450,000 belonging to the Standard Trust Co. of Cleveland, of which Smith was president, and of making false entries in the bank's books. Johnston is Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and a director of Standard Trust.

The Standard Trust was successor to the Bank of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The Brotherhood did not operate the Standard Trust but had on deposit for its 60,000 members $2,000,000 when the bank failed for $10,000,000 two years ago.

James H. Cassell, secretary-treasurer of the Brotherhood, also a director of the Standard Trust, was tried with them. The jury was unable to agree on seven counts against Cassell, and he may have a second trial. Four counts against Cassell were dismissed today.

Judge Virgil Terrell sentenced the two bank officers on each of the nine counts against them, but made the sentences concurrent. A stay of execution was granted until April 28 to permit an appeal on the ground of error.

Smith was sentenced last November to serve from two to 37 years for embezzling $19,000 of Standard Trust money. At the same time Dale T. Winslow, another officer of the institution, was sentenced to serve from one to 37 years on the same charge.

Howard F. Evans, former securities trustee of the bank, pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzlement and today was turned over to probation officers after his attorney pointed out that he had been of great assistance to the State in prosecuting the other officers of the bank.

The Brotherhood National Bank was organized 13 years ago. It grew by leaps and bounds until it had built a 21-story building and attempted a gigantic real estate development in Florida. But, by March 10, 1930, many of the assets were found to be of questionable value, the Standard Trust was formed to take it over, and the Brotherhood withdrew as a controlling factor.

NEW YORK TAXI STRIKE ENDS

Union Men Return on Condition of No Discrimination.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 31.—On condition that they be rehired without discrimination, New York's striking taxicab drivers agreed tonight to return to work after three weeks of intermittent street disorders.

Representatives of the union announced the strike was "virtually settled" after a conference with fleet operators in the offices of the United Taxicab Board of Trade. "The fact that we are returning to work does not in any way signify defeat," said Samuel Orner, president of the Drivers' Union. He added that a fight would be continued against company unionism.

11 RELATIVES SEEK TO BREAK WILL OF BENJAMIN DEHOUT

They Cite Absent-Minded Acts of Tobacco Worker; Estate Bequeathed to Wife's Kin.

Eleven collateral relatives of Benjamin Dehaut, tobacco worker who died Feb. 20 at the age of 78, filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday to set aside his will.

They set forth that the will was drawn a few days after the death of his wife in September, 1932, at a time when he was affected by grief and in no mental condition to know who were his rightful beneficiaries. They also say that for some time he was mentally impaired, being absent-minded to such an extent he would hunt for tools and other implements of his trade while holding them in his hands; that he went about one night, searching for his lantern while carrying it in his hand, and that he was unable to recognize relatives and friends. On the day the will was made he is alleged to have remarked a certain person had just "fixed it up."

The will bequeathed the bulk of the estate to Lily Gastreich, Ida Milstadt, John Temmelman and Laura Groeff, who were said by J. E. Patton, counsel for plaintiffs, to be relatives of Dehaut's wife. Patton said no inventory has been made of the estate but he understood Dehaut owned considerable property.

Dehaut resided at 3009 Magnolia avenue. Thomas Gastreich, of the Magnolia avenue address, denied that the testator was unable to make a legal will or that he was subject to influence.

ROBBERS TERRORIZE CHICAGO SUBURBS AFTER BANK HOLDUP

Policeman Beaten by Men After They Disable His Motorcycle.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 31.—A speeding automobile containing four bandits who held up the suburban Berwyn currency exchange, terrorized residents of West Side suburbs for a half hour today and left in its wake a badly beaten policeman and a truck driver injured by flying glass.

The robbers, armed with pistols and a machine gun, entered the exchange, forced three women and six men to lie on the floor and escaped with $490 in currency. Arthur Moysey, president of the exchange, set off an alarm and Policeman Frank Krizek arrived as the bandits pulled away, and pursued them on his motorcycle.

A bullet from a robber's gun punctured the front tire of the motorcycle and Krizek was thrown to the ground. The bandits backed up their car and one beat the policeman with a sawed-off shotgun.

In North Riverside a State highway policeman took up the pursuit in an automobile. The robbers fired several volleys and one shotgun charge shattered the windshield of the car, the glass cutting Nels Olson, truck driver, riding with the officer. The bandits escaped.

5 HAMBURG NEWSPAPERS FAIL

"Financial Difficulties" Cause Suspensions.

By the Associated Press.

HAMBURG, Germany, March 31.—"Financial difficulties" continued to take a heavy toll of German newspapers today when five publications, among them the 204-year-old Hamburgische Correspondent, a leading trade and shipping organ, suspended.

The others were the Hamburgische Boersenhalle, the Hamburger Neueste Nachrichten, the Hamburger Acht Uhr Blatt, and the Hamburger Mittagsblatt, all owned by one company.

John Roosevelt Gets Gift Auto.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—John Roosevelt, 18-year-old son of the President, had an Easter gift, a shiny new roadster, today. The car was a present from his mother, who said, however: "John can't use it just yet—not until his graduation." John, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, graduates from the Groton school in June. Mrs. Roosevelt selected the car, and took John down to the White House garage today for his approval. The car is a de luxe model of a popular priced make.

ROOSEVELT FAITHFUL TO PEOPLE, SAYS CLARK

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—In a speech prepared for delivery at Raleigh, N. C., tonight, Senator Bennett C. Clark of Missouri praised the character of President Roosevelt and the accomplishments of the Administration during its first year in office.

Speaking at a state banquet of the Young Democrats of North Carolina, Senator Clark said the President had done more in one year to rout the long-entrenched forces of special privilege than had been accomplished in any similar period of our history since Andrew Jackson sat in the White House. He asserted that, under the President's leadership, there was evidence of recovery on every hand.

"It is not necessary," Senator Clark continued, "to agree with every item of the enactments of the last year to rejoice in the spiritual and material improvement which has taken place in this country in the last year. That gallant figure, with his high courage, with his indomitable will, which has enabled him to rise far above the limitations of mere physical misfortune, with his magnificent ability, with his unswerving devotion to the interest of the body of the people—to the 'forgotten man,' as he once denominated him—is leading the American people out of the slough of despond. The very buoyancy of his courage and optimism has had a tremendous and inspiring effect on the hearts and minds of our people in ending the depression."

On the State of the Nation.

In discussing the state of the nation, the speaker said it was proper to mention briefly the condition in which President Roosevelt found the country when he entered office.

Tracing the factors which in his opinion led to this condition, Senator Clark described the World War and its effects; the advent of the Harding administration, with which, he asserted, "we entered upon a period of riotous extravagance, of uncontrolled inflation and speculation," and a period of maladjustment in agriculture which grew worse through the administrations of Coolidge and Hoover.

Senator Clark asserted that, after the collapse had come, the situation was aggravated by the passage of "the most inequitable, the most indefensible, the most criminal tariff bill in the entire history of the world." The result was, he said, that our foreign trade fell away to nothing.

His Votes in Senate.

Asserting that some of the measures sponsored by the President were temporary and that some involved permanent readjustments in our economic structure, Senator Clark defined his position in regard to the President's program.

"I may say to you very frankly," he said, "that I have not agreed with all these measures and that, when I have not been able to reconcile my views on fundamental grounds with those of the President, I have differed with him with great regret, but have voted my own convictions. I have no apology whatever to make for those votes. I hold it to be the duty of a Senator or Representative, sworn on his own oath to represent a sovereign people, to give most careful and respectful consideration to the recommendations of the Executive, to resolve all possible doubts in favor of his proposals but, if thoroughly convinced that they are wrong, to vote against them. Such I conceive to have been the theory of the Fathers of the Republic and such will be my course as long as I remain in a position of responsibility under the Constitution."

"May I say in passing," Senator Clark proceeded, "that, from a lifelong study of American history and its background of English history, I have no patience with the theory that that man is the best friend or adviser of the Executive, whether he be President or king, who fawns upon him and blindly agrees to his every recommendation. Such sycophants tend to destroy the efforts of the very man whom they pretend—and usually intend—to uphold. There is no essential difference between the hysterical cry which is occasionally raised in this country of 'Stand by the President' and the old cry of absolutism snice first the world began, 'The King Can Do No Wrong.'

"Faithful to Pledge."

"My fellow Democrats, I say with all possible earnestness that it is neither necessary nor deisrable to adopt any such attitude in order to revere the character and intellect of President Roosevelt and to glory in the sum total of his magnificant achievements since he took office.

"Taking his program as a whole, the audacity, the power of achievement, the gallantry of spirit of the President have been an inspiration to the people of the United States. the like of which we have not seen since the immortal Jackson formed and led the hosts of Democracy. Whatever may be the outcome of any particular measure of his program, he has convinced the American people that he is literally and faithfully carrying out his pledge to drive the money changers from the temple."

Famous Vienna Physician Dies.

Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

VIENNA, March 31.—Prof. Herman Schlesinger, world famous physician who was head of the General Hospital here since 1905, died today. He was 67.

NEW POLICE BUDGET FIXED AT $5,161,147

The revised 1934-35 budget for the police department, submitted late yesterday to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and to the Board of Aldermen, totals $5,161,147, an increase of $163,147 over last year's figure.

Under the state law, the Board of Estimate and the Aldermen are required to appropriate whatever amount the police department requests. The municipal budget for the fiscal year 1934-35 is now being prepared and will be submitted to the Aldermen by the Board of Estimate soon after the new aldermanic session starts on April 17. The new fiscal year begins officially on April 10.

Originally, the police department this year submitted a budget totaling $5,901,197. This was cut about $740,000, the principal reduction being the elimination of an item for $700,000 for five new police stations. The Police Board has included this item in the $16,000,000 municipal bond issue which will be voted on May 15.

The police department also submitted a budget of $439,833 for the police pension and retirement fund which is supported in part by the city and partly by the contributions of the policemen themselves. Last year this item amounted to $439,133.

The bulk of police department expenses are for salaries, the items for this purpose in this year's budget being $4,094,633 for policemen's wages and $714,713 for the salaries of clerks, janitors and other civilian employes.

Other items in the police budget include combustible oil and gasoline, $89,000; motor vehicles, $49,000; automobile supplies, $33,000, and telephone service, $25,500.

500 JOBLESS FIGHT POLICE

Eviction Causes Columbus, O., Outbreak; Four Taken to Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 31.—Two men and two women were treated in hospitals for cuts and bruises following a fight between police and about 500 unemployed late today.

The crowd had gathered in front of a home from which furniture of C. C. McGuffin, eviction committee chairman of the Franklin County Unemployed League, had been carried in response to an eviction order. A police officer said the fight started when someone threw a stool at a policeman after being ordered to stop haranguing the crowd. Police used nightsticks and blackjacks.

Forward ST. LOUIS!

St. Louis knows how to go forward . . . Within the past few decades, residential sections within Greater St. Louis, worth millions, have risen from vacant tracts sold at acreage prices.

Real Estate
SALE

Dealers displaying the above emblem are promoting Spring Real Estate Sales.

RECOVERY evidences everywhere with brighter visions of tomorrow beckon St. Louis to again move forward!

Factors upon which St. Louis' future rests are not changed by lulls in the world's industrial activities. This city's central location, its nearness to raw materials and its unexcelled transportation facilities with wide diversity of manufacture long ago fixed its destiny as a great industrial center.

Other factors in St. Louis civic greatness are its beautiful residential sections, its varied recreational advantages and its ideal surroundings. A good city—good to work in—good to live in—good to play in—and especially promising for capital investment.

Under the circumstances, St. Louis real estate need not hesitate to point with assurance to its future possibilities.

Real Estate dealers of Greater St. Louis who know real estate and who have seen values rise, fall and rise again, are leading the forward movement.

Realty experts are most emphatic in declaring that as fortunes have been made in St. Louis real estate, fortunes can be made again—and their faith takes action During April, Spring Real Estate activity in St. Louis will go forward with large plans and determined efforts.

In the opinion of those who are in a position to know, many improved properties can be purchased at present prices for less than reproduction costs. The investment and income possibilities of these and other undervalued properties are to be presented in dealers' descriptive real estate sales advertisements to appear in the Post-Dispatch Real Estate Pages during April. Readers are urged to consult the Real Estate advertisements in the Post-Dispatch today, to note the unusual home-owning and investment offers and to watch these pages during the next few weeks.

Ford V-8 Sales Here Double Those in First 1933 Quarter

Some Ford Dealers Have Sold More Cars in 3 Months Than All Last Year.

Doubled sales of Ford V-8 cars in St. Louis were reported last evening with the closing of business for the first quarter of 1934 by M. N. Johnson, St. Louis manager for the Ford Motor Co.

"Dealers in the Metropolitan St. Louis area in the first three months of this year have doubled their sales as compared with the first three months of 1933," Johnson said. "Some of the dealers who now have enlarged territories have already sold more new Ford V-8s at retail than they did in all of last year.

"Along with the large improvement in business by St. Louis Ford dealers has come an increase in working force to twice the size of that of the past year.

"Ford dealers here are definitely a part of the huge movement to bring back prosperity. Combined with the fact that they can make immediate delivery and their necessary increases in salesmen, service men and others needed in their organizations, the more than 20 dealers in the greater St. Louis territory are all working together harder than they have since the introduction of the first Ford V-8 automobile.

"They report that the greatest volume of the new Ford V-8 sales is being to professional men who almost always want to trade in used cars that cost two to three times the amount for which Ford V-8s are sold. This tendency on the part of the buying public has led to the slogan that the new 1934 Ford V-8 is a car without a price class.

"In fact, almost every dealer has a new slogan which came from his customers. Some of them include 'Watch the Fords go by' and the 'World's fastest selling automobile.'"

Graham Adds 200 Dealers in Short Time

Since the new Graham car for 1934 made its appearance more than 200 new dealers have been signed by the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation in the United States, Robert C. Graham, executive vice-president, announces. Nearly 100 new dealers, he said, have been signed since March 1.

Reports from district managers, said Graham, indicate that more new dealers will be added within the next 30 days.

"The total of new dealers who have taken Graham franchises to date represents more than four times the number of new dealers who took over the Graham franchise in the same period of 1933," said Graham.

Veteran Auto Man Dies in St. Louis

William H. Lohse, one of the pioneer automobile men in St. Louis, died March 25.

He was born in Boonville, Mo., and came to St. Louis in 1904. He became connected with Harry Turner, of the Mississippi Valley Automobile Co., which then had the first agency for the Pope-Toledo auto.

Lohse, in 1911, became superintendent of the Modern Automobile Repair Co., and held that position until his death.

New Type Tire Tread Designed for Silent Running Also Non-Skid

Tire engineers have just developed, and tire makers have just announced, a new type of tire tread, said to be as nearly silent as is scientifically possible.

It is a winding, twisting, irregular tread that is said not to slip or slide because there is not a continuous skid-groove in any direction.

The tire engineers have eliminated the spots and knobs that wore off as the tire pounded on the pavement, for it was the wearing away of this rubber that made much of the tire noise.

"It would have been easy," says C. J. Jahant, vice-president of the General Tire & Rubber Co., "to have reduced the noise with smooth, parallel ribs on the tread. But that would have eliminated practically all the non-skid and would have made the treads like sled runners. So the silent tread was devised, both to reduce the noise that tires have caused and to make the tires safer and more skid-proof."

Silver Safety Medals to 11 Truck Drivers of One Firm Awarded

Drivers for the White Line Laundry, who have operated their 11 trucks without accident in the six months just past, were awarded silver medals by the B. F. Goodrich Co., as sponsor of a national safety contest inaugurated in January, it is announced by Earle Gordon, manager for Goodrich Silvertown, Inc.

The Goodrich safety campaign for truck and bus operators is open to every driver in America, and the awards are to be made after a six months period of no accident driving.

If drivers or truck or bus fleet operators achieve a second six months of operation without mishap, gold medals will be presented by the Goodrich Co. Emblems for the trucks or buses are also awarded—the emblems designating the safe driving records of the individual operators.

Entrants in the safety award contest sign pledges somewhat similar to those signed by thousands of passenger car drivers enrolled in the Silvertown Safety League, also introduced by Goodrich two years ago for highway safety.

Through this truck and bus safety campaign we believe that the motoring public will be given a new conception of highway transportation and that more careful, courteous driving will be noted generally, Gordon said.

33,000 Freight Cars to Handle Pontiac Shipments This Year

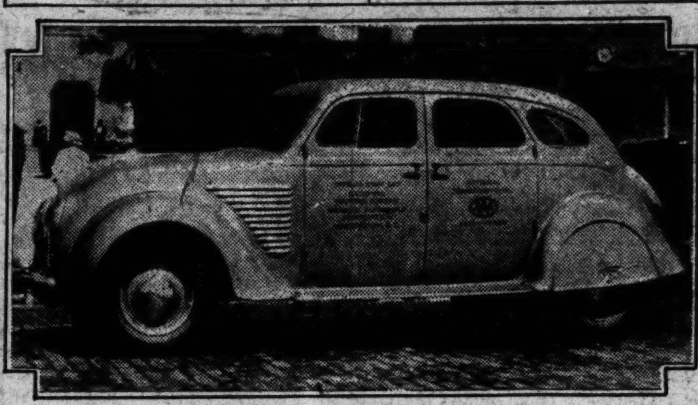
More than 33,000 freight cars will be required to haul that part of Pontiac 1934 production that will be shipped by rail, according to E. B. Rogers, traffic manager of the Pontiac Motor Co.

Although the motor car is a competitor of the railroads in the freight and passengers carried over the highways, Rogers said, the automotive industry doubtless has contributed more to the expansion and prosperity of all railroads throughout the country in the last 25 years than any other factor.

Figures prepared by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce show that last year 2,621,000 carloads of automotive freight were hauled over the tracks of American railroads. Revenues to the roads from this source ran close to $350,000,000. Automotive freight accounts for 15 per cent of the total railway traffic of the country.

Figures compiled by the Pontiac Motor Co., show that approximate- carloads of automotive freight were tinuous use day after day to take care of the 75 per cent of Pontiac's production that will be shipped by rail. An additional 50 cars are in constant use hauling incoming materials and supplies to the factory.

Driven to Florida for Delivery



Airflow DeSoto sedan which was delivered in Florida by Geo. Weber & Son of St. Louis, to Mr. C. G. Gale, staff representative of the American Automobile Association, Washington, D. C. The car was driven to Miami, Florida by Weber, who is president of Mound City Motors, St Louis. The car ran 1347 miles on 75 gallons of gasoline, an average of nearly 18 miles per gallon, Weber said. There were four passengers in the car, and the riding qualities were such that no one complained of bumps at any time during the trip, he said.

Chrysler Reports 21,410 Orders From Dealers Unfilled

As of March 15, the Chrysler Sales Corporation had 21,410 unfilled dealer orders for Chrysler cars for shipment before April 30, in addition to the shipments that had been proceeding at a rapid rate since the beginning of the month.

Of the orders now on file, 46.5 per cent are for Chrysler Airflow Eights and Chrysler Airflow Imperials, and the other 53.5 for Chrysler Sixes. This unusually high ratio of the higher to the lower-priced cars in the line is interpreted by company officials as indicating new buying trend by the public as one result of improved times.

Shipments of Chrysler cars reached a new peak on March 14, when 425 left the factory. The previous high was 313, on the previous day. The average for five days beginning March 9 was 317 cars per day, and it is expected that an average of better than 300 per day will be sustained through April.

Dodge Dealer Sales Gains Are Increasing

Dodge dealers reported another active week between March 11 and 17. In that time, they made retail deliveries of 4212 passenger cars and 952 trucks, a total of 5164 vehicles, as against 4732 delivered in the preceding week. The delivery increase is 9.1 per cent over the preceding week and 293.3 per cent over the corresponding week of 1933.

Retail deliveries by Dodge dealers in the first 11 weeks of this year were 35,024 passenger cars and trucks. Compared to 15,396 deliveries during the same 11 weeks of 1933, the latest Dodge delivery statement marks a gain of 127.5 per cent.

Only Twelve Miles Of Road on Which Juneau Car Can Run

A Packard car recently sold will not arrive at its new home until June. It is destined for Juneau, Alaska.

While Juneau has several automobile dealers and a far greater number of cars than one visiting the city would expect to find, arrival of each new car is somewhat of an occasion.

There are 12 miles of road on which Juneau cars can travel. This includes all of the streets, or that part of them fit for an automobile. The city is hemmed in on three sides by mountains and the sea is on the fourth side. Access is gained only by boat.

Reo "Self Shifter" Said to Save Wear on Engine and Tires

Reduced engine wear, due to elimination of "racing" in low gears, is one of the advantages of the new Reo self-shifter transmission, according to Harry Steiner of the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Co., distributers.

The Reo engine, he says, is under continuous load from standing start to top speed. Lessened tire wear experienced by Reo owners, he adds, is another result of this smooth, uninterrupted application of power. More tire wear, he says, results from a brief, savage application of power in one quick start than from a mile of normal high-gear operation at average speed on good pavement.

Although east in handling is the advantage that first impresses itself on a driver, the engine and tire saving and the lessened noise, vibration and wear are subjects of frequent comment by most Reo "self-shifter" car owners, he says.

Studebaker Dictator Special Has 88 H. P. Six-Cylinder Engine

Introduced as Low-Priced Companion to Line of Studebaker 8-Cylinder Models.

The engine in the new Dictator Special, which is Studebaker's entry in the low-priced field, is an 88 horsepower six-cylinder motor. instead of a "straight eight" as was erroneously stated in this section last Sunday. The car lists at $645 to $695 at the factory.

The Special Dictator has 1934 streamline body style. The four-door, six-passenger sedan has an overall length of 195⅝ inches.

The motor is anchored in rubber at four points. Lubrication is full force feed. The bearings are of the airplane type.

The body of the Special Dictator is of steel, reinforced by steel. It is a duplicate of the steel body on the car that withstood the shock of being thrown twice over a 104-foot cliff in Pennsylvania recently, and was driven away under its own power both times.

This car has Studebaker's quadripoise suspension—spring action of all four wheels stabilized scientifically—that is said to make rear seats as comfortable as front seats and to overcome forward pitch, jouncing and sidesway. It has the extra rigid, bride-type chassis frame, noiselessly bolted at sides as well as top to the seamless steel bodies. The strength-giving dual-dome cowl, exclusive with Studebaker, is another feature. This cowl is thickly insulated to keep out heat, cold and sound.

The seats are unusually wide. There is comfortable room for three people in both front and rear compartments. Cushions are deep and luxurious.

Virginia Tenth State to Require Safety Glass in Passenger Vehicles

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RICHMOND, Va., March 31.—Gov. George C. Perry has signed a bill requiring complete safety glass equipment in Virginia passenger-carrying motor vehicle.

The act goes into effect for school and public busses and taxicabs Jan. 1, 1935, and for private passenger automobiles manufactured after Jan. 1, 1936.

This action makes Virginia the ninth State to enact safety glass legislation.

The bill was sponsored by automotive trades and safety organizations.

Emphasis upon the great number of automobile injuries in which glass is the injuring factor was influential in bringing about this action. Safety authorities and automotive statisticians ascribe nearly half the injuries to motorists to broken glass.

'The Turning Wheel' Tells General Motors' Story for 25 Years

The story of the automobile and the rise of General Motors to its present position in the industry are related by Arthur Pound, industrial historian, in "The Turning Wheel," published by Doubleday, Doran & Co. Sub-titled "The Story of General Motors Through Twenty-five Years," the book is as much a history of the automobile industry as of a single corporation.

St. Louis plays a part in the book as site of the large assembly plant owned by the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors.

Pound has inclined toward philosophical, industrial history since "They Told Barron" appeared in 1930. He had previously written "The Telephone Idea," "The Iron Men in Industry," other industrial and historical works. "The Turning Wheel" carries the self-propelled vehicle from crude steam mechanisms, invented near the opening of the Christian era, down through the ages to the latest radial motor for airplanes. He summarizes the history of transportation as symbolized by the revolving wheel. It considers the wheel as one of civilization's foundations and the tool of conquering races.

Packard Cars Get Strenuous Testing On Proving Grounds

During 1933, a distance more than 30 times that around the world at the equator was traveled by Packard cars on the Packard proving grounds. Reports of the proving grounds for the year show that the mileage was 769,573.

In addition, 250,000 miles were covered in the testing and proving of Packard cars in the regular road test driving which is given Packards before they are shipped from the Detroit factories. This is done on a new proving grounds inside the plant.

The proving ground report shows that thousands of miles were covered at high speed on the two and one-half mile concrete speedway. One car was driven 5350 miles at its maximum speed. Another traveled 37,000 at a steady 70 miles an hour. Cars also were driven across the country on many test trips. More than 25,000 miles was covered in cross country driving to check the comfort of seat cushions.

Tire Dealers to Hear Talk by Judge Calhoun at Meeting Tomorrow

Jesse Johnston, chairman of the Greater St. Louis Tire Dealers' Association, has called a special meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Melbourne Hotel.

The speaker will be Judge Calhoun. He will discuss the code. All business men, whether they are connected with the tire business or not, are invited.

Come On And Get In—

Notice how wide the doors are—easy to get in and out.

Note the spacious interior—lots of head room; stretch your legs, you are not cramped or crowded. Room for six passengers.

The contour of the seats is exactly right.

You can shove the driver's seat forward or back—and have the steering wheel raised or lowered until it is tailor-made to fit your stature.

Beautifully finished interior, too—but women recognize quality and good taste when they see it, without being told. The controlled ventilation enables passengers to have exactly the kind of ventilation that each one wants.

So easy to see out, too—you are sitting low, but you can see the road perfectly.

What is this button on the dash for? That is for Free Wheeling. Convenient and simple, isn't it?

Now turn that handy ignition switch on the steering column.

The engine starts instantly and runs so smoothly and quietly you may wonder if there is anything under the hood.

The clutch operates with a "feather touch."

The synchronized gears shift quietly and easily.

The car glides away, smoothly! Without fuss—without commotion, you get away from the stop light ahead of other cars.

Is THIS driving a car? It is more like coasting!

No vibration, no jarring, no bouncing.

What impresses you most? You answer instantly: "No strain, effort or work on the part of the driver"!

You will learn to relax when driving a 1934 Auburn. Gone is that tense feeling of "operating" a car. Instead, you sit restfully and drive effortlessly.

Now step on it.

Don't be afraid of that curve ahead.

Auburn has the strongest and most rigid of frames, which, combined with its low center-of-gravity, its perfect distribution of weight, its ride stabilizer, prevents sidesway and body roll.

Isn't it amazing the way the Auburn clings to the road?

In what other car can you do the same thing, with such a sense of security, perfect equilibrium, and road steadiness? The Auburn rides on an "even keel" at all times.

Now we are out of the traffic and on to the open road—

A miracle? No. It is another one of Auburn's betterments. We predict that all cars will again have to imitate Auburn sooner or later.

You have not reduced your car speed in the least. You are still going at sixty miles an hour—

But, by shifting the Dual-Ratio lever to Auburn's Extra High Gear-Ratio you have reduced the number of engine revolutions 33⅓ per cent.

You don't have to be an engineer to understand the vital importance of Dual-Ratio and its many advantages.

Common sense tells you that it is a gross waste and extravagance to have to continually race your engine needlessly. Dual-Ratio not only provides a tremendous saving in fuel and in wear and tear on all moving parts, but it introduces a totally new "feel" to motoring. Noise and vibration are minimized. There is a serenity to driving, obtainable in no other way. You are relieved to know you are not over-working the car's mechanism.

But no words can adequately describe the advantages of the new 1934 Auburn—we invite you to drive it yourself and let the car tell its own story.

Stepping Over the Bumps

A 1934 Hudson car with axleflex system of independent front suspension. The wheel has climbed to the top of the stone in the road. Although the wheel is raised high from the ground, the body remains level. This method of independent spring suspension is furnished at no extra charge on Terraplanes and Hudsons for 1934. The owner has his choice of axleflex or regular front axle. In this type of independent front suspension the axle member is retained although the wheels are permitted independent action in a vertical plane.

Reports from drivers using the axleflex suspension are that there is a banking action on curves and on certain types of roads, particularly of the washboard type. The flexibility premitted with this system prevents synchronizing of the two front wheels so helps to iron-out the road.

Airflow Chrysler Overdrive Saves 'Gas' and Wear on Engine

Increased smoothness in performance, 40 per cent more car mileage on a given number of engine revolutions, greatly augmented speed, a saving in gasoline running from 11 to 18 per cent and a reduction under certain conditions of as much as 50 per cent in oil consumption, are made possible by an overdrive device used in the Airflow Chryslers, according to J. W. Frazer, general sales manager of the Chrysler Sales Corporation.

"Basically, it cuts down engine revolutions about 30 per cent, and this obviously means a great saving in fuel, oil and wear," he said. "Comprehensive tests by our engineering department have shown that gasoline consumption is reduced on an average 15 per cent. It is harder to strike an average for oil saving, because oil consumption in any type of gasoline engine increases very fast as speed mounts.

"At 75 miles an hour, one is not even conscious that the engine is running," he said. "It is more as if the car were being towed with the clutch disengaged. With the overdrive, it is possible to do better than 75 miles an hour in second speed in our Imperial, and to do it so quietly that the driver doesn't know whether he is in second or high. What this means in acceleration is almost incredible. One can "jump" another car so fast that even one going 60 miles an hour seems to be standing still.

"The overdrive serves either to attain a desired speed with 30 per cent fewer engine revolutions than in conventional drive, or greatly to increase the speed possible with maximum engine horsepower. Our Imperial will do 100 miles an hour with the overdrive.

"Engagement of the overdrive takes place automatically at a speed of 40 miles an hour, which means that it is in use a very large percentage of the time in touring. In other words, the instant the car is going 40 miles an hour, the application of a given amount of power to the rear axle is attained with 30 per cent fewer engine revolutions than in conventional drive, together with astounding smoothness."

The overdrive unit is standard equipment on the Airflow Imperial and Airflow Custom Imperial and is optional at a slight extra cost on the Airflow Eight.

Midwest Auto League Reports Serving More Than 5000 Car Owners

The Midwest Auto League of St. Louis, Wednesday night, celebrated its first birthday at the Roosevelt Hotel with a dinner and entertainment for members and a few guests.

Ned Rose acted as master of ceremonies, and the speakers were: Dr. H. S. Ehrenreich, staff physician of the league; J. A. Razorsky, former member of the State Legislature; W. L. Quirk, of the Parole Office; Carl Deister, of the City Marshal's Office; Ian Watson, prosecutor for City Court No. 5; Marion X. Morris, attorney, Thomas B. Ruffin, W. I. Levi and H. F. Chenot.

A statement read at the dinner said that the league in the year:

Satisfactorily completed more than 2400 emergency service calls.

Adjusted, free of charge, 716 sets of brakes for members.

Refunded hundreds of out-of-town bills and service bills.

Paid every emergency doctor and hospital bill presented.

Furnished representation to members on criminal charges.

Defended, represented or paid costs in over 700 traffic violation cases.

Furnished without cost bail bonds in more than 260 cases.

Collected thousands of dollars in claims for members.

Has now pending more than 100 cases in litigation for members.

Has saved members approximately $2,600 in discounts on purchases.

Has served 3500 persons for auto license service.

"Finally, we are serving and satisfying more than 5000 automobile owners, extending our service not only to include every letter of our contract, but stepping beyond nearly every day, to perform hundreds of favors, render advice and assistance without cost."

Buying Tires Now Economical, Says Goodyear Executive

It is motoring economy to equip cars with new tires now, according to George Kemmerer, manager here for Goodyear Service, Inc.

"There is reason to believe that business is now going ahead and upward," Kemmerer says. "Confidence in the outlook seems to have been definitely renewed. This confidence has been reflected in the cities and on the farms. Statistics show that the income of the agricultural sections of the country today is about 40 per cent over a year ago. Retail figures show that retailers in the first two weeks of February enjoyed a 25 per cent increase over the same period of 1933.

"During the last six weeks, with prices increasing, and freight car loadings, steel production, electric power consumption, employment and payrolls exceeding a year ago by comfortable margins, the new year is away to a healthy start.

"The sincere interest shown in the new car models at the automobile shows over the country, and the actual buying of cars, clearly indicate a substantial upward trend. The automobile factories in Detroit and other cities report heavy orders.

"As the year progresses, government plans and policies should help effect continued improvement, resulting in a total 1934 volume of business considerably above the 1933 figures.

"Naturally with prices in practically all lines advancing, and this applies to rubber, cotton and other materials going into tires, in addition to a recent increase in the wages of tire workers at Goodyear, it is obvious that tire prices are due for another advance. It means a stroke of economy on the part of the car owner to buy tires now."

Motorists Use Tires Far Beyond the Safe Mileage Built in Them

That motorists in the last three years have been demanding service of tires far in excess of the safe mileage built into them is reflected in a study of increase in tire life since 1926.

In 1926, according to the United States Rubber Co., the life of the average tire was 1.53 years. In 1927 the figure rose to 1.61. In 1928 it stood at 1.70. And in 1929 it climbed to 1.90. These yearly increases, steady though not sensational, indicate a constant improvement in tire quality.

But in 1930 the life of the average tire jumped to 2.50 years, in 1931 it mounted to 2.70, and in 1932 it ascended to 3.05. This rate of increase was much too rapid, according to the rubber company, to be prompted solely by improvement in quality. It undoubtedly reflects to a great degree, they contend, that motorists were running tires far beyond the safe mileage point.

Viewing the figures from a more technical angle, the company charted the yearly increases, and established the fact that had there been no unusual economic factors to increase tire life in the last three years the average tire today would be used 2.3 years instead of 3.05.

All Ford V-8 Trucks And Commercial Car Types at Exposition

A feature of the Ford exhibit, which will occupy a quarter of the available show space at the St. Louis on Parade Exposition, in connection with the dedication of the new Municipal Auditorium, April 14 to 28, will be a display of the complete line of Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars, all of which have been sold to users.

In addition, the users' trademarks and other advertising carried by hauling units will be on the trucks, as well as the standard colors that each of the many owners of large fleets use.

"The new 1934 Ford V-8 trucks and commercial trucks were announced only a few weeks ago," said M. N. Johnson, St. Louis manager for the Ford Motor Co. commenting upon the fact that the truck display space in the Ford exhibit was virtually all gone.

"We have been forced to limit each fleet owner to only one truck of the new 1934 Ford V-8's that he is buying. But it will make a display interesting to any in the transportation business because of the opportunity to study at first hand how the larger Ford fleet owners are handling their hauling problems."

Ford Company Plans For Care of Visitors To Auditorium Exhibit

The Ford Motor Co. has completed plans for the accommodation of visitors at its exhibit at "St. Louis On Parade" at the dedication of the Municipal Auditorium. There will be 50 men on duty, in addition to a group of uniformed attendants. A dispatcher will be stationed at the southern entrance to supervise the movement of the 150 gunmetal-finished courtesy cars, which will be used to transport Ford guests to and from the Auditorium from points as far as 150 miles.

Ford dealers would purchase the admission tickets for their guests. Especially large delegations are expected from Springfield, Decatur and Carmi, Ill.; Jefferson City, Hannibal, Poplar Bluff and Kirksville, Mo., and points in Kentucky.

The exhibit, which will occupy the southern end of the exhibition hall, will embrace 17 units, including the "Human Ford," a lane where visitors may pitch balls to test safety glass, a Ford car suspended from a wheel and various other interesting displays, and every visitor will receive a medallion embossed with a likeness of the Auditorium. The medallions will be stamped in the presence of the visitors.

The World on Wheels.

At the beginning of 1933 there were 33,602,000 motor vehicles in the world and 8,968,000 miles of highways. America offers nearly 4,000,000 miles of this total and the United States has a mile of good road for every seven cars in operation.

First Aid Stations in Holland.

Upward of 2500 first aid stations are to be erected along the main roads of Holland. The huts will be erected by Dutch societies which plan to install telephones and first aid kits.

Road Accidents Increase in Great Britain.

A total of 6425 lives were lost in 1933 road accidents in England and Wales compared with 5962 in 1932. Injuries increased from 188,680 to 198,610.

West (Tex.) Bank Robbed of $1800.

WEST, Tex., March 31. — The State National Bank here was held up and robbed of $1800 this morning. Although only one man entered the bank it was believed he had confederates in waiting in the automobile in which he escaped.

Here and There on the Air

By James L. Spencer.

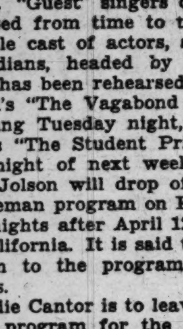
KSD Schedules New Programs.

John Barclay.

AN ATTEMPT to surpass anything previously done in operettas by radio will be made in the weekly series on KSD and the WEAF network that will begin Tuesday night, at 9 o'clock. A full hour will be devoted to each operetta, and Gladys Swarthout of the Metropolitan Opera, will sing the leading feminine role whenever it is suited to her voice. The name "Paul Oliver" familiar to KSD listeners from the days when Paul Oliver and Olive Palmer were Wednesday night favorites, has been revived for the leading tenor. "Guest" singers of note will be used from time to time, and a notable cast of actors, singers and comedians, headed by John Barclay, has been rehearsed for weeks. Friml's "The Vagabond King" will be sung Tuesday night, and Romberg's "The Student Prince" Tuesday night of next week.

Al Jolson will drop off the Paul Whiteman program on KSD Thursday nights after April 12 for a trip to California. It is said that he will return to the program in a few weeks.

Eddie Cantor is to leave the Rubinoff program for the spring and summer in a week or two. His place will be taken by Jimmy Durante.



Al Trahan.

AL TRAHAN, the Broadway comedian, Graham McNamee and Lennie Hayton's orchestra last night took over the 9 to 9:30 period Saturday nights on KSD and the WEAF net. Trahan has long been an outstanding performer on the New York and London stages. A quartet, headed by "Scrappy" Lambert, also will sing on this program.

Frank Parker, the tenor, who has been singing with the Gypsies on the WEAF chain and KSD, has been engaged as principal soloist for a new series featuring Jack Benny, Mary Livingstone and Don Bestor's orchestra set for 9:30 Friday nights on KSD and the WEAF net, starting this week.

Ed Wynn will probably quit radio in May for a while.

Phillips Lord's weekly broadcasts from his schooner, the Seth Parker, probably will end within a month. After that, he may be heard occasionally through a short wave pick-up as his ship cruises on.

Victor McLaglen and Dorothy Bell, movie actors, are billed with Ben Bernie and his orchestra at 8 o'clock Tuesday night on KSD.

Emily Hardy, a Western soprano, who sang a leading role in the San Francisco performance of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Le Coq d'Or," will be the "guest" on Capt. Dobbsie's Ship of Joy at 8:30 tomorrow night on KSD. She will sing the "Hymn to the Sun."

The Three Jesters and Ray Heatherton, baritone, will be on Mary Small's program at 12:30 noon today on KSD.

Starting April 5, KSD will carry "Stones of History" at 1 o'clock Thursdays. The story of Ireland's Blarney Stone will be told in the opening broadcast. Among other "stones" whose stories will be related with incidental music are the pyramids of Egypt, the Great Wall of China and Plymouth Rock.

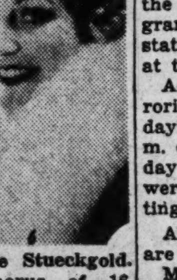
Radio Concerts, Opera and Recitals.

PART of the first act of Gounod's opera, "Romeo and Juliet," will be broadcast from La Scala, Milan, Italy, from 2 to 2:30 Thursday over the WJZ chain, presumably including KWK.



Grete Stueckgold.

Rosa Ponselle, the Metropolitan Opera soprano, will open at 8 o'clock tomorrow night the new series that takes the place of Leopold Stokowski's nightly concerts. There will be three concerts a week. Wednesday night, the singer will be Grete Stueckhold, concert soprano. Nino Martini, radio and Metropolitan Opera tenor, will sing Friday nights. The singers will be supported by a large orchestra, and a chorus of 16 voices, directed by Andre Kostelanetz.

Lily Pons, of the Metropolitan Opera, will be the soloist in the symphony concert at 5 o'clock today on the WJZ net and KWK. Tullio Serafin, of the Metropolitan, will conduct. Mlle. Pons will sing an aria from "Linda di Chamounix" and the "Mad Scene" from "Lucia di Lammermoor" with the Metropolitan Opera chorus.

Arturo Toscanini has programmed the Brahms Second Symphony and Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra concert at 2 o'clock today on KMOX. George Gershwin will be the speaker in the intermission.

Vladimir Horowitz will be soloist with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra at 1:30 tomorrow on the CBS chain. Leopold Stokowski will conduct Bach's "Brandenburg" Concerto for piano, flute, violin and orchestra, the Beethoven "Egmont" overture, the Beethoven "Emperor" concerto and three pieces by Bach.

Leola Turner, who has sung with the Chicago Civic Opera and at La Scala, Milan, will sing on the In a Garden program at 4:15 Sundays on the WEAF chain and the Words and Music program at 1:45 Wednesday and Thursdays on the WJZ net.

John Charles Thomas, the baritone, will sing the "Di Provenza" aria from "La Traviata" in his concert at 8:30 Wednesday night on KWK.

Ernest Hutcheson, the pianist, will have a full hour on the CBS chain next Sunday night, from 8:30 to 9:30, so that he may play the Tschaikowsky Concerto in B-flat Minor as well as a Chopin group. His regular recital tonight on the CBS net will begin at 8:30.

Lucrezia Bori.

NEXT Saturday afternoon's opera broadcast will come from Boston, and will bring a performance of "Pelleas and Melisande" with Lucrezia Bori in the role of Melisande. The broadcast will begin at 12:50, and will be carried by KSD and KWK. This opera, Debussy's setting of the story by Maeterlinck, the Belgian writer, is of poetic beauty.

Two hour-long concerts will be given by Frank Black's symphony orchestra at [illegible] o'clock tomorrow night and on April 9 on the WJZ chain. Tomorrow night's concert will bring "Im Kriege," by Goedicke, a Russian composer; Balakirew's overture based on a Spanish march theme by Glinka; Liadoff's "Dance of the Amazons" and a suite in five movements by Ilyinski. The "Im Kriege" suite is based on descriptions of modern war found in the diary of a Russian soldier who was killed in action. It is described as remarkably impressionistic music.

"Tales from the Vienna Woods" and other waltz music by Johann Strauss will be played by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting, at 8:30 Tuesday night on KMOX and the CBS net. The concert will conclude with the "Emperor Waltz."

A sixteenth century harmonic comedy, "L'Amfiparnaso," by Vecchi, will be sung by the Dessorf Choirs on the CBS chain at 3:15 tomorrow. It is a five-part madrigal, in three acts and 14 scenes.

Carlos Gardel, the Argentinian singer, has begun a Wednesday and Friday night series on the WJZ chain of songs of his country. The time is 7:45 each night.

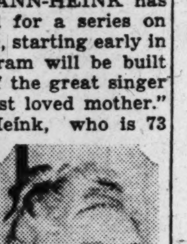
Network News, Studio Gossip.



Schumann-Heink.

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK has been engaged for a series on an NBC chain, starting early in May. The program will be built around the idea of the great singer as "the world's best loved mother." Mme. Schuman-Heink, who is 73 years old, has eight children, 11 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Babe Ruth will go from the ball park three days a week, starting Monday, April 16, to discuss the day's game, talk to boys on how to play baseball, and take part in a dramatized episode in his life. His talks will be picked up in the various cities in which he is playing. The playlet will be blended into the programs from the Radio City studios.

T. S. Stribling, the author, has written a radio serial, "Conflict," which will be broadcast by the CBS chain Tuesday and Thursday nights, starting April 10. The subject is the struggle between the railroads and the steamboats in the '90s.

Victor Young's orchestra and Frank Parker, tenor on the Gypsies program, have been engaged for a series at 9 o'clock Sunday nights, beginning April 8. It is said that the announcements on these programs will be limited to simple statements identifying the sponsor at the beginning and the end.

Actual instances of gangland terrorism will be depicted in the Today's Children programs at 9:30 a. m. daily except Saturday and Sunday on the WJZ chain. The facts were supplied by a Chicago prosecuting attorney.

Al and Pete, singing comedians, are on WLW at 7:15 Monday nights.

Margaret Carlisle, well-known to Municipal Opera audiences here, has joined the staff of WLW, Cincinnati (700 kc). She is singing with John Barker, bartine, at 9:30 Wednesday nights. This week she will sing Romberg's "Sweethearts."

The Vagabonds, Herald, Dean and Curt, who sang over KMOX and for nearly three years have been featured by WSM, Nashville, will shift to WGY, Schenectady (790), on May 1.

The programs featuring Dr. Herman N. Bundeson, head of the Chicago Board of Health, shift to 8:45 Sunday nights on the WJZ chain and KWK, starting today.

Jim Fettis' orchestra, a Philadelphia ballroom band, will play on the CBS net at 3 o'clock Saturdays.

George Arliss is billed among entertainers for an hour-long broadcast from New York and Hollywood over KSD and the WEAF net, slated for Saturday night, April 14.

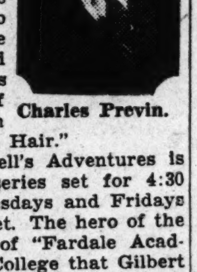
Previn Takes Over Program.



Charles Previn.

ALBERT SALVI and his nine harpists will be the "guests" at 5 o'clock today on KWK and the WJZ chain when Charles Previn becomes director of this program. Previn's orchestra is to play "classical music in the popular style and popular music in the classical manner." His program today includes Herbert's "Badinage," Brahms' Waltz in A-flat, Ellington's "Sophisticated Lady," the intermezzo to "Jewels of the Madonna" and Foster's "I Dream of Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair."

Frank Merriwell's Adventures is the title of a series set for 4:30 Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays on the WEAF net. The hero of the 270 odd stories of "Fardale Academy" and Yale College that Gilbert Patten wrote between 1896 and 1914 has been brought up to date for the programs.

Public Discussions of Interest on Air.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, Glenn Frank, president of Wisconsin University, Newton D. Baker, Senator Royal S. Copeland and Governors of several states will speak during broadcasts this week from the Citizens' Conference on the Crisis in Education to be held in Columbus, O. The first broadcast is set for 5 o'clock Thursday on KSD and the WEAF net. The speakers will include Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana; Glenn Frank, and Gov. George White of Ohio. Mrs. Roosevelt and Senator Copeland will speak during the Farm and Home hour on KWK at 11:30 Friday morning. Newton D. Baker, Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, and Dorothy Canfield Fisher, writer, will speak at 9:15 Friday night on the WJZ chain.

The Wagner Labor bill will be discussed during the Chicago University Round Table at 11:30 this morning on WMAQ (670).

At 9:30 Wednesday night, the CBS chain will carry the first of a series planned under the title, "The Republican Reaction." Congressman Beedy of Maine, will be the speaker.

The first public statement by George N. Peek since he was appointed foreign trade adviser to the President is expected at 9:30 Thursday night on the WJZ net.

Gene and Glenn are to return to a WEAF network in the East at 6:15 p. m. and on Midwest stations at 10:15 the first five week days, but will start April 23 instead of tomorrow as originally scheduled.

The Roses and Drums dramas will go off the air after June 3, but will be broadcast again in the fall.

More Short Wave Data for Listeners.

INFORMATION from Eastern listeners on short wave broadcasts from foreign countries, which supplements the listing of such stations and their broadcasting hours printed in this section last Sunday, follows:

RNE, Moscow, is reported broadcasting from 7:30 to 9 a. m. Saturdays on 12 megacycles. RKF and RV59, Moscow, are often on the air from 1 to 4 p. m. on 6 megacycles.

The big station at Rome, Italy, 2RO, is reported as broadcasting continuously from 10:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. This station has a woman announcer, and broadcasts much fine music.

HVJ, the Vatican station at Rome, is reported broadcasting only 15 minutes daily, between 1 and 1:15 p. m. on 5.96 meg. Announcements are in Italian.

Two Argentine stations are reported heard—LSY at almost any hour on 18.11 meg. and LSX, at night on 10.35 meg.

Radio Listening Test Tonight.

"VOTING BY RADIO," as developed by Dr. Nevil M. Hopkins, New York scientist, is to be given its first test under actual broadcasting conditions tonight by WOR, Newark, N. J., the Associated Press reports. Dr. Hopkins' apparatus consists of sensitive meters and other apparatus used to check power line consumption when listeners are asked to press buttons in keeping with broadcast instructions.

However, for tonight's test, which will be made during a regular program at 8:45, each listener in Essex County, New Jersey, and vicinity, in which 565,000 persons owning 32,000 radio sets reside, will be asked merely to turn on an extra 40-watt electric light in their homes. Meters at the power plants will be checked to show the current drain increase, and from their readings it is hoped to obtain data for further research.

WLW Using 500,000 Watts Day and Night.

WGN, CHICAGO (720), is supposed to be broadcasting now with 50,000 watts power, an increase of 25,000 watts. WLW, Cincinnati (700), has been using up to 500,000 watts power day and night recently on an experimental basis, the idea being to prove to the Federal Radio Commission that broadcasting with such power will not mar reception of stations on nearby channels and will not "blanket" other stations for listeners. If WLW finally wins permission to use the full power of its new transmitter, a precedent will be set that may profoundly influence the development of broadcasting in this country.

Meat Packers Start Broadcasts.

TODAY the meat packing industry starts taking its case to listeners. At 3 o'clock, WMAQ (670) and Eastern stations will carry a dramatic program called "The Romance of Meat." At 3:15, KWK and WLS (870) will broadcast the first of a series designed to explain to farmers and consumers the problems of the packers. Today's speaker will be Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the Institute of American Meat Packers' Committee to Confer With Livestock Producers.

Clara, Lu and 'Em are on the WEAF chain, at 9:15 mornings except Saturday and Sunday.

First broadcast description of activities between the farm and the Chicago wheat pit and in the pit itself is set for 11:30 next Saturday morning on the CBS chain.

The "Spanning the World" programs, designed to explain methods of communication, will begin at 3:15 Thursday on the CBS net. Use of the overseas telephone service will be demonstrated first.

Adventures of firemen, policemen, window washers, steeple-jacks, engineers, riveters, ocean pilots, divers, traffic "cops" and bank guards will be related at 4 o'clock Fridays on the WJZ net. A New York hook and ladder truck driver will be interviewed on the first program by William Lundell.

HOUSE GROUP FAVORS 40 PCT. CUT IN U. S. TOBACCO TAX

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Recommendation by a House Ways and Means subcommittee of a horizontal reduction of 40 per cent in the Federal tobacco tax was predicted today by Representative Vinson (Dem.), Kentucky, chairman, after the group completed hearings.

Vinson said he thought the subcommittee was "sold" on the reduction but indicated there might be opposition in the full Ways and Means Committee because of possible loss of revenue.

Vinson contends tobacco has borne more than a fair share of the tax load. He said that, if consumption of cigarettes continued through this year at the increased rate reported, the Treasury would receive $65,000,000 more for 1934 than for 1933 from tobacco taxes, at the present rate of $3 a thousand for cigarettes.

Vinson suggests the 1932 tobacco tax revenue as a base. He considers that year's total of about $387,000,000 "outrageous and beyond reason." His estimate is that 1934 revenue may exceed that total by $167,000,000.

He thinks "that, if the tax were reduced 40 per cent, so that standard brand cigarettes could sell for 10 cents and 10-cent brands for 7½ or two packs for 15 cents, there would be additional revenues . . . toward making up any apparent deficit."

The question was taken up yesterday by the Senate Finance Committee. Senator Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, chairman, expressed doubt the tax could be changed in the pending tax bill.

Vinson estimates tax reduction would save consumers $122,500,000 a year and benefit growers.

TRYING TO SAVE MAN WHO FLED FROM PRISON IN 1910

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, March 31.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, British racing motorist, has returned from Windhoek, having abandoned his search for a gold reef in the Namieb Desert, along the coast between Luderitz and Walvis Bay. He was unable to reach the reef by airplane, it was earned today, and the journey afoot would mean a 100-mile trek through the desert.

Efforts of Alberta residents to obtain leniency for Fahey have been redoubled. In Jasper, home of the respected Fahey family, citizens circulated petitions and contributed to a defense fund in the hope the man might be saved from a return to the United States prison where he was serving a term for the alleged robbery of the mails at Omaha.

Prayers on behalf of the Fahey family were offered from a crowded church auditorium in Jasper.

Deafened Discover New Way To Hear At Local Demonstrations

The deafened of St. Louis are learning at daily demonstrations in Aloe's Optical Co., 707 Olive St., that they can hear again. Electro-acoustic engineers have perfected a simple, inconspicuous instrument which carries sound direct to the auditory nerves, through bone conduction.

Deafened people, once able to hear only with extreme effort and discomfort, hear conversation from all sides and as far away as ten feet clearly, naturally and without the slightest nervous strain. They enjoy concerts, radio, talkies, church services and the theatre.

Hearing is clear, true, strong and comfortable. This instrument, the New Amplified Bone Conduction Acousticon, is very reasonably priced and sold on a generous trade-in allowance and easy monthly payment plan, if desired.

Call at Aloe's Optical Co. for free demonstration or write for complete information and booklet "Defeating Deafness."

ZINC PRICES RANGE LOWER IN THE JOPLIN MARKET

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., March 31.—Zinc prices in the Joplin market ranged downward this week, with the range from $28 to $30 a ton, compared with $30 in the previous week.

Lead was unchanged at $40 a ton for small lots up to $42.50 for carload consignments.

Zinc purchase for the week was reported at 5880 tons, while production was approximately 6000 tons.

Output for the coming week is problematical. It was not indicated tonight how many companies will adopt the four-day week, in line with a code proposed for the zinc industry. Several mines plan to close plants for part of the coming month as a step to keep production down.

INTEREST RATE CUT, RAIL BOND SALE ABOVE PAR AUTHORIZED

WASHINGTON, March 31.—A sale of railroad bonds above par and reduction of their interest rate—almost unheard of since the depression started—was authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. was given authority to sell to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. of New York $1,200,000 of general and refunding mortgage bonds of the Northern Central Railway Co., a subsidiary.

The interest rate was reduced from 5 to 4½ per cent and permission given to sell at not less than 100.375 and accrued interest.

WEEKLY LUMBER SUMMARY

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Another increase in new business reported by 1349 lumber mills for the week ending March 24 was shown today in the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association compilations. Orders for the week totaled 213,897,000 feet compared with 206,332,000 feet for the previous week.

Production, however, dropped from 210,329,000 feet to 203,899,000 feet, while shipments jumped to 186,275,000 feet compared with 180,006,000 feet for the previous week.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, March 31.—(United States Department of Agriculture.)—Continued quiet trade in the wool market was accompanied by a weaker sentiment regarding wool prices during the past week. Most grades of domestic wools were quoted nominally about unchanged from last week, but some holders were more willing than in recent weeks to consider bids below asking prices. Concessions were made quite freely on odd lots and clean-up sales. The easing tendency was most prominent in fleeces, the 48s, 50s, ¼ blood grade being offered at lower prices.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY STOCKYARDS.

HOGS—Receipts Saturday 250. Not enough on sale to test the market. A few 180-250s sold at $4.30@4.40. For the week market steady to somewhat lower.

CATTLE—Closing prices are not much changed from the preceding week except in veals. This class is 25c lower although at one time during the week a loss of 50c was recorded. The cattle trade opened the week on a lower basis but later an advance wiped this loss out. No strictly choice cattle were offered during the week and best sales were made around $6@6.25. Bulk of the steer and mixed yearling supply graded around medium and sales appeared chiefly at $4.50@5.75. Choice kinds are quotable up to $7. Beef cows generally cleared at $3@3.75, canners and cutters $1.25@2.75. Top bulls finished at $3.40 and top veal calves $6.75.

SHEEP—The general selling level for lambs at the close of the current week is somewhat easier than the preceding week's end. Sheep maintained an unchanged level throughout. Quotations at the close are as follows: Good to choice spring lambs $10@12.50; good to choice wooled lambs $8.50@9.50; medium to good $7.50@8.50, culls $5.50@7.50; good to choice fall shorn lambs $7.25@7.75; good to choice fresh shorn lambs $7@7.50.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 31.—March in the financial markets broke with tradition by beginning and also ending like a lamb—a lamb, furthermore, disinclined to stray.

Prices of principal securities and staples showed little change during the past week, and extraordinarily little change compared with the end of February.

The Standard Statistics Co. price index of 90 representative stocks finished the month at 85.4, up .4 of a point from a week ago, but just where it was a month ago. The index based on both speculative and non-speculative stables finished at 69.2, likewise unchanged from a month ago, and .1 of a point below a week ago.

The price index of 60 representative corporate bonds finished a trifle better than a month ago, at 84.9, compared with 83.9 at the end of February, and 85 a week ago. These index figures are all based on the 1926 average as 100.

Among the factors tending to keep markets in an extraordinarily narrow trading area have been the uncertainties surrounding the course of legislation in Washington, the tussles with labor controversies, efforts to re-vamp the NRA, and the tendency of industry to reach its seasonal peak of production late in March or in April.

Investors in this period have found probable corporate earnings extremely difficult to calculate, and speculators have been prompted by the impending control legislation to curtail their activities.

In the past week, any relief which speculative quarters may have felt at the adjustment of the automobile labor controversy, was largely offset by President Roosevelt's warning against weakening of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill to control the security markets.

President and Exchange.

The President made it clear that the administration is not looking for recovery by way of bullish operations in securities. He called for such margin requirements as would drastically curtail speculation, even as it now exists. Stock exchange quarters tried to rally their forces to persuade Congress to make further modifications in the bill, but Wall street was inclined to conclude that the stage was now set for severe regulation.

The overriding of the President's veto of the independent offices bill, tending to disrupt the economy program, so far as ordinary Government expenditures were concerned, was followed by a short-lived upturn in shares and in staples. The pound sterling strengthened against the dollar but the European gold currencies failed to rally.

Silver rallied for a time. The silverites lacked conviction, so far as the market was concerned, however, and silver bullion actually lost ⅛ of a cent an ounce, net, for the week.

Cotton made little response to the passage in the Senate of the Bankhead compulsory crop control bill, but finished virtually unchanged from a week ago, while wheat lost a cent and more a bushel.

The steel industry, and several miscellaneous manufacturing plants, joined the automobile makers with with a 10 per cent wage increase, although the steel companies failed to follow the auto companies in cutting working hours 10 per cent.

Steel and automobile production showed little change during the week. The weekly report of freight car loadings registered some recession, owing to smaller movement of fuel and grain, but electric power production continued to expand, contra-seasonally.

Discussions in Washington of measures to stimulate the durable or capital goods lines, now responsible for most of the unemployment, attracted attention. The plans of making direct loans to smaller manufacturers received considerable notice, and steps to spur building were discussed.

Rally at Week End.

Stocks closed out the year's first quarter with a rally Saturday, extending the improvement they had made Thursday.

Trading was not particularly active until the last half hour, except for several specialties in which professionals were reported interested. Toward the close, however, an increased demand was noted for steel and other industrial issues, and this section finished with numerous net gains of one to around four points. Rails mostly loitered and utilities eased a bit. Transactions totaled 814,510 shares.

Metal equities participated in the upturn. Around closing time it was learned that some steel prices were being advanced, a reflection of larger operating costs incident to another wage increase as well as to higher quotations for materials, and no doubt the late buying in stocks representative of that industry was in part due to this effort of producers to offset rising expenditures.

Also, it was assumed that customers of the steel companies would hasten to book orders against price increases.

Bethlehem was the strongest steel stock, up 3⅛ net. For U. S. Steel, National, Vanadium, McKeesport, Youngstown, Republic and American Rolling Mill gains averaged about a point.

Some of the aircrafts, aviation equipment and amusement issues were given a run for advances of fractions to around a point.

Foreign exchanges, easy most of the day, moved up in final dealings. The British pound ended with a gain of 1½ cents at $5.14½ and French francs firmed .01¾ of a cent at 6.59 cents. Dutch guilders advanced .15 of a cent to 67½ cents and Belgian belgas and Swiss francs were up .07 and .06 of a cent, respectively. Canadian dollars were unchanged at par.

Day's Ten Most Active Stocks.

Closing price and net change of the 10 most active stocks: Sperry Corp. 11, up 1⅛; Aviation Corp 8¾, up 1; Tex Pac Land Tr 10⅞, up 1⅛; Baldwin 14½, up 1; Servel 8⅛, up ¼; Gen Motors 38⅛, up ¾; Warner Bros Pict 7⅛, up ⅛; Gen Electric 22⅜, up ¾; Beth Steel 43, up 3⅛; Montg Ward 31⅞, up ⅝.

U. S. STEEL SUBSIDIARY RAISES PRICES ON SOME PRODUCTS

NEW YORK, March 31.—Illinois Steel Co., a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, today advanced prices on several of its products, partly because of wage increases to mill workers. Announcement of the new schedules was made by the American Iron & Steel Institute. Quotations on re-rolling blooms, billets and slabs were raised $3 a gross ton to $29 a ton and on sheet bars $4 to $30 a ton, effective April 10.

In connection with the advance the company informed the Institute that "wage rates in all producing departments have been increased, including that effective April 1 by upwards of 35 per cent, and in addition the cost of many materials and supplies purchased and used in manufacture have likewise largely increased, such increases being from 20 per cent to 40 per cent."

Home Owner's Loan 4s.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Home Owners' Loan Corporation 4s listed on the New York Produce Exchange sold to the amount of $6000 Saturday. The high was 99, low 98⅞ and close 99.

STIX, BAER & FULLER REPORTS PROFIT FOR FISCAL YEAR

Improvement in Last Six Months of 1933—Sales Volume so Far in 1934 Above Year Ago.

Stix, Baer & Fuller Co. reports net earnings of $6589 for the year ended Jan. 31, compared with an operating loss of $203,338 the year before. The gross profit on sales was $4,163,237 and operating expenses, interest and depreciation charges totaled $4,156,648.

Aaron Fuller, president of the company, commenting on the year's showing, said that sales volume for the fiscal year 1934 to date has shown a marked improvement over the corresponding period of 1933. He added: "During the first six months of 1933, when all business activities were at the lowest ebb in the country's history, retail business of the nation passed through a most difficult period. The St. Louis area was further handicapped during the summer months, by an epidemic of encephalitis. Stix, Baer and Fuller Company was able to counteract the influence of these handicaps and show a net profit for the year. This was the result of a greatly improved operation for the last six months of the period—an improvement that gained in momentum with each succeeding month."

Current assets are listed at $4,909,375, and current liabilities at $625,259. Current assets include $705,924 in cash and $615,103 in U. S. and municipal bonds.

CLEARING HOUSE BANKS SHOW DEPOSIT INCREASE

Latter Rose $30,678,417 Between Dec. 30 and March 5—Loans $8,119,478 Less.

A decline in loans and discounts and an increase in deposits is shown in a statement published yesterday by the Clearing House, reporting the condition of its member banks as of March 5.

Loans and discounts of $138,795,378 totaled $8,119,478 less than on Dec. 30, and deposits of $415,696,897 represented an increase of $30,678,417. Bonds, stocks and premiums totaled $200,680,310, an increase of $32,689,737, and cash and exchange on hand increased by $6,131,824 to a total of $117,928,988.

Total resources of the banks were $467,395,109, an increase of $30,744,279. The association has seven full members and five associate members.

COTTON MARKET CLOSED FROM THURSDAY; EASTER HOLIDAY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Mid-week declines in cotton, carrying prices 32 to 35 points under the closing levels of a week ago, attributed to various legislative uncertainties, were virtually recovered in Thursday's trading. Passage of the Bankhead cotton control bill by the Senate, easiness of the dollar in foreign exchange and improvement in the technical position following the recent liquidation, were said to have been contributing factors on the recovery.

Some hesitancy was noted, however, pending further possible changes in the Bankhead bill when it goes to conference owing to differences in the measure as passed by the House and Senate. July contracts closed the week at 12.13 as compared with 12.16 a week earlier.

Settlement of the labor difficulties in the automobile industry accounted for a moderate recovery early in the week but prices were again under the influence of foreign and domestic liquidation.

The market derived little or no incentive from reports of continued quiet conditions both in the cotton goods markets and in spot cotton centers in the South. Crop preparations in the South were said to have been delayed somewhat because of rather general rains and cold weather, although heavy precipitation in the West was regarded as aiding over-winter moisture deficiency in some sections. Little cotton was said to have been planted thus far east of the Mississippi River.

Closing prices Thursday, last session day, were: May 12.01, July 12.13@14, October 12.28, December 12.38, January 12.43, March 12.56, middling 12.20.

CHICAGO COTTON MARKET

CHICAGO, March 31.—Cotton futures closed higher on the local market today while New York and New Orleans trading was suspended for Easter holidays.

Cotton was moderately active today. Final prices on the Board of Trade were four to nine points net higher. With New York, New Orleans and Liverpool closed, prices at Chicago opened unchanged to one point higher and prices kept within narrow ranges. Cotton closed slightly higher.

DIVIDEND MEETING RESULTS

NEW YORK, March 31.—Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation has declared a dividend of 25 cents a share, the first payment since 50 cents was disbursed on Feb. 16, 1931. The company, said directors, would again consider payment of a dividend in six months. President France stated that although the 1933 report will show a net loss of $1,766,438, the company had a profit in the final six months of last year and would also have a profit for the first quarter of 1934. The dividend is payable May 15 to stock of record April 11.

WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Although a slight decline was reported in the official estimate of steel ingot production for the week at 45.7 per cent of capacity, trade reports indicated a more cheerful outlook, following settlement of the automobile strike.

Orders from automobile manufacturers which had tapered off recovered repidly and heavier demand from railroads continued. The further advance of 10 per cent in wages announced by most of the mills created the impression that rises in steel prices might follow, although finished quotation sand pig iron were unchanged for the week.

Reports that the draft of the code for the copper industry was nearing completion brought in a little better inquiry for copper, with prices holding steady at the basis of 8 cents for electrolytic. Continued good demand from abroad was reported at slightly better than the domestic price levels. Some uncertainty was caused, however, by the German embargo against copper imports. Germany was recently a good buyer here.

Tin advanced almost a cent per pound, during the week in sympathy with firmness at London and higher sterling exchange. Consumers limited purchases in face of reports of increased tin-plate mill operations, which have now recovered to an estimated 80 per cent of capacity.

A good demand for lead continued from practically all branches of the consuming trades, but prices remained unchanged. Favorable developments in the automobile industry aided sentiment. Cable makers, however, have withheld purchass.

Zinc declined $1.50 per ton during the week as the result of poor demand from consumers. The lower levels failed to attract increased inquiry. The decline was in the face of unchanged ore prices, although some in the trade were anticipating downward revisions at the close of the week.

Antimony maintained its recent advances, although business has been limited to small lots.

LATE RALLY AND HIGHER CLOSE IN WHEAT TRADE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 31.—Wheat futures rallied in the late trading at the week-end as securities picked up and May closed ⅜c net higher after recovering a ½c decline. The early market followed Chicago down, prices there being influenced by lower corn prices, among other factors.

Winnipeg closed 3@½c net higher. Liverpool was closed for Easter.

May wheat opened at 83⅜c, down ⅛c.

Local wheat receipts (2 days) which were 69,000 bu., compared with 52,500 last week and 73,500 last year (2 days) included 30 cars local and 16 through. Corn receipts (2 days) which were 75,000 bu., compared with 52,500 last week and 193,500 last year (2 days), included 20 cars local and 30 through. Oat receipts (2 days) which were 20,000 bu., compared with 24,000 last week and 48,000 last year (2 days) included 10 cars through. Hay receipts (2 days) were 5 cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was unchanged to ½c lower. Hard wheat was steady. There was a fair supply of soft wheat on sale and trading was quite active. Elevators furnished the main outlet. There was not much hard wheat available. Inquiry improved somewhat. Corn was 1@1½c lower. Offerings were light and the demand slow, with buyers and sellers apart in price views. Only one car sold. Oats were unchanged. There was not enough on sale to determine the extent of the demand. A mill bought the only car sold.

Red wheat was unchanged to ½c lower and hard wheat steady. Corn was 1@1½c lower and oats were unchanged.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange Saturday were as follows:

CORN: No. 2 yellow, 47½c.

BRISK UPTURN IN GRAIN PRICES LATE IN DAY

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 31.—Brisk upturns of grain prices late today much more than offset earlier losses, and accompanied rumor of an expected stimulating announcement by President Roosevelt.

In one quarter, talk was current that the Roosevelt announcement would relate to national finances, and would be made on his return to Washington. Late rallies in securities helped the sudden reversal from weakness to strength in grains.

Wheat closed firm at the day's top figures, ½ to 1 cent above Thursday's finish, corn at ⅝@⅞c advance, oats unchanged to ¼c off, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 12 cents.

At first, the grain markets showed a downward trend, influnced by reports of moisture in wheat territory both Southwest and Northwest. Another temporary bearish factor was uncertainty as to effects of the new national grain code and of proposed restrictive laws for stock and commodity exchanges. Something of a selling flurry in the corn futures trade acted also as a transient weight on wheat values and was asserted to display earmarks of liquidation.

Corn tumbled temporarily almost a cent a bushel to a new low on the current downturn, and touched within 3¾ cents of the season's bottom level. Enlarged receipts of corn attracted notice, today's arrivals of corn in Chicago totaling 152 cars, against 93 a week ago and 113 at this time last year. All bearish factors, however, went into eclipse when the stock market rallied, and the attention of traders focused on possibility of a striking new move by President Roosevelt.

Oats prices broke early with corn, and then rallied with wheat. Exporters said the corn market was far out of line for business overseas.

Prospective better demand for meats next week helped to steady the provision market.

the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 31.—Brisk upturns of ain prices late today much more than set earlier losses, and accompanied ru-r of an expected stimulating announce-nt by President Roosevelt.

In one quarter, talk was current that Roosevelt announcement would relate national finances, and would be made his return to Washington. Late ral-s in securities helped the sudden rever-from weakness to strength in grains.

Wheat closed firm at the day's top fig-s, ½ to 1 cent above Thursday's finish, n at ⅝@⅞c advance, oats unchanged ¼c off, and provisions varying from 2 ts decline to a rise of 12 cents.

At first, the grain markets showed a wnward trend, influnced by reports of isture in wheat territory both Southwest d Northwest. Another temporary bear-factor was uncertainty as to effects of new national grain code and of pro-sed restrictive laws for stock and com-dity exchanges. Something of a selling rry in the corn futures trade acted also a transient weight on wheat values and s asserted to display earmarks of liquida-n.

Corn tumbled temporarily almost a cent bushel to a new low on the current wnturn, and touched within 3¾ cents the season's bottom level. Enlarged re-pts of corn attracted notice, today's ar-als of corn in Chicago totaling 152 cars, ainst 93 a week ago and 113 at this e last year. All bearish factors, how-er, went into eclipse when the stock rket rallied, and the attention of trad-s focused on possibility of a striking w move by President Roosevelt.

Oats prices broke early with corn, and en rallied with wheat. Exporters said corn market was far out of line for siness overseas.

Prospective better demand for meats next ek helped to steady the provision mar-.

CORPORATION STATEMENTS

NEW YORK, March 31.—American Machine & Foundry reports net profit of $716,909 for 1933, equal to 72 cents a share, compared with $1,117,680, or $1.12 a share in 1932.

BOND MARKET DULL, CHANGES ARE SMALL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 31.—The bond market displayed its customary pre-Easter lethargy today and price changes, generally, were of an inconsequential character.

Transfers were only slightly ahead of last Saturday, when the aggregate was the lowest since December. Today's total was $6,103,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues was unchanged at 84.9. On the week this average was down one-tenth of a point.

A number of rail liens rallied moderately in late dealings, probable reflecting a belated recovery in stocks. Freight car loadings for the previous week, however, recorded a more than seasonal decline due to lower coal and grain shipments.

The more active carrier bonds with gains of fractions to around a point included some of Alleghany Corporation, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Nickel Plate, Frisco, Southern, Union Pacific and Wabash. There were also a number of minor declines in the transportation section.

Loans of U. S. Rubber, Texas Corporation, Chile Copper and some others improved mildly. Warner Bros. 6s were the liveliest of the session, 143 of these changing hands at an advance of 2¼ points. Most of the utilities were easier, apparently reflecting national and state inquiries into various corporation activities.

U. S. Government securities were dull and slightly mixed. There was a tendency to postpone extensive commitments in this department pending announcement of the Treasury's April 15 financing terms.

Some of the German bonds recovered one to two points on the news that the Reich would pay the United States some on postponed installments due under provisions of the debt agreement covering fixed claims. Improvement was also shown by loans of Dutch East Indies, Denmark and Cuba.

CHANGES ARE NARROW ON CURB EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Changes were narrow in today's short curb market session. Metals and oils improved mildly while leading alcohols and utilities were steady. A few specialties advanced in small volume.

The trading pace, which was slow, increased slightly in the last few minutes of dealings. Transfers approximated 188,000 shares, compared with 165,000 for last Saturday.

Natomas company rose 2½ points.

Chicago Stock Market

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 31.—Total stock sales for the week amounted to $167,000 shares, compared with 83,000 corresponding week last year. Bond sales were $3000 compared with $34,000 same period a year ago.

Following is a complete list of securities traded in today, giving sales, high, low and closing prices. Stock sales in full. Bond sales (000) omitted.

SALESMEN, Executive Type

Four trained and experienced salesmen who believe in their own capacity for development; who have the urge and determination to step forward in their profession both in position and earnings. Must be resourceful and ambitious men who will not be thrown out of stride by an opportunity to earn commissions far beyond the possibilities of individual effort. Who is assuming position of leadership will willingly assume the attending obligations to give those under them all they have to give in knowledge, experience and effort. Address Box P-241, Post-Dispatch.

STATE BUILDING BOND ISSUE DRIVE STARTS THIS WEEK

Campaign for New Eleemosynary and Penal Structures Will Open Wednesday.

The State-wide campaign for adoption of the $10,000,000 State bond issue for eleemosynary and penal buildings will be opened at a meeting in the hall of the House of Representatives at Jefferson City at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Gov. Park, who is sponsoring the bond proposal, has received acceptances from leading residents of every county to attend the conference and serve on the non-partisan campaign committee. Albert Bond Lambert of St. Louis is general chairman of the committee, which has opened State headquarters in room 914, 1218 Olive street.

Claude B. Ricketts, who, as a member of Gov. Caulfield's State Survey Commission in 1929, wrote a report on deplorable conditions at Missouri's eleemosynary institutions, is chairman of the Finance Committee. Felix E. Gunter, vice-chairman of the board of the First National Bank in St. Louis, is treasurer. Other officers and committees will be chosen Wednesday.

Governor Will Speak.

The Governor will address the gathering, telling the need for thorough reconstruction and additional building at the overcrowded hospitals and prisons.

The bond issue election will be May 15. The State has applied for a PWA grant of $3,400,000 to augment the bond fund. The following statement was issued by the campaign committee:

"Taxation experts estimate the adoption of the proposed bond issue would cause no increase in general taxes as the bonds would be retired and interest paid, it is claimed, by additional revenue expected from State income and liquor taxes. It is also claimed that with modern buildings and equipment the hospitals for the insane could double the number of cures and thus relieve the State of a large annual expense, sufficient to meet one-half of the bond issue expense every year."

St. Louisans on Committee.

St. Louisans who have consented to serve on the committee, according to the committee's announcement, include:

Mrs. Thomas L. Anderson, Miss E. Muriel Anscombe, Howard Bailey, John O. Ballard, Jesse W. Barrett, Albert G. Blakey, George M. Berry, Dr. M. A. Bliss, A. E. Bostwick, Mrs. Nat S. Brown, Mrs. Besse P. Brueggeman, Adolphus Busch III, the Rev. J. J. Butler, Ashley Cabell, David R. Calhoun, E. T. Cash, Mrs. Charles McL. Clark, Dr. M. B. Clopton, Congressman Cochran, J. Wade, Aaron Waldheim, Asa Wallace, Erastus Wells and David P. Wohl.

Two Other Issues Up.

At the same election, the city will submit a bond issue of $16,100,000 for a variety of public improvements and the Board of Education will submit a $2,000,000 bond proposal for school buildings. Both the city and the board have applied for PWA grants. The board is planning establishment of a separate campaign committee. No announcement of campaign plans has been made by the city. St. Louis County has talked of submitting bond issues for a trunk-line sewer system and a new Court-house and jail, but has not taken definite action.

In the supplementary registration of voters in the city Thursday, in preparation for the bond election, names of 18,088 were added to the books. The registration previously was 330,837. In a canvass to start tomorrow many names of earlier registrants, who have removed or cannot be found, will be sticken from the rolls. It is not expected that the final new registration total will vary greatly from the old.

Private Secretary Talks About the Roosevelts

Miss Marguerite Le Hand Tells of President's Wife Buying Dress for Her—"Children's Hour" of Chief Executive.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., March 31.—Miss Marguerite Le Hand, private secretary to President Roosevelt, is on a vacation but she admits she'd rather be at work, despite the mountain of mail that keeps her busy at the White House for long hours, mail requesting everything from jobs to Mrs. Roosevelt's old clothes.

Miss Le Hand said she preferred being busy at the executive offices "because at the moment I believe there is no place in the world as interesting as the White House. So much is happening and so much is being done."

However, she says, she had to take a vacation anyway because the President has gone on a fishing trip on the yacht Nourmahal with Vincent Astor, and the President ruled there should be no lady fishermen along.

Sorry to Miss Trip.

"I should have enjoyed going along," Miss Le Hand said. "Mr. Astor was willing that there should be women aboard, but when the President fishes, he never allows women aboard."

So Miss Le Hand, a tall, handsome woman with wide, clear-blue eyes, prematurely graying hair, who has been with Roosevelt since his campaign for the vice-presidency in 1920, came to the home of her sister, Mrs. Anne M. Rochon, for a brief holiday.

Of the President, Miss Le Hand says: "The President of the United States is the most human person I have ever met. He is naturally kindly and has a fine sense of humor."

The present occupants of the White House, she says, are a merry, wholesome family where grandeur of office has not been allowed to overshadow personal human relations.

A Thoughtful First Lady.

"Mrs. Roosevelt thinks of every-one. If she happens to go out shopping and sees a dress that is becoming to any one of us, she sends it along," said Miss Le Hand. "The prettiest dress I own, Mrs. Roosevelt picked up for me somewhere."

Co-operation, she says, is the spirit pervading the White House—where no one from the President and the First Lady down, is too important to think of others.

Miss Lehand, who knows about 5000 prominent persons who call at the White House merely by the sound of their voices, says requests for money, for employment, for hospitalization and treatment for infantile paralysis—and for Mrs. Roosevelt's old clothes—are among the 6000 letters handled daily by 50 stenographers in day and night shifts. Each letter is read, routed to the proper official, and cordially answered, she says.

"The stenographers become accustomed to handwriting quickly and letters from the President's mother or his aunt in Paris, for instance, are never opened but passed right along," she says.

"Letters which appear to concern the President directly and cannot be handled by Secretaries Howe, Early or McIntyre, come to me. I read them and bring in about 50 daily to the President.

"The Children's Hour."

"In the afternoon we have what we call 'the children's hour.' That is the time he signs his mail and all of us go into his office and chat with him while he works.

"Usually I have crackers and milk at my desk for luncheon, but sometimes when Mrs. Roosevelt has guests, I join them. I go to teas when I can arrange it, however, and sometimes I swim with the President at 6."

The job of private secretary to the President, she admits, is a seven-day assignment and some times extends until 11 o'clock at night. She adds, however: "One never seems to be working hard when one's working with the Roosevelts because they work so much harder than anybody else."

The President, she says, is a little tired now, because of the strain of the last two weeks in which he was absorbed by the problems of the motor industry, but otherwise, "he is remarkably healthy, and seems to be more buoyant and get around easier all the time."

NAZI EASTER MESSAGES PLACE STATE OVER ALL

Reichbishop Supports This View; Newspaper Attacks Noble Alliances With Jews.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 31. — That the nation stands higher than anything else was the recurring theme today of Easter Sunday messages released through the official news service of the Nazi party.

These official utterances found tacit confirmation in remarks of Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, published in the Easter number of the "Gospel and the Third Reich."

"It is wrong to say that nattional Socialism is merely a political force," the Bishop asserted. "Whoever says that has not learned to understand the movement. People who, for instance, are opposing the new church in reality mean the state."

He presented the slogan, "One People, One State, One Church."

The Easter message of the newspaper Deutsche Zeitung was a demand upon the German nobility to cleanse itself of Jews and "men who married wealthy Jewesses to bolster up their tottering fortunes." It should never have been permitted, the newspaper went on, "that a Jew should become Prince Bomesmark or his son, Amshel Mayer, a Baron Rothschild. The moneyed nobility must disappear in the third Reich. Shylock must again be merely Shylock."

Bryan's Grand-Daughter to Wed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Mrs. H. Berger Bryan, of New York, today announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen Bryan, to Robert Touyarot of Arcachon, Gironde, France. Miss Bryan's father is William Jennings Bryan, Jr., of Beverly Hills, Cal. She is a grand-daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, Democratic presidential candidate and Secretary of State in the Wilson cabinet.

10,000 TO ATTEND SAENGERFEST MAY 31

Three-Day Event to Include Chorus of 1500 Orchestra Led by Damrosch.

The National Saengerfest of the North American Saengerbund will be held at the Arena May 31, June 1 and 2, with 10,000 members of the society in attendance. Features of the music festival will be the society's chorus of 1500, the massed singing of 3000 St. Louis school children, and an orchestra of 80 under Walter Damrosch, noted conductor.

A Saengerfest is held every three years. This is the thirty-eighth to be given by the organization. The last one here was in 1903, undertaken as a preliminary to the World's Fair and held in the uncompleted Palace of Industrial Arts.

It will have a decidedly national aspect this year, as choral and instrumental selections from the works of Stephen C. Foster will be given, marking the first time the great folk-music composer's songs will be sung in America with full orchestral accompaniment.

Local singing societies have been rehearsing at the German House for the last six weeks, and will continue until two days before the festival. Membership in a musical organization is not necessary to become a member of the chorus, and all singers are invited to take part.

Committees promoting the event have taken headquarters at the Jefferson Hotel. The formal opening of the festival will be a banquet in the Gold Room of the hotel, at which Dr. Hans Luther, the German Ambassador, will respond to addresses of welcome by Charles Nagel, Secretary of Commerce of Labor under President Taft and honorary president of the St. Louis National Song Festival Association, Gov. Park, Mayor Dickmann and Damrosch.

Parades, picnics and boat excursions are being arranged for the visitors. A special stage is being built at the Arena for the chorus, orchestra and soloists.

TO KEEP 30TH ANNIVERSARY OF INSTALLATION OF ORGAN

Kirkwood M. E. Church to Celebrate With a Dinner and Recital Wednesday.

A dinner and an organ recital observing the thirtieth anniversary of the installation of the organ in the Kirkwood Methodist Episcopal Church will be held Wednesday night at 6:30 o'clock at the church, Clay and Washington avenues, Kirkwood.

The organ was obtained in 1904 largely through the efforts of Mrs. Lucy H. King Smith, wife of the Rev. Alfred Franklin Smith, pastor of the church at that time. Much of the money was raised at concerts which Mrs. Smith, a soprano, gave at the homes of church members.

Mrs. Smith will be guest of honor at the dinner and will tell of the installation of the organ. The organ recital will be given by Jacquinot Jules. The Rev. Hugh O. Isbell is pastor of the church.

State Legion Chief Coming.

J. Grant Frye of Cape Girardeau, State commander of the American Legion, will address legionnaires and auxiliary members of the eleventh and twelfth districts tomorrow evening at the Knights of Columbus Club, 3917 Lindell boulevard. The auxiliary choral clubs will present selections. Mrs. George Walsh will preside.

NERVE SPECIALISTS TO MEET IN ST. LOUIS

Harvey Cushing Society Composed of Neurological Surgeons Will Discuss Problems.

A group of renowned neurological surgeons will meet Thursday and Friday when the Harvey Cushing Society, named after Dr. Harvey Cushing, noted brain specialist, holds its third annual conference at the Washington University Medical School.

The society is composed of 38 surgeons from all parts of the country and Canada. For many years they met informally to discuss problems in their profession. Three years ago, when they were meeting in Boston, they organized into a formal group. Dr. Cushing at that time had just retired from the faculty of Harvard Medical School. He is now at Yale where he is devoting himself principally to the history of medicine.

The meeting will open Thursday at 9 a. m. with a neurological operative clinic by Dr. Roland M. Klemme of St. Louis. During the two days 16 speeches on neurological surgery, experimeetal neurophysiology, neuro-pathology, and allied conditions will be given. Dr. John Fulton, head of the department of physiology at Yale Medical School and president of the society, will speak at the annual dinner Thursday night.

Guest speakers include Dr. Ernest Sachs, professor of neurological surgery at Washington University; Dr. Sherwood Moore, professor of roentgenology at Washington University; and Dr. Margaret Kennard of Yale.

Members of the society who will speak are Dr. Edgar Kahn, Michigan University; Dr. P. C. Bucy, Rush Medical College; Dr. Temple Fay, Dr. Frank F. Smith, and Dr. W. E. Chamberlain, Temple University; Dr. K. G. McKenzie, Toronto University; Dr. M. C. Sosman, Harvard University; Dr. Leo Davidoff, New York Neurological Institute; Dr. W. P. Van Wagenen and Dr. James Watts, Rochester University; and Dr. L. T. Furlong, Washington University.

REPORT ON WORK OF Y. W. C. A. ISSUED IN $75,000 CAMPAIGN

An outline of the work done by the Y. W. C. A. last year was made public yesterday by Frank M. See, general chairman of the organization's 1934 $75,000 budget campaign which will open April 16.

According to the report there was an 85 per cent increase in the number of demands made upon the Y. W. C. A. during the year while insufficient funds forced temporary cessation of many of its activities. Its hotel at Pendleton avenue and Olive street was closed in June. More than 1500 girls used the facilities of the hotel and the residence at 744 Walton avenue and many of them were given free room and board because of their inability to pay.

The employment office of the "Y" secured positions for 1550 of 13,209 applicants. A total of 37,379 girls participated in the activities of the organization during last year.

The Y. W. C. A. did not share in the United Relief Campaign. Mrs. W. R. Chivvis is associate chairman of the campaign.

JOHN CHARLES THOMAS RECITAL TO BE APRIL 16

First of Condon Series at St. Louis U. Gymnasium, Others at New Auditorium.

The opening concert in the Condon Course, a series of musical events under the management of Oscar Condon, will be Monday, April 16, at St. Louis University Gymnasium with John Charles Thomas, baritone, in recital.

All the remaining concerts will be held at the new Municipal Auditorium, for which the entire series was originally intended. The second concert, on Thursday, April 26, which brings here Rosa Ponselle, Metropolitan Opera soprano, will be part of the dedicatory program of the Auditorium. It will be Miss Ponselle's first visit here in 12 years.

European engagements prevent the postponing of the John Charles Thomas concert so that it could be held in the Auditorium also. Two days before his appearance here, Thomas will have the role of Tonio in 'Pagliacci" at the Metropolitan Opera.

The complete list of the concerts in the series follows:

Mischa Elman, violinist, at the Auditorium, May 3.

Doris Kenyon, stage and screen star, in a program of "lyric silhouettes," accompanied by Alberto Salvi, harpist, at the Auditorium, May 17.

Subscription prices for the entire course are $5.50 for the parquet and $4.40 for both balconies. All seats are reserved. Seats for individual concerts range from $1.10 to $2.75. Season subscriptions are now being taken at the Aeolian Company, 1004 Olive street.

PURPLE FINCHES NOT PURPLE, HIKERS FIND

Other Surprises for Amateurs on Walk in Forest Park.

Purple finches, with their sudden and joyous song, were the outstanding feature of the Bird Club walk led by Dr. D. N. Hetler in Forest Park early yesterday morning. Their melodious warbling led the observers upon them in several clumps of trees.

Amateurs were somewhat surprised to find that the purple finch is not purple. They discovered that the male is a dark rosy red and the female is brownish gray.

A flock of wood ducks obligingly left one of the lagoons and strolled across the grass just a few feet ahead of one group of observers. They were acclaimed as the most handsome birds on the walk. They were an iridescent purple on the sides of the head and ruddy on the breast and front of the neck, and had a black and white crescent before the wings, and black, white and yellow waves on the sides.

The giant red-winged blackbird, a native of the Arctic, was observed several times. It is similar to Missouri's red-winged blackbird, but is an inch or two larger.

The industrious brown creeper was seen spiraling its way around tree trunks searching every nook and cranny for insects and grubs. It does not drill into the bark like the woodpecker, but uses its long, slender, curving bill, which is much like a surgeon's needle, to pick and pry out its food.

Also the golden-crowned kinglet flew about uttering its shrill "tzee-tzee." Despite its four-inch size, it is a hardy bird, able to endure the severest cold.

MONSANTO CO. TO ERECT A NEW OFFICE BUILDING

Three-Story Structure Will Be Added to Present Building at 1700 South Second Street.

TOWER IS TO BE CONSTRUCTED LATER

Cosmopolitan Ins. Co. Buys 14-Room Residence on Delmar to Be Converted Into Offices.

Excavation will be started this week preparatory to construction of an administration building for the Monsanto Chemical Co., at 1700 South Second street. The building in the main will be three stories in height, surmounted by a tower. It will be L-shaped, with a frontage of 54 feet on Second street and a depth of 104 feet, extending along the east and west alley of this block. It will be connected with the three-story brick building now being used by the company for offices and laboratories. The three top floors of the tower, shown in the perspective of the building on this page, will not be built at present.

Air conditioning and soundproofing will be provided throughout. The cooling element will be supplied by the refrigerating plant of the chemical works, situated close by. Mauran, Russell & Crowell are the architects. The Stone & Webster Engineering Co. will be the builders.

The building now occupied by the office staff will be used to house additional laboratories and the engineering departments.

Delmar Blvd. Lease.

The Cosmopolitan Life, Health & Accident Insurance Co. has purchased a three-story 14-room residence at 3700 Delmar boulevard, west of Grandel Square, through the Dubinsky Realty Co. This building, occupying a lot 50x143 feet, will be converted for the general offices and headquarters of the insurance company, now at 219 North Jefferson avenue. Possession will be taken as soon as the building is available.

The purchase price, which was not disclosed, it was stated, reflected the enhancement in property values as a result of the Delmar street improvement. The purchase was made at the instance of Sol Dubinsky, vice-president of the Dubinsky Realty Co., who handled negotiations. The grantor of the title was Blanche Herman, a client of the Dubinsky Realty Co., who recently acquired the property as a speculative investment.

Buys Apartment Building.

Jesse T. Henry, insurance man, has purchased a three-story six-family apartment building at 7507 Buckingham drive in Blue Ridge Terrace, the apartment house section of the Moorlands. The seller was the Farm & Home Savings & Loan Association of 1125 Chestnut street, which had acquired the property under a first deed of trust. Each apartment contains eight rooms, including a small room forming a part of the living room, and two baths. There is a garage in the basement of the building for 12 cars. Finished on an attractive scale, the building is comparatively new structure. The site has a frontage of 80 feet on Buckingham drive.

Several months ago a 12-family apartment building at 7557-63 Buckingham drive, owned by the Farm & Home Savings & Loan Association, was purchased by the client of the Glick Real Estate Co.

Anthony Sieghold, proprietor of the Standard Cycling Co., has purchased a building at 5512 Natural Bridge boulevard, through the Adolph K. Feinberg Real Estate Co. The building contains a store and three apartments. The Cycling Company, formerly on North Grand boulevard, will occupy the store.

BOUND FOR THE GOLD FIELDS

SEATTLE, March 31.—As the ship's orchestra played "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," 437 passengers, many of them mining men bound for the gold fields of the north, boarded the liner Yukon today. Gold talk was in the air, with the metal at $35 an ounce. A crowd of about 3000 gathered to wish the passengers bon voyage.

The Yukon had 2400 tons of revenue freight. Lashed to the deck was an airplane, nearly a dozen automobiles, mining and cannery machinery and piles of lumber. T. B. Wilson, general manager of the Alaska Steamship Company, operators of the Yukon, said his line was outfitting 13 more ships.

ROAD MACHINERY COMPANY LEASES WAREHOUSE SPACE

Austin-Western Service Branch to Open Here—Kresge Stores Lease Cherokee Street Lot.

The Austin-Western Road Machinery Co., with headquarters in Chicago, has leased 4000 square feet of warehouse space in a building at 1028 Central Industrial avenue, from the Central Industrial District, Inc., of which Frederick Pitzman is president.

The space will be used for a sales and service station. Parts will be carried for shipment into Southern Illinois and Eastern Missouri. Stock will include also machines representing the company's line.

H. M. Kleiser of Chicago, vice-president of the Machinery company, arranged the lease. The Industrial Bureau of the Industrial Club of St. Louis, of which John Ring Jr. is manager, handled the original contract.

S. S. Kresge & Co. has acquired a 25-year lease on a lot 25 by 150 feet, at 2703 Cherokee street. Plans have been completed for construction of a two-story addition to the Kresge company's present building, which occupies a lot 37 by 150 feet on the west. The ground leased is occupied by old buildings which will be razed.

Negotiations for the lease were handled by the Franklin E. Meyer Realty Co., which said establishment of chain stores in the 2700 block had increased ground values to a new high.

The Walgreen Drug Co., Neisen, Inc., the Scott Stores and other chains have established branches in this block. The F. W. Woolworth Co.'s store at 2743 Cherokee street has been extensively remodeled.

Persons With Small Incomes Do Most of Lending on Small Homes

Bulk of Such Funds Comes From Savings of Widows, Office Workers, Laborers and Housewives.

Major money lenders in the small home field are not the wealthy, but men and women with incomes of less than $5000 a year. Such is the conclusion of a survey made public by the United States Building & Loan League. It shows that "fully half" the funds used by an average community to finance homes comes from savings of widows, office workers, laborers, housewives and children.

From an analysis of a "typical" building and loan association—a $2,000,000 institution—the league has figures to show that the mortgage lender in America rarely is a wealthy person.

Less than 20 per cent of 2000 share accounts held by savers in this association had as much as $1000 to the credit of a single investor. The average holding was $747. Accounts under $100 made up 44 per cent of the total.

Women, the analysis showed, hold 43.3 per cent of its accounts.

Morton Bodfish, executive vice-president of the league, pointed to statistics showing the average home loan outstanding to be $4486—in other words, enough to require six average savers to finance the home of one average borrower.

About 36 per cent of the mortgagors were found to be professional men, business men or skilled mechanics.

"A glance at the occupations represented by savings shareholders in this representative association," said Bodfish, "is a revelation as to the identity of mortgage lenders in America.

"We find, for instance, savings accounts of seven clergymen alongside those of nine janitors and three night watchmen. For one account held by an economist, one by a city official and 10 by lawyers, the association shows 41 held by stenographers, 225 by waitresses and domestic servants, and 58 by unskilled laborers."

In this "typical" association, unskilled laborers constituted the largest single group of borrowers. Twenty per cent of the loans are on homes of that class, with skilled mechanics ranking second and business men third.

CARD OF THANKS

WE wish to thank our many friends and relatives for their expressions of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings during our recent bereavement in the loss of our dear son, Christy Ette. Especially do we thank the Rev. Gregg for his prayers and consolation and Mrs. Charles A. Weber for her sweet solos; the pallbearers for their assistance, and the G. L. Pleitsch Undertaking Co., and also the Electrical Union No. 1, I. B. E. W.

MRS. JAMES ETTE, 5938 Kennerly av., St. Louis, Mo.

WE wish to thank our relatives, neighbors, friends, for their kindness, sympathy and beautiful floral offerings tendered us in our late sad bereavement in the loss of our dear husband and father, Charles A. Teutenberg. Special thanks to Rev. August C. Rasche for his kind, consoling words; the pallbearers and funeral director, Charles Kron, for his kind, efficient service.

EMMA TEUTENBERG, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

WE desire to thank our relatives, neighbors and friends for their kindness, sympathy and beautiful floral offerings tendered in our late sad bereavement in the loss of my husband and my dear father, Mike A. Sontag. We especially thank the Rev. Clergy of St. Andrews Church, the pallbearers and the Hoffmeister Undertaking Co.

MRS. SARAH SONTAG AND MRS. EDNA MEIER.

IN MEMORIAM

AMBACH, ADOLPH M. (AL.)—

It was sad indeed, the way you had to die,
Without a chance to even say goodbye.
Your loving smiles, indeed, will be in our memory,
We know you did your best, may God give you eternal rest.

Sadly missed by WIFE AND SONS.

BARTHELMASS, EVA—In memory, who departed this life March 26, 1930.

Sadly missed by
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

BAUER, SADIE—In loving memory of my dear wife and mother who departed this life one year ago March 29, 1933.

How we miss you Mother dear,
Since you have gone away.
There's not a day, Mother dear,
We do not think of you.

Sadly missed by
HER HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

BESTERFELDT, LOLA—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, who passed away March 30, 1933:

In her grave softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
But the one we couldn't save.
We saw her suffer, heard her sigh,
With aching hearts and weeping eyes.
But now she calmly sleeps at last;
All pains, all aches, all suffering past.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, DAUGHTER AND GRANDCHILDREN.

BIANCO, JOSEPH—In memory of Joseph Bianco, who died March 26, 1932.

Two long weary years have passed
Since when we saw your face last.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

IN MEMORIAM

BOETTCHER—In memory of our dear parents, Herman Boettcher, who died March 22, 1929, and Pauline Boettcher, who died April 2, 1933. Rest in peace, our dearest parents; Years may go but memories stay; You are gone but not forgotten, For we shall meet you some sweet day. DAUGHTERS AND GRANDCHILDREN.

BOETTIGHEIMER, RICHARD (DICK)—In memory of our dear son and brother, who departed April 6, 1929. Your memory is as sweet today as the day you passed away. Sadly missed by all who loved him.

BORGMANN, ALICE—In memory of Alice Borgmann (nee Carpenter), who departed this life March 27, 1932.

HUSBAND AND FAMILY.

GAERTNER, AUGUST H.—In loving memory of my dear husband, father, father-in-law, grandfather, brother and uncle, who passed away 1 year ago today.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND FAMILY.

HENSEL, KATIE—In loving but sad memory of my darling, beloved wife, Katie Hensel, who entered into rest on March 31, 1933. A rose that is sweetest and fairest, In the end is killed by the frost; And the flower that is dearest and rarest, Is the wife I lost; You are not forgotten, Katie, dear; Nor ever will you be, As long as my life and memory last, I will remember thee. Sadly missed by your dear husband, ERNEST HENSEL.

JOSEFA, BERAN—In loving memory of my dear mother, who passed away April 1, 1932. Rest in peace, mother mine. Sadly missed by her daughter,

MARY BERAN BOETTIGHEIMER.

KEEDY, RALPH—In loving memory of our dear husband and father who departed March 28, 1933.

It was sad, indeed, the way you had to die
Without a chance to even say good-by,
We know you did your best;
May God give you eternal rest.

Sadly missed by WIFE AND CHILDREN.

RINEY, RUTH JANE—In loving memory of our darling daughter and sister, Ruth Jane Riney, who departed this life a year ago today, April 1, 1933.

Days of sadness still come o'er us;
Tears in silence often flow;
Love shall always keep you near us
Though you were called one year ago.
Never shall you be forgotten;
Never from our memory fade.
Our loving hearts will always linger
Around the grave where you are laid.

Sadly missed by PARENTS, BROTHER AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

RITTENHOUSE, CHARLES—In loving memory of my dear father who departed this life one year ago April 4, 1933:

One year has passed since that sad day,
My dear father was called away.
The call was short, the shock severe,
To part with one I loved so dear.
For us you did your very best;
A willing worker until the last.

DAUGHTER, MYRTLE.

SCHALLER, OSCAR—In loving memory of my dear husband, who passed away March 31, 1933.

Never shall his memory fade.

Sadly missed by HIS WIFE.

SMITH, ROY—In loving remembrance of Roy Smith, who departed March 29, 1931. Sadly missed by WIFE, CHILDREN, SISTER AND PARENTS.

SPATHELF, DAVID JR.—In memory of our dear son, who passed away five years ago.

The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of our beloved one who once sat there.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND FATHER.

VAZIS, PETER J.—In memory of my dear husband, Peter J. Vazis, who died April 1, 1930. One by one they go before us; How sweet the memory still; But death has left a loneliness, The world can't ever fill. Missed by his wife, BERTHA.

WEATHERFORD, MAMIE A.—In loving memory of my dear wife, who passed away March 30, 1933. Sadly missed by HUSBAND, BROTHER AND SISTER.

WILBERT, CHARLES—In loving memory of my husband, who departed this life March 31, 1932.

Nothing but memories as we journey on,
Longing for a smile from a loved one gone;
None knows the depths of our deep regrets,
But we remember when others forget.

PAULINE WILBERT AND CHILDREN.

WRIGHT—In loving memory of my dear father, Henry Clay Wright, who departed this life April 5, 1902.

Sadly missed by

SEALED PROPOSALS

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed bids will be received at the high school building, 9427 S. Broadway, until 7:30 p. m., Friday, April 6, 1934, for furnishing all labor and materials and for the performance of all work required for the erection and completion of a new high school building to be erected in the school district of Hancock Place St. Louis County, Mo., in accordance with plans and specifications prepared by Bonsack & Pearce, Inc. Separate bids will be received on the general work and on heating. Plans and specifications may be viewed at school building, 9427 S. Broadway, and at architect's office, 411 Olive st. A cashier's check in the amount of five per cent (5%) of the total bid, payable to the school district of Hancock Place, must be attached to bid. Every contractor and subcontractor must comply with the provisions of Title II of the National Industrial Recovery Act, and with all rules and regulations prescribed by the President and by the Administrator for the administration of such act. All bidders must be registered at the office of the State Engineer (PWA). The school district reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF HANCOCK PLACE, ST. LOUIS COUNTY, MO.
By AUGUST BOENECKE, Secretary.

WALL PAPER HANGING

Attention, Paperhangers

To attain your share of profitable business this year, it will justify showing your customers the best selection that can be obtained. Contractors using our sample books are enjoying a much improved and more profitable business over last year. Banner wall papers are so far superior to others in the latest designs, non-fading colors and prices, they are in a class by themselves.

We also are distributers for the nationally advertised Imperial washable wall papers, a new talking point for you on better wall paper, which is going over big in a profitable way. Send us your application for a set of our sample books at once. We cater to contractors only. We also manufacture quality paints at prices from factory to you. We give prompt delivery service and two stores to serve you.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

WHAT IS YOUR FUTURE? ARE YOU GETTING AHEAD? ARE YOU ON THE ROAD TO INDEPENDENCE IN YOUR TRADE OR PROFESSION? CAN YOU EXPECT TO MAKE FROM $40.00 TO $100.00 A WEEK IN 1934? IF NOT, INVESTIGATE THIS OFFER OF FREE INSTRUCTION AND IMMEDIATE EMPLOYMENT. WE HAVE NOTHING TO SELL YOU.

We will take on additional men who wish to learn to do this work and who can get along on earnings of $35.00 to $40.00 a week while studying and practicing. We will train such men free. We will furnish full equipment with no deposit required. There is no expense. No previous experience in any kind of selling is necessary. If you are capable of understanding and following instruction, if you are one who likes to practice to learn skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are willing to work for success, then we will give you a chance. We cannot guarantee you that you will be a star, but we do guarantee you a trial with substantial earnings, practical instruction and guidance.

We have a wonderful invention that renders a very unusual service. Our men are thoroughly trained as to how to conduct our buisness. Those, we believe, in a personal interview, can qualify, will be given the opportunity to see our invention, meeting our men, investigating their earnings, our company, and our entire business methods.

It is not unusual that men in this organization make $25.00 to $50.00 for one day's work.

This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good substantial positions. Please do not apply for these positions unless you can meet the requirements, and the requirements are that you be of neat appearance, between the ages of 25 and 40, and of good character and reputation and willing to work.

Applicants will be personally interviewed Monday morning, between 9:15 and 1:15, at 561-564 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive Streets.

LEGIONNAIRES AND VETERANS
With Cars for Field Work
$40 to $130 per Week
The National Source Records Commission of the American Legion offers an opportunity to a few high grade men to work in surrounding territory. Others are earning as above. Leads furnished to business and professional men with letter of introduction. Men will be chosen who have sales ability, are serious minded and whom we invite to come in and see it done. We have a guarantee to start ex-service men only; will interview at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., Monday. See Mr. Orr, Statler Hotel.

I KNOW a bargain when I see it, and buy plenty of 'em. AND HOW!!! But, I'll pass them on if you will act. I want money NOW, and to induce you to come in, I'll cut prices, some as low as 20 per cent of new value. Think of it—1-5, ¼, ½ of new prices, on good store fixtures. Ask these merchants. They bought, and know: Gaylord's, Stewart's, Coltman's, Hollywood Frocks, Sanders Men's Shop, Burman of Belleville, Huette Shoe Shop, Varsity Shoe Shop, Delmar bl.; Wolff Dept. Store, Maplewood, Mo.; Gately of Alton and Decatur, Gross Bros., 9th and Locust; Johnnie Brock, Arcade Bldg.; Rennecamp, 421 N. 7th; Wohl Shoe Co., Fashion Shoe Co., Modern Shoe Co., Mathes Shoe Co., all of Washington av., and about 100 others. 50 revolving garment racks, fine for clubrooms, checkrooms, lodges or halls, hold 40 garments and will store in a space 1 ft. by 3 ft., when not in use; 35 Grand Rapids clothing cabinets, make excellent dress proof, will-call and good for cleaning establishments. On hand, plenty of equipment for furnishing goods, shoe stores, dry goods stores and ladies' ready-to-wear; extra fine set of shoe chairs from Hutcheson's Olive st. store. W. D. Ellinger, Store Outfitter, 711 Lucas av. GArfield 4216; Republic 1435.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 31.—C Stubblebeard Grimes and Jim M ney pitched the Cards to a 6-3 v tory over the Red Sox of Bost here today. It was the second ti in as many games that the Kn holers have made merry at the pense of the Boston Americ Leaguers, and in both cases F Ostermueller, the high-priced sou paw, sold by the Cardinals' own Rochester club to the Red Sox, w the victim.

Ten hits, an unusual number the Cardinals in recent games, w made off Ostermueller and Jo Welch, the St. Louis boy, w stopped the Knotholers dead af they had tallied six runs off Ost mueller. Welch pitched the la three innings and held the Redbir to two hits in as many innings.

Martin Begins to Hit.

Pepper Martin finally came life with his bludgeon and his forts at the plate include a tri and a double. Manager Fris gave practically his entire squad workout, eight infielders and fi outfielders breaking into the b score.

With Ostermueller opening on t mound, Martin greeted him with triple to deep left and promp walked home on Rothrock's lo fly to Solters. Ostermueller d posed of three Cardinals in ord in the second, but his undoing ca in the third, when Martin, aga leading off, socked a single to le He was forced by Rothrock, w took an extra base when Oste mueller made a low throw tryi to pick him off first. Frisch th banged a triple to right center a Rothrock scored. Medwick fo lowed with a lusty double to le on which Frisch tallied while V gil Davis kept up the bombardme with a single to left that count Medwick.

With the score 5-0 against the the Red Sox made a slight flur at Grimes' expense in the home ha of the third. Bishop walked for starter and, after Werber fouled Davis, Morgan hit a triple a Bishop scored. Solters' long tallied Morgan with the second a final run of the round. Reyno got a double and Seeds drew a pa off Grimes in this same inning, b old Stubblebeard struck out Hink avoiding further danger.

Martin was also responsible the sixth and final run off Oste mueller. Starting the fifth innin Pepper hit a hot grounder Walters, who in hurrying the thro made a wide peg. The ball roll behind the bleachers in right fie and Martin scampered all arou before the horsehide was returne Ostermueller was succeeded Welch after pitching six inning and the St. Louis boy stopped t scoring.

Three hits were made off Grim in the four innings he worked a he was succeeded by Mooney, w twirled the remaining five roun Jim was in trouble a couple times but pitched horse collars un the ninth. He walked Walters start the inning and Rick Ferre batting for Welch, singled to rig sending Walters to third. Muelle effort was a pop fly to Crawfo at first and Werber fouled to P

SARASOTA, Fla., March 31.—Old Stubblebeard Grimes and Jim Mooney pitched the Cards to a 6-3 victory over the Red Sox of Boston here today. It was the second time in as many games that the Knotholers have made merry at the expense of the Boston American Leaguers, and in both cases Fritz Ostermueller, the high-priced southpaw, sold by the Cardinals' owned Rochester club to the Red Sox, was the victim.

The ball rolled behind the bleachers in right field and Martin scampered all around before the horsehide was returned. Ostermueller was succeeded by Welch after pitching six innings and the St. Louis boy stopped the scoring.

Three hits were made off Grimes in the four innings he worked and he was succeeded by Mooney, who twirled the remaining five rounds. MICHIGAN WINS SWIMMING MEET AS MEDICA SETS A WORLD RECORD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBUS, O., March 31.—Outdistancing a brilliant field, the University of Michigan tonight won the eleventh annual National Collegiate Swimming Championships in the Ohio State University Natatorium.

Michigan, with three first places, two seconds, and a third, piled up 30 points. The University of Southern California was second with 19.

The outstanding individual performer of the event was Jack Medica, of the University of Washington, who scored three first places, one of them to establish a new world's record, giving his school 15 points.

His world record was established in the 440-yard free style, when he covered the distance in 4:46.8, beating the defending world champion, Gilhula of Southern California, who set the former mark of 4:48.6. Medica established a new meet record in the 220-yard free style.

Stix Begin Defense of U. S. Soccer Title in Game With Pawtucket

By Herman Wecke.

Survivors of a field of nearly 100 which started the hunt for the national soccer championship last fall, the Stix, Baer & Fullers of St. Louis and the Pawtucket (R. I.) Rangers, will meet in the first game of a series at Walsh Memorial Stadium this afternoon. The victor in two of three games will win the title. Play today begins at 3 o'clock.

The Stix club will be trying for its second straight United States championship, inasmuch as the eleven will be defending the honors won in two games from the New York Americans last spring. In reaching the grand final, the Stix won five of six matches from Western opponents, four coming against out-of-town rivals. Pawtucket in gaining the right to represent the East, won six, tied one and lost one match. The Rangers played home and home series, total goals to count, against all opponents.

Four in Fifth U. S. Title Series.

Four members of the Stix team will be out to set a record, which probably has never been equaled in soccer, that of playing on five consecutive national champions. These players are Alex McNab, coach, captain and outside right; Billy Gonsalves, Werner Nilsen and Bill McPherson. These men were with Fall River in its title conquests in 1930 and 1931; with New Bedford in 1932 and last season with the Stix. Of the regulars on the club, only Jimmy McGowan, in goal, has had no previous experience in the championship series.

On records, there is little to choose between the teams. Pawtucket, in cup matches, appears to have a better scoring punch, but the Stix boast a tighter defense. In eight cup games, Pawtucket has scored 32 goals, an average of four a game, whereas the Stix have tallied 20 in six, or 3.3 a match. While the opponents have tallied 16 times against the Rangers, or two goals a game, the defending champions have stopped the Minit Rubs, Sons of Malta, Currys and Wieboldts with but five goals. In three of the games, the Stix won by shutouts; twice the opposition was stopped with one goal, while in the first battle with the Wieboldts, the Chicagoans scored three times to force an overtime period.

Pawtucket Defense Improves.

Pawtucket's defense, however, was better in its last four matches than earlier in the season. Whereas Thornton and Fairlawn counted 12 goals in four matches, Boston and Hispano, of Brooklyn, were stopped with three in four games. In the Eastern semifinal against Boston, Pawtucket won eight goals to two, while against Hispano, the score was 10 to 2. Thus in the most important battles in the East, the Rangers scored 18 goals, or 4.5 a game. Hispano will be remembered

WRAY'S COLUMN

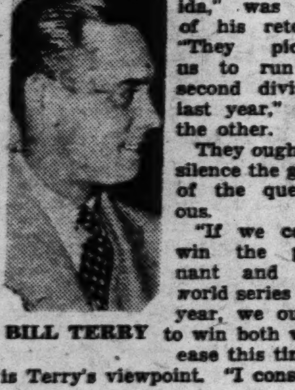
WEST PALM BEACH, March 31.

FLORIDA baseball fans are becoming aggressively interrogative about the Giants. "What ails the world champions" seems to be the trend of thought. Three defeats by the Cardinals and later the "crowning ignominy" (as one writer put it) of losing a series to the lowly St. Louis Browns, has caused the "loud speakers" to wonder if there is something wrong with the club.

Bill Terry's answer to this writer was two-fold. "They don't win championships in Florida," was one of his retorts. "They picked us to run in second division last year," was the other.



BILL TERRY

They ought to silence the guns of the querulous.

"If we could win the pennant and the world series last year, we ought to win both with ease this time," is Terry's viewpoint. "I consider that I have a better club than last year. My replacements are better. My pitchers have a wider experience. I have new talent to call upon. Watkins will be a big reliance.

"Positively the only offset to our increased strength is the illness of Gus Mancusco. And he'll be available about the time the race grows hot."

Still, one Florida writer is authority for the statement that "not more than three out of 10 experts, on the average, will pick the Giants to win this year's pennant race."

That ought to make Terry feel dee-lighted, because last year not one in 10 picked the Giants to win and only a few named them for a first division berth.

Making Haste Slowly.

TERRY himself has not been concerned about his club's showing.

"We have about 35 spring training games to play and I am not crowding anyone. I am giving all of my boys a chance to work. I have two complete sets of players in each game. Naturally I am not concerned with

CAMPBELL HITS HOMER IN NINTH AND BROWNS WIN OVER BISONS, 5-4

By J. Roy Stockton.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 31.—Bruce Campbell, who would be one of baseball's outstanding outfielders if he could chase flies and scoop up grounders as well as he can hit, whacked a tremendous home run over the right-center field fence here this afternoon, breaking a 4-4 tie and giving Rogers Hornsby's Browns a 5-4 victory over the Buffalo Bisons, 1933 champions of the International League.

Hornsby's fly-chasing brigade played a prominent part in the club's 10-hit attack, as George Puccinelli hit a four-bagger over the left field wall with a man on base to account for two tallies, and Ray Pepper singled in the eighth frame to start a one-run rally.

Big Jim Weaver and Bill McAfee did the pitching for the Browns and held the enemy to six hits. Weaver traveled seven frames but McAfee was named in the box score as the winning pitcher, as the Bisons tied the score after he had gone to the hill.

For Buffalo, the batting of Charley Barrett's nephew, Heine Mueller the south side florist, stood out. Heine rifled a home run over the right field fence in the second inning and started another one-run rally in the seventh by beating out a slow roller toward first base.

Besides showing a timely attack, the Browns played a steady game in the field, the only break in the defense being a wild throw by Harland Clift, the rosy cheeked youngster who is Hornsby's regular third sacker despite his youth. At that Clift handled himself cleverly, making three good plays on ground balls before he made his wild heave.

Strange, who looks like a real find, had only four chances in the field, but they were assorted and he did his job neatly. He threw out one runner on a grounder, pivoted on a double play with grace and accuracy, and hauled down a pop fly in short left for the final putout of the game.

Strange started nicely at bat, punching a single to right in the first inning on a hit and run play after Clark had walked, but after that frame, the young man went hitless. He tapped to the pitcher in the second inning, struck out in the fourth and again in the seventh and fouled to the first baseman in the ninth.

Story of Scoring.

Here's how the scoring progressed: Clark opened the game by drawing a pass and Strange's hit and run single sent him to third.

TEAMS PLAY TWO EXTRA PERIODS; ST. LOUIS EVENS SCORE IN SECOND SESSION

By W. J. McGoogan

Neither Tulsa nor St. Louis was able to gain an edge last night in the first game of the play-off series between the teams at The Arena for they played a 2 to 2 tie in an overtime contest.

St. Louis came from behind a two-goal edge which Tulsa gained in the first period by counting twice in the second session. After that neither side was able to count.

The clubs play at the Arena again tonight then move to Tulsa for games Tuesday and Thursday. The team winning the majority of the games, or in case they are even in victories, the club scoring the greater number of goals will engage Kansas City in a title series scheduled to start at Kansas City next Friday night.

About 8000 attended last night's game.

Tulsa Takes Early Lead.

Tulsa took the lead two minutes after the start of the contest through a fine piece of combination play by Des Jardins and La France. Des Jardins dashed down the right side of the rink while La France, unnoticed by the Flyer defenders, took up a position directly in front of the St. Louis goal. Des Jardins shot the puck out to La France, who batted it past Murray.

Des Jardins suffered a penalty a few minutes later for hitting Palangio with his stick, but the Flyers were unable to score while he was off the ice and after 15½ minutes of play the Oilers counted again, Rodden taking a pass from Halderson to tally with a hard shot.

Flyers Tie Score.

The Flyers tied it up at two goals in the second period—one of the wildest and fastest 20 minutes of hockey ever seen in this rink.

St. Louis threw all defense to the winds at the start of the session, sending three and four-men attacks at the Tulsa goal, but for 15 minutes all the Flyers' wild efforts were fruitless. Then came two goals in two minutes

Another Goal Disallowed.

Prior to Palangio's tally, the Flyers had apparently scored, Teel poking the puck past Karakas, who was lying on the ice, but Referee Cameron MacKinnon overruled Goal Judge Oscar Blankenmeister, claiming that he had rung the bell before Teel's shot. Several minutes of argument followed and the usual shower of paper hit the ice but after a conference with Referee Farrell, the goal was disallowed.

Play slowed considerably in the third period—or at least it seemed so after the feverish second session. Neither team was able to count and the contest went into an overtime session. Each side had an opportunity of salting the decision away while the other team was shy a man. Both goalies made good stops of dangerous shots.

Paddon had one fine opportunity to count in the closing seconds of the period but Karakas dove out, tripped Paddon and Paddy's skates cut Mike's arm as he went past.

Neither team took any unnecessary chances in the first overtime period. Joe Matte was penalized for a trip but the team managed to stave off Tulsa's sallies.

Notes of the Game

PETE PALANGIO, Flyer left wing, suffered an injury to his left hand in the first period when he was struck by Des Jardins' stick. A physician expressed the belief, after a cursory examination, that Palangio had a bone broken. Pete, however, returned to the game.

A spectator pocketed a puck when it was batted into the seats—a rather unheard of performance at a hockey game.

PEDEN AND AUDY WIN PITTSBURGH BIKE RACE

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, April 1.—Lapping the field in the final hour of desperate sprinting, the Canadian team of Torchy Peden and Jules Audy won Pittsburgh's first six-day bicycle race which ended 25 minutes after midnight today. The world champion Holland-Czecho-Slovakia combination of Piet Van-kempen and Frank Bartell was second.

HODGE DEFEATS MAC SMITH IN DISTRICT FINAL

Karl H. Hodge successfully defended his St. Louis district indoor tennis title and gained his second leg on the S. Roy Culbertson trophy by defeating McNeill Smith of East St. Louis, 6-3, 8-10, 6-0, 3-6, 10-8, in the final round last night at the Washington University Field House.

Mrs. Violet Furlong and Joyce Portnoy annexed their second mixed doubles title by defeating the team of Billie Peer and Charles McMillin in the final round, 6-3, 6-4. Mrs. Furlong and Portnoy were the title-winners in 1932.

SHAW-STEPHENS FIVE DEFEATS ALL-STARS

By the Associated Press.

WICHITA, Kan., March 31.—The Maplewood, Mo., Shaw-Stephens Legion Post team, a runnerup in the "Tomboy" flight, easily triumphed over a team composed of members of the Wichita Thurstons and Oklahoma City Cardinals, with men's rules prevailing, in an exhibition anti-climax of the Women's National A. A. U. basketball tournament here tonight, 23-18.

Maplewood led throughout, using driving plays under the basket for most of its scores.

Kansas City Fives Lead in State Bowling Event

Kansas City bowlers en route to the A. B. C. event at Peoria, stopped off here last night and took first and second places in the fifth annual Missouri State Bowling tournament on the Washington alleys. The Gates five had a 2966 total for first place and the Goldman Jewelers finished second with 2919.

Teams in the Anheuser-Busch league wound up in the next four positions after the first block of play. The Fausts had 2681, the Budweisers 2588, the Michelobs 2489 and the Yeast Department 2477. Singles and doubles will be rolled this morning, starting at 11 a. m. Team play will be resumed next Saturday night when two more squads, including three teams from Jefferson City, will roll.

Browns Break Camp Thursday, Cards April 9

THIS week will see major league baseball teams generally breaking camp and the St. Louis clubs will be on their way home in the next 10 days. The Browns will break camp Thursday, leaving West Palm Beach shortly after midnight, and the Cardinals, after playing their final Florida game at Tampa, next Sunday, will quit Bradenton on April 9, a week from tomorrow, and come straight to St. Louis. Rogers Hornsby's team will play some games on the way North.

EIGHT ROOKIES FROM FARM CLUBS WIN JOBS WITH CARDS

P. DEAN, KLINGER AND WINFORD GAIN PLACES ON HURLING CORPS

By a Staff Correspondent.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 31.—What will the Cardinal player list disclose, on May 15; where will the team finish in the league race?

These are two vital questions respecting the St. Louis National League club, and while Manager Frankie Frisch himself would not like to be forced to make decisions about border-line players at this time, it is possible to answer the first query with some hope of being right and to tackle the second with the usual pre-season optimism.

Perhaps the most difficult job at this time would be to select the nine pitchers who are likely to be in Cardinal uniform after the squad is cut, May 15, to the mid-season limit of 23 men. It is fairly easy to name seven hurlers who are reasonably certain to escape the snickersnee of Branch Rickey.

Tex Carleton, Dizzy Dean, Bill Hallahan, Jess Haines, Bill Walker, James Winford and Paul Dean can look forward with more than a fair degree of confidence to wearing Sam Breadon's livery through the summer. But after that the guessing starts.

Priority in His Favor.

Burleigh Grimes, of course, will have to be considered next and only the test of facing the hostile batters will tell the story about the stubble-bearded old campaigner. He is confident that he will be able to win for the Cardinals. He took a course of training at Hot Springs and says his arm is strong and his health good.

If Grimes makes the grade that will leave room for only one more pitcher, to be selected from Bob Klinger, Clarence Heise, Jim Mooney and Ed Greer.

Klinger thus far has shown to advantage and if Frisch had to cut his pitching squad immediately, Klinger undoubtedly would get the nod.

But Frisch won't have to make his decision until a month of the season has passed and it is probable that the border-line pitchers will be tested thoroughly in the remaining games of the exhibition schedule and possibly in National League games.

Only One Guess Here.

No guessing has to be done about the catching department. Frisch will carry only two catchers and they will be Virgil Davis and Bill De Lancey. Davis will be the first string receiver and probably will do most of the work. De Lancey is a great prospect, but he needs experience against big league pitchers and must learn about the hitters in fast company.

INTRODUCING—the New Members of the 1934 Cardinals

The 1934 Deck

BRADENTON, Fla., March 31.

MAY 15, the date on which major league club rosters must be reduced to 23 men, is a long way off, but it is possible at this time to make a fairly accurate forecast of the personnel of the 1934 Cardinals, as follows:

PITCHERS.

Tex Carleton, Dizzy Dean, Bill Hallahan, Paul Dean, Jess Haines, Jim Winford, Bill Walker—and two others, probably Burleigh Grimes and Bob Klinger.

CATCHERS.

Virgil Davis and Bill DeLancey.

INFIELDERS.

Rip Collins, Frankie Frisch, Leo Durocher, Pepper Martin—and three others, probably Burgess Whitehead, Pat Crawford and Lew Riggs.

OUTFIELDERS.

Joe Medwick, Ernie Orsatti, George Davis, Jack Rothrock, and one other, probably Buster Mills.

Gene Moore Looked Good Last Fall But Mills Looks Better This Spring

Only one outfielder will have to be separated from the payroll, as Frisch plans to carry five and there are only six on the roster. George Davis who was obtained from the Giants for George Watkins will be one of the five. In that case, judging by what Frisch has said, without officially going on record, the fly-chasing brigade will include Davis, Orsatti, Medwick, Rothrock and either Buster Mills or Gene Moore. Moore is a fine looking prospect and Frisch likes him, but Mills may have an advantage when the last word has to be said, because he is a right-handed batter. And the club needs all the right-handed batting strength it can muster.

Developments during the balance of the training period may change the outlook for the infielders, but at this time Burgess Whitehead, cream of the crop of the Rochester Club, is sure of remaining with the team and Pat Crawford and Lew Riggs seem to have excellent chances of being on the roster after May 15. The first string infield, unless Whitehead crowds into the picture, will be Ripper Collins at first, Frisch at second, Leo Durocher at short, and Pepper Martin at third.

Tom Carey, the flashy and aggressive young shortstop from Rochester, cannot be dismissed quickly. He is a brilliant fielder, but developed a sore arm early in the training grind, and has not been able to show his best form.

Rothrock Should Help.

Rothrock should help the outfield. And if the outfield does its share on the attack, there is no team in the league that can be rated materially above the Redbirds.

Of course there are the inevitable "ifs." The pitching will have to be better than it was last season. And the hitting will have to be timely. Wasted base hits don't win pennants.

There is nothing wrong with the Cardinal morale. The team spirit is excellent. The boys believe in themselves and they believe in Frisch. He's not unreasonable, though he is firm. He will be the boss, but all he asks is that the players strive always to win, and that they put everything they have into their work.

Yanks Send Aube to Newark.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 31.—The New York Yankees today announced the release of Hormidas Aube, right handed pitcher, to Newark, their International League farm.

Flint Rhem is Once Again on Cards' Roster

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 31—Pitcher Charles Flint Rhem has been returned to the Cardinals and today signed a contract with the St. Louis' Club, according to an announcement by Vice-President Branch Rickey.

During the winter the St. Louis Club claimed Rhem on waivers from the Philadelphia Club and when he refused to sign a contract offered him by the Cardinals he was released to the Columbus Club of the American Association.

Several days ago he came to Bradenton and told Rickey that he believed he was still a major league pitcher. Following a conference with Rickey today it was announced that he had been transferred to the St. Louis Club. He will begin working out immediately.

Stoefen Defeats Grant in Three Sets, Each at 7-5

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, March 31. — Lester Stoefen, University of Southern California tennis star, today defeated Bryan (Bitsy) Grant in the final of the Atlanta-Biltmore tennis tournament, 7—5, 7—5, 7—5.

Stoefen and Lott paired together after the singles to win the doubles from Grant and Courts. The score was 6-3, 5-7, 8-6, but both Stoefen and Lott were taking it easy.

FRANKIE PARKER WINS BERMUDA TENNIS MEET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 31.—Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, won the Interscholastic Tennis Championship when he defeated Ramsey Potts, of Darlington School, Rome, Ga., in the final here today. The scores were 6-1, 6-1.

Parker teamed with George Franker, of Lawrenceville, N. J., to beat Potts and Frank Rericha, of Mohonk Lake, N. Y., in the final of the doubles, 7-5, 6-2.

Hamms Fail To Place In First Ten At A. B. C.

PEORIA, Ill., March 31.—Hamm's Preferred Stock, St. Paul, which set a new world record early this year when it rolled 3713, found the A. B. C. drives more difficult than the home alleys tonight and rolled a 2893 series before a capacity crowd. It failed to place the quintet among the first 10.

Freddie Krez and Bill Kuhnert of St. Louis just missed placing among the leaders, chalking up a 1232 total on games of 423, 419 and 390. Charley Sottrell and Oscar Whitehead, also of the Mound City, topped the 1200 mark by two pins. Sottrell with 622 was high St. Louis roller in the singles.

There was a general disappointment over the showing of Hank Marino, Frank Benkovic, Gilsunker and Charley Daw. They were expected to land among the first 10, but all came through with poor totals with the exception of Daw in the singles.

CAMPBELL'S HOMER IN NINTH GIVES BROWNS 5-4 VICTORY

Mueller's homer in the second tied the score, but the Browns went ahead the third when Burns walked and Puccinelli lofted a four-bagger over the left field wall.

In the sixth, Mulleavy reached second on Clift's wild throw and scored on Smith's double to center. Then in the seventh, Mueller beat out a slow roller toward first, Regan singled to left, a pass to Crouse filled the bases and Mueller scored while Clancy, batting for Lisenbee, was hitting into a double play.

Pepper's single and Grube's double, a fly that Tucker lost in the sun, gave the Browns one in the eighth, but Buffalo tied the count, with McAfee pitching, on Mulleavy's double and two long flies which advanced him a base each.

Then Campbell hit his four-bagger in the ninth to break the tie.

Jack Burns' fielding was a feature of the contest. He made two fancy stops in the first inning, one a backhanded capture of a hot bounder down the first base line and the other a leaping catch of a line drive to end the frame.

Irving Hadley will pitch against the Bisons tomorrow at West Palm Beach, and probably will travel seven innings or more if all goes well.

"Chile" Walsh To Study Law At Washington

FOOTBALL sometimes makes strange bedfellows. For six years—and with quite a bit of success—Charles F. "Chile" Walsh was principally interested in seeing the St. Louis University Billikens wallop the Washington U. Bears at football.

Now Walsh, no longer Billiken coach, intends to enroll in the fall at Washington U. to obtain a law degree. Walsh played three years at Notre Dame, but failed to get his degree there except in football.

If "Chile" hadn't played three years of varsity football, he might have fitted in nicely as one of Jimmy Conzelman's ends.

Walsh to Attend New Pro League Meeting, Tuesday

Charles F. "Chile" Walsh, former St. Louis U. football coach and now director of the play of the St. Louis Gunners, will make his official bow in his new assignment by attending a meeting of the proposed "American Football Association," at Memphis, Tuesday.

S. A. Godman of Memphis, president of the Memphis Tigers and one of the backers of the proposed new pro league, has announced that 11 representatives of different cities will attend. The Gunners, still in the field for a franchise in the National League—the "big league" of the pro game—have not definitely stated they will join up with the "American."

According to Godman, the cities to be represented are St. Louis, Dallas, Louisville, Charlotte, N. C., Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Memphis, Nashville and Birmingham.

Walsh will be accompanied south by Robert Sampson, business manager of the Gunners.

Theriault to Meet Rath.

Fred A. Hughes, who is acting as promoter of the wrestling show to be presented at Black Jack Hall, Hall's Ferry road, next Tuesday night, has arranged three of the matches. Edmore Theriault will meet Tony Rath in the one fall to a finish feature. John Anderson, St. Louis University wrestling coach, will oppose Chris Zaharias in the semi-windup, while Al Haemmerle of Maplewood faces John Demsko in the second preliminary.

WRAY'S COLUMN

the victory so much as I am in getting all my men in tip top shape," is Terry's viewpoint.

"Discount these spring games. Later on I will settle down to a nine-inning lineup and send only a couple of pitchers in to face opponents. When we start out in earnest, our club will be there."

And so it seems. It is reasonable to suppose the Giants will be better than last year, unless it is argued that the pitchers will not be able to duplicate their efforts of 1933.

Thus far the pitchers have failed. Hubbell himself has not been so good. The Browns fell on him like a ton. The "screw ball" wasn't working. Midseason stuff was also lacking in Parmelee and other pitchers.

If their mound men should falter the Giants easily could slip out of the picture, because, after all, the outfit is not a hard hitting one and only air-tight pitching can give them the victory.

With four other clubs threatening, and at least one of the four almost certain to come through with a good year, the Giants can't afford to slip. It will be no cakewalk, winning the National League flag of 1934.

As told before, Terry himself thinks the Cardinals will be about his toughest foe. In Chicago they think the Cubs, with Klein to help out, are almost "in." Pittsburgh has a whale of a club and Boston.

If one could forget the marvelous pitching of the New York hurlers last year, the National League marathon today would be about 4 to 1 and take your pick of five teams. The margin of preference is very slight.

On the Job.

THE Florida Racing Commission seems to be an outstanding exception to the accepted axiom that all sports commissions are failures.

This body not only has done its job in connection with doping horses, but it has kept its eye on that ever mysterious sector of a racing plant—the mutuels.

In the matter of doping, the Florida commission not only backed up the Government's narcotic agents, but went them one better. The Government's agents' activity was limited to stopping the use of narcotics by trainers. The Florida commission extended this prohibition to the use of any stimulant, whether it came under the Harrison drug act or not.

The commission took the stand that the use of any stimulant whatever, whisky, caffeine or narcotic, was against public policy. It not only prohibited these by order, it went to work to enforce its mandate. It's own agents turned up many trainers whose horses were stimulated. Drastic action was taken against some of them. In one instance the enforcement of its findings caused a "strike" of horse owners.

Admission of Guilt.

BEAT that if you can. The strike was tantamount to an admission by the trainers of all participating that they, too, wanted to use stimulants and objected to punishment of associates who had been found guilty.

The racing authorities beat the strike. Today Florida racing is almost free of stimulated horses and you can credit the Florida commission first, and then the Government narcotic agents.

That wasn't all of the Florida racing commission's activities. They looked over the mutuel situation, and having looked they promptly, fired three officials connected therewith at Tropical Park and barred an outside confederate from Florida tracks for life.

Manipulation of the mutuels in the interest of a number lottery, based on the last column of figures of the winning horse payoffs, was the scheme uncovered.

This commission has been on the job. If all were as useful, no word against bureaucracy would ever be heard.

Old Friends to Help Pry Lid Off Baseball Season on Coast Tuesday

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 31.—It was no April fool joke that schools from the St. Louis district sprung on the other teams in the annual Missouri State High School track and field meet here tonight, for University City, with 45 points, won the Class A championship for the fourth consecutive year and Clayton captured Class B honors with 21 points.

St. Joseph Central, which finished second, scored 16 2-3 points. Other Class A teams placed as follows: Third, St. Louis Normandy, 11; fourth, Webster Groves, 9; fifth, Maplewood, 8 1-3; sixth, Columbia, 6; tied for seventh, Kirksville and St. Louis Roosevelt, 5; ninth, St. Joseph Lafayette, 3; tenth, Springfield, 1.

Raytown, Jackson County, finished second in Class B with 18. Other Class B totals were: Third, Harrisonville, 14; fourth, West Plains, 11; fifth, Marshall, 10; sixth, Missouri Military Academy, 8; tied for seventh, Bowling Green, Brentwood and Buckner, 5; tenth, Lebanon, 3; tied for eleventh, Monroe City, Newburg and Tipton, 2; tied for fourteenth, Brunswick, Glasgow and Fulton, 1.

Two "A" Records Fall.

Two records fell and two were tied in Class A. Knight of University City skimmed the low hurdles in 7.4 seconds to equal the mark hung up by Broeckelman of St. Louis Cleveland last year. Two Class B marks were smashed. Carter, Missouri Military Academy, heaved the shot 48 feet 1⅞ inches to shatter a mark of 46 feet 1¼ inches established by Berger of Kirkwood in 1931. Bob Ehrhardt, Clayton, cleared 6 feet ¼ inches to set a new record in the high jump. Ehrhardt also had the honor of tying the Class B 60 yard low hurdle standard of 7.5 seconds.

Bob Ehrhardt Stars.

It was Ehrhardt, who was virtually personally responsible for the Clayton championship. He amassed 13 of his team's 21 points with firsts in the low hurdles and high jump and second in the pole vault. Carter, Missouri Military Academy, was runner-up for Class B. individual honors, with eight points getting a first in the shotput and a second in the low hurdles.

Knight, University City, and Haefler, Normandy, divided individual scoring laurels in Class A. Knight won the low hurdles, tied for first in the high jump and was fourth in the 60-yard dash. Haefler took the 60-yard dash, was second in the broad jump and third in the half mile. Each scored 10 points.

Paul Runyan and Ky Lafoon Tied in Virginia Golf

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., March 31.—Paul Runyan, diminutive White Plains (N. Y.) professional, tied with Ky Lafoon for low honors in the first round of the second annual Cavalier open golf tournament here this afternoon, each shooting 69, one over par.

They were trailed, three strokes back, by Harry Cooper and Horton Smith, both of Chicago; Benny Loving of Petersburg, Mobby Cruickshank of Richmond, all professionals, and Billy Howell, Richmond amateur, each of whom had 72.

THREE TRACK MEETS THIS WEEK IN THE COUNTY

St. Louis County high schools will open the track season this week with three meets scheduled, Wellston and St. Charles meeting in the first one, a two-day dual meet on Tuesday and Thursday. The juniors run Tuesday and the seniors Thursday.

Friday, Webster Groves goes to Christian Brothers' High in a dual meet involving both juniors and seniors, and Saturday, University City is host to Clayton and Normandy in a triangular meet.

These meets will be good preparation for the St. Louis district schools that are going to participate in the Fifth Annual Maplewood Relays which will be held April 14 at Maplewood High School.

Wellston this year is not having baseball and will concentrate on its track team under the coaching of Buddemeyer, who has been track coach at Wellston since it started track three years ago.

Winter Sports Flare Up With Big-Week on Eve of Baseball Season

Paddy Paddon, Flyer left wing, finished first in individual scoring during the 48 games of the regulation schedule of the American Hockey Association, according to figures just released by league headquarters.

Paddon was credited with 36 points, representing 22 goals and 14 assists to count two more than Vic Desjardins the Tulsa coach, who shot 21 goals and made 13 assists for 34 points.

These figures, of course, do not include the playoffs in progress between Tulsa and St. Louis. The teams are scheduled to meet at the Arena again tonight after which they move to Tulsa for contests Tuesday and Thursday. The winner of the series will then engage Kansas City in a best three-out-of-five championship series.

Little Alex McPherson, Flyer center, came with a rush in the last few games to jump into third place with 33 points, while Pete Palangio, another St. Louis left wing, tied for sixth with 30 points.

Palangio led in scoring during the early part of the season but slipped toward the close. However, Pete, paying more attention to team play and less to the piling up of points for himself, was more valuable to the team this season than he was last when his scoring record was better.

CITY HIGH NINES SCHEDULE NINE PRACTICE GAMES

By Harold Tuthill.

Exhortations by City High School League coaches to "Ole Man Sunshine" were partially heeded and they are hoping that Old Sol will continue his beaming long enough for them to snatch some more practice this week before the league season opens with a triple header Saturday at the Public Schools Stadium.

In the opening games, Blewett opposes McKinley at 10 a. m., Beaumont plays Central at 1 p. m. and Cleveland battles Soldan at 3 p. m. Roosevelt draws a bye and then will play its six games without a break. There will be no second round this season.

In spite of the fact that the weather man relented to permit several of the schools to complete practice inter-league contests, all of the coaches want warmer weather to take the winter stiffness out of the muscles of their pitchers. Especially is this true down at Cleveland where Bert Fenenga would like to find out if Ed Stelmach and Ray De Greeff have enough suppleness in their arms to hurl the Carondelet nine into the championship now owned by the Roosevelt Rough Riders.

Leonard Reiter, catcher and Stelmach are the two letter men. The brief glimpse Fenenga has had of his squad revealed that some of the promising players are Carl Gresowski and Russ Tongay at second; Woodrow Sweetin at third; Jack Angle at short, Horton Schneider in the outfield and Wieland and Kenny at first. The games this week:

MONDAY.
Fairview at Beaumont.
University City vs. Central at the Public Schools Stadium.
Normandy at Roosevelt.

TUESDAY.
Blewett at University City.
Beaumont at Ritenour.

WEDNESDAY.
Roosevelt at University City.

THURSDAY.
Cleveland at University City.
Normandy at Beaumont.

FRIDAY.
East St. Louis at Roosevelt.

SATURDAY.
Blewett vs. McKinley at Public Schools Stadium, 10 a. m.
Beaumon vs. Central at the Stadium, 1 p. m.
Cleveland vs. Soldan at the Stadium, 3 p. m.

New Tennis Manual Lists Rules for Public Parks Plan

In answer to certain specific complaints from tennis players E. A. Skillern, City Superintendent of Parks, and Alfred Fleishman, Director of Recreation, have issued a tennis manual covering rules and procedure for the game as played on the public park courts.

While there have been, for some years, official rules governing park tennis, the difficulty has been in the varied interpretations of these rules at the different court locations. The new manual has been issued with a view to correcting this situation.

The new manual was edited by Donald J. Beebe, tennis delegate to the Central Council of the Municipal Athletic Association. For a number of years Beebe studied the conditions at the various parks and many of the recommendations made by him appear in the manual.

The manual contains 11 pages of instructions and forms for use by court attendants and officials in charge of various tournaments as well as maintenance employes. It is divided into four sections of instructions, namely: permits, permit clerk, court official and suggestions for court maintenance.

as the team which eliminated the New York Americans, the Stix team's rivals for the title last season. Hispano won, 1 to 0, on a penalty kick.

Stix Forwards Dangerous.

The Pawtucket defense will not be able to watch any one man on the Stix club's "international" forward line, since all are dangerous when in front of the goal mouth. Nilsen has scored six times; Gonsalves, five; McLean, four; McNab, two and Watson and Pastor have each counted one goal in cup games.

Referee, E. Donaghey of New York; linesmen, Robert Murphy and James Dunn. Jimmy Roe, the only St. Louis-born athlete on the attacking force, is the only one, who has failed to tally in the cup play this season.

Bill Watson probably will make the Easterners think that he has 10 legs and more than one head before the match is ended. The lanky center halfback has a way of being here, there and everywhere to break up plays. He's one of the main cogs in the Stix machine, both on defense and offense. Bill McPherson is another star as is Harry Hebberger, who this season, has played the greatest soccer of his career. Jimmy Nolan and Bill Lehman, two veterans, will be at fullback. Not the greatest kickers in the world, they are nevertheless able to anticipate plays and thus break up any number of enemy raids.

According to the rule book, there is no possibility this year of a team winning two games and still losing the title on total goals. This law has been changed. Total goals now count only in case the third match results in a draw after each has won one.

The admission will be $1 for men, with 40 cents for women and children. Edward Donaghey, of New York will referee.

DOYLE ELEVEN CAN WIN MUNY TITLE TODAY

The Sparton soccer team, "dormie one," as the golfers say, must win today's game with the Doyles, at Fairground Park, to remain in the hunt for the Municipal League championship. In the opening game of the series, last Sunday, the Doyles won handily, 2 goals to 0, before 6000 persons. They are expected to repeat this afternoon, and take the title, now held by the German Sports Club.

In losing last week, the Spartons betrayed a weak forward line, but in other respects they appeared a good match for the Doyles. Except for Prindable, at center forward, the champions of Sherman Park displayed no dangerous punch. There was a great deal of disorder in the way the forwards advanced the ball and little adherence to position. The consequences were disastrous, but the defects might be removed and it would not be surprising to see the score reversed.

Despite the fact that one or two of the better players were inclined to dribble the ball too much, the Doyle inside forwards, in combination with their center halfback, played brilliant football and they are likely to shine again today. Joe Doyle's distribution of the ball was very well done, and if Rabbitt or Fogarty can come through with a good shot or two from the setups that Doyle gives them, Goalie George Sauter will be in a tight spot.

Play will start at 3 o'clock and the feature game will be preceded by a match between the Holy Rosary and Diaz teams of the Intermediate division. Holy Rosary wont the opening game of the final last Sunday, 1-0.

The premilinary will start at 1:30 p. m.

W. U. Track Team Opens Against McKendree Friday

Coach Johnny Davis' Washington University track team will open its outdoor season with a meet with the McKendree College athletes Friday afternoon at Francis Field. The meet will start at 4 p. m.

Last year, the Bruin team scored an easy 100 to 31 victory over the McKendree Bearcats at Lebanon, Ill., but the job will not be quite so easy to do this year as the Illinois team is composed mostly of veterans, while the Bears, on the other hand, have but a handful of experienced men.

Bob McClure, former University City high school star, has been nursing first one pulled muscle and then the other for the past few weeks, but the sophomore sprint sensation should be in condition for the meet. McClure took a first in the Missouri Valley indoor relays, running the 60-yard sprint, before hard luck began to dog his heels.

The Washington entries for the meet are:

100-yard dash—McClure, White and Sosna; 220-yard dash—McClure, White and Sosna; 440-yard dash—Gilmore, Morris, Schoenthaler and Brown; 880-yard run—Lihu, Brashear, Gast and Schuler; one-mile run—C. Miller, Johnson and Stoehr; two-mile run—Gilchrist, Pruss and H. Miller; 120-yard high hurdles—Lionberger, Allen and Conrad; 220-yard low hurdles—Gamble, Conrad and Allen; broad jump—Lionberger, Passanante and Barnes; high jump—Bleich, Nichols and Barnes; pole vault—Kelly, Brown and Conway; shot put—Clark and Niehaus; javelin—McCrackin, Kern, Niehaus and Hunkins; discus—Clark, Niehaus, Haffli and Majrintoni.

Rice Has .320 Average.

Sam Rice, who spent 15 years in the Washington outfield, takes to Cleveland a life time batting average of .320.

Joe Hoch and His Six Hawaiians

Manager Joe Hoch and his six Hawaiians—Edward Townsend, William Alves, Abe Konaaihele, Joe Oliviera, Iwaichi Maruko, Joe Devore—who are in St. Louis for the A. A. U. boxing tournament at the Arena, beginning Wednesday.

Hawaiians Lead Advance Guard To City for Ring Meet This Week

By W. J. McGoogan

With Joe Eddie Hoch and his six Hawaiians as the advance guard, amateur boxers from near and far have started to gather here for the senior National A. A. U. boxing tournament which is to be held at the Arena, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The entry list has swelled beyond 130 with still a few districts to report. Some are holding their tryouts as late as tomorrow night, after which they will wire in the name of the boxers who, at the same time, will grab the first train for St. Louis.

Nearly all of the entrants in the event are champions of their respective districts although in some cases where decisions were close in title contests, the runner-up also is being sent. Therefore, it is easy to see that the three days of boxing will be filled with action and the winners will have earned their championships.

There is such a case among the Hawaiian boxers, Ed Townsend and Joe Oliviera, featherweights, fought such a close bout in the island tryouts for the tournament that both were sent despite the fact that Oliviera won the decision.

Journey of 4500 Miles.

The Hawaiian team finished its 4500-mile journey yesterday and as soon as the boys were settled they went into the gymnasium at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. to work out the stiffness which had developed on their long trip.

Some of the boys were very much overweight, with Abe Konaaihale, the flyweight, and the only full-blooded Hawaiian in the group, being some five or six pounds above the limit.

The boys' expenses, amounting to about $3000, are being defrayed by the Hawaiian A. A. U., the money having been saved from boxing exhibitions there over a period of two years.

It was the first trip to the mainland for five of the six of them and the first visit to St. Louis for all of them. None of them had ever seen snow before and they were hoping for a few flurries during their stay in the city. Also, they had never seen ice for skating and were popeyed at the hockey game at the Arena last night, which they attended as guests of the Hockey Club.

Hoch, a former Chicagoan, who was associated with the Y. M. C. A., has been in Hawaii since 1915 and is secretary of the Territorial Boxing Commission, in addition to being an official of the A. A. U.

He believes that there are one or two boys in the group at least who have chances of winning championships. But he pointed out that the main objective was the value to the boys of making the trip to St. Louis.

After they leave here they are going to Chicago and may engage in a series of bouts there; then they will go to New Orleans for a dual meet with boxers of that city.

Fighting in Two Rings.

The local office of the A. A. U. is humming with activity, now that interest in the tournament is mounting. The ticket office will remain open today to accommodate purchasers.

Benny Kessler, tournament manager, announced yesterday that he had appointed five girls to act as clerks at ringside. They are Olga Becker, Dolores Boeckman, Mildred Schworm, Marjorie Jackson and Florence Kessler.

In addition to the regular ring at the Arena, a second ring will be used on the first two nights. Maj. M. J. Pickering, in charge of the Coliseum, has offered the use of the Coliseum ring to Kessler, which Benny accepted. The ring will be transported to the Arena probably tomorrow. It will be equipped with an automobile horn to signal the start and finish of rounds to try to prevent confusing boxers in the other ring, which will be equipped with the usual bell.

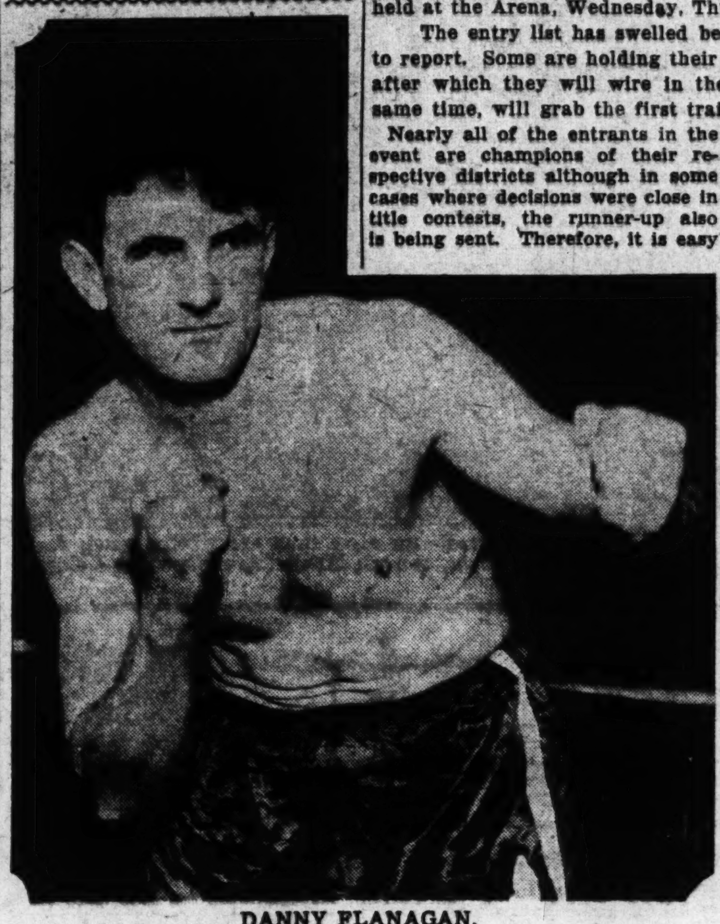
Coast Champion In Tourney Here



DANNY FLANAGAN.

He's 175-pound titleholder of the Pacific Coast district and will represent the Olympic Club of San Francisco in the national meet here, beginning Wednesday.

Soldan Youth Races to Victory On Cinders With One Shoe Off

Aided by a spirit that prompted the anchor man on the junior relay team to run 220 yards over cinders with one shoe on and one shoe off, Soldan High School's track team defeated East St. Louis High in a dual meet, 147½ to 87½, at the Public Schools Stadium yesterday morning under adverse weather conditions.

The bad weather was responsible for Leonard Kneznekoff running with only one shoe, for the athletes kept their clothes on as long as possible and when Kneznekoff's teammate reached him with the baton, Kneznekoff, in his hurry, took off his shoe with his sweat pants and was unable to replace it in time. He won the race, but had to run over the cinders with one foot clad only in a stocking.

Soldan had an easy time winning the meet, its athletes taking most of the first places. Bob Small won three firsts, a second, and ran on the winning relay team for 19¼ points to be the high scorer in the senior division.

Bob Harmon was another three-time winner, taking the pole vault, shotput and discus throw in the seniors.

KANSAS CITY SHELL WINS BOTH HEATS TO TAKE OUTBOARD RACE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 31.—Dick Neal of Kansas City shot his speedy outboard shell through Trout River today to win both heats of the Southeastern Championship Class A race. His best time was 37.185 miles an hour in the second heat.

Neal put a Class B motor on the same shell and flashed 41.551 miles an hour in the first heat of the Class B championships to win by a good margin, but he did not start the second heat and the title went to Sam Crooks of Rumson, N. J., who won the second heat after finishing second in the first. Crooks' time for the second heat was 41.475 miles an hour.

Jack Wood of Detroit drove almost dead heats with Neal in both heats of the Class A championship. He was using a boat owned by Frank Davis of Kansas City.

To Honor Basket Team.

The Collinsville High School basketball team, champions of the Southwestern Illinois Conference, will be feted at a dinner at the Collinsville High School gymnasium next Tuesday night.

FRANKIE PARKER WINS TWO TENNIS TITLES IN BERMUDA TOURNAMENT

By the Associated Press.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 31.—Frankie Parker, eighth ranking player in the United States senior tennis lists, easily defeated Ramsey Potts of Memphis, Tenn., 6—1, 6—1, 6—2, in the final round of the Bermuda interscholastic tournament today.

Parker, representing Lawrenceville (N. J.) school, was in full command of the situation at all times, and Potts, carrying the Darling School's banner, never was able to fathom his rival's allround game.

Parker also shared in the doubles title, he and Gordon Fraker defeating Potts and Frank Dericha of Peekskill Academy, 7—5, 6—2.

ILLINOIS NINE NOSES OUT OHIO STATE, 5-4

By the Associated Press.

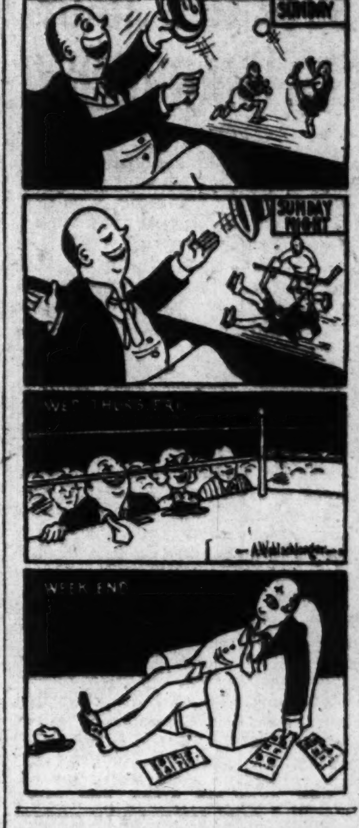
ATHENS, O., March 31.—Although outhit, 5 to 9, the University of Illinois baseball team won its second straight spring training game from Ohio University today, 5 to 4.

Vern Wolfe, Ohio pitcher, saw an early lead his teammates had given him disappear in the sixth when a single and a pair of bobbles allowed three runs to cross the plate. The two teams meet in a doubleheader Monday.

Score:

Illinois . . . . . [illegible]
Ohio . . . . . [illegible]
Pershell, Mdsak and Wederhold; Tencoff, Wolfe and Wills.

The Fan's Delight—While He Holds Out



BILLIKENS BEGIN SPRING FOOTBALL WORK THIS WEEK

By James M. Gould.

After several delays, spring football practice at St. Louis University is scheduled to get under way at Walsh Memorial Stadium next Wednesday with Acting Head Coach Joe Maxwell in charge. As planned at present, the workouts will continue for four weeks.

Coach Maxwell has many varsity places to fill as the losses from graduation and other causes are greater than usual. In all, 14 members of the 1933 varsity squad, including three quarterbacks, three other backs, three ends, three guards and two tackles no longer are eligible. Ralph Beck, regular guard in 1933, died recently, and his colleague, Bill Montgomery, has served his allotted time. The ends Maxwell will miss are Spehr, Minkey and Meinhardt; the tackles, Philpot and Dick Bockrath; the quarterbacks, Thompson, Bassett and Feldman, and the other backs, Captain Arnold Arenz and Manuel (Fat) Rapp.

However, about 40 varsity men, not all of them letter men, are left and there is a strong squad coming up from last year's freshmen. Of the varsity men, a dozen or more have won letters.

Of the 1933 freshmen, outstanding players are Hartman, Padjen, Hartle, Kloepper, Drone, Black, Cianciolo, Cagle, Cochran and Shea. All of these men were standouts in freshmen activity a year ago.

Coach Maxwell has had no bogey of ineligibility to contend with, as every one of his football candidates, both veterans and freshmen, came through their scholastic tests with flying colors. With the combination of the two squads, the Billikens should have a team able to hold its own or more against the opponents of 1934.

The Billikens will play Washington, Missouri, Xavier of Cincinnati, Illinois Wesleyan, Kirksville Teachers and Missouri School of Mines as chief games on their schedule. Two games will be played away from home—those with Missouri and Xavier.

After some training in fundamentals, with especial attention paid to replacements, Coach Maxwell intends to give the men lots of scrimmage work and, probably, will follow the example of Coach Conzelman at Washington and have weekly games to give his men actual combat experience.

30 TEAMS WILL PLAY IN PUBLIC SCHOOL LEAGUE

Thirty teams, divided into five groups, will play in the Grammar School Baseball League, beginning early next month, it was announced yesterday by A. E. Kindervater. The league is coming back this season after a year of idleness because of the generosity of Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, who will take care of all expenses.

Group games will be played in various public parks throughout the city, after which the division champions will play in an elimination series to decide the league title.

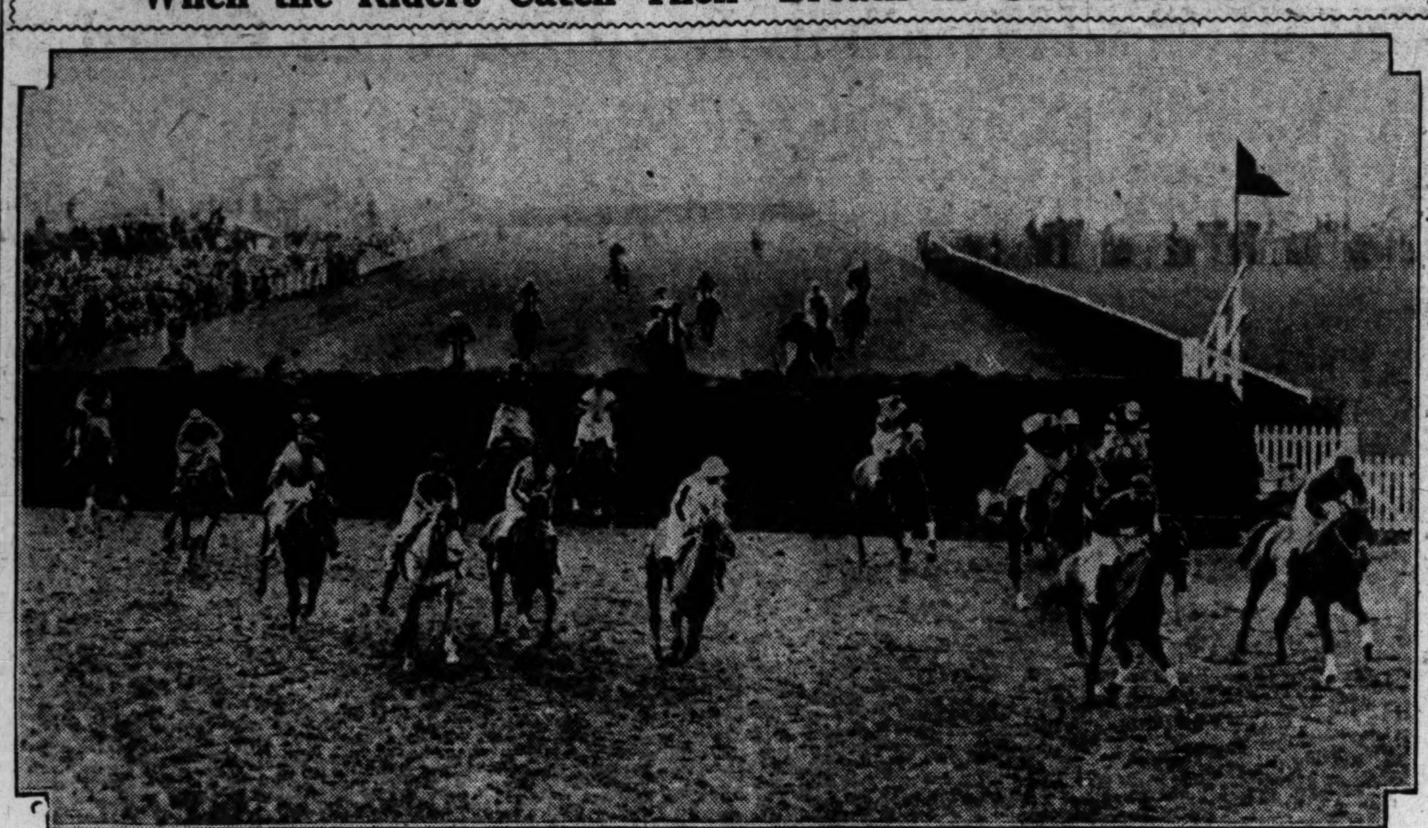
When the Riders Catch Their Breath in Grand National



The field taking the dreaded Beechers Brook hurdle the first time around the track during the running of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England. The event, run on March 23, was won by Golden Miller in record time and was witnessed by an estimated 200,000 persons.

CABEZO VICTOR IN THE 'TEXAS'; JUVENILE RACE TO CHANCEVIEW

HOUSTON, Tex., March 21.—A. Bartlestein's Teralice won the $3000 added Palo Alto Handicap, mile and a sixteenth get-away day feature at Epsom Downs here today.

The black son of Terry and Alice Harris came from behind in the stretch to win by a length from Sad Knight, with Frank Ormont, in third place.

Ably piloted by Jockey Charley Kurtsinger, Teralice was kept a safe margin behind the leaders and did not enter into contention until the stretch. He came like a flash thereafter, running past the tiring horses and was going away at the finish. Little Lad led for more than three-quarters but folded up under the strenuous going and finished out of it.

Teralice covered the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 3-5, and paid $7.50 to $2 to win.

Cabezo, owned by the J. A. Nix-Hunter stable, won the $1200 Texas handicap, secondary feature on the card, a six furlong event for three-year-olds and up. The Carlaris gelding, an outsider, ridden by Jockey Harbort, paid $19.60 for $2 to win, $8.70 for place, and $4.20 to show. Bing Crosby was second and Tromobone third. The time was 1:12 1-5.

Chanceview was victor in the Juvenile Handicap, the third feature of the card. Ridden by Jockey H. Callahan, Chanceview paid $6.10 straight. Phildia was second and Veronica third. The time for the four and one-half furlongs was :54, a new track record.

$25,000,000 Bet At Florida Horse And Dog Tracks

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., March 31.

WALTER DONOVAN, secretary of the Florida Racing Commission, tonight estimated the betting public wagered $25,000,000 through the mutuel rooms of Florida's horse and dog tracks, an increase of $7,000,000 over last year.

Of the total, Hialeah Park here handled $11,600,000 in its 45-day season that ended with the Florida Derby on March 17.

Forage Crops for Game.

FORAGE crops for winter feeding of game animals and birds will be started this summer on 700 acres of State park lands, J. B. Funkhauser, chief clerk of the Missouri Game and Fish Department, said this week. This plan will not only save the department a sizeable annual feed bill, but will make possible greater feeding facilities than ever before, department officials believe.

"Grains will be planted under the direction of park keepers at Meramec State Park in Franklin County, Indian Trail State Park in Dent County, Sam A. Baker State Park in Wayne County and Roaring River State Park in Barry County. In the past it had been a common practice to rent these park crop lands on the share basis to outsiders, but this has not proven satisfactory. Usually the share of the department has been a scant revenue producer and the grains not always suited for game bird and animal feed.

"Under the plan being put under way in the parks this spring, lespedeza, alfalfa, soy beans, cane, kaffir corn, milo maize and corn will be planted. Much of the crop will be permitted to remain standing in the fields for forage for wild life which is concentrated about these major park areas."

It is the plan of the department to harvest such grain and at the time when needed for distribution in areas where food shortages occur.

Winter feeding of game is not a new idea in Missouri as the first annual report of the game warden in 1905 gave account of winter quail feeding as done by game wardens. During the last several years, however, there has been an increased movement for winter feeding of game birds and animals especially in regions where food shortages occur or during periods when sleet covers the normal food supply for many days at a time. Several tons of quail feed were distributed by the department during a severe winter a few seasons ago.

Revenue and Expenditures.

THE State Game and Fish Department in 1933 received in revenue from all sources $41,182 less than was received by the department in 1932, but spent $73,965 less in 1933 than in the year previous. Figures made available this week from the office of State Game and Fish Commissioner Wilbur Buford show the department's revenue for 1933 was $266,390, compared to $307,572 in 1932.

Expenditures for 1933 were $249,658, compared to $313,633 in 1932.

1925	$288,049	1930	365,163
1926	304,172	1931	310,410
1927	335,591	1932	307,572
1928	347,803	1933	266,390
1929	354,932

Federal aid, it is pointed out, has helped materially with the State Game and Fish Department's financial problem this year by lifting much of the State park development burden from the State department. More than a million dollars' worth of improvements are being placed on the parks through this Government aid.

Bass Season Closed.

STARTING April 1, here's the Missouri fish situation:

In season—Rainbow trout, catfish, rough fish and sunfish.

Closed Season—Large and smallmouth bass, rock bass or goggle-eye, striped bass, white perch, crappie and jack salmon.

With the closing until Decoration day of the season on Missouri's principal game fish, a greater fishing at the State parks which afford trout fishing is expected. Reports of good takes at all trout fishing parks have been reported since the opening of the season, March 1.

Montauk State Park, in Dent County, affords the greatest amount of trout fishing water. There 31 miles of headwaters on Current River provide trout fishing water.

Roaring River State Park, in Barry County, furnishes several miles of good trout fishing water, including a well-stocked spring branch and lake.

Bennett Spring State Park, in Dallas and Laclede counties, is perhaps the best-known trout fishing site in Missouri. There trout fishing has been a feature for more than quarter of a century.

Hotels are operated at each of these trout fishing parks. Accommodations may be arranged for through the State park keepers.

From the Outdoors Notebook--

THE State Health Board reports outdoor sport accidents increasing, with 291 drowning and firearm fatalities in 1932, compared to 275 in 1931—9000 Moniteau and Cooper County cottontails were live-trapped and shipped in recent months to Eastern states for stocking.

Arrange Fencing Meets.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 31.—Scheduling of two fencing exhibitions for the University of Missouri swordsmen, against the Imperial Fencing Club, St. Louis, here April 7, and the St. Louis Fencing Club here April 14, was announced today by Prof. John A. Cameron, coach. Both meets will be held in Brewer Field House.

GRADING OF RAMONA SPEEDWAY TO START AS WEATHER WARMS

Admission to the Sunday afternoon automobile races at Ramona Speedway will be 50 cents, with no seats reserved except boxes, which will be 75 cents, according to an announcement by Anthony P. "Tony" Foley, owner of the Carson road plant. Grading of the course for the 90-foot banked turns has been delayed by the frozen condition of the ground, but Foley asserted a large crew of men could get the trac kin tip top shape in one week after the earth softens.

VON WEISE RETURNS, ENTHUSED OVER BROWNS

Louis B. Von Weise, president of the Browns, returned from West Palm Beach, Fla., yesterday after viewing the team in spring training for some time. In conversation he reflected the confidence which Manager Rogers Hornsby has expressed in the team and was particularly enthused over Alan Strange, the young shortstop, and the pitching staff.

ANDY VARIPAPA, STAR BOWLER, IN TRICK SHOT SHOW HERE, FRIDAY

Andy Varipapa, one of the greatest bowlers in the game today and also a great trick shot artist, has been engaged for a series of matches and exhibitions of trick shots a the Washington Alleys, Friday, April 6. In the first match, a doubles affair, he will pair up with Wooster Lambert against Lee Martin and Otto Stein Jr. This will be five games total pins and will start at 12 o'clock noon. In the evening he will roll a 10-game total pin match with Otto Stein Jr., this match will start at 6:30 p. m. After each match Varipapa will give an exhibition of all of his shots which includes his famous tunnel shot; "throwing" a perfect hook with his foot; throwing a ball down the alley, then making it stop and then curving another ball around it, and others too numerous to mention.

Varipapa, who comes from New York, holds the world's record for seven games in match play with an average of 260 and also the world's record for five games in match play with an average of 275. He also has 23 perfect scores to his credit.

DUNLAP SHOOTS 67, DEFENDING PINEHURST TITLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 31.—Shooting a brilliant 67, four under par, George T. Dunlap Jr., of Pinehurst, national amateur champion, held a safe lead for the qualifying medal in the annual North and South Amateur Golf Championship here today.

August Kammer Jr., of Short Hills, N. J., former Metropolitan and New Jersey junior champion, trailed Dunlap by seven strokes, touring the course in 74, three over par.

Dunlap's golf, with one possible exception, was flawless throughout the 18 holes. He was out in 34, two under par, and toured the home nine in 33. He brought down four birdies, and at times recovered sensationally when he underclubbed with his irons. He closed the round with a 30-foot putt for a birdie three.

Dunlap was the medalist last year, carding a 65 and 72 in the 36-hole eliminations. This year's qualifying round is only 18 holes.

Hagenlacher in Tie for Lead in Billiard Tourney

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 31.—Erich Hagenlacher of Germany, shot his way back into a tie for first place in the international 18.2 balkline billiards championship tournament today by overcoming Kinry Matsuyama of Japan, 400 to 286, in 14 innings. The victory was Hagenlacher's third and moved him up even with Welker Cochran of San Francisco.

The Japanese champion got the jump by scoring 64 billiards in his first inning, and led until Hagenlacher put together a chain of 142 in the sixth. The German's high run gave him a margin of 113 to 112 at that point, and after the seventh, he led, 264 to 233.

The defeat dropped the Jap down to a tie with Willie Hoppe of New York, for fourth place, at two victories in four matches.

Score by innings:
Hagenlacher—43, 3, 0, 5, 68, 142, 8, 1, 113, 4, 2, 13, 0, 3—400.

PLAYGROUND LEAGUE TO PLAY SOFTBALL

The Y. M. C. A. Industrial Playground Ball League, which has been conducted for 10 years by the "Y" City-Wide Industrial Athletic Association, will be changed this season to a soft-ball league, according to an announcement yesterday by L. E. Frailey, president of the City-Wide Industrial Athletic Association.

Paul E. Meyer of the Wabash Railroad, who is chairman of the league, has invited teams interested in entering the league to send reprensatives to a meeting Wednesday night at the Downtown "Y," Sixteenth and Locust streets.

It is expected the league will be affiliated with the Municipal Softball Association. To be eligible to participate in the league, players must be employed by and on the payroll of the company they represent 60 days before the league season opens.

Bowling Notes

Fifty-three bowlers have filed entries for the $50 guaranteed individual handicap sweepstakes to be rolled on the Saratoga alleys next Saturday and Sunday. Entry fee is $1.80, including bowling, and reservations can be made by calling C. Stein, HIland 9633.

A four-game handicap contest is also scheduled at the Webster Recreation. The event will be bowled next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

A diamond medal sweepstakes is in progress at the Cinderella alleys. Four place prizes will be awarded along with squad, high single, high four and four special prizes for bowlers under 160 average finishing out of the money. Based on 150 entries, the winner will receive $40 and a diamond medal. Entries can be filed by calling Larry Jouet or Walter Kerr, PRospect 8751.

Joe Hofer pounded out a 738 series on 257, 222 and 259 and helped H. H. Lease and Frank Donnewald take the lead in a three-man handicap ragtime sweepstakes at the Saratoga alleys. The trio scored a scratch total of 1984, which with a handicap of 189 pins, gave them a grand total of 2173. Lease had 626 and Donnewald 620.

Harry Feuser will hol da four-game handicap sweepstakes at his Del-Mar Recreation next week-end. The contest is open to any bowler with an established league average of 21 games. Entries can be filed by calling FOrest 1211.

The monthly "guarantee" mixed doubles event will be held at Clarence Kaley's Recreation, 4652 Gravois, this afternoon and evening. There will be squads each hour and the entry fee is $1.60 per couple.

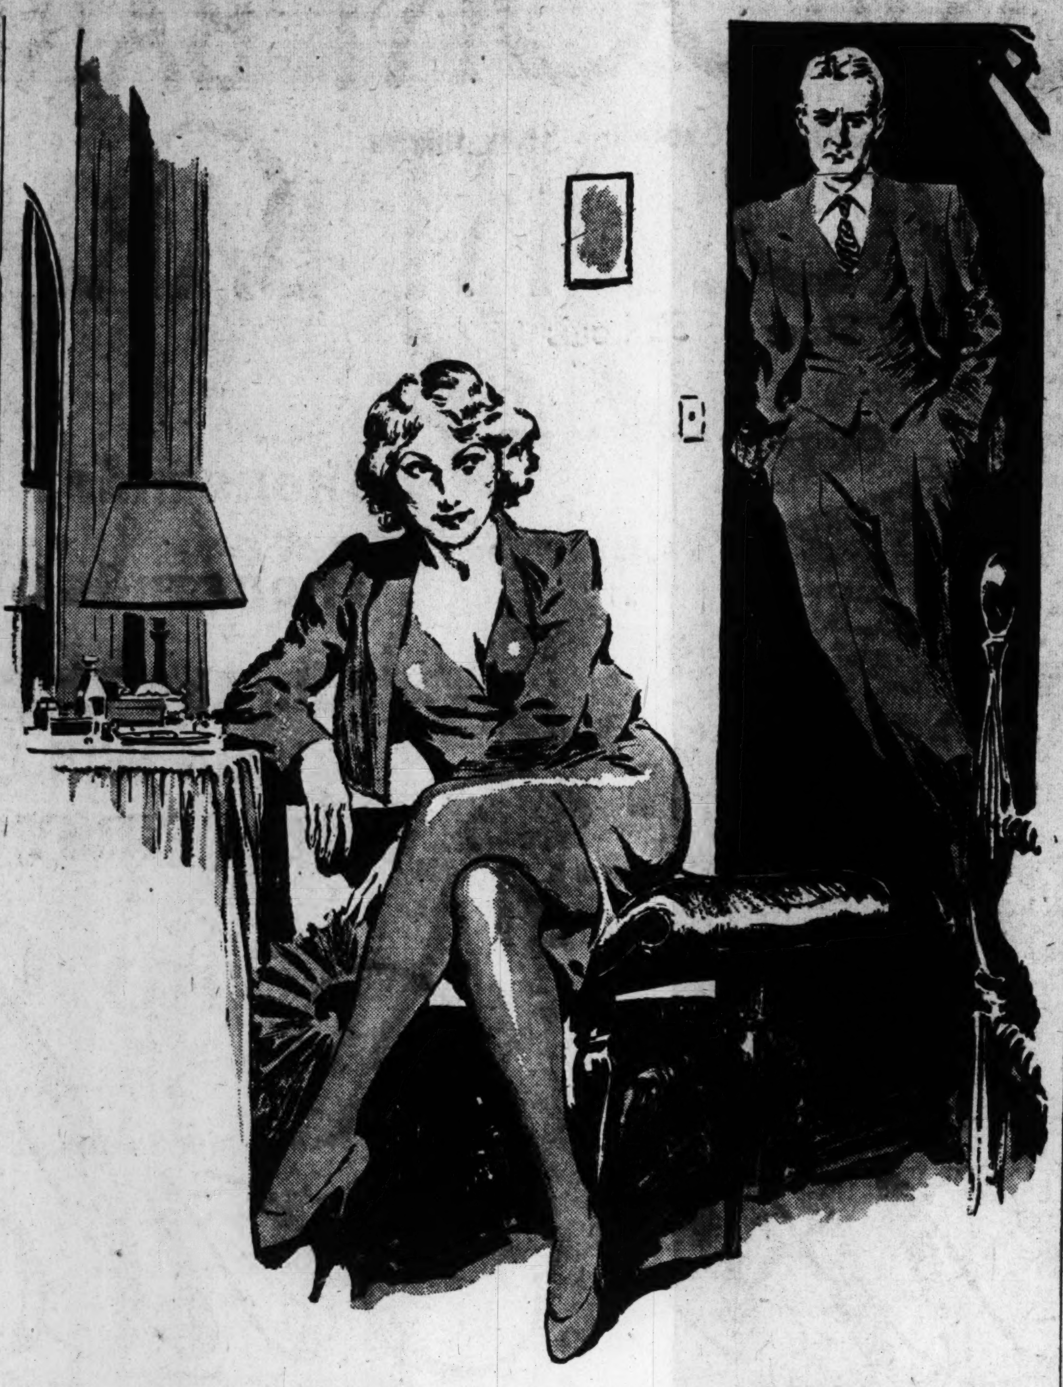
The Wife Who Needed a Spanking

— By SAM E. SMYTH —



"You look charming," offered Phillip, leaning leisurely against the door. . . . The humming bird stopped humming. . . . "Hadn't you better start your Captain Kidd makeup?"

"WILSON, you may tell Hargis I'll be ready in 10 minutes."

"Very good, Mrs. Bannistar."

"I'll take the Mercedes."

"Very good, Mrs. Bannistar."

"London" Lonnie was feeling his way cautiously along a dark upstairs hallway when this conversation halted him. Suddenly, a cluster of brilliant light directly over Lonnie's head switched on.

He shaded the peak of a dark cap over small, humorous eyes and took a swift survey; three open bedrooms on the right; on the left, two closed doors. He opened the nearest door, a large trunk closet, just as the soft tread of feet on heavily carpeted stairs came to him.

"I'll take the trunk closet, Wilson," he smiled. "Very good, sir."

Bobbing into the closet and closing the door quietly, he draped a cauliflower ear over the keyhole. Feet swished past the closet door, and stopped.

Looking through the keyhole, Lonnie saw two exquisitely curved, feminine, red stockinged legs. Stooping, his eyes traveled leisurely up to a short red skirt, then to a fussy red jacket, and finally Oh! Oh!'d at a lovely oval face.

Topping this flaming female was a large red hood from under which stray locks of straw-gold peeped out. The lady was in a worried stew about something.

"She's going as Little Red Riding Hood," mused the man in the closet, his eye dropping helplessly down to her leggings again. "Now, if I were the wolf, I'd start on the legs. Oh, Mrs. Conda Bannistar?" He bowed. "I am delighted to meet you. I've admired your diamonds."

"London" Lonnie had been stealing American diamonds and money for so many years that even his accent was now American.

Mrs. Conda Bannistar snapped on a light and disappeared into a bedroom across the hall.

"Little Red Riding Hood's expression," frowned Lonnie, "looked like she had already seen the wolf." He vacuumed the cauliflower ear to the keyhole and dialed it around trying to tune in on what she was doing. She was telephoning. "She's married. She's worried. She's alone. No woman can stand that very long without talking."

"Hullo," came from across the hall. "Jeoffrey? . . . Yes. I was afraid you had left. . . . Listen. Behave tonight. Phillip is inquisitive. . . . No, nothing definite. I must ask you again for those letters. . . . Yes, but you've lied to me right along. Be a good boy and . . . Oh, my God, Jeff! You can't mean that!"

Lonnie caught a sob. She was listening. Jeoffrey had a lot to say. Presently, she broke out with: "So, that's what you are! I loathe you! Do you hear? Phillip will divorce me! . . . Jeff! JEFF!"

He had hung up on her. She dropped the receiver on its hook, with: "Oh, oh, I'm in for it!"

Lonnie shook his head. "That's a shame." He sighed mockingly. "Don't you know, Conda, that the devil's horns are in the velvet when the tail is in the silk?" He yawned. "Serves you right, you little fool. Hang onto the letters, Jeff. It's a good racket."

Her room was quiet. "Well, it's your mess, Conda, but I wish you'd move and get out of there. I'm not a guest, you know."

Jeoffrey Dayne had recently come over from England. What for, New York didn't seem to care. The fellow was a well-mixed cocktail: a dash of D'Artagnan, a measure of Monte Cristo, the bouquet of Beau Brummell, a nip of the Devil. Conda and Dayne had found each other a whetstone upon which to sharpen wits.

The grindstone epitomized Phillip and his commercial activities. Conda was just a lovely flower to perfume his home. Phillip was a poor horticulturist . . . so poor, that the lovely flower kept itself fresh and fragrant by feeding on the attention others willingly gave.

A door downstairs closed with a bang. The percussion caused the closet door to rattle. Lonnie's eye found the keyhole. He smiled. Conda's leggings were framed in the doorway across the hall.

Firm steps on the stairs. The red leggings disappeared into the bedroom, then soft humming.

"I'll bet that is an effort," chuckled Lonnie.

Bannistar swished down the hall and halted at her bedroom door, where he stood in dour silence.

Lonnie quietly approved Bannistar's six feet one, the Barrymore profile, the resolute jaw. "Money maker. Lets the girl friend drift. So busy chasing the dame on the dollar that the dame in the home coins her own slogan of liberty."

Bannistar stood silent, motionless, gazing in at Conda. Her soft humming seemed to irritate him.

"Well, Bluebeard," sighed Lonnie, "make up your mind what to do with Fatima. She must be playing that old game, 'I didn't hear you come. . . .'"

"Oh, Phillip," came from across the hall. "I didn't hear you come in." A little laugh of surprise trailed off into humming again.

"Watch your step, lady," frowned Lonnie. "The boy friend knows something!"

The humming bird stopped humming. "Hadn't you better start your Capt. Kidd makeup?"

He ignored the advice. "If I remember correctly," he said, and his tone implied that he did, "Little Red Riding Hood met a wolf, didn't she?"

The subtlety of the words plunged her into silence.

"Smart crack," sighed Lonnie. "Now, lady, let's see you keep the wolf from the door."

Bannistar evidently thought that was enough for her to think about. He turned as if to go down the hall when she spoke.

"I think she did," Conda laughed, feebly. "I can't hope to meet a wolf at a masquerade, can I, Phillip?"

He turned back quickly. "Can't you?" It was quite clear what he meant.

Bannistar went into the room. "There's too much talk," he blurted, "about you and Dayne."

She was making a lot of unnecessary noise opening and shutting drawers. "Missed choice scandal, haven't I?"

"You mean messed," corrected Lonnie.

"Stop it, will you!" Her voice burst like a crash of lightning.

Lonnie nearly slipped off the trunk. The room was quiet.

"Ladies and gentlemen," apologized Lonnie, "this program has been interrupted by technical difficulties over which this sta . . ."

"I've danced, lunched with Dayne, yes," she pouted. "What of it?"

"There you are, Phil," nodded Lonnie. "What of it?"

"Dayne's goal," he cried warningly, "is money, my money! His reputation is stamped all over him!" He appeared in the doorway, lips tight.

"Pardon me, but the lady," offered Lonnie, "needs a damn good spanking, Phil. And you need a good swift kick in the same identical, anatomical location."

"Going with me?" Banistar shot back at her.

"No. Hargis is driving me."

He strode down the hall and into his bedroom. After ramming around noisily, he yelled to her. "Wilson put my costume in the trunk closet?"

"I think so," she called back. Lonnie scrambled off the trunk and burrowed deep into the closet. Then she added: "Oh, I forgot. It's in your closet, after all."

Bannistar's hand was turning the trunk closet doorknob when she spoke. He grunted and went back to his room.

"Ah, fair Lady of the Lovely Leggings," sighed Lonnie, thankfully, "birds of a feather will flock together."

She appeared in the doorway, a black cape snugged about her. "I'm going now," she called. "Be along soon?"

"Shortly."

She started down the stairs, stopped and called back: "Love me?"

Silence. Then, loudly: "What's that?"

"Love me?"

A pause. "Oh, of course. Run along."

"And beware of the wolf."

She floated down the stairs, the front door closed, and the house was quiet.

"Now," sighed Lonnie, stretching luxuriously, "Capt. Kidd, if you'll kindly get the hell out of there, I'll have a little peace and quiet and some other things. Candidly, I think you're a he old maid. If you'd take that shapely kid in your arms once in a while and crush the devil out of her she wouldn't hunt up every Tom, Dick and Dayne."

Bannistar appeared in the doorway.

"Wilson!"

"Yes, sir," from the butler downstairs.

"Did a Mr. Corson call?"

"No, sir."

"Oh. He was coming over to show me his costume. Keep your head, Wilson, if something scarey shows up. Corson's a cutup."

"Very good, sir."

Bannistar presently strode down the stairs in swashbuckling boots, nasty cutlass and a great floppy pirate hat, and left the house.

Lonnie lost no time. Conda's bedroom lights were still on as he slid across the hall. Silent, deft fingers worked through drawers. He frowned. Then he ran finger tips along under the edge of Conda's massive dressing table and bumped into a button.

He selected three rings, the good necklace and a pendant. Someone was coming up the stairs.

"Wilson," he nodded, "to turn off the lights."

As his eye swept the room for a hiding place, something wild popped into his head. He started whistling and sauntered out into the hall. Wilson's mouth fell open.

Lonnie smiled easily at the massive butler. "Is Phil in?" he whispered. His self-possession and brazen poise slit a sudden grin across Wilson's face.

"Righto." Lonnie flipped his coat collar up, cocked cap over one eye, and hunched his head out. "Who am I, Wilson?"

Wilson laughed. "That's easily fixed, sir."

They went downstairs, arm in arm.

"I'M sure Mr. Bannistar," winked Wilson, opening a bottle, "would want me to pay his bet with the best."

Lonnie waved a careless hand. "Oh, Phil would go the limit for me." Presently he pressed Wilson, with: "What do you make of this affair between Conda and Dayne?"

"Nothing good, sir."

"No real affection?"

"Not a hoot."

"No?"

"I mean Dayne."

"No?"

Wilson sighed and dipped deeper into the mess. "He's a bad one, sir. Shot at in Vienna . . . this Dayne. Friend of mine working at The Clarendon where Dayne lives, got hold of it. Affair similar to this."

"Lives at The Clarendon," mused Lonnie, absently.

Ten minutes later Wilson was dozing on a davenport. Lonnie raised a window and vanished into the night.

MRS. BANNISTAR got home, after the ball, a few minutes ahead of Phillip. She was flushed and nervous. Looking about to make sure that Phillip had not yet returned, she went to her room, locked the door and got Dayne on the telephone.

"Jeoffrey? . . . I want to see you, early, tomorrow," she told him. "I'll . . . buy those letters from you with my necklace. Hear me?"

Dayne was silent for a moment. Then a mocking laugh tumbled into her ear.

"Conda, dear," he said, "I bow to your cleverness. You've won. Totally unlooked for, I assure you. I'm sailing in the morning."

He hung up. She was trying to solve his words when there was a soft rap on the door.

"It's Wilson, Mrs. Bannistar!" It was a whisper. She opened the door. "Mr. Corson," whispered Wilson, "said to give this to you when alone." He handed her a small package.

"Harry Corson?" she whispered, doubtfully.

She took the package and locked the door. There was a note under the string. She read:

"Mrs. Bannistar:

"I was unavoidably delayed in the trunk closet when you telephoned Dayne. I heard your witty repartee with Phillip. Pardon me, but you need a damn good spanking. You saved my hide when you told Phillip his costume was in his own closet. So I thought the least a gentleman could do to reciprocate was to save your hide. Here are your letters. Wilson told me where Dayne lived.

"P. S.—My services come high. I took your necklace and some other trinkets.

"The Man in the Closet."

Engagament o Dr. Will

THE engagement of Miss Jane Moulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Horace Moulton of Brentmoor, and Dr. Willard Bartlett Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Willard Bartlett, 53 Westmoreland place, was announced late yesterday afternoon at a small informal tea given by Mrs. Moulton at their home for a group of Miss Moulton's friends. The announcement is one of the first of the post-Lenten season, and is of unusual interest. The wedding is planned for June.

Miss Moulton attended Hosmer Hall and Gunston Hall, Washington. She has traveled extensively and two years ago accompanied her mother to China for the wedding of her sister, Miss Matilda Moulton, and Charles McQueen Gee, which took place at the American Embassy in Tokio. Mr. and Mrs. Gee make their home in Hongkong. Miss Moulton is also a sister of Mrs. James Crawford Ward of Kansas City, formerly Miss Grace Moulton, and William H. Moulton Jr. She was a debutante of the past winter, and her coming out party, a rainbow ball at the St. Louis Country Club, was an outstanding event on the winter social calendar. She is a niece of Mrs. James T. Pettus, Mrs. Francis Thatcher Cutts and Miss Rachel Watkins.

Dr. Bartlett is a grandson of the late Robert M. Wilson, a founder of the Church of the Holy Communion and a member of the original committee of St. Luke's Hospital. His paternal grandfather was Dr. Aurelius T. Bartlett, who served as a surgeon throughout the Civil War. He is a grand-nephew of the late Rt. Rev. Charles F. Robertson, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri for many years.

Dr. Bartlett attended Smith Academy, Lawrenceville Preparatory

THE first large post-Lenten wedding took place last night at 8:30 o'clock at the West Presbyterian Church, when Miss Jean Lungstras, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lungstras, 25 Wydown terrace, became the bride of Donald D. Cramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cramer, 7330 Pershing avenue. The marriage service was read by the Rev. William B. Lampe in the presence of several hundred guests. The candle light ceremony was followed by a small reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lungstras.

Palms and ferns were banked about the pulpit which was illuminated by white candles in candelabra. The aisle was lighted by candles in tall holders tied with bows of heavy white silk cord. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin made simply on long close fitting lines. There was a square decolletage and long tight sleeves of the satin. PART SIX. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 1, 1934. PAGES 1— G

Engagament of Miss Jane Moulton to Dr. Willard Bartlett Jr. Announced

News Disclosed at Party Given by Mother of Bride-to-Be—Wedding Is Planned for June—Miss Moulton, a Debutante of Past Winter, Has Traveled Extensively.

THE engagement of Miss Jane Moulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Horace Moulton of Brentmoor, and Dr. Willard Bartlett Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Willard Bartlett, 53 Westmoreland place, was announced late yesterday afternoon at a small informal tea given by Mrs. Moulton at their home for a group of Miss Moulton's friends. The announcement is one of the first of the post-Lenten season, and is of unusual interest. The wedding is planned for June.

Miss Moulton attended Hosmer Hall and Gunston Hall, Washington. She has traveled extensively and two years ago accompanied her mother to China for the wedding of her sister, Miss Matilda Moulton, and Charles McQueen Gee, which took place at the American Embassy in Tokio. Mr. and Mrs. Gee make their home in Hongkong. Miss Moulton is also a sister of Mrs. James Crawford Ward of Kansas City, formerly Miss Grace Moulton, and William H. Moulton Jr. She was a debutante of the past winter, and her coming out party, a rainbow ball at the St. Louis Country Club, was an outstanding event on the winter social calendar. She is a niece of Mrs. James T. Pettus, Mrs. Francis Thatcher Cutts and Miss Rachel Watkins.

Dr. Bartlett is a grandson of the late Robert M. Wilson, a founder of the Church of the Holy Communion and a member of the original committee of St. Luke's Hospital. His paternal grandfather was Dr. Aurelius T. Bartlett, who served as a surgeon throughout the Civil War. He is a grand-nephew of the late Rt. Rev. Charles F. Robertson, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri for many years.

Dr. Bartlett attended Smith Academy, Lawrenceville Preparatory School, Lawrenceville, N. J., and Princeton University, where he was graduated in 1922. He took his degrees in medicine at Washington University and the University of Michigan, and following post-graduate work in this country and in Europe, he returned to St. Louis in 1928. Since then he has been associated with his father in the practice of surgery.

As the guests were being served in the dining room at the tea yesterday the doors were opened into the adjoining breakfast room, disclosing a table on which was arranged a miniature estate. A Colonial doll house with flower-filled window boxes and draperies was in the center of a grass plot with trees and flowering shrubs about the lawn. An automobile was parked at the side, and a door mat at the front entrance was marked with the letter "B." Cards on which were written the names of Miss Moulton and her fiance were attached to packages given to the guests, and which contained miniature household appliances, such as washing machines, carpet sweepers and vacuum cleaners.

Jean Lungstras Bride of D. O. Cramer

THE first large post-Lenten wedding took place last night at 8:30 o'clock at the West Presbyterian Church, when Miss Jean Lungstras, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lungstras, 25 Wydown terrace, became the bride of Donald O. Cramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cramer, 7330 Pershing avenue. The marriage service was read by the Rev. William B. Lampe in the presence of several hundred guests. The candle light ceremony was followed by a small reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lungstras.

Palms and ferns were banked about the pulpit which was illuminated by white candles in candelabra. The aisle was lighted by candles in tall holders tied with bows of heavy white silk cord. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin made simply on long close fitting lines. There was a square decolletage and long tight sleeves of the satin. The skirt molded the figure to the knees where it flared into a three-yard train. The only trimming was achieved by several rows of corded satin that edged the train. The bride's veil of white tulle was held in place by orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley tied with white tulle.

Miss Virginia Riesmeyer, the bride's cousin was maid of honor. Miss Riesmeyer wore a gown of jonquil yellow embroidered organdie. The off-the-shoulder neckline was finished with ruching of net and the long close fitting skirt was trimmed at the back by three godets outlined with the net ruching. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers in delicate pastel shades.

Miss Louise Cason and Miss Aileen Blanke, the bridesmaids, wore princess gowns of lime green crepe fashioned with high, straight necklines at the front and a deep V at the back. The mousquitaire glove sleeves were trimmed with braided cording. The skirts were fitted to the knees and flared into

Woman's Club Group To Give Fashion Show

ONE of the most elaborate programs of the season at the St. Louis Woman's Club will be a play and fashion show to be given Thursday by the Junior Committee. Luncheon will be served in the banquet room at 1 o'clock, and the entertainment will follow in the second floor ballroom. The play, "Le Matin, L'Apres Midi, et Le Soir," is being directed by the Service Bureau, Inc. The scene is laid in a modern modiste's shop where the correct ensembles for morning, afternoon and evening are being selected.

Mrs. William Glasgow O'Fallon will introduce Mme. Modiste, played by Mrs. Arthur Proetz, who has been invited to assemble smart spring outfits. She finds a perfect "36" in a dressmakers' model which becomes animated with Mrs. B. F. Hickman's head and arms behind it as she recites "Perfect 36." In the second scene, called "Just Another Strange Interlude," two French maids, Mrs. Ralph Fischer

Member of Pioneer Plant Family to Be Married May 22 at Christ Church Cathedral.

NOTES have been received by friends of the prospective bride announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Berry Plant Meyer, daughter of Mrs. Norburn Berry Meyer, 5260 Westminster place, and Carl F. Meyer, 4525 Lindell boulevard, to Errett Fisher Stuart Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Errett F. Stuart, 23 Plant avenue, Webster Groves.

The wedding will take place May 22 at 10:30 o'clock in the morning at Christ Church Cathedral, Dean Sidney Sweet officiating. The bride will be given in marriage by her father. Mr. and Mrs. Calvin B. Stuart, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, will be best man and matron of honor, respectively, and the only attendants. Mr. Stuart and his bride will leave immediately after the ceremony for their honeymoon.

Miss Meyer attended the John Burroughs School in St. Louis and was graduated from St. Margaret's School in Waterbury, Conn. Her paternal grandmother is Mrs. George F. Meyer, 470 Lake avenue, who was the daughter of the late Samuel Plant, a pioneer St. Louisan. Her maternal grandmother is Mrs. Samuel Adams Berry of Oakland, Cal. The late Mr. Berry was a grand-nephew of John Quincy Adams.

Mr. Stuart attended Washington University and is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

Lorraine Bell To Be Bride of Army Officer

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the engagement of Miss Lorraine de Courval Bell, daughter of Col. Ola Walter Bell, U. S. A., formerly of St. Louis, and Lieut. Richard Tide Coiner Jr., son of Mrs. Richard Tide Coiner of Washington. Miss Bell's mother, who was Miss Hortense Poulin of St. Louis before her marriage, died more than a year ago. Lieut. Coiner's father was the late Col. Coiner, U. S. A.

Miss Bell is a graduate of Sacred Heart Academy in St. Louis. Several years ago she accompanied her family to Fort Bliss, Tex., where Col. Bell was in command of the Seventh Cavalry. They are now in Portland, Ore., and Col. Bell is associated with the Organized Reserves. Miss Bell is expected to arrive in St. Louis next month to visit her grandmother, Mrs. R. N. Poulin, 10 North Kingshighway, and in June will go to Fort Bliss to visit her fiance, who is attached to her father's former regiment, and his mother.

Miss Bell is a sister of Mrs. Konrad C. Beck of Hutchinson, Kan., formerly Miss Mildred Lucille Bell, and B. St. Aubin Bell, who makes his home with his father. Mrs. Beck arrived in St. Louis yesterday to visit her grandmother for two weeks.

The wedding date has not been set.

Elomise Williams To Wed D. G. Johnson

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the engagement of Miss Elomise Jane Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Williams, 6944 Marquette avenue, and Daniel Gratiot Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel S. M. Johnson, 6129 Victoria avenue. The wedding will take place at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, April 26, at Emanuel Episcopal Church of Webster Groves, with the Rev. J. Manley Cobb officiating.

Miss Ferrel Altton will be maid of honor and Miss Jeanne Blythe will be bridesmaid. Brent Murphy will serve at best man for Mr. Johnson and Albert Williams, brother of the prospective bride, will be groomsman. A reception will follow the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss Williams is the niece of Mrs. Philander Lewis and a great-niece of the late Cyrus McCormick. Mr. Johnson is a direct descendant of Charles Gratiot and of Pierre Laclede. His mother was Miss Clara Gratiot and he is a nephew of Mrs. James Chauvin Blythe, who was Miss Bertha Gratiot.

THIS NEW YORK

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NEW YORK, March 31.

JUST as Friday afternoon is from time immemorial dedicated in Boston to symphony concert in Huntington Avenue, so that nobody ever thinks of entertaining either at lunch or tea on that day, so Sunday afternoon among Manhattan music patrons is dedicated to Philharmonic at Carnegie Hall. There the pious gather in the name of Beethoven and Bach, Brahms and Mozart, and when Toscanini raises his baton and his hundred-odd musicians sweep into the opening measures of the Eroica, the Pathetique, or a poem of Ravel, the place becomes an oasis of pure classicism in a brash and discordant world.

As Philharmonic is a ritual so is its observance formal. Morning tailcoats and lavender-striped trousers are the rule for gentlemen, and pearl and their best mink and broadtail for their ladies. We took Katharine Brush, brave in half a peck of diamonds, black chiffon velvet, last Sunday and sat right behind, of all people, Clifton Webb. Edwin Arlington Robinson, shyest of all poets, was across the auditorium from us, and Lawrence Gilman, Pitts Sanborn, Olin Downes and the other music critics were in their accustomed aisle seats. When the players had crashed through the thunderous concluding measures of Brahms's First Symphony and the conductor had taken his usual 10 curtain calls we went out to find it raining gently. It was, somehow, appropriate as we walked over to the Waldorf for tea, and made the transition from emotional surge to reality less abrupt.

A gracious lady of society, Mrs. Levina Spencer, recently lost her pocketbook while out for a day's shopping. It had no money in it but it did contain her safe deposit keys and some memoranda of importance, and she advertised for its return. It was brought back by an honest taxi driver to whom she gave $5 for his trouble. Later she found a $10 bill in the purse which hadn't been there when she lost it. She's still thinking about that.

A restaurant which Manhattan gourmets feel they must visit when the Delaware shad comes into the market and bock beer signs illustrate the billboards of the town is Gage & Tolner's ancient fish house in darkest Brooklyn. This conservative and unpretentious old ordinary is across the East River in the Borough Hall district. Its lighting is from scrolled and florid electroliers that must have been installed in the '80s. The chairs are firm, the cloths plain; the crockery could stand a drop from the Empire State observation tower and be in service next day. But the food is superb, the service from the darkies who have been with the house, many of them, these 40 years, is deferentially casual, and the fine ales of the house are the wonder and glory of Brooklyn.

You go there for fish and nothing but, and when you have polished off two dozen of the world's finest oysters, Cotuits, Lynnhaven's or what you please, a bowl of Maine lobster chowder, and a couple of firm white pompano broiled over a charcoal range, you know you have been dining as never did the Emperor Charles V, the greatest eatall of history. You will, too, have drunk your cream ale out of pewter mugs a sight older than the house itself. No giddy night resort, Tolner's closes along 9 of an evening, indicating that Brooklynities do not dine but still retain the older custom of supper.

Around the town: Mike Romanoff has a job again; he is making short curtain speeches on the history of Russian royalty before each showing of "Catherine the Great." . . . "Tips on Tables," by George Ross, is the best post-repeal handbook on New York restaurants. . . .

Smart Fifth avenue jewelers are showing basket-woven gold cigarette boxes for men, holding 36 smokes. . . . Richard Newton, Brook Club luminary and man about the boulevards, lunches Saturdays at the Ritz, magnificent in pearl gray morning coat and black Ascot tie. . . . There are a few cases of Berncasteler Doktor Spatlese from the cellars of the Prince von Metternich in the wine stores The glass from which Wagner drank his nightly toddy is on Arturo Toscanini's piano at home. . . . Prince Obolsenski serves raw carrots for horse d'oeuvres. . . . The Dutch Treat dinner is to be April 6. . . . Marion Cooley's Sunday evening flag raisings at the Ship Grill are very smart. . . . It's about time for a 'Union League member to write in about the first robin.

Vassar Club Benefit Speaker

—Jules Pierlow.

MRS. NIKANDER STRELSKY, who, with Mr. Strelsky, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lionberger Davis of Brentmoor. Mr. Strelsky, teacher of the Russian language and literature at Vassar College, will be the speaker at the Vassar Club benefit to be given tomorrow night at the Wednesday Club.

Additional Horse Show Committees

WOMEN and girl riders in local horse shows will serve on additional committees which are in charge of the annual St. Louis Spring Horse Show to take place May 18, 19, and 20 at the arena of the Missouri Stables.

Students from Maryville College, Fontbonne College, Hosmer Hall, The Principia, Visitation Convent and Mary Institute will serve on the ticket committee along with Miss Margaret Rumsey, Miss Edith Soloman, Miss Margaret Holekamp, Miss Anita Barnes, Mrs. Elmer Kerckhoff and Mrs. Donald L. Barnes. Miss Marie Hanns and Miss Lenadore Bass have been chosen as Fontbonne's representatives.

A large dinner early in May will be the first of a series of social events held in connection with the spring show. More than 100 local enthusiasts, representing the riding and hunt clubs, country clubs and equestrian organizations, will be invited.

Although the show is several weeks away, Mat S. Cohen, manager, reports that the Bridlespur Hunt Club, St. Louis Country Club, Westwood Country Club, Osage Country Club, Riding and Hunt Club, Countryside Hunt Club and numerous privately owned stables will be represented in various stakes and classes.

Social Life in the National Capital

WASHINGTON, March 31.

THE national capital tomorrow will observe Easter in the usual manner with Fashionable Connecticut avenue as the popular boulevard for promenaders.

President Roosevelt, who is in the South on a fishing trip, will be missed at the Easter services. Mrs. Roosevelt plans to attend the Easter sunrise service at Arlington, and should the weather be fair, she may go on a picnic later in the day.

There will be the annual Easter egg rolling Monday at the White House. "Sistie" and "Buzzie" Dall will be prominent in the group viewing the festivities from the south portico.

The Soviet Ambassador and Mme. Troyanovsky next week will take up their residence in what was once the imperial Russian embassy.

Mr. and Mrs. William Culbertson are remodeling a home in Charmian, Pa., and expect to have every thing in readiness for the summer by June. Their daughters, Jean and Jane, are students at Bryn Mawr College. Jane will graduate June 6 and after her graduation, the Culbertson family will go to Charmian.

TRAVEL NOTES

Mrs. A. J. Motzel, 6238 Washington boulevard, and her two sons, Albert and Billy, have gone to Cape Girardeau to visit her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wulfers.

Hyde Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Forbes Johnson, 7179 Washington boulevard, who is a senior at Cornell University, has arrived to spend the Easter season with his parents. His wife, formerly Miss Emily Gillham, preceded him here two weeks ago, and has been with her mother, Mrs. E. E. Gillham, 4509 Washington boulevard.

Miss Louise Helen Faherty, who is a student at St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, Ind., is spending the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Faherty, 6635 Arsenal street.

Mrs. Alfred F. Steiner, 6222 Fauquier drive, has departed for a visit in New York City.

and Mrs. Albert Happel, assisting Mme. Modiste, select the three costumes, and in the following episode the hats are fitted on two apparently wax heads which prove to be those of Mrs. Nelson Howe and Miss Mary Louise Hammett, who sing "The Easter Parade."

In the second act correct shoes are fitted on feet protruding from a black velvet back drop and posed first on bicycle pedals, next on a davenport, and for evening sandals at a bar, where they are discovered to be those of Mrs. Edward Morton Banister and Mrs. Henry Hale Rand. Mrs. Lawrence Sherrill's arms are to be used for correct accessories.

A specialty dance will be given by Mrs. Arthur H. Feuerbacher Jr., Mrs. Edward G. Bischoff and Mrs. Edgar E. Rand, and afterwards there will be a parade of manequins and Mrs. Banister, Mrs. Louis Dennig and Mrs. Henry Rand wearing the perfect costumes for morning, afternoon and evening, respectively. The other models will be Mrs. Ira Fisher in tennis clothes; Mrs. Walter B. Muckerman dressed for shooting; Mrs. Myles S. Hasgall, for swimming; Mrs. Jerome Kircher, riding; Mrs. William C. Houser, as a spectator; Mrs. George W. Holmes, for shopping; Mrs. Stanley Waite, as chic; Mrs. Nelson H. Howe, attired for the garden; Mrs. Lawrence Sherrill, in a hostess gown; Miss Anne Becker, as elegance; and Mrs. B. F. Hickman, as glamour.

The finale will be a Dance of Vanity, with Mrs. Edgar Rand as the peacock, assisted by Mrs. Bischoff and Mrs. Feuerbacher, Mrs. Ralph Fischer, Mrs. Ira Fischer, Miss Elizabeth Jamison, Mrs. Eldred Woolwine and Mrs. Muckerman.

Lecture on "Great Masters."

Mrs. Marjorie Bell Hinrichs, past president of the Delphian Council and national Delphian supervisor, has been chosen general chairman for a lecture to be presented by Dr. Dudley Crafts Watson at 8:15 p. m. Friday at the Soldan High School auditorium, under auspices of the Delphian Society. Dr. Watson's subject will be "Great Masters, Past and Present."

Marion W. Smith was best man. The groomsmen were: Edward Paul Lungstras, brother of the bride; Chester Wolf, Robert Haase, John Murphy of Kansas City, Mo., and Mitchum Warren of Paris, Tenn.

Mrs. Lungstras wore deep cream lace over matching satin with which she wore a short jacket of the lace edged with kolinsky. She wore a shoulder corsage of orchids. Mrs. Cramer wore periwinkle blue lace and a corsage of orchids.

The bridal party received in the living room of the Lungstras home before the mantle which was adorned with calla lilies. At each side of the mantle were wrought iron candelabra holding white tapers. The reception table had as a centerpiece a silver bowl filled with white snapdragon and white sweet peas.

The bride gave her attendants evening bags and Mr. Cramer gave his best man and groomsmen gold key rings.

Mr. Cramer and his bride will spend their honeymoon in the South, and on their return will live at 623 Forest Court.

Steuben Society Entertainment.

The Steuben Society of St. Louis will hold an entertainment at 8 p. m., April 12, at the German House. Dr. Rudolph Hoffmeister will show travel pictures of Stuttgart, Germany, and Clark McAdams will give an illustrated lecture on "Flowers of the Ozarks."

What Women Are Doing In Politics

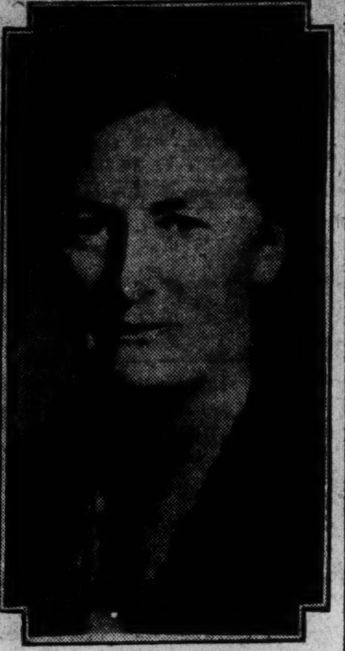
DEMOCRATIC women from every part of Missouri will go to Jefferson City Thursday and Friday of this week to attend the most important state meeting of their party since the presidential campaign. Miss Mary W. Dewson, director of the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee, is coming from New York City to be the principal speaker. The convention was called by Mrs. Mary Edna Cruzen, Commissioner of Labor and Industrial Inspection and vice chairman of the Democratic State Committee. The sessions Friday will be held in the House of Representatives' chamber with Gov. Park opening the meeting. In the afternoon, Mrs. Park will receive the delegates at a tea in the executive mansion.

The chief topic of discussion at the convention will be party organization. It is Miss Dewson's opinion that Democratic women's clubs should take greater interest in legislation; should work for the enactment of unemployment insurance, minimum wage laws, and other welfare measures recommended in the party platform of 1932. Her interest is the outgrowth of her early study of the conditions of women in industry. Soon after her graduation from Wellesley, she became an assistant in the Massachusetts Girls' Parole Department. There she saw the struggle of the working girl to make both ends meet, terminating too often in discouragement and waywardness. Her interest soon turned to what she felt to be the fundamental side of social service, the improvement of working conditions, particularly the need for a living wage. When the Massachusetts State Commission was formed to investigate the advisability of minimum wage legislation, she was appointed secretary and it was in great part due to her that a form of minimum wage law was passed.

During the World War, Miss Dewson served in France as zone chief of the Bureau of Refugees of the American Red Cross. Returning, she took part in the suffrage campaign, going from door to door throughout the New England countryside, spreading the gospel of votes for women. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Miss Dewson came to gether in the early twenties through their common interest in wage-earning women. Later, when Miss Dewson became president of the Consumers' League of New York and Mrs. Roosevelt was the wife of the Governor, they were able to realize some of their plans for which they had toiled for years.

Equally important at the meetings to be held in Jefferson City this week will be the discussion of a different method of organization for Democratic women's clubs. Miss Dewson favors a form of organization in which the committeewoman would head the local club. This is at variance with the plan sponsored by the recently organized Missouri Federation of Women's Democratic Clubs. The program for the convention Thursday will be devoted to discussion and adoption of the new constitution of the federation. The St. Louis delegation will be headed by Mrs. Charles B. Faris, national committeewoman for Missouri, and Mrs. Thomas J. Cole, vice-president of the federation.

Democratic Leader



MISS MARY W. DEWSON of New York City, director of the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee, who will be the principal speaker at the State convention of Democratic women to be held Thursday and Friday in Jefferson City.

The Democratic women of Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth Congressional districts will meet at the Jefferson Hotel, Tuesday at 2 p. m., for the purpose of organizing congressional district clubs to be affiliated with the State Federation of Women's Democratic Clubs.

The vice chairmen, Mrs. Charles Cornell, of the eleventh, Mrs. Annabel Engel of the twelfth, Mrs. Catherine Butler of the thirteenth district and the presidents of the Democratic clubs of the respective districts will serve as a nominating committee.

Mrs. Thomas J. Cole, vice president of the State Federation and chairman of the organization committee, and Mrs. Lawrence McDaniel, recording secretary, will assist with the organization.

The Republican Woman's Club of St. Louis, of which Mrs. Walter J. G. Neun is president, will give its annual spring card party Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in the Stix, Baer & Fuller grill room. Mrs. E. H. Rabenberg, 7201 Southwest avenue, is general chairman of the committee in charge, and Mrs. A. F. Kansteiner, 3223 Eads avenue, is chairman of the ticket committee.

The Sixteenth Ward Democratic organization gave a birthday surprise party recently in the Shaw Bank Building, Grand boulevard and Park avenue, in honor of Mrs. Lottis Walsh, committee woman of the ward. Col. J. C. Phelan, Police Commissioner, spoke, and presented Mrs. Walsh with a desk set.

WEDDINGS and ENGAGEMENTS

ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagement of Miss Helen Ann Galvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Galvin, 7267 Lindell boulevard, to Daniel Joseph O'Connell, 4053 Cottage avenue, was made at a luncheon yesterday at the home of the prospective bride's parents.

Miss Galvin is a graduate of the Academy of the Sacred Heart and Mr. O'Connell attended St. Louis University. The wedding will take place next fall.

Miss Edna Crusius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Crusius, 3534 Halliday avenue, will become the bride of Adolph Carl Weber, son of Mrs. Harry C. Weber, 4033 Flad avenue, at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Messiah Evangelical Church. The Rev. William F. Wilk will read the marriage service. Only relatives and a few friends will witness the ceremony which will be followed by a wedding breakfast for members of the bridal party and the immediate families.

Miss Alice Crusius, the prospective bride's sister, will be her maid of honor and Louis E. Hinrichs will be Mr. Weber's best man.

Miss Crusius is a graduate of Washington University and a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Weber is also a graduate of Washington University where he became a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

The marriage of Miss Bernice Passer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Passer, 4353 Evans avenue, to Frank Finkelstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Finkelstein, 3548 Brown road, took place Tuesday, March 20, at a ceremony performed by Rabbi Julian Miller.

Mr. Finkelstein and his bride are making their home in St. John's, St. Louis County. A supper will be given in their honor tonight.

The marriage of Miss Bobette Herman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Herman, 6337 North Rosebury avenue, and Henry Levin, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Levin, 4747 Newberry terrace, took place Thursday, March 22, at 7 p. m., at Berger's Farm. Rabbi Samuel Thurman read the wedding service.

The bridal party passed down an aisle of fernery to an altar at each side of which was tall pink tapers in white candelabra. The red velvet canopy had an electric star in the center and many lights flickered around the platform on which the altar was set.

The bride was gowned in white lace and tulle and carried a bouquet of freesia and lilies. The bride's sister, Mrs. Cecile Herman, as matron of honor, wore a gown of light green and carried a muff of spring flowers. The bridesmaids, Miss Esther Levin, the bridegroom's sister, and Miss Claudine Bleich and Miss Janet Cohen, cousins of the bride, were gowned in pastel shades and carried muffs of spring flowers. Raymond Gasting was Mr. Levin's best man and his groomsmen were his brother, Meyer Levin, Ely Spielberg and Charles Goldstein.

The wedding ceremony was followed by a dinner, at which there were 200 guests.

Mr. Levin and his bride are making their home at 5590 Pershing avenue.

Miss Peggy M. Haden, daughter of Mrs. Thomas J. Haden of Columbus, Ga., and F. Scott Godron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Godron, 4080 Toenges avenue, St. Louis, have announced their marriage, Feb. 24, in Detroit.

SAMPLE OF GOODS ATTACHED TO NEWSPAPER ADVERTISEMENT

St. Louis Department Store in Today's Post-Dispatch Presents a Novelty.

The use of samples, or swatches, of material in newspaper advertising is inaugurated today by Scruggs, Vandervoort-Barney.

"This definitely marks a step forward in the field of advertising. It is the first time that the use of actual swatches has been attempted in an advertisement in a metropolitan newspaper. While there are many intensely interesting angles and possibilities, there are also a great many technical difficulties. The mere task of assembling the swatches and of attaching them to the newspaper is tremendous," said Frank M. Mayfield, president of Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney.

"The use of swatches in an advertisement provides a more direct way of selling. Heretofore pictures and descriptions were the sole means of depicting the merchandise to the consumer, but now this new method of sampling through the medium of the press brings the product directly to the reader."

"Almost one and a half million swatches of material were required for today's advertisement. Because of technical difficulties the use of samples in newspaper advertising cannot be called more than a tremendously interesting experiment."

Club Women to Give Auditorium Pageant

"THE History of St. Louis, in Music," a pageant given by the Eighth District Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, will open the new Municipal Auditorium Monday afternoon, April 16, at 2 o'clock. About 700 women chosen from the 88 clubs of the district will depict the growth of St. Louis from 1774, when the Indians stopped their dances to watch Chouteau and Laclede come up the Mississippi and land in their midst, to 160 years later, when St. Louis is dedicating a municipal auditorium.

Christopher Hausner will be assisted by St. Anthony's choir in singing the first mass.

Early Spanish, French and German settlers will be depicted in Spanish folk dances, French songs and German classical music. Mrs. Irene Chambers, president of the Musical Research Club, will represent Jenny Lind.

Mrs. Joseph T. Davis, president of the Eighth District, has appointed Mrs. G. Brandt Leitch as general chairman for the pageant. Mrs. Irl Johnson is author of the pageant and Mrs. Lysle Campbell is director. Chairmen of special committees: Mrs. Holmes Wager and Mrs. W. H. Sullivan, tickets; Mrs. Clarance Robbins and Mrs. Ronald Foulis, costumes; Mrs. James R. Booth and Mrs. Minnie L. Kitchen, program and song chairman; Mrs. A. S. Hinchey and Mrs. Arthur J. Kreuger, stage properties; Mrs. Coffman, music, and Mrs. Upton S. Coudy, publicity.

Do as your dentist does . . .

USE POWDER

- 100% Cleansing Properties Twice that of tooth paste
- No Grit—No Pumice Cannot possibly scratch the softest enamel
- Lasts Longer—Costs Less Outlasts tooth paste 2 to 1

Powder Cleans and Whitens Teeth—as nothing else can

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter. Free from all grit or pumice, it cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay.

Once you use powder you will never go back to a less scientific way of tooth cleansing. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

MISSOURI U. CAMPUS NOTES

WOMEN'S Student Government Association of the university elected five St. Louisans to office last week when the Big Caucus regained control of campus politics. They are: Virginia Lee Watts, senior class representative; Mary Caroline More and Rose Nelson, junior class president and representative; Esther Marie Schnaedelbach and Betty Meier, sophomore class president and representative.

Four Greek letter house chaperons are spending Easter holidays in St. Louis: Mrs. John S. Blake, Pi Kappa Alpha, the guest of friends; Mrs. Nellie Ryan, Gamma Phi Beta, visiting her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Oswald; Mrs. H. B. Vosseller, Kappa Sigma, visiting her brother, Dr. Willard Bartlett, and Mrs. Fanny G. Hemphill, Delta Tau Delta, the guest of Judge W. N. Davis and family.

St. Louis students received offices in fraternity elections this week. Ernest Rea was named president of Chi Chi Chi, honorary junior-senior organization. Tomb and Key, freshman-sophomore interfraternity chose Charles Coleman, president, and Kalvin Schoop, vice-president. Mary Virginia Edmiston heads Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Alpha Gamma Rho elected Alva M. Meyer Jr., secretary.

Among out-of-town guests in Columbia this week were: Mary Morrison at Alpha Phi house; Mary Lou Corcoran and Emily Basil at Alpha Gamma Delta spring dance; Mrs. Louise M. Stark at Phi Mu house, and Freda Marie Degler and Ethel Mallone, visiting Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Other St. Louisans were prominent at the university this week. Genevieve Lilie was initiated into Phi Mu sorority. Elizabeth Tacket of Webster Groves became a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, national music sorority, and Roberta Samuels, president, was speaker at the initiation banquet.

Curtis Betts, political writer for the Post-Dispatch and president of the St. Louis Newspaper Guild, was named one of the speakers for the twenty-fifth annual Journalism Week, May 8 to 11.

Robert Niedner, representing the university debate team, spoke in Dallas, Tex.; Tulsa, Ok.; Fayetteville, Ark., and Pittsburg, Kan., before returning to Columbia Thursday night.

Leo Woodruff, George Ittner and Gail Potter, members of the fencing team, were entertained with a supper by Coach and Mrs. John A. Cameron. The Fencing Club has scheduled matches with Imperial Club of St. Louis April 7, and St. Louis Fencing Club of Rockhill Turnverein April 14.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schultz attended the marriage of Margaret Ann Angell and Paul Cecil Mitchell. Mrs. Mitchell was Savitar queen in 1927 and a member of Delta Gamma sorority, which will soon rebuild the house destroyed by fire in 1932.

Mary Virginia Edmiston and Marian Harzy were guests at a rush luncheon of Gamma Alpha Chi, national advertising sorority, this week.

Willard H. Benton, chief of Province XVIII of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity visited the local chapter before speaking at Founders' Day Banquet of Washington University chapter. He will speak at a similar banquet here April 21.

Miss Brueggeman To Wed, April 19

MISS HELEN MARIE BRUEGGEMAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Brueggeman, 7515 Buckingham drive, has chosen Thursday, April 19, as the date of her wedding to Dr. Robert B. Karn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Karn of Mount Vernon, Ill.

The ceremony will be performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brueggeman by the Rev. Paul Zwilling, in the presence of a limited number of guests. Miss Melva Dicke will be maid of honor, and Dr. Frank Higgins best man. A wedding breakfast will follow.

After a month's trip, the destination of which has not been announced, Dr. Karn and his bride will occupy their new home on the Ennis road, St. Louis County.

One of the pre-wedding parties for Miss Brueggeman will be a lingerie shower, to be given Wednesday afternoon by Miss Ruth and Miss Marie Muckerman, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Muckerman of Lake Forest. Mrs. Brueggeman is planning a dinner to be given later.

MISS JULIA FLEIS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fleis, 7012 Virginia avenue, whose engagement to Herman Paul Winkelmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst A. Winkelmann, 310 West Schirmer street, has been announced.

BALLET TRYOUTS BEGIN FOR GRAND OPERA SEASON

50 Girls Will Be Selected; Harriet Lundgren of Chicago the Director.

Tryouts for the ballat of the grand opera season to open at the Municipal Auditorium April 21 began yesterday at 1218 Olive street. It is hoped to complete selection of the ballet of 50 girls at a second session at the same place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Harriet Lundgren of Chicago, former ballerina of the Chicago Civic Opera, will be ballet director for the season here. She danced at the Veiled Prophet entertainments in 1922, 1923 and 1924. Formerly she was director of the dancing school of Bush Conservatory, Chicago. A pupil of American and European masters, she toured Europe as a concert ballerina in 1925.

Arriving here only about two hours before the tryout was to begin, Miss Lundrgren plunged at once into her work. More than 300 girls confronted her, ranging in age from a few as young as 6 years up to 20. Most of them have not had professional experience, but have taken private lessons. Looking them over with an expert eye, Miss Lundgren had them perform first singly, then in pairs. Ballet rehearsals will begin tomorrow night and will last four hours daily.

A chorus of 100 voices has been rehearsing four times weekly since September. The operatic season of six works will begin with "Aida" and end on May 5 with "La Boheme."

New York City Staggering Under $2,500,000,000 Debt

Lloyd George On Mussolini's Foreign Policy

Briton Declares Italian Premier Thinks Austrian Independence and German Rearmament Are Both Essential to Peace of Europe.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

War-Time Premier of Great Britain.

By Special Cable.

LONDON, March 31.

THE Danube has joined up with the Tiber. The Danube—but only part of it. The German, the Czecho-Slovakian, the Jugo-Slavian and Rumanian Danube is still pursuing its old course. Hence the perturbation on its banks. And the Seine is also worried. The Thames, as usual, is sluggish and turbid.

Had it not been that Europe is in a highly nervous condition, there would be nothing to cause alarm in the Rome pact among Italy, Austria and Hungary. It is, on its face, a sound beneficent business transaction by neighbors. Its frame is on sound, practical lines. It is an endeavor to modify, if not quite to break down, some of the impenetrable barriers set up by morbid postwar nationalism.

The result of trade restriction and dancing exchanges has been that the only prosperous international trade is that of the smuggler. He is doing almost as well as the bootlegger. Perhaps it is not quite as easy to maneuver pigs across frontiers as bottles of whisky. Still the Hungarian peasant manages it.

The new pact encourages negotiations about tariffs. Hungarian grain is needed in Italy. For lack of a market, it is so cheap in Hungary that the Magyar peasant starves on the price. On the other hand Italy needs a market for its goods.

Position of Austria.

Austria, kept going on borrowed oxygen, is surrounded by semi-hostile states which regard it with scant favor and only wish to keep it alive lest its inheritance should pass into dangerous hands.

Rome is willing to do its best to get a better price for the Hungarain cultivator for his grain. Austrian and Hungary have no access to the sea. Rome will provide access and egress to and from the Adriatic. Business among the three countries has dwindled owing to the multitude and altitude of restrictions. The Rome pact undertakes to develop trade relations.

Austria and Hungary suffered severely in the economic sense owing to the mutilations of Saint-Germain. A committee of experts is to be appointed to consider what cures are possible. It is all very sound and sensible. Not only is there no cause for disquiet among other nations, there is every reason why they should follow this admirable example of practical common sense.

Why, then, should the pact have sent a quiver of uneasiness through so many other countries?

One reason is the mephitic atmosphere of suspicion which overhangs Europe. Whenever Premier Mussolini or Chancellor Hitler makes a speech or Foreign Minister Benes flits to Paris, or Chancellor Dollfuss to Rome, or if Pilsudski shakes hands with a Nazi envoy, everyone asks: "What are they up to? What does it all mean? What are they getting at?"

The Great Realist.

Invariably come the suggestions that it is all aimed at some one, that mischief is once more afoot. In every case there are fundamental facts underneath which provide a solid foothold for apprehension. Mussolini in his challenging speech on the new protocol made it clear that all these things were in his mind. He is the great realist of Europe.

Those who think that the bluffness of his utterances is mere bluster have made no study of the man or his methods. You may dislike his outlook and abhor his principle of Government, but you cannot fail to perceive that he goes straight to the point that matters.

He tears away the veil of pious, pretentious phraseology. This manner of speech is disturbing but it is also revealing. I am convinced that in the end it will help the cause of peace. The poor angel of peace has its wings so tied and wrapped in shame that it cannot fly across the hall at Geneva.

Mussolini is at least helping to tear away its swaddlings. From that point of view this last speech was helpful.

Why should he enter into a pact with Dollfuss, the sworn enemy of Nazism, and make it clear to all to whom it concerns—which pri-

Richest City in the World Frantically Seeking New Forms of Taxation to Meet Its Relentless Interest Obligations

By CHARLES G. ROSS,

Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Facts About New York City

POPULATION (estimated), 7,200,000.

Number of city employes, 140,000.

Assessed valuation of taxable property, $17,149,236,557, as compared with $18,776,064,973 in 1933 and $19,977,095,815 in 1932.

Current real estate tax levy, $438,000,000.

Basic tax rate, $2.56 per $100. The gross rate varies in the different boroughs, being $2.71 in Manhattan, $2.83 in Queens, etc.

Number of taxable parcels on rolls, 808,885.

Present total tax delinquency, about $200,000,000.

Total debt, about $2,500,000,000.

Total of 1934 budget (fiscal year same as calendar year), $551,047,782.

This compares with the budget of $130,000,000 for the County of London (City of London and 38 boroughs, population 4,397,000).

NEW YORK, March 31.

WHAT is breaking the back of New York, richest city in the United States, is its burden of debt—a burden imposed in large measure by years of stupidities and thieveries, crystallized now in the contractual form known as interest. Nearly a dollar out of every three dollars in its budget must go for service on the debt.

Not to enter into too great detail—for the subject has endless ramifications—the city owes about $2,500,000,000, of which two billion dollars is long-term and the rest short-term debt. This year's budget total is $551,000,000, of which $168,700,000 is for debt service.

The debt of $2.500,000,000 is more than twice the public debt of the United States before the war. The annual budgetary expenditure of over half a billion dollars (it ran to well over $600,000,000 in 1932) gives New York City a place among the eight leading governmental spenders of the world. No State of the Union comes within gunshot of New York City's outlay. It was not until 1913 that the United States Government began spending as much as $700,000,000. The budget of the kingdom of Sweden for 1933-34 is only about half that of the City of New York.

New York's budget is today about $25,000,000 out of balance. Hence the frantic search for new forms of taxation, new ways of saving money. A borough president has even proposed a lottery to raise relief funds. Mayor LaGuardia's economy bill in the New York State Legislature—through the whole story of New York's plight runs the theme of the city's restricted home-rule powers—is expected by the city administration to provide the means of closing the gap between current outlay and revenues. The plan is to save another $11,000,000 at the expense of city employes through a compulsory furlough system, to cut departmental expenses 10 per cent, for a total of about $10,000,000, and to make up the balance through new taxes, license fees, etc.

Five Hundred Kinds of City Licenses.

Incidentally, the city already has 511 different kinds of licenses, and the city employes who received $2000 or more have already taken a pay cut ranging from 6 per cent up to 15 per cent on salaries between $10,000 and $15,000, and 33.9 per cent above that. The average cut is about 7 per cent.

Various taxes proposed in the last year or so have been defeated by public protest or court action. The last administration, for example, brought forward a straight 5-cent tax on taxicab rides, estimated to yield $6,000,000, but this was killed in the courts. A water rate increase—the first since 1851—did, however, go into effect This is expected to add $10,000,000 to the revenues this year. Parenthetically, it is interesting to note that the city-owned water system is practically self-supporting and, in the opinion of Norman Thomas, was better managed even under Tammany than was (or is) the privately owned gas system.

A large factor, possibly the largest, in the defeat of Tammany at the last election was the necessity it faced of finding new sources of revenue with which to appease the bankers and restore the city's credit. Confronted with a crisis every few months, as short-term notes fell due without the revenue to meet them, the O'Brien administration antagonized one group after another with its taxation proposals.

Bankers for Loans, Then Balanced Budget.

The city was under constant pressure from the bankers; the same people who had helped along the orgy of spending in the lush days were now crying that the city must cut expenses and bring the budget into balance before they would grant new loans. An ironic note! For the bankers in the good old days of open-handed spending had been hand in glove with the Tammany organization and the loans they had floated for the city had borne interest rates up to 4 and 4 1-2 per cent. The bankers did a good business for themselves, floating these loans.

The principal bankers for the city, in those days, were none other than the now discredited Charlie Mitchell, then president of the National City, and Albert Wiggin, then president of the Chase. Now the banking fraternity are calling for eceonomy—for "slashes to the bone," even in the pay of school teachers, firemen and policemen—as the price of their further aid.

"The bankers," says Norman Thomas, "had the city by the tail. They encouraged prodigal and corrupt spending. They foisted on the city a carrying charge on its debt that no well-governed city should have to bear.

"The ethics of Tammany are less bad than were those of the bankers.

"Yes, New York is broke. It offers the perfect example of a city paying the penalty of extravagance, corruption and stupidity in the boom era. The city lived like a drunken sailor, its pockets full of money and always expecting more.

Gotham's Idea of "Honest Graft."

"Of course, the shift of population from the East Side to Queens, the Bronx and other areas placed on the city a burden of legitimate expense, but on top of this was what has been called Tammany's 'honest graft.' The richest pickings were on real estate condemned for city purposes—schools, parks and the like. With their inside information, Tammany henchmen and favorites acquired sites about to be taken over and unloaded them on the city at fantastic prices. In one year, the 'honest graft' represented by the money paid for land in excess of its true value was $30,000,000. Case after case of graft in the purchase of real estate has been disclosed.

"New York City operates on a budget, but year after year, after making the budget, the city officials put through emergency appropriations which required short-term borrowing. It was a rare session of the Board of Aldermen at which some emergency item wasn't approved.

"I don't see how New York City can continue to support its present burden of debt at 100 cents on the dollar at the present rate of interest. No recovery is possible when we are paying out one-third of the annual budget on the debt. If I were the Mayor of New York I would go before the State Legislature and appeal for some form of relief from the burden."

This, of course, is an opinion; there is testimony on the other side, as will presently be shown. But all the evidence strengthens the conclusion that at the bottom of New York's troubles is the debt piled up in the free-and-easy times, particularly the years of Mayor Jimmy Walker.

To return to the narrative. Fusion apparently had no chance in June and July of last year. Gradually, however, Tammany's proposals of new taxes, under the lash of the bankers, rolled up the revolt, with the result that the reform ticket of Mayor LaGuardia downed both Tammany and the Farley-sponsored independent Democratic ticket headed by McKee. LaGuardia inherits the problem of keeping the city from going under because of its load of debt.

An Expert Sums Up City's Plight.

How deep the city had got into the mire may be gathered from statements last spring and summer by Samuel Untermyer. On May 11 he said that the city's credit had been "completely shattered and destroyed." "The city," he said, "is struggling along helplessly and aimlessly trying to keep its head above water. It is in the hands of selfish and rapacious banking interests who are keeping the timid amateur city officials on tenterhooks from day to day, dictating their own terms whenever they choose to deal out money." A little later he spoke of "the appalling spectacle of the richest city on earth with the grim specter of bankruptcy hovering over it." Accusing Mayor O'Brien of falsely attributing the city's troubles to the requirements of unemployment relief, he said: "It is nothnig short of an outrage for the Mayor to seek to hide the city's waste and extravagance under the cover of home and unemployment relief."

It was under such conditions as these, with the city facing a crisis every few months, that there was negotiated, late in the year, what is known as the "bankers' agreement," which later was approved by the New York State Legislature and given the force of law. The agreement was between the city of New York and a committee of banks composed of the Bankers' Trust Co., the Chase National, the First National, the Guaranty Trust Co. and the National City, with J. P. Morgan & Co. acting as the "committee agent." The committee represented a syndicate of 27 banks prepared to support any arrangement that might be agreed upon.

The city was facing the maturity, in December, of $303,000,000 of short-term obligations, bearing interest rates as high, in some cases, as 6 per cent. It was indeed trembling, as Untermyer had said, on the verge of bankruptcy. Out of the negotiations came an agreeemnt whereby the bankers undertook to refund short-term obligations of $200,000,000 for three years at 4 per cent and to set up for the future a revolving fund of $200,000,000 to be drawn against as need might require and to be repaid out of the proceeds of taxes.

As a reserve against tax arrears the city was required to set up a fund of about $25,000,000 in the 1934 budget, and of $50,000,000 for each of the three following years. The city agreed not to levy in 1934, 1935, 1936 or 1937 real estate in excess of $429,000,000 (which was the levy of 1933), plus whatever additional amount might be required for debt service, plus taxes on new buildings. This limited the levy of 1934 to $438,000,000. Real estate taxes for four years, in other words, were stabilized on the basis of the 1933 levy, which, as expressed in rates, was the lowest since 1919. All other funds necessary to raise the revenues to the required $551,000,000 for 1934 had to be drawn from other sources.

Sources of Revenue to Help Pay Bills.

The chief of these other sources, with the amounts expected from them in 1934, are as follows:

Water rates	$26,000,000
Special taxe. receivable from the State	18,150,000
Dock and slip rentals	6,650,000
Fees	5,100,000
Fines and forfeitures	800,000
Privileges	550,000
Licenses	1,650,000
Permits	1,000,000
Franchises	2,750,000
Ferry rents and privileges	500,000
Municipal ferries: fares and privileges	2,600,000
Rents: markets, etc.	650,000
Interest on taxes, water rents, bank deposits, etc	8,750,000
Reimbursements	800,000
Beer and liquor taxes	6,000,000

It will be seen from the foregoing that New York City has special sources of revenue which are not enjoyed by inland cities. Its harbor facilities, of one kind and another, yield around $10,000,000. Disclosures have been made that the city under Tammany regimes sold dock privileges to favorites for far less than they were worth.

The budgetary spending of the city appears to be relatively low. According to George McAneny, who was Comptroller of the City of New York in the last few months of the O'Brien administration and is now president of the Title Guarantee & Trust Co., eight large cities of the country rank ahead of New York in budgetary outlays per capita. As we have shown, it is not primarily the budgetary outlays that have got the city into

Motion Picture Council Report on 4 Years' Research

NEW YORK, March 28.

THE "tawdry and shady" folk who are referred to as constituting the personnel of most moving pictures, and the effect of their criminal and sex behavior on the 28,000,000 children and youths who see the movies weekly, are described in the lately published report of the Motion Picture Research Council.

The council, with headquarters at 366 Madison avenue, New York, is headed by Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, former president of Harvard University, as honorary president; Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of President Roosevelt, honorary vice-president; and Mrs. August Belmont, president. The late Dr. John Grier Hibben, former president of Princeton University, preceded Dr. Lowell as honorary president.

Its present campaign objective is not any form of Government control or censorship of screen productions. It is to make possible free selection of films by theater managers, in response to the taste and demand of their communities. To this end, it seeks to do away with what it identifies as the block-booking system, by which theater managers are required to accept and show all the films sent to them by the producing firms with which they deal, in order to get any of the films.

Attacks Blind Selling.

The blind selling system, by which it is said theaters must contract for the showing of films before they are produced, and the producers' practice of giving no adequate showing or description of films in advance of rental, are also under attack by the Council. The Council, in its report, does not state the method to be adopted for doing away with these practices, but it states that "both block booking and blind selling were abolished by law in England in 1927."

Four years' work of directed research, by sociologists and psychologists from six large universities, assembled the facts, which appear in condensed form in the report.

The study of attendance showed an average nation-wide movie attendance of 77,000,000 weekly, of whom 11,000,000 were under 14 years of age, and 28,000,000 not past 20 years old. A study of 35,000 children showed an average attendance of 46 times a year for girls and 57 times for boys.

In 1930, classification of the "big themes" in pictures showed: Love, 29.6 per cent; crime, 27,4 per cent; sex, 15 per cent, a total of 72 per cent on these themes. In 1932, of 115 pictures selected at random in Columbus, O., 59 showed killing techniques and 406 crimes committed and 43 attempted, a total of 449 crimes, or about four to the picture. The revolver was used in 22 pictures, knives in nine, general shooting in five. Eighteen methods of homicide in all were shown.

"Tawdry" Characters on Screen.

Liquor situations appeared in 78 per cent of the pictures, and 43 per cent of the settings were bedrooms. More than one-half the leading characters were wealthy; less than 15 per cent were poor. The heroes were mostly men of no stated occupation, while many others classed as occupation unknown or occupation illegal. Theatrical, servant and "high society" figures made up the rest of the leading characters.

"If this crazy assortment were really the population of the United States," the Research Council says, "there would be no farming, no manufacturing, no industry, no vital statistics, except murder; no science, no economical problems and no economics.

"The total impression was of a tawdry population, often absurdly overdressed, often shady in character, much given to crime and sex, with little desire or need, apparently, of supporting themselves on this difficult planet."

Children's Reactions.

By a test which included 3000 persons, it was shown that 8-year-old children caught and remembered three-fifths of the items remembered by adults, and that as long as three months afterward they still retained 90 per cent of this remembrance. Very young children, it was shown, remembered 50 or 60

In Behalf of Germany.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHY must Germany forever remain a second-class Power as the result of the much-repented World War—caused by the over-ambitious policies of an exiled Kaiser?

By the Treaty of Versailles, Germany lost territory in Europe amounting to almost 48,000 square miles and more than 1,000,000 square miles of colonial possessions. The German Empire disintegrated and was divided among its neighbors and conquerors. Alsace-Lorraine was given to France. The Saar Basin, a rich German coal and iron region, was internationalized and the mines of the district were ceded to France. Belgium received Moresnet, Eupen and Malmedy; Denmark, part of Schleswig. Poland was given 22,500 square miles of Eastern Germany, including a strip of Prussia (the corridor), severing East Prussia from the rest of Germany. Poland also seized part of Upper Silesia, although a considerable majority of the inhabitants voted to remain with Germany. The ports of Danzig and Memel were placed under the "protection" of the League of Nations. Germany was forced to relinquish all of her colonies, which were divided among the Allies.

There were to be no punitive indemnities, yet reparation payments, amounting to billions of dollars, were imposed on war-devastated Germany. When Germany was no longer able to meet these immense payments in 1924, French and Belgian armies occupied the Ruhr Valley and practically paralyzed her industrial resources. The treaty (which the United States has never recognized) permits Germany only a third-class navy and a tiny army of 100,000 men with practically no equipment. Has not Germany paid her debt to the world?

Now Germany, once more united, and recovering economically and politically under the able guidance of Chancellor Hitler, is demanding the right to maintain an army and navy and to possess armaments equal to those of her neighbors. The Big Four are now discussing this vital question. Italy and Britain know Germany's aims are pacific; that her demands are purely for defense. The United States, although not taking a definite stand as yet, probably also recognizes the German demands as just. France, though armed to the utmost, is unwilling to permit re-armament of her defeated neighbor. The German people are intelligent and industrious; let us hope France will realize she cannot forever keep them in subjection.

There must be an end to everything; even the vanquished must some day be allowed to regain an equal status of liberty and freedom, the right to govern themselves—to administer the affairs of their own nation without foreign intervention.

FRANK GARTHOFFNER.

Mr. Brisbane on Nudism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ON March 12, Arthur Brisbane attacked nudists with this expression, "Some day ridicule will do for nudism what decency seems unable to do now, and that silly return to the monkey idea will come to an end." Is it possible that Mr. Brisbane has forgotten that he, himself, and 123,000,000 of his fellow Americans began life as 100 per cent nudists?

Furthermore, it is somewhat difficult for me to agree with Mr. Brisbane that "heaven is offended by nudism." I refuse to be convinced until Mr. Brisbane can persuade Mr. Stork that our babies must come in little blue sweaters, patent leather shoes and warm fur gloves.

RAY-O'-SUNSHINE.

Municipal Government in Missouri.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MUNICIPAL government in Missouri is a ghastly joke. The second largest city in this State is and has been for years in the hands of a bloodthirsty gang of hoodlums and racketeers who will stop at nothing to get their men in office. The citizens of St. Louis are just now finding out that their city was, for some three years or more, run by a clique of men who had an incompetent Mayor in their power and did what they pleased with the municipal government.

Perhaps it is true that these advisers of Mayor Miller acted in good faith and desired only to save the name of a man who had been a valuable public servant. However, why weren't the people of St. Louis let in on this? They elected Victor J. Miller as Mayor; if he was not mentally competent to perform the duties of the office to which he was elected, the people should have been given the right to name someone who was.

The basic theory of the type of municipal government used in St. Louis is the idea of a Mayor in whom most of the power of city government is concentrated and who is at all times directly responsible to the voters for his use or misuse of that power. Keeping Mayor Miller in office after his mind began to fail was unfair to St. Louis.

Cleaning Up the United States—A Test in Civilization

The British publicist, H. N. Brailsford, widened his horizon as an editorial writer on the Manchester Guardian. He says we are now engaged in cleaning up the United States.

No one who has been observing the spectacle at Washington can doubt what is happening. We are at the outset of one of those singular social phenomena to which we popularly ascribe civilization. It is unlikely that any of us quite understands how it came about. If we accept the philosophy of Oswald Spengler, it is easy enough. There are mystical seeds of progress which from time to time sprout in the soul of man and at length flower in those tremendous strides we have made out of darkness. He tells us this is what is going on now. It is not in the United States alone, but everywhere, even to those insensate sands of the Mongolian desert from which sprang the Tartar hordes of Genghis Khan. We are, so Spengler says, back in the time of the Caesars. We have left the flesh pots and the softening caresses of peace. We are afire and afoot, launched everywhere upon an emprise the outcome of which we can no more foresee than Columbus could see what lay before him when he had put behind him the gray Azores.

How far beyond party our own evolution has carried us was illustrated when Congress overrode the President's veto of the $228,000,000 independent offices appropriation bill. Both parties revolted. As a matter of fact, the New Deal, so-called, has been from the outset essentially bipartisan. Even the President's Cabinet contains both Democrats and Republicans. Advisers of the administration belong to both faiths. The United States Supreme Court, so long charged with having partisan leanings, has acquitted itself of any such charge. The necessities of the nation transcend party.

For the first time we are realizing the serious difficulty of maintaining an agricultural and an industrial civilization side by side. We have also made up our minds that not even our own nation, the richest in history, can continue carrying on its back that old man of the sea whom we call Wall Street. Our indisposition to do anything about Wall Street has been one of the faults of a too apathetic democracy. No other such robbers' roost decorates the pages of history. It both preys upon and demoralizes the nation.

There will be times when we will be told that to diminish the power of Wall Street will impair the national economy. There will be times when, to rescue the people from its predatory clutches, we will stand perilously close to Fascism. The great money power which has its lair in Wall Street is not going to let us get away with the Securities Act, Federal regulation of the stock exchanges, the devaluation of money, better income and estate taxes, and the departure from the gold standard, without doing battle with every ounce of strength it possesses, without pouring millions of money into the fight, without shaking to its foundations the very structure of republican government. Nor is individualism going to volunteer any concessions to the common good.

We must not be so naive as to believe that the men who ruled America and so brought her to her knees admit defeat. It is true that they have been repulsed; but, like the Federal Army at Cedar Creek, they are no worse than strewn along that road to Winchester down which they expect their own Sheridan to ride with the rallying cry, "Turn, boys, turn. We're going back!" They no longer hold the reins of government. Nevertheless, the woods on both sides of the Potomac River are full of them. They are in all the great hotels. They maintain some of the most sumptuous apartments and homes in Washington. There is a single street in the capital which is lined on both sides with the ornate establishments of those whose function in the old order was either to govern or to lobby, whose confident expectation is that we are at last to have a Fascist government, of which they shall be the men on horseback.

They are at the moment chiefly riding the newly-restored footrails of the capital bar rooms. Like Othello, they are without an occupation. One cannot go to any public function in the capital without encountering most of the reactionaries who were repudiated by the people in 1932. Such gargoyles of the Alhambra of privilege as George Moses and James E. Watson are in an excellent state of physical preservation, albeit politically collapsed. One of the most pungent observations of what is going on has been that of Oswald Garrison Villard. He says we are presented at the moment with the spectacle at Washington of all those who formerly ordered the Government about being themselves ordered about by the Government. The great industrialists and bankers who constituted the invisible government behind the scenes have not evacuated Washington; but they remain as supplicants rather than masters.

One of the very excellent commentators upon our American scene is Sir Arthur Salter, the British economist, associated with his country's economic councils for two decades, a member since 1932 of the British Economic Advisory Council. He blames primarily Andrew W. Mellon, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, for what has happened in the United States. That is, Mellon aggravated the boom and collapse by persistently pressing for Federal tax reductions at a time when exactly the opposite policy was essential to the national economy. It was his great strength that bore taxes down from the high levels to which they had risen during the war.

No greater disaster could have befallen us than to have had the tax policy of the Government so reversed when we entered upon that speculative orgy to which John Maynard Keynes attributes not merely our own depression but to a considerable degree that of the world. The consequence of the income tax reductions, as Sir Arthur Salter points out, was to accelerate speculation and production upon the one hand, while crippling the revenues of the Government on the other. Mellon was against the excess profits tax, but only the excess profits tax could have saved the country from what David Cushman Coyle describes as "the rotting mass of dead enterprises now clogging our morgues." It is estimated that the tax policy of the Government in the Mellon regime cost the Treasury in excess of three billion dollars, a sum comparable to any of those in the bonus debates.

We must realize that we are undertaking to do with only intellectual means what has never been done before upon a large scale except by the arbitrament of arms. That is to say, we are attempting to do with evolution what has usually been done only with revolution. It is very doubtful whether that time has come in the progress of humankind when such an intellectual evolution is possible. We have historical precedents to a degree in the disburdening ordinance with which Solon pruned the privileged in Athens; but in the main, what we are trying to do is something new in history, so new, in fact, that we cannot think of it in terms of debate, in terms of trial and error, in terms of that widespread tolerance which such a great achievement presupposes upon the part of a literate mass. We can think of its outcome only in historical terms, the tedious emergence of a better day from the welter of violence.

The course upon which we are launched is the only one we can take. It is supported by the great majority view, by business as well as by labor, by men in both the major political parties. We must be an honest people, prizing honesty instead of rewarding dishonesty. We must regulate our great industrial machine, lest it become that Frankenstein which will devour us. We must bring all the people into the national economy, giving up the idea that the Republic can any more endure half boom and half broke, as Mr. Roosevelt phrased it, than it could endure half slave and half free.

We must interpret the Constitution in terms of the living present rather than in terms of the dead past. We must rise as a nation to the stature of our place in history, to be judged at last as all great peoples are judged. It is impossible, as the historian Charles A. Beard points out, for any political opposition to gain a foothold while we are in transition. It can only beckon us back to the past, which historically disqualifies it.

The strain placed upon representative government by this transformation is terrific. It accounts for the extraordinary powers given the President, powers which we trust he dislikes as much as we dislike them and will at the earliest opportunity surrender. What would have happened otherwise is revealed by the anti-veto vote of last week. The constituent was cracking the whip. The presidency alone has remained aloof from the emotional waves which have so tossed Congress about. The adventure upon which we are launched is one thrust upon us by events. Here is what one of our excellent scholars, Prof. F. W. Taussig, of Harvard, says about it, in the current Yale Review:

> It is unexampled in economic history. Nothing so vast and daring has ever been undertaken. . . . No one can foresee what degree of success will come in the end. Even if something less ideal is achieved than the enthusiasts predict, even if no more is done than to lift the community out of its troubles and despairs more quickly than would have occurred in the "natural" course of events, the great adventure will be justified.

It is hard for the people whose power has been broken to realize that they are powerless in the new order. They cannot see in the Odyssey of Insull the perfect symbol of what has happened. During the hearings upon the new securities law, we were assured that to prevent recurrence of the dice games that ruined us all would be to make us from this time on one with Nineveh and Tyre. The same note is sounded in the hearings upon the bill to regulate the stock exchanges. It is the cry of Mammon, a cry with which we were made familiar by Mellon and Coolidge when tax reductions were resisted. These gentlemen asked us to believe that if we sought to equalize the national wealth by taxation, one of the most effective means we have of doing so, we would deprive the national development of capital without which it cannot exist.

Fortunately, the men who now are in charge of our Federal affairs are deceived by none of these sophistries. They are going right ahead with the things necessary to the righting of the national economy. Theirs is the terrific task of cleaning up the United States. They do not believe they can do so by permitting again the old spoliation. They believe we can solve our problems only by taking the opposite course. They are trying to bring about fair dealing in business. They are trying to make investments honest. They are trying to make wealth yield some part of its store to poverty. They are trying to bring about a better balance of power between capital and labor. They are trying to restore the purchasing power of the masses and bring back into the market 32,000,000 people who live upon farms. They are for a shorter work week and more security for the more than 40,000,000 people whose bread is from gainful labor. They are against such social atrocities as child labor, which disgrace and prejudice that capitalism they seek to save.

Fortunately, they are too wise to believe they can do these things overnight. They believe that for the country to recover too fast would be a mistake. The substance of their faith is contained in this sentence from the President's radio address of May 7, 1933: "I do not want the people of this country to take the foolish course of letting this improvement come back on another speculative wave . . . the ruinous practice of increasing our crop output and our factory output in the hope that a kind Providence will find buyers at high prices. Such a course may bring us immediate and false prosperity, but it is the kind of prosperity that will lead us into another tailspin."

The immensity of the task before us is going to require better equipped and more thoughtful men than we have usually had in control of the nation's affairs. There are already hundreds of such men in the public service. More and more of them are being called to it every day. The enrollment of college professors alone is impressive. They typify the sort of men we are substituting for the political favorite, a parasite who has long fattened himself upon the body politic. President Roosevelt said in his address to the code authorities that the depression may prove to have been the best thing that ever happened to the United States.

It can, as it is doing, turn us away from the sordid past and face us toward a brighter future. If great occasions make great men, the President's chance for greatness is impressive. Certainly his use of the national credit to put the people to work, a policy which reached humane heights in the CWA, is the stuff of which greatness is made. Employing at its peak 4,000,000 persons, with a weekly payroll just above $60,000,000, it has no precedent in time of peace. Nations, as Mr. Keynes has pointed out, have hitherto considered war alone a respectable cause for any such governmental outlay. Our departure from that fallacy in the great public works program to gain its full stride in June, and the improvised CWA which served while the greater project organized, is historic, a precedent which must profoundly influence the future.

"Of Making Many Books"

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

A Fine Novel

WE SAIL TOMORROW. By Frederick Hazlitt Brennan. (Longmans Green & Co., New York City.)

FREDERICK HAZLITT BRENNAN, formerly a member of the Post-Dispatch staff, first attracted public attention seven years ago with the publication of "God Got One Vote," a remarkable novel dealing with the career of a political boss. Since then, he has had plenty of encouragement to become a merely clever literary opportunist, writing as the more remunerative market might seem to dictate. That he has not done so, but on the contrary has greatly developed the fine talent with which he began, is shown by his latest novel here listed.

The story told by one Joel Tiernan, a young Lieutenant of the United States Navy, begins in Manila, shifts to Shanghai and ends in Honolulu. The chief characters, other than the narrator, are Capt. Leidig of the destroyer Spearman, and the Captain's young wife, Aithra.

The theme is the "eternal triangle," which was "old stuff" long before the "sons of Homer, singers of the stiched song," rhapsodized of white-armed Helen and the doom she wrought. Nevertheless, it is a strikingly original tale that Brennan tells. The characters are all notable creations, developed with rare insight into human moods and motives; and the slow accumulation of dramatic force about the disintegrating personality of Capt. Leidig may fairly be described as masterly.

The story offers an excellent example of realism in the true sense of the term, which has come to signify an exclusive preoccupation with the lower levels of reality. Brennan scamps nothing in the vital relations between his characters—not even their higher aspirations and finer instincts! The result is that when the book is closed, the memory of it has something of the force of a personal experience. But what is more significant still, in brooding over the acts of the various characters, the reader will note, perhaps with surprise, that no sense of resentment or even of marked dislike obtrudes—not even in the case of Leidig, who certainly succeeds in making rather a donkey of himself. It will be noted also that no sentimental whitewashing is involved in this feeling. It is only that the inner truth about the character has been understood; and that, in fiction as in life, is something of a triumph.

Brennan knows the secret of writing with a considerable margin of power in reserve; but when he lets loose on occasion, as in his description of a typhoon in the China Sea, the source of the quiet strength felt in his simpler passages is gloriously revealed.

NAZI MEANS WAR. By Leland Stowe. (Whittlesley House, New York City.)

IN THE fall of last year, the author, well known as the Paris correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, spent two months in Germany for the purpose of learning the answer to the question, Is Germany rearming, physically or morally? The unequivocal answer, as he found it, is implied in his title.

The Nazi Government, he declares, already "has more than 1,300,000 men in uniform," belonging to various military organizations, including the thinly disguised Blackcoats and the Labor Corps. The numbers of these organizations, according to the author, are constantly increasing, and will be enormously increased when the boys and girls in the "Hitler Jugend," ranging in age from 7 to 18 years, reach maturity. There are, we are told, already a million and a half of these, and their number is rapidly growing.

Some apparently very significant facts are given regarding the present state of German armament and the facilities that exist for the manufacture of small arms, artillery, ammunition and airplanes.

As for moral preparation, the author discusses the Nazi "youth policy," the purpose of which is to inculcate the war spirit in both boys and girls, and to give them preliminary military training while they are growing up. In both the common schools and universities, the author declares, military science and war psychology hold an important place in the curricula, and the public at large is being subjected to propaganda designed to create "the desire for war and victory."

The book is the more convincing in that it is written in no spirit of antagonism, the author being well aware of the part the Versailles Treaty has played in the creation of this rabid mood among a powerful people. He closes his book with a plea for neutrality on the part of the United States during the next European war, and points out the cost that our ruling class must be willing to pay for neutrality.

"Americans must sacrifice dollars," he says, "or eventually they will have to sacrifice men."

"SHOW BOAT" AGAIN AT MUNICIPAL OPER

"Sally" Also Added to Pr gram for Season — Last Week Open.

"Show Boat" and "Sally," two the late Florenz Ziegfeld's mo successful productions, will be p sented next summer by the Muni pal Opera.

"SHOW BOAT" AGAIN AT MUNICIPAL OPERA

"Sally" Also Added to Program for Season — Last Week Open.

"Show Boat" and "Sally," two of the late Florenz Ziegfeld's most successful productions, will be presented next summer by the Municipal Opera.

Announcement of this last night brought the number of productions scheduled up to 11, the last week being held open for the present in the hope of presenting a world premiere of some operetta.

Previously the association had announced three works entirely new to St. Louis: "Sweet Adeline," "East Wind" and "Music in the Air"; one work, Victor Herbert's "Rose of Algeria," which is new to Forest Park; Herbert's "Sweethearts" and "M'lle. Modiste," two Municipal Opera successes which will be revived this season together with Sigmund Romberg's "The New Moon"; Oscar Straus's "The Last Waltz" and Samuel Pokrass' "Cyrano de Bergerac," which was given its world premiere here two seasons ago.

The inclusion of "Show Boat" in the summer's repertory brings Jerome Kern's contribution to the 1934 list up to three operettas, the same number as the late Victor Herbert's. The inclusion of "Sally" leaves the two composers still tied, for they collaborated in the haunting melodies of that work.

"Show Boat" brought the 1930 season to a close, running for two weeks, and breaking all opera attendance records up to that time.

Kern's score, which is replete with melody, contributed to the classics of popular American music "Ol' Man River." Among other melodies which are popular favorites are "Can't Help Lovin' That Man," "Bill," "Why Do I Love You," "Till Good Luck Comes My Way" and "Only Make Believe." The book is by Oscar Hammerstein II. Municipal Opera's production plans for this season provide for casting and for staging on a scale to surpass even that of 1930.

To make room for the elaborate productions scheduled for this summer a crew of men will start work at the Municipal Theater next week on enlarging the stage, extending it back 25 feet to gain more room and thus facilitate changes of scenes and permit more massive effects.

The Municipal Theater Association's offices, 1876 Arcade Building, have completed the assignment of season seat subscriptions thus far received. New orders for season reservations are being received and allotted in the order of their receipt.

New York City Is Staggering Under Debt of $2,500,000,000

a hole; it is the extra-budgetary expenses, reflected now in the mountainous total of the city's debts. Out of every three dollars currently collected, the city must spend nearly a dollar in interest on what it has received, plus the cost of graft and mismanagement, before it can spend for its present needs.

Mayor Says City Is in 'Straitjacket.'

McAneny thought the New York's comparatively low per capita budgetary expenses might be due in part to the great congestion of people in a limited area. There is, however, an opposing theory, stated to the writer by Joseph McGoldrick, professor of municipal government in Columbia University, that congestion makes special problems, such as that of garbage collection and disposal, which tend to increase costs.

All this is by the way. The debt is at the bottom of New York's difficulties. The immediate source of trouble is the short-term debt—a trouble highly aggravated at the moment by the tax delinquency and by relief requirements.

The bankers' agreement of 1933, by which the city, barring some change in the law, will be bound for the next four years, is declared by Mayor LaGuardia to have put the city in a straitjacket. But, whatever its defects from the city's point of view, it did have the effect of ending, for the time being, the series of financial crises which had harried and harassed the city, and of lowering to 4 per cent the rate on $200,000,000 of short-term obligations which had carried rates as high as 6 per cent.

The other side of the story from the Mayor's is given by McAneny, one of the negotiators of the agreement for the city, who told the writer that it had placed New York on a secure financial underpinning for four years. He believed the city would be able in a few months to float a long-term bond issue—the first since 1931—with which to take up short-term obligations. He pointed to the improvement in New York City bonds since the first of the year; they have gone up 6 points to almost par. There has been, moreover, a considerable gain in back-tax collections, due probably to the imposition of new penalties.

Good Thing, Says One.

"The statement has been made," said McAneny, "that the city has been placed in a straitjacket. Quite true, but a straitjacket of sound finance, where it should have been long ago, and a straitjacket that will do it an infinite amount of good. New York is basically in a sound financial position — when compared with many other cities, in a marvelously strong position. The city's present distress—if that is the word for it—amounts to nothing more than the need for a further cut, something like 5 per cent, in the budget for the present year, to be raised through further reduction of costs or through new revenues, in order to have a properly balanced budget. That need can, and no doubt will, be met through the processes now under consideration at Albany and the City Hall."

We have, then, on the one hand, the view of Norman Thomas and his school of thought—a large one—that the city is in desperate financial straits, and, on the other hand, the view of another group that the credit of the city is being restored and all will be well if the budget is balanced. The difference is in the point of view. Thomas is thinking of the huge debt, from which there seems to be no present way of escape; McAneny is thinking in the narrower term of current expenditures. In any case, the city is paying and will continue to pay a heavy price for the follies and corruption of the past.

We have said that the short-term debt situation, crux of the present difficulties, is aggravated by relief needs. On Jan. 1, the city had left $25,000,000 out of $70,000,000 raised by the sale of 10-year serial bonds for relief purposes. The fund is now down to $17,000,000. It is estimated that this will be exhausted by mid-August, when it is hoped a new issue of relief obligations can be floated. Two hundred and fifty thousand families are on home relief in New York City, at $15 a week to the family. On Federal CWA payrolls are 167,000 persons at $25 a week. Total relief expenditures since the first of the year have been at the rate of $19,000,000 a month, of which the city has contributed $3,000,000, the State $3,000,000, the Federal Government $3,000,000 and the CWA a further Federal fund of $10,000,000. Immediately in front of the city is the problem of caring for the army of unemployed about to be dismissed from the CWA payrolls.

Delinquents Owe Millions.

Now as to tax delinquency. In this respect the experience of New York City has been like that of other cities: when the depression struck, tax arrears began to mount. It is the practice of the city to issue revenue bills in anticipation of taxes and to pay them off when the taxes come in, twice a year. In good times there was a ready market for these bills at not more than 2 per cent. Then came the depression, with its large and growing volume of delinquency, and as a result the revenue bills, representing unpaid taxes, steadily accumulated. Higher and higher rates of interest had to be paid. The bills had to be renewed every few months, and at each renewal date the amount both of these and of other short-term obligations was greater. Two hundred million dollars in revenue bills had accumulated when the bankers' refunding agreement was reached last year. They constitute nearly half of the city's short-term debt.

At the beginning of this year the total real estate tax delinquency was $228,000,000, of which about $31,000,000 has been collected since that time. Nearly one-half of the 800,000 parcels on which taxes had been levied were delinquent. The percentages of taxes remaining uncollected for the five years beginning with 1929 were as follows:

Year.	Pct.	Year	Pct.
1933......	26.47	1930......	1.94
1932......	10.39	1929......	1.16
1931......	3.83

Dr. McGoldrick, who is now in the "brain trust" of the LaGuardia administration as deputy city comptroller, says that all things considered the tax collections have been remarkably good. Encouragement is found in the fact that only a small volume of taxes is delinquent for over two years. It is hoped that the arrears collected this year will offset the delinquency on the 1934 levy of $438,000,000, in which case the city will be holding its own. If the new delinquency runs about 25 per cent, as it did last year, this hope will be realized through the collection of some $110,000,000 of back taxes.

Huge Short-Term Notes.

In addition to revenue bills representing unpaid taxes, the city has outstanding what are called corporate stock notes in the sum of about $200,000,000. These require a word of explanation. In practically all cities and states, when a public improvement is authorized, a bond issue is sold, contracts are let and the work paid for from the proceeds of the issue. New York City reverses this process. Contracts are let before the money is in hand, and when the bills come in the Comptroller sells corporate stock notes to obtain the money to pay them. When corporate stock notes are accumulated in large amount, they are refunded into the city's long-term bonds, which the city calls corporate stock.

Since 1931, however, there has been no market for the city's bonds, so that the short-term notes, like the revenue bills, have accumulated, bearing high rates of interest in contrast with the 1½ per cent that was paid up to 1931. Coming due every few months, these notes contributed materially to the undermining of the city's credit.

Roughly, the picture of the short-term debt is as follows: Revenue bills representing unpaid taxes, $200,000,000; corporate stock notes, representing capital improvements, $200,000,000; unfunded debt, not in the above notes and bills, $45,000,000; paid out or obligated for improvements, the assessments on which have not been collected, $35,000,000—a total of $480,000,000, to which might be added, as short-term debt, the $70,000,000 serial bonds sold in November to provide funds for relief.

In Jolly Spending Days.

Budget preparation in the high, wide and handsome days of the playboy, Jimmy Walker, was made delightfully simple and carefree by the steady expansion of the city's income.

"In each of the five years from 1926 to 1930," Dr. McGoldrick explains, "tax values in New York City rose by more than $1,000,000,000. The peak was reached in 1927, when $1,500,000,000 in new values was added to the city's tax rolls. Applying the current tax rate, which at this period was kept at about $2.60, to these annual increases the city had between $25,000,000 and $40,000,000 of new money available every year.

"Budget making, therefore, consisted of apportioning this increase among the ever-eager departments. Their requests might run to $50,000,000 or $60,000,000. The budget director would be compelled, of course, to keep these within the amount available, or the tax rate would have to be increased. The departments might not get all that they asked for, but each got some, and some got a lot of new money. No effort was made to examine a department's entire budget. Once it achieved a particular total, that total became a vested interest, and attention was confined to requests for additional allowance.

"The procedure with regard to capital commitments by the Board of Estimate was even more careless. When the depression settled in, the city awoke to discover that it had committed itself in varying degree to projects which it would cost more than $2,000,000,000 to complete, and that of this amount more than $700,000,000 had been actually appropriated. This additional $2,000,000,000 would have more than doubled the city's debt. Moreover, the city had never succeeded in borrowing more than $150,000,000 in a single year, yet all these projects were planned for immediate execution. At the time these facts were disclosed the Board of Estimate did not even know the extent of its commitments.

Spending Orgies.

"A committee which Mayor Walker appointed in 1927 recommended many improvements in the city's budgetary methods, but it is generally believed that the Mayor never read the report. In any event, hardly any of its suggestions were followed."

The story of New York City's office corruption in this high-flying period was told comprehensively by Paul Y. Anderson in the Post-Dispatch three years ago. Elaboration is not needed here. Suffice it that new details of the system by which Tammany milked the city are constantly coming to light.

For example, there is the disclosure—one among many of the kind—that a piece of under water property in the Jamaica Bay section was bought privately for $60,000 and then unloaded on the city for over $400,000. The city is now trying to upset this award. For another example, there is the recent shocking revelation of the cruelties and swindling practiced on the inmates of the City Home for Dependents on Welfare Island, the superintendent of which, Louis J. McNally, a Tammany election district captain, piled up $84,000 in eight years on a salary of $3500 a year. The poorhouse infamies stand as a symbol of what has happened to the city.

Mayor Walker's Generosity.

Walker added to the city's debt at the rate of $125,000,000 a year for his last five years. He left the city without credit—broke. There has been no long-term bond issue since he went out. The desperate efforts of subsequent administrations to restore the city's credit reached their climax at the end of last year, when the city, at the command of the bankers, put on what the present Mayor has called its straitjacket. Of the bankers' agreement, Dr. McGoldrick said in a speech at the time: "New York City has just been forced through the humiliation of what amounts to an assignment for the benefit of creditors. The city administration has been forced to make a confession in bankruptcy."

Such was the legacy of the La Guardia reform administration. It has in the making a new economy program. It has shown a commendable willingness to face the facts. Under it, the city's credit has improved to a degree that probably will permit the flotation of a new long-term bond issue within a few months. But the great problem, inevitably, remains—the problem created by a debt burden that requires as a servicet charge one-third of the annual budget.

"There can be no doubt," said Norman Thomas, "that if the city owned and operated its electric and gas systems, it could reduce rates substantially and yet have a surplus to be applied to the general running expenses of the city."

"It is absurd—to put it mildly—that in the most condensed distribution area in the world, we should pay 7 cents a kilowatt hour for electricity."

(The rate in Washington, D. C., under an arrangement whereby the consumers benefit periodically from increases in profits, is now 3.9 cents an hour.)

In this connection, the huge earnings of the New York electric and gas companies are suggestive of the possibilities. The Consolidated Gas Co. dominates the utility field. It is not only an operating gas company, but, more importantly, it is a holding company for the securities of other gas and electric corporations in its elaborate system. It owns the stock of the New York Edison Co., the Brooklyn Edison Co., the New York and Queens Electric Light & Power Co., the Westchester Lighting Co. and the Yonkers Electric Light & Power Co. It owns the entire capital or a controlling interest in still other concerns. Consolidated Gas, in short, has a practical monopoly of the gas and electric services of New York.

The latest available report of Consolidated Gas, that for 1932, shows total assets of $800,090,427, of which $648,045,898 consisted of its investments in affiliated companies. Its total corporate income for 1932 is placed at $61,251,826, and its net income after interest and preferred stock dividends at $43,425,002.

Consolidated Gas in 1930 paid dividends of 11.7 per cent on the stated value of the common stock; in 1931, 11.71 per cent, and in 1932, 11.71 per cent—an average of 11.7 for three depression years. These dividends, at the rate of $4 on 11,459,066 shares of common stock, amounted approximately to $46,000,000 in each of the three years. In the same three years it paid preferred stock dividends of about $10,500,000 a year. Its surplus and reserve account at the end of 1932 was over $29,000,000, which was $7,000,000 greater than this amount at the end of 1923.

Lighting Rates Unchanged.

In proceedings before the New York State Public Service Commission last year, it was shown that in the three-year period 1930-32, the New York Edison Co. paid dividends on common stock averaging 11.3 per cent a year; United Electric Light & Power Co., 12.8 per cent; Brooklyn Edison Co., eight per cent; New York & Queens Co., 13.3 per cent; Bronx Gas & Electric Co., 16 per cent; Westchester Lighting Co., 11.3 per cent; and Yonkers Co., 12 per cent. At the start of 1933, these seven companies had $205,000,000 in their surplus and contingency reserves.

From 1923 to 1932 (to give but one example), the Brooklyn Edison paid eight per cent on the stated value of its common stock and increased its surplus from $5,577,000 to $33,316,000. The surplus of the seven companies, as a group, doubled from 1923 to 1929, and from 1929 to 1932, during the depression, it increased 11 per cent.

Not one of the seven companies paid a lower dividend in 1932 than in 1929, and five of the seven paid more. For the period 1930-32, each of them paid dividends higher than those paid in any other three-year period.

On the rate basis of the commission, none of the companies earned less than 5¾ per cent and one earned 16½ per cent in one year.

Pointing out that the companies had maintained or increased their dividends throughout the depression and had added materially to their surplus, the commission recommended a temporary rate reduction which, it stated, would still permit the companies to earn 7½ per cent on the stated value of their common stock without recourse to surplus. The reduction, however, was disallowed by the New York Supreme Court.

In the last 10 years the gas and electric light and power rates in New York have remained practically unchanged. Three years ago there was a "reduction" in the electric rate which actually, through service charges, had the effect of increasing the rates to small consumers. New York City is at the mercy of the private companies. State regulation, hamstrung by court decisions, has failed here, as elsewhere, to give relief.

Red Cross Life-Saving Training.

W. E. Longfellow, assistant national director of life saving for the American Red Cross will conduct a training course for examiners under the auspices of the local chapter, beginning Saturday. The course will be given at the Washington University swimming pool from 8 to 10:30 p. m., Saturday, Monday and Wednesday. Longfellow's headquarters are at Washington.

3-RING POLICE CIRCUS TO OPEN NEXT SUNDAY

60 Acts in 8-Day Show for Benefit of Relief Fund of Force.

The Police Circus, formerly an annual event, will open next Sunday at the Coliseum for an eight-day engagement.

The net proceeds will go to the Police Relief Association, for the benefit of widows and orphans of policemen and for retired officers. Since the last circus, in October, 1931, the association has paid $294,900 in benefits, the drain being unusually large because of an increased number of retirements. The circus was abandoned in 1932 and 1933 because of the depression.

Starting with a quartette composed of Patrolmen Walter Imhoff, Otto Lehr, John Tudor and Sidney Reeder and accompanied by Louis Kaufman, the show will consist of 21 "displays," following one another in rapid succession, and interspersed with the antics of 50 clowns.

Regular Circus Performers.

There will be 60 acts and spectators will be kept busy watching simultaneous performances on three stages and in two rings. Most of the performers have been recruited from regular traveling circuses, in advance of the spring season.

Several equestrian acts will be included, ranging from the performance of Miss Harriet Hodgini to stunts by "Usarda and his Sioux Indians" and "Gray Eagle and his Choctaws."

Other animal acts will include six "Educated Elephants" and trained dogs, bears and seals. Abe Goldstein, the "Sousa of the Sawdust Ring," will lead a clown band in an "Amazing Profusion of Beautiful Sounds."

Man Shot From Cannon.

Among the trepeze artists will be the Seven Romonoffs, from Russia; the Bonta Trio, from Mexico, and the Three Atnorez, from Cuba. The Blondin Rellim troupe of Switzerland, said to be appearing in America for the first time, will put on what is described as a "breath-taking and devastating high wire act." The climax of the evening will be the act of the "Great Wilno," who will be fired from a cannon.

The show is being produced, arranged and directed by Sidney Belmont, who has had charge of the circuses for several years. General admission will be 50 cents. Performances will be given both afternoon and evening.

FUNERAL OF FATHER O'DONOVAN TO BE TOMORROW AT BOSTON

Former Chaplain of City Hospital Here Died Friday of Heart Disease.

Funeral services for the Rev. Simon S. O'Donovan, C. M., former Catholic chaplain at City Hospital, will be tomorrow at Boston, with interment in West Roxbury, Mass.

Father O'Donovan was stationed for four years at the Church of St. Vincent De Paul, 1427 South Ninth street, during his assignment to City Hospital. During the World War he served overseas as Knights of Columbus chaplain, with the Second Division. He left St. Louis last November to enter a Boston hospital for treatment of heart disease which caused his death last Friday. He was a native of Ireland.

Lloyd George on Foreign Policy of Mussolini

marily means Germany—that he means to guarantee Austrian independence against all comers, while in the course of the same speech he supports the German claim for rearmament?

Mussolini's Position.

The answer is simple and straightforward and therefore surprising to diplomats and statesmen. It is because he believes in both Austrian independence and German rearmament and is convinced that both are essential to the peace of Europe.

As I pointed out in my last article, he does not want Germany as a neighbor in the Tyrol. He would rather meet his German friends anywhere than on the Brenner Pass. He therefore means to uphold the integrity of Austria as a sovereign and independent state.

Dr. Dollfuss represents physically the kind of Austria that Mussolini likes—small, compact and smiling. He knows that Austrian political independence cannot survive unless economic independence is assured. Austria cannot go on until this is thrown to it by the League of Nations. Sooner or later Austrian self-respect will rebel against such an attitude of abject paupery. Its pride would ultimately drive it to find protection in the household of its powerful northern kinsmen.

That would not suit Mussolini. He therefore enters into this economic and commercial arrangement which he hopes will set up Austria in business and enable it to earn its own living. He knows it cannot exist much longer on the dole and he is resolved it shall not become a Prussian poor relation. But he is also anxious to show that he is not hostile toward Germany. In fact, it is his desire to remain on good terms with Germany that makes him so anxious not to become her next-door neighbor.

Treaty and Germany.

But so long as Germany stays on the other side of the Bavarian Alps, he will help it to secure fair treatment against the opposition of France and its satellites. That is why he denounces those who have failed to carry out four-fifths of the treaty they imposed on Germany.

He asserts roundly that unless they redeem the promise they gave at Versailles to disarm, then Germany is entitled to rearm. He says boldly that any attempts by force to prevent Germany from rearming will end in war. He uses a very startling phrase when he says that in the absence of an understanding on this question "Europe is precipitating herself into darkness."

His prediction about the League of Nations is not so reassuring. He is of the opinion that unless a disarmament agreement is reached soon, the League is dead. All this plain speaking is all to the good. It comes at a moment when the French Government is considering its policy. If it decides that it will neither disarm itself nor permit Germany to rearm, then there is only one course, and that is the one indicated by the Italian Premier.

Germany cannot possibly acquiesce tamely in the present position of complete and contemptuous humiliation imposed on it. If the victors refuse to pay any respect to their own treaty, why should the vanquished be expected to do so?

Italian-Frnch Questions.

Mussolini wishes to make it clear which side he will be on in the event of a dispute, and he emphasizes his attitude by calling attention to the fact that there are many questions "great and small" outstanding between Italy and France that have not been settled in spite of conversations which have lasted for 15 years.

After Mussolini's outspoken utterance, Premier Doumergue's government will hesitate before it places itself in a position toward the German claim for disarmament and rearmament from which it cannot retreat without resort to violent measures or hopeless loss of dignity and prestige.

I am sure that there is no country in Europe that would not shrink from war. They will not resort to it if they can find any decent pretext for avoiding it. But wars do not come because governments seek them, but because the governments have placed themselves in a position from which they feel that they cannot escape.

Much will depend on the firmness displayed at this juncture by the British and American Governments. If they make it evident to France that they cannot countenance the use of force against Germany on the subject of disarmament while France and other allies are acting flagrantly in defiance of their own treaty, then peace will be assured. I believe it will and that Mussolini's challenging speech will help to that end.

per cent of what they saw though frequently misunderstanding its meaning.

The action best remembered by children, it was stated, was in connection with sports, general conversations, crime and fighting, especially when occurring in home, school or tenement surroundings; that less understood by the children was "in unfamiliar surroundings, such as a bootlegging establishment, a business office, in cafes and on the frontier."

Emotional reaction to films was tested by the use of especially devised instruments, and was shown to be twice as great in adolescents as in adults, and three times as great in young children as in adults.

The studies show that the movies affect the attitude of children toward persons of alien nationalities; that they influence the play of children and are a formative force in manners, poses, images, conceptions and modes of conduct, and desires for enjoyment.

Movies and Crime.

An experiment on 163 children in a Columbus institution, with an electrical recording apparatus registering sleep disturbances, showed that boys were, on an average, 26 per cent more restless in sleep after seeing the movies, and girls were 14 per cent more restless. "Going to the movies," the report states, "was shown to have about the same effect on children's sleep as sitting up until midnight, or drinking two cups of coffee in the evening."

Jeritza Coming TO AMERICAN With Allan Jones

Downtown House Plans Now to Reopen for the Operetta "Annina," on April 23 and May Also Get Dennis King in "Richard of Bordeaux"—Little Theater to Present "The Pursuit of Happiness" This Week.

IT is pretty definitely decided that at least one more offering will grace the stage at the American Theater before the summer sets in and there is a possibility of still another attraction coming this way shortly to lengthen a bit the uncertain season which was supposed to have ended with Katharine Cornell's visit.

The Shuberts have determined to present their newest operetta, "Annina," in which Maria Jeritza of Grand Opera fame is starred, in most of the key cities before the musical play is exhibited to New York, and plans are being made to bring the piece to the American Theater the week of April 23.

Incidentally, the leading man of the company is none other than Allan Jones, a prime Municipal Opera favorite for a number of years. And the secenry for "Annina" is by Watson Barrett, the art director of the Municipal Opera staff.

"Annina" has music by Rudolf Friml, with the book by Rowland Leigh, William Thiele and John J. Shubert, the latter being the son of J. J. Shubert, Municipal Opera's general production manager.

"Annina" opened in Boston, and engagements in Philadelphia, Washington and Pittsburgh precede the St. Louis date.

The management of the American also advises that St. Louis may see Dennis King in "Richard of Bordeaux." King and his play are soon to appear in Chicago, and there is a possibility that he will stop here early in May on his way to the Pacific Coast.

OF more immediate interest to a section of local playgoers is the production—the fifth, and last of the present subscription season—of "The Pursuit of Happiness" at the Little Theater where it will begin a nine nights' run next Thursday evening.

This play is a current New York comedy success that has been playing for some time at the Avon Theater. According to the Little Theater group, this is the first time the play has been presented outside of New York, special rights for production have been obtained by a Little Theater committee. "The Pursuit of Happiness" was originally scheduled as an attraction for the Shubert Theater.

Because of its theme, "The Pursuit of Happiness" has become known along Broadway as "the 'bundling' play." "Bundling" is said to have made it possible for the early American men and maids to practice their petting in cold bedrooms by wrapping themselves up in blankets.

Included in the local cast will be Dorothea Roessling, Marion Klauber, Francis Fiest, Robert Tieman, Bruce MacFarlane, George Wendling, Donald Heuchan, Harold Elbert and J. William Lucas.

The first three performances, beginning next Thursday, are sold to the Little Theater subscription audiences. Public performances of the play will begin Monday evening, April 9, and continue for five nights.

IN New York things are slowing down, dramatically, although within one week the metropolis has had two new plays by the so-called radical playwright, John Howard Lawson. They were both poor plays, according to report, and their performances proved them steamy with the misery of arrant talkiness and sloppy thinking. "Gentlewoman," the second of them, was by far the better of the two. But that, one fears, is such faint praise, it might have been laid on with an air brush.

"The Pure in Heart" was a parable of two young people caught in the crushing racket and despair of life in the big city, enjoying one instant of love before their bodies were torn apart by the law's iron hail. It switched unsteadily back and forth between staccato and rococo, between the theater's backstage and the world's outdoors; and Mr. Lawson, accompanied by a good deal of modern but none the less maudlin music, assured patrons in the program that it was not German expressionism.

"Gentlewoman" had a more conventional form. It sought to be calmly realistic, and its four acts had been at the last moment squeezed into an orthodox three for Broadway's impatient sake. It told the love tale of a young society widow and a supermannish radical in love, in open sin, in many arguments about the body, the soul and the coming of the revolution. Finally they came to grief and parting over money matters. It was suspected that they'd simply talked themselves out.

An American historical film entitled "Yorktown" will be shown at the North Side Y. M. C. A., 3100 North Grand avenue, next Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Stock Company to Reopen Gayety In Hodge Comedy

THE opening bill of the stock company scheduled to start tonight at the old Gayety Theater, Fourteenth and Locust, will be William Hodge's former three-act comedy, "Straight Thru the Door." The venture is under the direction of Elmer Wright, commander of a local American Legion post.

Hugh Thompson will play the Hodge role. The leading feminine part will be in the hands of Marion Cahill and others in the cast will be Mildred Fischer, daughter of the late Frederick Fischer, who played "Rosemary Murphy" in "Abie's Irish Rose" and was the Joan in "The Trial of Joan of Arc" at the Coliseum, and Robert Vaughn, who dates back to the old Crawford Theater days.

Greta Stueckgold In Concert Friday

Greta Stueckgold, soprano, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will sing at Howard Hall next Friday evening, as the last attraction of the 1933-34 concert and lecture course of the Principia.

Madame Stueckgold comes to St. Louis from a triumphant New York season which included among other concerts, eight performances with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, in addition to her regular appearances at the Metropolitan.

Pauline Lord Signs For First Film Role

Another conversion from stage to screen was made the other day when Pauline Lord signed a contract with Paramount studies to appear in two pictures.

Miss Lord, who originated Eugene O'Neill's character, "Anna Christie," on the stage, will make her screen debut in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," in which Charlotte Henry will play "Lovey Mary." W. C. Fields will have one of the leading male roles. The second vehicle for the stage actress has not yet been selected.

Negro Pianist in Recital.

Warner Lawson, head of the school of music at Fisk University, will appear in a piano recital next Friday night at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Berea Presbyterian Church, 3027 Pine street. Lawson is a graduate of the school of music at Yale. He won the Juilliard scholarship twice and studied under Arthur Schnabel at Berlin.

English Actor Signs.

World Theater Opens With Yiddish Film

The World Theater, Delmar west of Grand, today goes under the management of Sol Goldman to become the home of Yiddish talking pictures in this city. For his inaugural attraction Goldman offers the Jewish actor-producer, Maurice Schwartz, in a comedy drama, "Uncle Moses," adapted from Sholom Asch's stage play of the same name. Schwartz is recalled as being the star and director of "Yoshe Kalb," the play which ran for 102 consecutive weeks at the Yiddish Art Theater in New York.

The cast surrounding Schwartz in "Uncle Moses" includes Judith Abarbanell. The World's policy calls for continuous showings today from 2:30 to 11 and on week days from 6:30 to 11.

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS

By NIE

WITH a sidewalk pointed ticket window, ushers in uniform and a lot of fresh paint, the Shubert Theater yesterday dropped out of the legit class and added 1800 or so seats to the already overcrowded motion picture field along the Grand avenue front. For its opening attraction the house, now under the management of the picture makers, Warner Brothers, has Al Jolson's new film, "Wonder Bar," made from his stage review the same name with the mammy singer playing again the role of a cabaret proprietor who stops proprietoring every once in awhile to entertain his guests with songs and stories. Some of the latter are more or less suggestive, but not nearly so objectionable as those in another musi-film of the week at one of the older Grand avenue cinema palaces. And in addition to Jolson, "Wonder Bar" boasts a lot of standard movie names. There is, for instance, Dick Powell, who sings very nicely, and Ricardo Cortez, Kay Francis and Dolores Del Rio, who furnish a touch of drama, after the Grand Hotel manner, to the piece. Also Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert and Louise Fazenda appear as Wonder Bar patrons to provide comedy, but the show is pretty much Jolson, who divides the honors only with some very elaborate dance numbers which are gorgeously photographed. There is plenty of music, but no very outstanding song hits, although the final number, which pictures Jolson going to heaven on a Missouri mule, which leans heavily upon the Negro play, "Green Pastures," is funny and attractive.

Begging for Censorship.

THE other musical of the week, referred to above, is the film version of George White's "Scandals" at the Fox. In it White, who did his part in putting the stage into disrepute, switches all of his well-known vulgarities and much of his brand of indecencies over to the screen to make his first picture venture the Will Hays' office answer to the demands of the Better Film Societies for cleaner entertainment. The dirt lacks the saving grace of being funny and despite the efforts of Rudy Vallee, Jimmy Durante and others, along with a few beautifully pictured chorus numbers, to put it across, the picture falls into the class of objectionable burlesque shows. The Fox studios, where the film was made, place the blame rather definitely in a screen announcement which says that "The Scandals was conceived, written and produced by George White."

A Lady With a Past.

DOWN at Loew's Norma Shearer is back before the cameras, after a long vacation, with "Riptide," a most entertaining domestic drama, which is not always the best fare for children, but is, all the same, an absorbing and interesting play delightfully acted. Norma appears as a New York girl of the smart set, who has been a trifle scattering with her favors up to the time she meets Herbert Marshall, a titled Englishman. Even they overlook some of what used to be called the conventions, but marry and settle down in England. And then Robert Montgomery, a drinking American, drops in while husband Herbert is away and Norma's past suddenly becomes her future. In the end the husband agrees to forgive and forget while Mr. Montgomery fades out of their lives. The story is intense with plenty of comedy and enough tears to provide everything the customers demand and, which will interest the ladies, Miss Shearer wears some magnificent gowns. "Riptide"—which means, by the way, a cross current—may be checked, for the time being at least, as one of the 10 best of the year.

The Law and Don Juan.

PERHAPS the general moral tone of "The Women in His Lifo," at the Ambassador, is not a perfect one to couple up with the children-attracting stage appearance of those radio heroes, Amos and Andy, but it, too, is another good drama made especially fine by the acting of Otto Kruger as a criminal lawyer, whose wife deserted him and who sets out to get revenge on the sex by vamping every lady who crosses his path. The courts do not approve of his methods and he is disbarred, but manages to get back on his feet and listen to fresh wedding bells by saving an innocent man from the gallows. Ben Lyon and Una Merkel do well by the piece too, but, after all, it is Amos and Andy, in person, who will be the attraction at the Ambassador all week doing their own particular brand of radio comedy and being very funny all of the time.

Possession Is Nine Points.

IN "This Man Is Mine," at the St. Louis, the exceedingly attractive Irene Dunne shows wives how to handle a husband who thinks he wants to get some exercise running up and down the primrose path. Ralph Bellamy is the man who develops a desire for an old flame in the person of Constance Cummings, who is a beautiful trouble maker. It all winds up by Ralph seeing the light and slapping Connie into unconsciousness and being taken back into Irene's arms. "This Man Is Mine" is smartly played and makes for good drama. On the same bill is "Orient Express," an exciting catch-the-spy meller laid on a European train, Constantinople bound.

Soc Drama.

WE WERE never very much impressed with the comedy of Jimmy Durante but if you like him—and there must be a lot of folks who do—you will enjoy laughing at "Palooka" at the Missouri. Durante is the manager of a ham prize fighter and tries to save him from the wiles of Lupe Velez by making love to her himself. Just thinking of Jimmy making love ought to be funny. Of course, everything works out O K with fighter Stuart Erwin going back to the old farm and the girl who is waiting there for him. The Missouri's No. 2 feature, "Rainbow Over Broadway" is a typical success drama made pleasing, here and there, by the baritone singing of Grace Hayes.

Over There.

ANOTHER official picture of the World War— and this one IS official—is "Four Aces" down at the American Theater which has gone into the films this week. There is no plot and no story but there is a succession of amazing scenes of actual fighting afloat, ashore and in the air with particular stress being put upon the engagements in which Missouri troops took part. Private Clayton Slack, who won, and wears, about all the war medals the Allied nations had to confer upon heroes, appears in person and explains the picture as it runs along.

Warren William Is Selected as Caesar

After considering many available actors in Hollywood, Cecil B. de Mille ended his search for a Julius Caesar for his next spectacle, "Cleopatra," by signing Warren William to play the role.

The signing of William ends De Mille's major casting worries. Harry Wilcoxon, who will play Marc Antony, was imported from the London stage. Claudette Colbert will be in the title role.

Wife Again Directed By Husband in Film

Arlene Judge will appear under the direction of her husband, Wesley Ruggles, for the first time since the picture on which they first met when she plays one of the leading roles in the filmization of the Ben Hecht-Gene Fowler play, "The Great Magoo." Jack Oakie, Ben Bernie and Alison Skipworth head the cast.

Bing Crosby Plans Long Radio Respite

Bing Crosby will take a six-months' radio vacation starting April 15, he announced at the Hollywood studio where he is busy on his next picture, "We're Not Dressing."

The singer plans to devote part of the six months off the air to motion pictures and the balance to a vacation.

Actress Versatile.

Before she was 13 years old, Ida Dupino, young English actress in "Come On Marines," had played such roles on the stage as a Roman warrior, a 90-year-old man, Juliet, a witch and other odd parts, besides doing plays in French and German.

Fields Headed Cantor.

W. C. Fields, one of the stars in "Second Honeymoon," was a starring comedian in Ziegfeld's "Follies" the year Eddie Cantor made his debut there as a minor laughgetter.

Ross Fired Off Air.

Lanny Ross, who got his picture start in "Melody in Spring" because of his reputation as a radio tenor, was discharged from his first "air" job when he sang with the Yale quartet.

Step Up and Meet Mr. Raft

Suave Screen Gangster With Sex Appeal Has Been Everything From Bat Boy to Ball Room Dancer on His Way to Cinema Fame—Once Touted to Fill Valentino's Shoes He Is Now Firmly Planted in a Handsome Pair of His Own.

YOU'VE seen a lot of George Raft in pictures lately and you are going to see plenty more of him. Not a successor to the lat lamented Rudolph Valentino, whose shoes he was touted, at th outset, to fill, however. Except for a slight resemblance George i no romantic Valentino. He has a place of this own though to fill i the cinema world and he is filling it rather well.

Modest, graceful, with slick hair and faultless appearance, let' let Raft step up to be introduced. His hand slides out. One notice it is uncalloused and that the finger nails are well manicured. Ye the grip makes one wince.

Raft has been in many a fall. Life hasn't always been eas but he doesn't worry about being down again tomorrow. Prac tically every company in Hollywood sought his screen services. Para mount had a ground floor position and won him to a contract. I isn't likely that filmdom will kick him out.

He knows how to use his fists. He has used them often. street fight is still a lot of fun for him. But, he prefers ice crea sodas to cocktails.

"I'm just an old-fashioned boy," he says, "who likes ice crea sodas. But they don't make them like they used to. They slip in lot of fancy flavoring and fluffy things. I still dream of the bi ones with plain ice cream—lots of it—a gob of flavoring and a fe squirts of fizz water. And in a glass an inch thick."

RAFT was born in "Hell's Kitchen," New York. His father wa German, his mother Italian and he got a lot of looks and trai from both. From his mother he picked up some knowledge o Italian—not much.

He was one of ten children. He's the only one left now, but h father always had money enough to care for the children well. The afterwards moved into a nicer neighborhood in New York City.

George always liked good clothes—to dress up. And he usuall had what clothes and other little luxuries he wanted. At 12 he wa mascot for the New York Yankee Here, he chased foul balls an tended to bats when the team wa home. Here he also got his love f baseball.

His first job out of school was an electrician's helper at $4 week. But he didn't like it. had a friend who knew a groc and this friend "pulled strings" a got George a job driving the deli ery wagon.

At 15, Raft tried boxing. H fought 22 scraps. Seven were lo by knockouts. Then he became baseball player. He was an ou fielder for Springfield, Mass., the Eastern League. But his ba ting average couldn't equal hi fielding, and, after two seasons, was dropped.

FROM this, our hero turned dancing. He had done som dancing because someone to him it would improve ring footwo During the 10 years which follow Raft's entrance into dancing, roamed the country and part the world.

He was a specialty dancer Texas Guinan's, Jimmy Durante club, the Lido, the El Fay, man many others. He was in vaudevil with Joe Frisco, with Ben Bernie band, with Joe Howard, dozens others. He was Vic Quinn's pa ner at the Walton Roof in Phil delphia. He was partner of Samm Kessler. He danced with Elsie Pi cer.

He played the Palace and eve city, burg, hamlet, tank and stic in the country. He was the fi performer put under contract Publix Theaters when that cha was first formulated, and appeare obscurely, with one of the troup on the stage of the Ambassado Theater here.

He went to Europe for six wee and remained 18 in London. The at the Florida Club, he taught t Prince of Wales the Charleston a Black Bottom. The Prince ga Raft a wrist watch, suitably e graved.

He seldom played one place at time when he got into "the mone Once he played four engageme at once—two night clubs, a musi show and a film theater.

AFTER 10 years of continuo dancing, Raft decided he need a rest. Many of his "buddie were in Hollywood. He went We to see them. One night he was ea ing in the "Brown Derby" whe Rowland Brown, the director, e tered. He was seeking "a mena with sex appeal." He approach Raft and asked him if he wou take the part.

"I can't act," Raft told him. "I a hoofer. But if you want me, tell you what I'll do. I have ticket for New York. I'm su posed to leave Friday. I'll st your picture Monday. If, Wednesday you see I won't do, j tell me and you won't have to p me a cent and I'll use that ticket

The ticket was returned. Ra filled the bill in "Quick Millions the Brown picture. He went in others and "Scarface" made him c nema famous.

Raft loves night club life never drinks. On Broadway rarely got enough sleep. In Holl wood he gets more than he need But he still loves to dance. Sua and subtle, he is silent unl nursed into "getting warmed on a conversation. Then he is terly frank and truthful. Desp his success as a dancer, he nev had a lesson. It came to him na urally. He always has loved "h tunes." His friends call him "T Black Snake."

The Famous Explorer's Atonement for SHOOTING a CHOW

Count Vasco da Gama Went to Jail and Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Green Received Satisfaction But Only After an Extensive Legal Battle.

By JACK ALEXANDER

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

IT'S all over now. Strained relations with Spain have been averted, Governor Herbert H. Lehman sleeps well of nights in the Albany mansion, the State Department prides itself on a ticklish job cleverly handled, the Spanish Ambassador is breathing easier and Mr. and Mrs. Isidor J. Green, of 395 Riverside drive, rightly feel they have obtained a certain amount of hunk, or satisfaction.

For Count Vasco da Gama, ballistics expert, explorer, electrical engineer and lineal descendant of the famous navigator, has lost his long battle with the courts and has served a jail sentence to atone for what the headline writers call the crime of dogicide. He shot Lord Von Dick, the Green's pet chow, and the Greens saw to it that he suffered for it. Strings were pulled in Washington in Da Gama's behalf, a special hearing was held before Governor Lehman, defendant's counsel warned of a possible war, the case was appealed and delayed almost a year, but, in the end, justice prevailed, aided by a private attorney the Greens hired to see the prosecution through.

Count da Gama, his wife and son.

It was a blow to the Count. In his long record as one of New York's most agreeable and consistent traffic violators, he had met with courteous treatment, consideration and an occasional fine. Magistrates were usually amused at the idea of a man who had braved the perils of the African jungle, absent-mindedly passing a red light or parking before a fire hydrant. They were flattered to get a nobleman in the daily net. It was noblesse oblige and all that and don't forget to tell the boys in the press room. Yet here was a magistrate ordering final execution of the jail sentence.

The grandee took it gracefully. His secretary, with a worried expression, rushed up with a bag of clean pajamas and linen. He waved away the pajamas and took along the linen. Reporters asked him how he expected to pass the time.

"I have my pipe and I have my thoughts," the Count replied airily. "That is all a gentleman needs. Besides, I hope I am a good loser. And your jails are clean, much better than some of the second-class steamers I have used in my travels in Africa. West Side jail I found particularly jolly when I spent some hours there last spring. I shall manage, all right."

Warden James McDermott, who was present to take the Count to his quarters, beamed at the praise. He recalled the Count's previous visit when he had languished a day and a half while his counsel was trying to get a writ to get him released on the dogicide charge.

The Count's final visit was for only eight days. When convicted last May before Magistrate August Dreyer he received thirty days, but the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, in upholding the conviction on appeal, reduced the term to ten days, and Magistrate Overton Harris, in committing the Count, subtracted the time he had already done in the jail, giving him credit for two full days.

There was also a $1000 fine and the Count paid it promptly. But as he was leaving for Warden McDermott's spotless hotel, process servers handed him papers notifying him of a civil suit for $25,000. It was an alleged personal assault on Green, the value of the deceased dog and the mental anguish suffered by both the Greens. Da Gama stuffed them in his pocket and walked off to his cell, puffing furiously.

The physical facts of the case were that last April, during an altercation with Green in the lobby of the Riverside Drive building where both reside, Da Gama whipped out his Luger automatic and fired once. Lord Von Dick staggered out to the sidewalk and died. Green had Da Gama arrested, claiming the assault was unjustified.

Da Gama told reporters at the time: "I was watching the dog out of the corner of my eye. The shot was perfectly synchronized. The leash dropped. The dog jumped at me. I fired. That was all. It was nothing."

The courtroom was crowded with incensed pet lovers when the case came up for trial. One woman said she was there to get pointers in an action she was bringing against her building superintendent, who had drilled her Reginald, a cat, with a bullet.

THE temper of the crowd was obviously against the culprit. Da Gama was dapper, but nervous, in a double-breasted pin-check suit, a gray striped shirt and a black tie. Magistrate Dreyer's bench was stacked with letters from indignant writers, most of whom demanded the heaviest penalty the court could give. One from Sidney Coleman, executive vice-president of the American Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, asked that "an example be made."

Before the close of the hearing, the following letter from Charles E. Buchner, president of the Bronx Kennel Club, was read into the court record: "On behalf of the Bronx Kennel Club, I ask that a severe sentence be imposed, as I am advised by the A. S. P. C. A. that the shooting was without provocation.

"A man's dog is his fast and unselfish friend, one that never proves ungrateful or unkind. A dog endears itself to his (sic) owner and his (sic) unlawful killing is a loss which cannot be measured in dollars and cents."

Exhibit A was a tinted portrait of Lord Von Dick taken at Long Beach. It had been removed from its place of honor on the piano by Mrs. Green who scored "the vicious act on the part of the defendant" and told the court: "I feel as though I have lost a member of my family. I am heartbroken."

Green, a painting contractor, was timid but determined as he took the stand.

"That night, as I was taking Lord Van Dick out for a walk," he testified, "I saw this Count looking out his apartment door after us. When I returned to the lobby, this Count was waiting. He said: 'I have made up my mind to shoot your dog.' I said to him: 'What right have you got to kill any dog?' He said to me: 'Step aside or I'll shoot both of you.' I didn't know if the man was joking or crazy—so I stood aside. Then I saw fire and I heard a noise. The dog jumped out of the leash. He ran to the door and out to the sidewalk and died."

A sympathetic clucking swept the courtroom. Count da Gama took out a gold pencil and began sketching the floor plan of the apartment lobby on the back of an envelope.

Green said that Da Gama had accused Lord Von Dick of biting his pet Pekes, Moke and Moisy, putting marks on the neck of Moisy that remained for weeks. Green said that this charge was false.

William Junkers, the perfect doorman, told how he had opened the door for the pedigreed dog's last exit.

POLO GOES WILD WEST

How the Entry of Cowboys Into the Ranks of Star Players Has Added a More Picturesque Touch to the Game and Contributed to the Spread of Its Popularity Throughout the Country.

Cecil Smith, the ex-cowpuncher from Texas, who is now one of the three leading stars of the country.

It's an old game, this polo, but new principles of play brought from the plains and the Pacific coast have made it new, adding a thrill that the Persian princes who originated the sport 2000 years ago hardly knew about.

The old Wild West has made polo wild. Besides the wrestling-on-horseback aspect of the game, which results in cracked heads, broken legs and other injuries dear to the hearts of the thrill-seeking customers, polo as it has come to be pursued now has in it some of the wide sweep of football, the quick action of hockey and the accuracy, skill and power that Babe Ruth puts—or used to put—into the manufacture of a home run.

To understand the amazing growth of the sport in the United States in the last few years, it is necessary only to look at the rankings which show one 10-goal player, Tommy Hitchcock Jr., from the effete East; another 10-goal man, Cecil Smith, from the plains of Texas, and a third 10-goal man, Elmer Boeseke Jr., from California. Thus three sections of the country can claim "the greatest player in the world," and in no other country—not even India, where polo was played years before the British found it there—can a single 10-goal star be found!

Behind these ratings there lies a drama, the scenes of which are pitched in a Long Island society setting, a ranch near Austin, Texas; a Santa Barbara, California, sunset, and the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago last year where the West came into its own.

The Long Island scene began with Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock Sr., putting her son Tommy on a pony's back as soon as he was able to toddle around. She saw in polo a game that would develop his sportsmanship, but how far that development was to be tested by recent events she could not have foreseen years ago when Tommy started to ride.

Tommy eventually became the star of international polo that turned back repeated thrusts of British and Argentinian invaders. He developed into the ne plus ultra of polo, and for years he was the only 10-goal man in the United States. A 10-goal man, it might be explained, is a player whose rating is so high that it imposes a handicap of 10 goals on his team in matches in which handicaps are used. Under this system, a team's handicap is the total of the handicaps assigned to its players. Thus, if two of a 10-goal man's teammates are five-goal men and the third is credited with four goals, the team handicap is 24. If it plays a team whose handicaps total 20, it gives its opponents four goals. When Tommy was at his peak five or six years ago, the West was not considered a high-goal polo potentiality.

George Miller is a part of the polo panorama that unfolded on the Texas plains. George is a horseman born. His father raced and rode and George followed his trail, and passed him, racing and riding the range until about 20 years ago, when automobiles began causing an unemployment situation among cow ponies. George went in then for polo ponies, breeding and training mounts on a ranch near Austin.

Now Rube Williams happened to be a cow-puncher around Austin, and to the Rube riding herd on steers was as noble a pastime as man ever devised until he happened one day to look in on George Miller's training activities. Miller persuaded the daring rider to try the darn fool game. The Rube took up the challenge and entered the spirit of the thing in something like the style of Joe Savoldi hitting the University of Pittsburgh line.

Williams came very near quitting polo after a few days of self-imposed terrific workouts. Stiff neck, charley horses in both legs, lame arms and a pain in the back! All for the pleasure of hitting a ball between two posts.

But Miller kidded him, offered him a job scouting for prospective polo ponies, and it wasn't long until the Rube had developed into a pretty fair sort of hand at the game. Right now he is recovering from a slight brain concussion suffered in the recent Texas-California championship series. But that's getting ahead of the story.

AFTER the Rube had been playing for a couple of years and gallivanting around Texas hunting likely-looking mounts, he proselyted Cecil Smith for the game. Smith was a horse-breaker and cowpuncher at Llano, six miles from Austin—and a doggoned good one, too. His chief thrill in life was roping or riding in the rodeo contests, and if you had told him the Nawab of Bhopal was a nine-goal polo man he would just have laughed at the information.

The Rube admired Smith's riding and invited him to Miller's ranch to take a job training polo ponies.

"I just went over to Miller's and sent back for my clothes," says Smith in his quiet way, explaining his entrance into polo.

During the summer Smitty and the Rube would go North with ponies for sale. One would haunt the Midwestern polo camps while the other was showing off the horses in the East. The height of the season would find them on Long Island, attending the championship matches at Meadowbrook—as spectators only.

Five or six years ago, Miller told Louis E. Stoddard, chairman of the United States Polo Association, that Williams and Smith were good enough for the United States team in international competition. Stoddard turned the tip over to Tommy Hitchcock, captain of the defenders, who promptly asked for the candidates' ratings.

"They're only 4-goalers," replied Miller, "but don't go by that. They can play polo in any man's game."

Hitchcock was impressed and asked that they be sent along for trials. When Miller went back to the ranch and told the Rube, the former cowhand refused to believe him. George had to persuade him it wasn't a joke. The Rube finally decided to report for trials, but Smith couldn't be roped into high-goal polo yet. He went on playing and improving—at San Antonio, at Detroit, and on New Jersey fields.

Finally Smith bobbed up at Sands Point, where Robert Lehman took him on as a protege, and spurred the young man to his greatest efforts. Four years ago Smith played his first high-goal polo, riding with Roslyn in a contest for the Monty Waterbury trophy. His team won the Waterbury. Meanwhile the Rube had been progressing rapidly, finally reaching the 8-goal stage. Definitely they were part of the picture, and had to be reckoned in the high ratings.

Boeseke, who this year was elevated to the cherished 10-goal ranking along with Smith, cannot remember when he wasn't knocking a polo ball around a field.

He is a native of Santa Barbara, and by the time he was 12 years old he was playing a slashing, daring game. Today he is 6 feet 4½ inches tall and weighs 180 pounds. His mad dashing from point to point on a polo field suggests the pictures of the legendary Centaur.

Elmer played on a team made up of Boesekes, his father and his uncles. Back in 1924 he was rated at 6 goals and was chosen a member of the American team that competed in the Olympic games. Argentina won the Olympic title that year, defeating the United States team by a goal that was scored while Boeseke was driving a broken ball off the field at the referee's order.

The courage required for polo has been demonstrated pretty well by this daring rider. Once his scalp was opened by a blow from a flying mallet. He retired from the game while his father, a doctor, took a few stitches, and returned at once to the battle.

Last year at Chicago they "played rough." Boeseke played when the only things the matter with him were gout in his right foot and a broken bone in his left. Doctors offered sedatives, but Boeseke refused and went on playing with his feet so numb he couldn't keep them in the stirrups.

Like Smith and Williams, Boeseke is not wealthy and owns few of his own mounts. He lives by oil wells and real estate and for years has trained ponies for Captain McKittrick at his ranch in the Santa Ynez valley. One of his ponies, Red Ace, is a former race horse, taken from the Tijuana track by Boeseke. He has refused $10,000 for this pony.

The East-West series was a brand new affair last year, staged to entertain World's Fair visitors. Among the thousands of visitors who sat in as witnesses on the clash were many getting their first glimpse of the game. They received a new thrill and bore the message to the folks back home.

To scores it was a discovery—polo was not a polite game of equestrianized parchesi played by idle rich young men who laconically tapped a ball about a velvety pasture. It was furious fight, chukker to chukker, with the cowboys trying to ride herd upon a determined and courageous band of Easterners who battled the toughies from the Panhandle with their own weapons.

All the Eastern years of supremacy were at stake in that Chicago classic. And when Hitchcock and his mates learned what kind of bruising game their opponents from the wooly West were determined to play, the Easterners replied with equal roughness.

But the West won, two games to one, and before it was realized, the polo picture in the United States had changed completely to include some romantic color from the range country. Polo may have been conceived by a Shah, but that's not the game they're playing now.

AND when the East and West meet again this year, the scene of battle probably Meadowbrook, it will be the West that takes the field with a higher-goal team. With Boeseke, Smith, Williams and Eric Pedley or Aidan Roark, the West has a 33-goal lineup. This is three goals better than the East can muster, with Hitchcock at 10 goals, James P. Mills and Winston Guest the only 8-goal men in the section, and the necessity of choosing a fourth from the 7-goal ranks.

Internationally this season, the United States can put a team on the field unequaled anywhere in the world. By adding Hitchcock to Boeseke, Smith and either 8-goal Winston Guest or 8-goal Rube Williams, the United States has a 38-goal team, and a 40-goal team would of course be the last word.

India comes closest to this country in the rating of its high-goal team. On such a team would be chosen the Nawab of Bhopal, the only 9-goaler in the world. There also would be Rao Rajah Hanut Singh. The third man would be probably the Maharaja of Jaipur. Either of two British officers—Maj. E. G. Atkinson or Maj. Austin H. Williams—could make a fourth, thus making a 33-goal outfit.

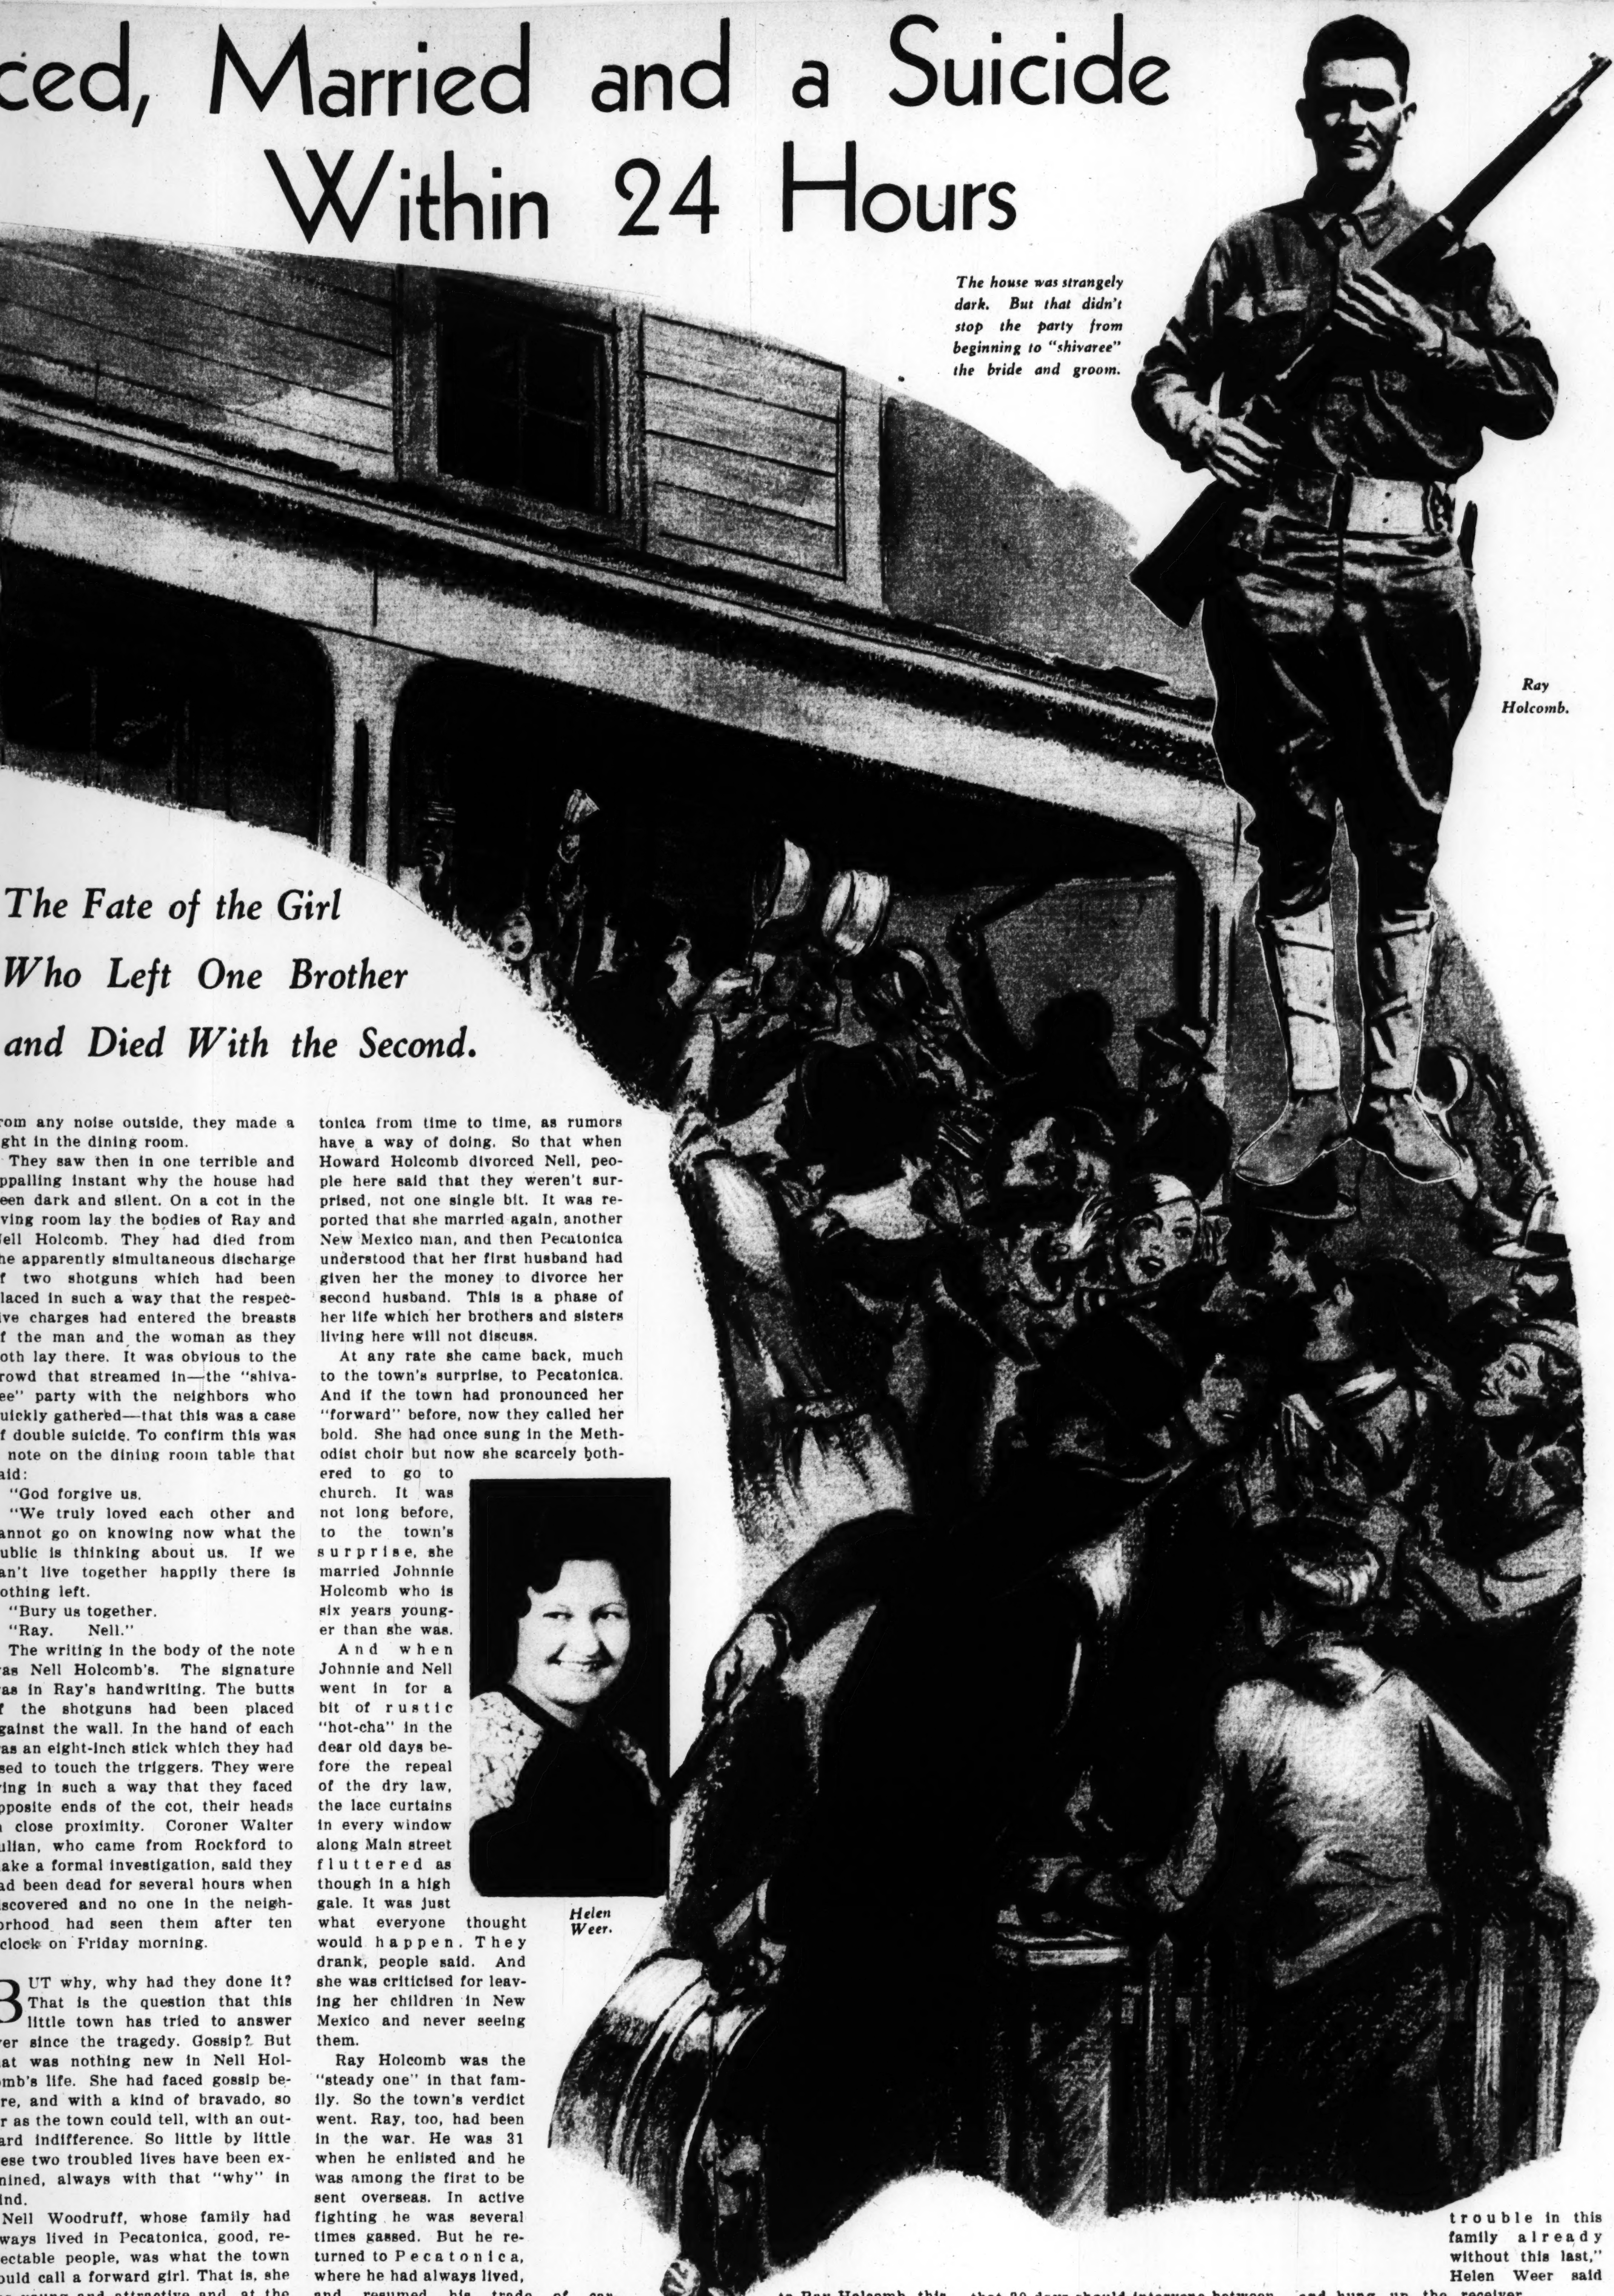
Divorced, Married and a Suicide Within 24 Hours

Johnnie Holcomb.



The house was strangely dark. But that didn't stop the party from beginning to "shivaree" the bride and groom.

Ray Holcomb.

Helen Weer.

The Fate of the Girl Who Left One Brother and Died With the Second.

By M. W. CHILDS

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

PECATONICA, Ill.

JOHNNIE HOLCOMB stepped into the dark house and listened. Called out, "Oh Ray . . . Nell." There was no answer and he went out the back door again.

Ray was his brother. Nell had been his wife until yesterday. Now Ray and Nell were married and the town disapproved. The town more than disapproved, the town said it was a disgrace. To divorce one brother Thursday at ten o'clock and marry the other brother half an hour later that very same morning. Never had such a thing happened in Pecatonica, Illinois, before!

Johnnie decided that the thing to do was to treat these newlyweds just like any other newlyweds who might have come back to live after a little wedding trip. Give them a "shivaree." That was the custom to follow . . . to give them that kind of rousing welcome so they wouldn't feel the town's disapproval, so they would feel that their marriage had been like every other marriage.

Along Main street he soon gathered together enough young people for a "shivaree"—or charivari, as the "pedants" have it—party. Among others he asked Helen Weer who was Ray Holcomb's favorite niece. Helen had strongly disapproved of the new marriage and she had not hesitated to say so. But now she consented, after a little persuasion, to come along with Johnnie to the "shivaree."

The group had armed themselves with the usual collection of old pans and other noisemakers. They advanced on Ray Holcomb's modest gray frame house, three blocks off Main street. There was much giggling and jesting. Still the house was strangely dark. But that didn't stop the party from beginning to "shivaree" the bride and groom. They set up a hideous noise, yelling, shouting, beating on old tin pans.

And there was no response at all, which was odd, too. For custom in the Middle West requires that the bridegroom, and the bride, if she is not too shy, must appear at the door and offer the party refreshments or money to buy them with.

In the face of this darkened, silent house the noise of the "shivaree" died away a little foolishly. Johnnie said he would go in and find out whether they were really home or not. Perhaps they were keeping silent, as a joke. Helen Weer offered to go with him. They went in the back door, which was unlocked, and in the silence, which was unbroken now from any noise outside, they made a light in the dining room.

They saw then in one terrible and appalling instant why the house had been dark and silent. On a cot in the living room lay the bodies of Ray and Nell Holcomb. They had died from the apparently simultaneous discharge of two shotguns which had been placed in such a way that the respective charges had entered the breasts of the man and the woman as they both lay there. It was obvious to the crowd that streamed in—the "shivaree" party with the neighbors who quickly gathered—that this was a case of double suicide. To confirm this was a note on the dining room table that said:

"God forgive us.

"We truly loved each other and cannot go on knowing now what the public is thinking about us. If we can't live together happily there is nothing left.

"Bury us together.

"Ray. Nell."

The writing in the body of the note was Nell Holcomb's. The signature was in Ray's handwriting. The butts of the shotguns had been placed against the wall. In the hand of each was an eight-inch stick which they had used to touch the triggers. They were lying in such a way that they faced opposite ends of the cot, their heads in close proximity. Coroner Walter Julian, who came from Rockford to make a formal investigation, said they had been dead for several hours when discovered and no one in the neighborhood had seen them after ten o'clock on Friday morning.

BUT why, why had they done it? That is the question that this little town has tried to answer ever since the tragedy. Gossip? But that was nothing new in Nell Holcomb's life. She had faced gossip before, and with a kind of bravado, so far as the town could tell, with an outward indifference. So little by little these two troubled lives have been examined, always with that "why" in mind.

Nell Woodruff, whose family had always lived in Pecatonica, good, respectable people, was what the town would call a forward girl. That is, she was young and attractive and, at the time she came of age, impatient of restraint and of conventional moral taboos. That was the time of the war. Rockford is only 14 miles away and just outside of Rockford was the great army encampment, Camp Grant. Rockford was a boom town, crowded with soldiers and officers and friends and relatives of soldiers and officers.

Every young girl could meet the boys from Camp Grant, could go to the dances, through the Red Cross, or more casually. Nell Woodruff met a young soldier named Howard Holcomb (no relation to the Pecatonica family). They fell in love and just before he was to go away to war they were married, all under the stir and excitement of the time.

After the war they went to live in Howard Holcomb's home town of Albuquerque, New Mexico. There three children were born, Alice, Corisse and Mickey. Rumors came back to Pecatonica from time to time, as rumors have a way of doing. So that when Howard Holcomb divorced Nell, people here said that they weren't surprised, not one single bit. It was reported that she married again, another New Mexico man, and then Pecatonica understood that her first husband had given her the money to divorce her second husband. This is a phase of her life which her brothers and sisters living here will not discuss.

At any rate she came back, much to the town's surprise, to Pecatonica. And if the town had pronounced her "forward" before, now they called her bold. She had once sung in the Methodist choir but now she scarcely bothered to go to church. It was not long before, to the town's surprise, she married Johnnie Holcomb who is six years younger than she was.

And when Johnnie and Nell went in for a bit of rustic "hot-cha" in the dear old days before the repeal of the dry law, the lace curtains in every window along Main street fluttered as though in a high gale. It was just what everyone thought would happen. They drank, people said. And she was criticised for leaving her children in New Mexico and never seeing them.

Ray Holcomb was the "steady one" in that family. So the town's verdict went. Ray, too, had been in the war. He was 31 when he enlisted and he was among the first to be sent overseas. In active fighting he was several times gassed. But he returned to Pecatonica, where he had always lived, and resumed his trade of carpenter. Johnnie worked with him and occasionally another brother, Oscar, worked with him on carpentering jobs.

He was not only a fine carpenter but liked and respected by everyone, a quiet man, who went about his work quietly and efficiently. He married Mable Moore, of a good family in the town, and their marriage would have been a happy one if it had not been for his wife's almost constant ill health. She died seven years ago and her mother, Mrs. Anna Moore, came to keep house for Ray. He was a member of the Odd Fellows, a member of the American Legion. Of an evening he might talk a little while in the restaurant or the pool room, he might drink a bottle of beer, but he was home early. A quiet life, an even flowing life. You could always count on Ray. That was the tribute of the town.

And then a strange thing happened to Ray Holcomb, this sober-going, steady citizen. He fell in love with his sister-in-law and she responded, she said that she loved him. It all happened so quietly that it almost escaped the notice of the town. Almost, but not quite. They saw now that they knew that something was wrong with Ray, they say it was because he was gassed in the war.

Johnnie Holcomb says that he first knew about it two months ago. For a time he held out against surrendering his wife. Then he agreed to a divorce. On Wednesday night Nell slept in the house of Johnnie Holcomb. On Thursday morning she and Ray drove to Rockford. They went to Circuit Judge A. E. Fisher's court and in a few minutes she had been granted a divorce decree. A recent change in the Illinois law removed the stipulation that 30 days should intervene between divorce and remarriage. So half an hour later they were married in the Trinity Lutheran parsonage by the Reverend Hugh M. Bannen.

They returned at once to Pecatonica. That evening, Thursday evening, Johnnie came to call on them. The story in the town is that he pleaded with Nell to take him back again.

JOHNNIE says that he left them with, in effect, his blessing. When he left at 10 o'clock, he took them by the hand and said, "I love you both and I'll forgive you." That is what he said after the discovery of the tragedy.

That evening and the following morning Nell Holcomb telephoned a number of her friends and relatives. Among others she called Helen Weer. There was in her voice the bravado of old.

"Well, you've heard the news," she said. "What do you think of it?"

"I think you'd caused enough trouble in this family already without this last," Helen Weer said and hung up the receiver.

There were many who let her know they disapproved of what had happened. That nice Ray Holcomb, they said. And why couldn't she have let him alone. It must be the war, they said, the effect of that gas, you know.

The town gave Ray and Nell Holcomb a wonderful funeral. Big sprays of flowers came way from Rockford. The American Legion fired a salute over the grave and all the Odd Fellows were there. The house was packed with people. You couldn't get another person inside. And the undertaker put the coffins in the living room, just the way the bodies had been found. The Reverend J. N. Beck of the Methodist Church in Pearl City preached.

Of course, there was that note. "We truly loved each other. . . . Knowing now what the public is thinking about us . . . nothing left . . ." About that note people don't have very much to say.

High Priestess of Anarchy Back in America

By ARTHUR STRAWN

NEW YORK.

EMMA GOLDMAN, high-priestess of anarchy and once considered "the most dangerous woman in the United States," is back in the country again after fifteen years of enforced exile. She was deported in 1919 after serving a two-year term in the Missouri Penitentiary at Jefferson City for opposing the draft during the war.

She is here now on a visitor's entry permit for ninety days, and most of her time is being devoted to visiting relatives and friends and lecturing in public.

She is a short, dumpy woman of sixty-four now, her hair grey and faded. Her face bears the marks of disappointment and hardship, and her manner suggests weariness. But the pale eyes behind her thick, rimless glasses can still light up with the old fire, and her voice can cut with its old incisive clarity at the mention of such distasteful subjects as war, tyranny, Government, Hitler, Mussolini and similar restraints on personal liberty so abhorrent to anarchists.

There are few women in the world today who have had careers as turbulent and adventuresome as Emma Goldman's. From her native Russia she came to this country with her family and settled in Rochester, where she was married to a man named Kerschner when she was eighteen. She divorced him and two years later, in 1889, came to New York City. Here she came under the influence of Johann Most, brilliant editor of an anarchist paper, and Alexander Berkman, a young radical who later became her lover and life-long friend, and it wasn't long before Emma Goldman herself became one of the foremost spokesmen for anarchism and social revolution.

Miss Goldman insists that anarchism has always been and still is a greatly misunderstood philosophy. She denies that she has ever advocated violence, bomb-throwing or bloodshed, and has always urged greater education and enlightenment as the only methods to be used in building a new social structure.

According to her own definition, "Anarchism is the philosophy of a new social order that rests on liberty unrestricted by man-made laws. It believes that all governments maintain themselves by coercion and force and are therefore injurious and unnecessary. Anarchists see in free and voluntary co-operation of man the only solution of our economic ills. Such a society represents free and self-reliant units who have the will and the ability to create a free social aggregate."

No one can quarrel with this philosophy as an ideal goal toward which education should strive. The trouble has been, however, that certain schools of anarchistic thought have believed in an occasional act of violence as an "attention-caller" to certain social evils. Thus, in July, 1893, Berkman went to Pittsburgh and seriously wounded Henry Frick as a protest against the shooting of the Homestead strikers by Pinkertons in Frick's employ.

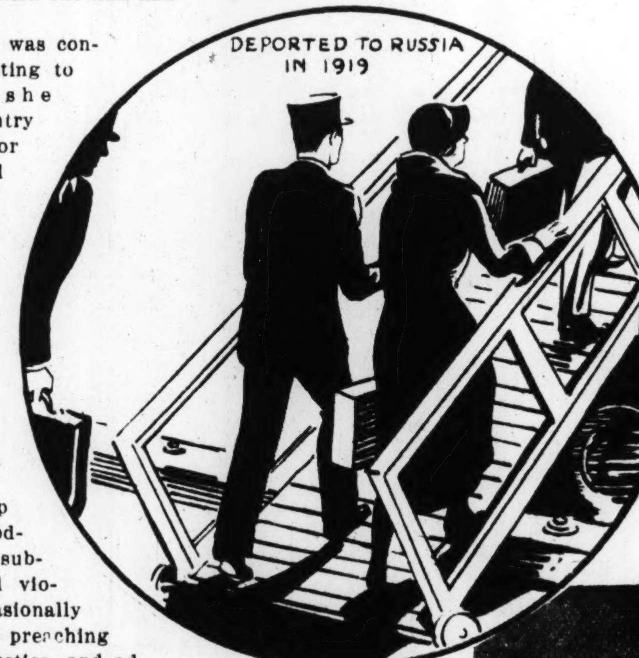
This violent act was originated and carried out by Berkman, although Miss Goldman admits that she encouraged him when he laid his plan before her. The authorities, however, knew of her prolonged efforts to gain his release subsequently from the penitentiary, and the result was that later when McKinley was shot, or any bomb was exploded, the police immediately began a hunt for Emma Goldman. She was, in fact, in St. Louis, working as a saleswoman for a New York stationery firm when the police of the nation began to search for her to charge her with aiding in the assassination of McKinley, with which she had had nothing to do.

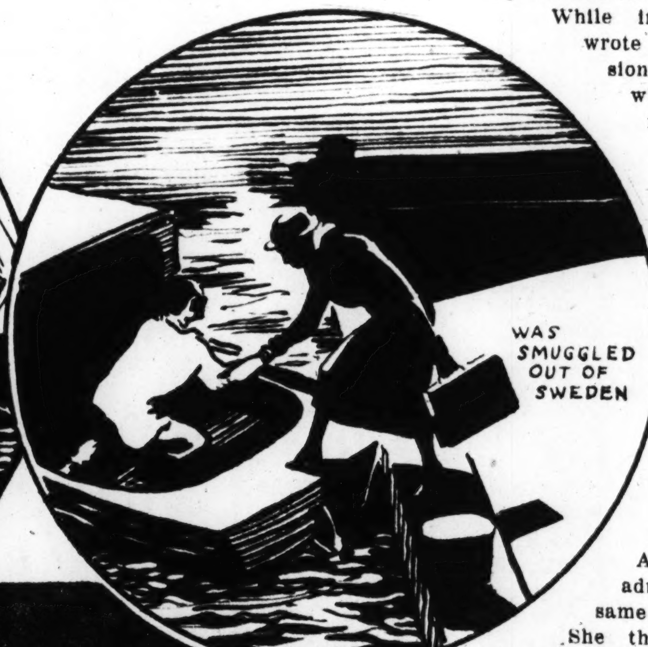
After Berkman was convicted for attempting to murder Frick, she toured the country to raise funds for his defense and release, in the meantime taking an active part in every large strike or social disturbance in the country, agitating, lecturing and raising funds. Her lectures were constantly broken up by police and hoodlums, she was subjected to physical violence and occasionally thrown in jail for preaching against social injustice, and advocating birth-control and other advanced ideas which have since become respectable. Except for the period spent by Berkman in the penitentiary, they spent the three decades following their association in 1892 in continuous devotion to anarchism and to every important battle for free speech, liberty and the rights of labor. When the United States entered the World War both were outspoken in opposition to the draft as a violent invasion of the rights of the individual. They were arrested and convicted for obstructing the draft, and each was sentenced to two years in prison, and ordered deported afterwards.

Miss Goldman served her time at Jefferson City, where numerous friends and admirers from St. Louis, including the late William Marion Reedy, then editor of the Mirror, visited her and brought what influence they could summon to bear against the hardships of her prison life.

But even the hard prison life couldn't dampen her ardor for improving the lot of the unfortunate and oppressed. Even while in prison she agitated successfully against prevailing prison conditions.

In December, 1919, after her release, she and Berkman, together with 246 other alien revolutionaries, were placed on the S. S. Buford and deported to Russia.





WAS SMUGGLED OUT OF SWEDEN

Alexander Berkman at the age of 21.

In order to make Miss Goldman eligible to deportation as an alien the Government resorted to what was considered a questionable piece of strategy.

She had lived in the country more than thirty years and had married Kerschner, an American citizen, in 1887. But the Government decided, after Kerschner's death, that his citizenship papers had been irregular, and 'that therefore Emma Goldman had not become a citizen by marrying him!

In America, Emma Goldman had always been an ardent champion of the Bolsheviki, and it was taken for granted that she would feel perfectly at home in Russia. Such, however, was not the case. Soviet officials, of course, welcomed her and Berkman and invited them to select the kind of work they preferred to do.

"But we soon discovered," she says, "that our dislike for all government was justified, even in Russia. Free speech was suppressed; there was marked discrimination against those who did not belong to the party in power, and no criticism of the dictatorship was tolerated."

Worst of all, the anarchists were suppressed and many of them jailed, and with much less legal formality than Emma Goldman had been accustomed to in the United States. If she had foresworn her allegiance to anarchy and complete individual liberty, and had instead joined the Communist party, she would have been given a position of influence and power in the government.

"But I had gone to jail and been deported from America for the sake of my ideals," she explains, "and I wasn't going to abandon them for a comfortable berth with the Bolsheviki."

She remained in Russia two years. At the end of that time she had succeeded in making herself persona non grata there because of her highly critical attitude toward Communist methods and institutions. She decided to leave the country, and was granted a passport, but the Soviet officials managed to prevent her getting a visa to enter Germany, she says, because they knew she would broadcast her views as soon as she was out of Russia.

She finally left Russia at the end of 1921, and with great difficulty made her way to Sweden.

"Germany was my objective," she says, "but the Soviet officials had managed to prevent my admission to Germany. I stayed in Sweden for a while, and then got myself smuggled out of the country in a motor launch. I entered Germany secretly, but once in the country certain of my friends began to use their infleunce and I was permitted to stay."

While in Germany she wrote a book, "My Disillusionment in Russia," which was published in America and England. One of the conditions of her being allowed to remain in Germany was that she refrain from any political activity. This was equivalent to asking a fish not to swim. Germany was therefore intolerable, and she sought permission to enter Austria. Austria was willing to admit her, but on the same condition.

She then turned to England, and through friends connected with the Labor Party in power, she was admitted to England in 1924. She spent the next few years there lecturing on the drama, on which she is an authority, as well as on political subjects, and while there formed friendships with such distinguished persons as Rebecca West, Havelock Ellis, Edward Carpenter, Frank Harris and a host of others.

The Labor Party, by whose permission she had entered England, was definitely sympathetic with the Moscow Government and resented her attacks against the Bolsheviki. There was the likelihood of her being expelled from the country, so she resorted to a simple device to acquire British citizenship. In June, 1926, she married John Colton, a Welsh miner. They never lived together. And she is here now on a British passport.

After lecturing extensively in England, chiefly on literary subjects, she went to Canada in 1927 and spent two years there, lecturing in the various large cities without any molestation by the authorities, although her discussions frequently dealt with such subjects as anarchism, free love, and birth control.

The following year she settled in Saint Tropez, a fisher village in the south of France, and there began to work on her memoirs, subsequently published under the title, "Living My Life." Friends and admirers collected a fund to enable her to live while she wrote, and she augmented her income by occasional excursions into England and Holland to lecture.

"I lectured a number of times in Holland," she says, "to large and friendly audiences. One of my chief subjects was 'Dictatorships', including an analysis of the Nazi government and its methods. But the last time I was in Holland, about a year ago, the authorities wouldn't let me speak on Germany and insisted on 'escorting' me out of the country. I later found out that the Dutch Government's change of attitude was due to the fact that Holland factories were filling huge orders of munitions and military supplies for the Nazis. Naturally, they didn't want anything said that might displease their best customer."

"I AM not permitted to criticise any foreign government while I'm here," she continued, "although there is a lot about the dictatorships in Germany, Russia and Italy I'd like to tell the American people. And I'm not going to give my views on present conditions in America until I've finished my visit and had time enough to study the situation and the changes that have taken place. On the whole, I don't think I'm being particularly original when I say that the world doesn't seem to have made much progress in the direction of individual freedom. As far as the United States is concerned, however, I can say that there is something refreshing in the presence of a man in the White House who seems to have some social consciousness, a quality with which our Presidents in the past have not been too liberally endowed."

Miss Goldman readily admits that she made many mistakes in the course of her long career, but she vehemently refuses to include among them her opposition to the World War and the draft, for which she was deported. "I daresay there are a great number of people in this country" she remarks with some bitter satisfaction, "who feel the same way about it now as I did then."

She doesn't entertain much hope that she will ever be permitted to return permanently to this country. She has not renounced her belief in the principles of anarchism, and her conviction that all government is evil, and she is therefore barred from permanent re-entry by the laws excluding anarchists as undesirable.

When Catherine Schmidt 'Came Back to Life'

The Monstrous Crime Committed by Monsieur Sarret and How a Chance Street Encounter Led to Its Disclosure.

MARSEILLES.

ONE day in March, 1931, a police spy dashed into the office of Monsieur Cals, local Chef of the Surete Generale, that is, the national detective force that spreads over all France like a gigantic spider web.

"I just saw—I just saw—I just saw"—he kept whispering hoarsely, unable to say another word.

The informer was shivering from head to foot with terror and his eyes were popping out, as if he had seen the devil himself.

"You remember that German girl, Catherine Schmidt—the one we had on our suspect list—who died a year ago this month?" he finally managed to blurt out. "Well, I just saw her walking in the street, and it wasn't her ghost, either. I know that fraulein too well. I tell you I saw her, in flesh and blood, just the same as ever. I trailed her, I know where she lives."

Monsieur Cals laughed incredulously. "You must be taking dope, Toto. She's dead and buried. It just reminds me: I saw the tombstone on her grave a few days ago when I had to go to the cemetery."

"I know she is dead," the man retorted with a shudder, "but I just saw her, as close as you are to me."

The Chef de Surete laughed again, but this time he pressed a button and asked for his "dossiers," his files. He leafed through a thick pile of notes, for the French police keep complete records of everyone who does any sort of queer business. "Philomene Schmidt," he read. "Born Augsburg, Bavaria, 1888, daughter of a gendarmerie officer who committed suicide because of ill-health. Came to France as governess with the Marquise di H——, Italian, 1908 . . . Catherine Schmidt, sister, born 1895, followed two years later . . ." He ran through the list of their employers, occupations, changes of residence, debts and bank accounts, amorous adventures and associates. Under "Associates" the Chef de Surete noticed the name Maitre (Lawyer) Sarret, and a puzzled frown swept across his features for a fleeting second. Suddenly he dropped it for another slip. "There was an insurance policy for 1,700,000 francs ($68,000 gold) on Catherine Schmidt, which was paid to her mother in Bavaria after her death." Again a puzzled frown swept over his face—the amount was enormous—to fade out as he picked up a final document.

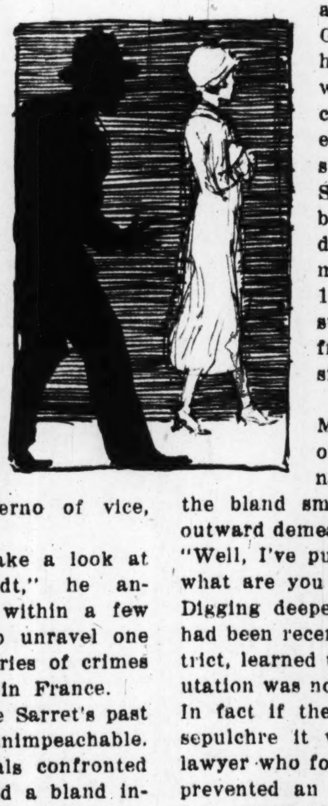
"Catherine Schmidt is absolutely dead," he cried out. "Dr. Guy attended her and signed the death certificate. You know who Dr. Guy is!"

The police chief and the informer looked at each other blankly. Dr. Guy was a disabled war veteran, a municipal councillor, an assistant mayor, the medical director for one of the largest steamship companies—an outstanding man in his profession, a person of irreproachable integrity.

"I think you must be mad," the Chef de Surete laughed patronizingly. "She's deader than ——"

"I think I must be mad, too, Chief," the spy agreed with a sickly grin, "but if you ever want to talk to her here is the address of the house. She is the same platinum blonde as ever. The tomb hasn't changed her a bit. A bit younger, if anything."

Chuckling over this fantastic interruption, Monsieur Cals walked to his window and looked out. What a city! Rich, splendid roaring day and night with the trade of Africa and Asia and the coming and going of innumerable ships, but its dives on the sea-front the rendezvous of the scum of the Mediterranean, headquarters for the narcotic and white slave traffics, a seething inferno of vice, passion, crime.



"I'm going out to take a look at this Catherine Schmidt," he announced briefly and within a few hours he had begun to unravel one of the most horrible series of crimes that has ever occurred in France.

On the surface Maitre Sarret's past reputation was all but unimpeachable. And when Monsieur Cals confronted the lawyer, he presented a bland innocence that at first seemed too genuine to question. Even when Monsieur Cals had accumulated positive evidence to show that Lawyer Sarret was guilty of a clever swindle, it scarcely occurred to the police to probe deeper into the crime. Maitre Sarret, the good Maitre Sarret to whom the best people of Marseilles tipped their hats. Maitre Sarret who was about to run for the Chamber of Deputies against Monsieur Buisson, who presides over the Chamber and who is the most popular man in Marseilles! It was difficult enough to believe that he was a swindler and yet there the evidence was.

Lawyer Sarret apparently had had the Schmidt sisters under his domination. He had placed life insurance for 1,700,000 francs on Catherine in 1929, the amount being spread over several companies. Posing as a wealthy woman who had made a vow to heaven to nurse some sick woman back to health, Philomene Schmidt had gone around the hospitals and picked out a friendless girl named Magali Herbin, who was hopelessly ill with tuberculosis.

The Schmidts and Sarret established this girl in a modest suburban villa. When she died, Maitre Sarret called in Dr. Guy, who was unacquainted with the Schmidts, and asked him to write a death certificate. Dr. Guy, never dreaming that he was being tricked, wrote out a death certificate in the name of Catherine Schmidt. As the insurance had named Rose Schmidt, their mother, as beneficiary, Philomene disguised herself as the mother and collected the 1,700,000 francs. Of this sum Sarret took a million francs and the Schmidt sisters the balance.

So far so good, said Monsieur Cals as he went on with his investigation, not quite satisfied with the bland smugness of the lawyer's outward demeanor—as though he said, "Well, I've put away my million, and what are you going to do about it?" Digging deeper, Monsieur Cals, who had been recently assigned to this district, learned that Maitre Sarret's reputation was not as sound as it seemed. In fact if there ever was a whited sepulchre it was this unctuous, oily lawyer who for many, many years has prevented an investigation into his law practice by his stand-in with the right politicians.

Monsieur Cals found that Sarret and the Schmidts had sought to hasten the death of Magali Herbin. First they had tried to kill her by taking the tuberculous girl out on cold, damp nights, by persuading her to drink strong liquors.

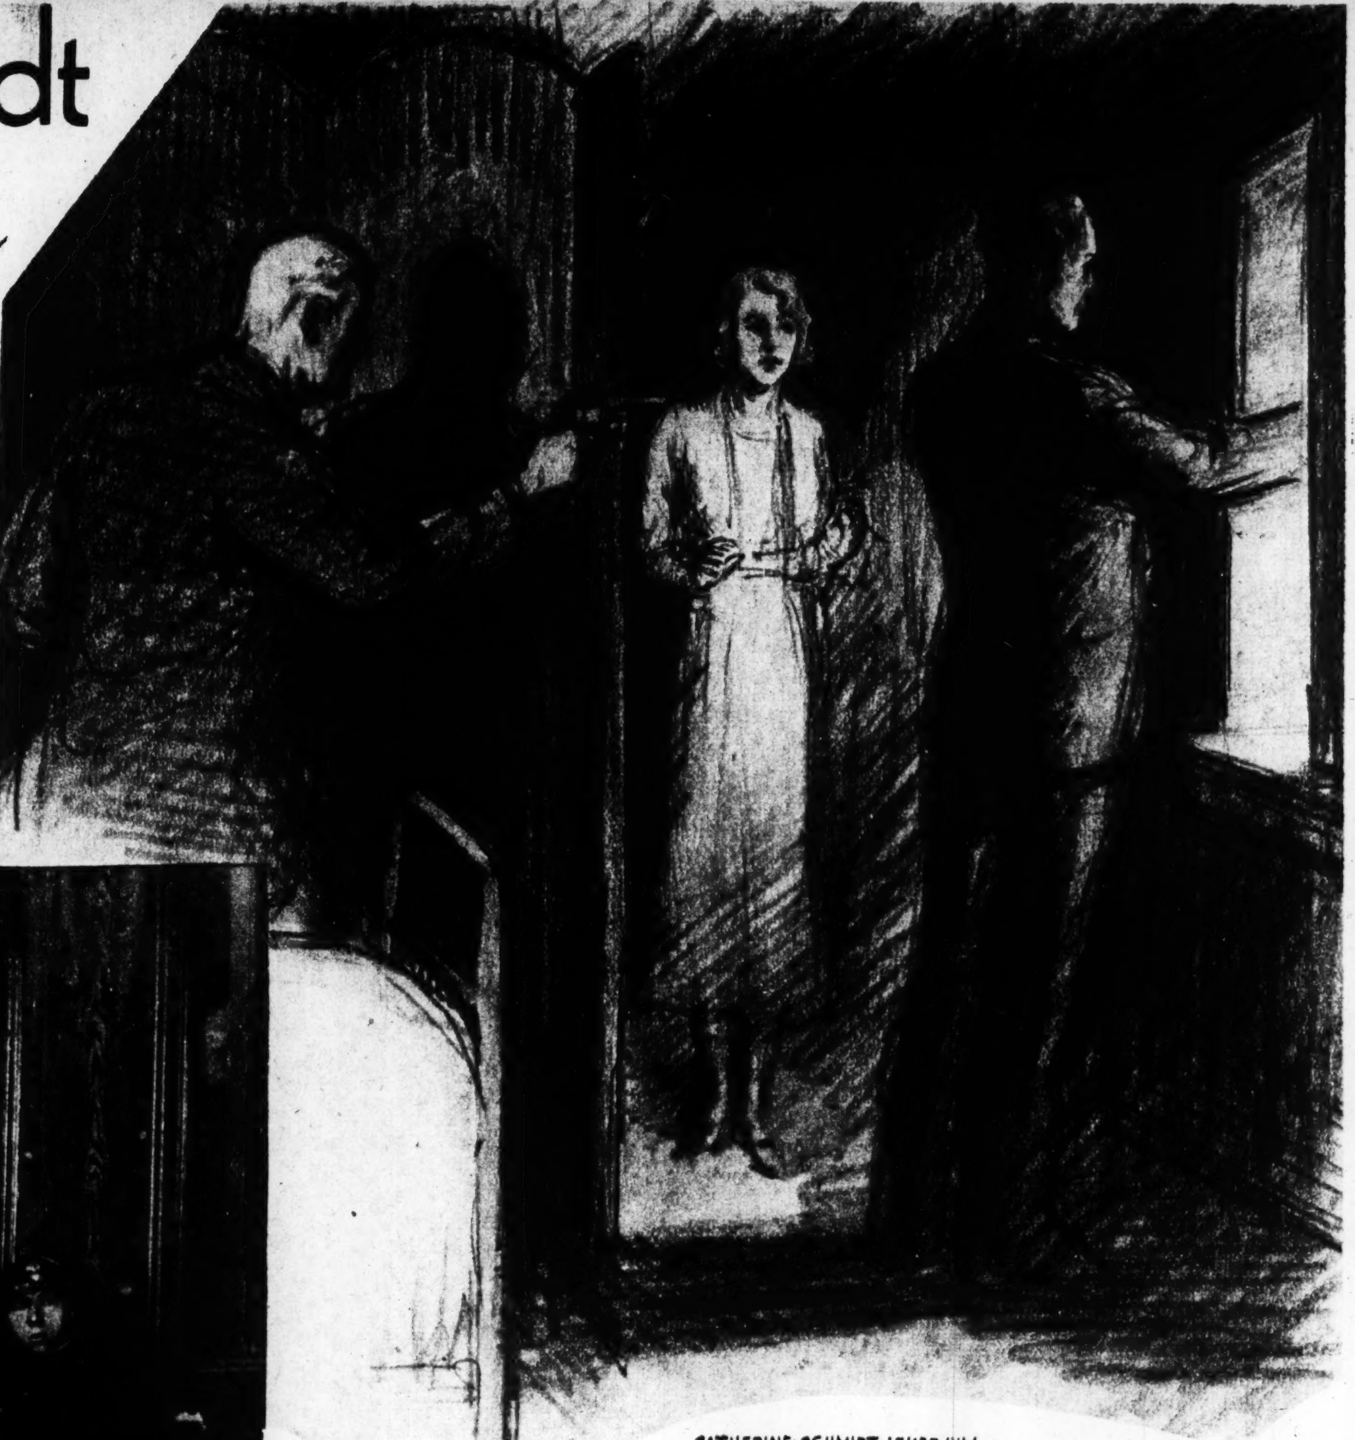
Then Sarret sent her a bottle of champagne containing poisonous zinc salts. Several months later the patient was dead. After the spoils—the insurance—had been divided, the Schmidt sisters went into hiding for a time, first in Paris, later on the Riviera. Then they rented a small house in a Marseilles suburb. Catherine stayed indoors during the daytime until one afternoon, when she ventured out—and was seen by the police spy.

With Sarret and the Schmidt sisters under arrest for swindling and evidence of their treatment of the friendless sick girl unfolding, the investigation continued.

MONSIEUR CALS went thoroughly into Sarret's affairs. He found the lawyer was originally a Greek, named Sarrejanni; that he had been born in Trieste, Austria, in 1878 and had come to France as a young man; that he had studied law, become naturalized as a Frenchman, served courageously in the war and had been admitted to the bar in 1922.

Soon after the war Sarret had married a woman named Bernard, and within a few weeks he had stripped her, her mother and brother of a fortune of almost $100,000. Bernard, the brother, threatened suit. A few weeks later he was poisoned with zinc salts. The chemists found the poison in the body, but Sarret had such a respectable reputation that the family finally decided to let the matter drop.

It appeared that Sarret and the Schmidt sisters had met in 1924. Up to that time the two women had been honest and hardworking. They had not been interned during the war but had worked in a uniform factory at Marseilles. After that they had become seamstresses.



CATHERINE SCHMIDT ASKED HIM TO OPEN THE WINDOW SHUTTERS

The course of their lives changed quickly under Sarret's malign influence. The lawyer arranged a marriage for Catherine with an old man named Seltreuil, and had the bridegroom insured for 100,000 francs in Catherine's favor. The bride left her husband as soon as the wedding ceremony was performed. And a few weeks later the old man died—under strange circumstances. Catherine got 26,000 francs of the insurance, Sarret the rest.

In 1925, Sarret rented a villa near the neighboring city of Aix-en-Provence for the month of August. After his departure, the owner found dark stains on the floors and discovered a sort of thin, black gelatine in a far corner of the garden. He called in the gendarmes, and they reported to the public prosecutor at Marseilles. But there was no body, and the prosecutor insisted Sarret was an honorable man. Sarret went his way unmolested.

But this is what happened at the villa, as disclosed by the recent investigation: Sarret and an unfrocked clergyman named Chambon, a powerful man of 65, had engaged in some shady business together and had fallen out. Sarret lured his erstwhile accomplice to the remote villa. Catherine Schmidt received the visitor at the door, led him to an upstairs room, and asked him to open the window shutters. As Chambon stood with his back to the room, Sarret, hidden behind a Chinese screen, shot and killed him.

That did not finish the job by any means. Sarret got a taxicab, hurried to Marseilles, and returned with Alphonsine Ballandraux, a married woman with whom Chambon had run off. In the villa he shot her to death as he had her lover. Catherine started up a motorcycle in the garden to drown the noise of the shot, while Philomene kept watch on the road.

Then the question arose as to what to do with the bodies. "Destroy them with acid," someone suggested. They were put in the bathtub and Sarret drove to Marseilles and got the acid. In three days the acid had done its work, and the grisly contents of the tub were carried in buckets to the garden.

Sarret made the crime yield a profit. By falsifying papers, he obtained possession of a Marseilles apartment house which Chambon owned and also a villa and its furnishings. He gave the sisters a share of this loot.

Cals, riding hard on Sarret's trail six years later, had to work hard to find all this out. He began by talking with the sisters. "I have just learned," he told them, "that you were with Sarret at the villa and that someone was killed there." They denied it, became hysterical, contradicted themselves. Cals got no information from them but his suspicions were strengthened. So he tackled Sarret himself. For five hours the detective chief and his men questioned the lawyer. Finally Cals said, in a rather sympathetic voice, "I know you're a swindler, Sarret, but a man like you is no assassin. Someone must have menaced you and you simply defended yourself."

"It's true!" Sarret cried. "I killed a man who was blackmailing me." Then he told how the body had been disposed of.

Cals went back to the Schmidt sisters. "Sarret has confessed," he told them. "We know all about the acid. But he throws most of the blame on you two. Now tell me your side." After more hysterics, they did tell, and the details of the two murders at the villa became known at last.

"I'm glad it's all over," said Catherine as she concluded her confession. "Chambon wore a top hat that day, and not a night has passed since then but I see him with that hat in my nightmares."

THE investigating magistrate, who prepares cases for French courts, found indications that Sarret had been involved in a score of crimes between 1920 and 1930, perhaps even more horrible than the murder of Chambon and his mistress, and in a vain attempt to clear them up he let the trio stew in prison nearly three years after their arrest in March, 1931. It was only the other day that the three appeared at the assizes.

For Maitre Sarret, as dignified and unctuous as ever, the Schmidts were two witches, two evil geniuses, who had conceived the crimes and driven him to aid them.

"Look at my life!" he cried again and again. "Not a spot on it until the terrible day in 1924 that they crossed my path!"

For the Schmidts, Sarret was a monster with hypnotic power who kept them continually in a state of terror, threatening to send them to prison unless they followed his slightest wishes.

"I will give you one example," Catherine explained in a burst of tears. "Sarret took Chambon's gold watch before we put the body into the tub, and he has carried it ever since then. I cannot look at that watch without going into a hysteria of fear. Sometimes when we were with other people, and I resisted him in some way, he would dangle the watch under my eyes. I almost went crazy."

Philomene shouted curses and imprecations at Sarret.

Lacaux, the public prosecutor, pointed to Sarret as the master assassin in the case. "Sarret," he cried, "there is no name to describe you! You are a man without any heart, any humanity! What do I say? You are simply a vulture!"

The honorable lawyer Sarret will have his head chopped off in a public place at the crack of dawn some fine spring morning.

The two Schmidt sisters got ten years in prison, and took it with very bad grace.

THE KNIGHT

By PAUL JONES

THERE are other department stores, but they are only pale imitations to Hackett's.

The chief glory of Hackett's is a public forum in the center of the ground floor. Other merchants might have crowded it with counters and bargain tables. Old Henry Hackett left it bare of commerce, created within his store an oasis where trade was outlawed, and dedicated it to the public.

In this court, he placed a memorial tablet, a few potted palms and a large statue, representing a knight in full armor. On the base of the pedestal, three words were carved—Justice, Loyalty, Honor. They were supposed to express the spirit of Hackett's store.

The knight stood at rest, as though catching his breath after a hard tussle with the dragon of unfair competition. His right hand, extended in the direction of the jewelry department, seemed to say: "Continuez, mes enfants! Here I see nothing, but fair dealings!"

His head was bare, and his face, benign in its frame of bronze curls, approved the operations of commerce in Hackett's store.

To the distress of his competitors, Henry Hackett's public-spirited gesture turned out to be as profitable as all the rest of his actions. The Knight's Court paid.

People discovered that it was extremely easy to find. It was an excellent landmark, and it was simple to say: "I'll meet you by the Knight at Hackett's."

The counters bounding the court were not expected to pay, and did not. For that reason, the Personnel Department often put new girls there, to get them used to public life. It was thus that Leslie Quinn found herself, on her first day in Hackett's, with a beautiful view of the Knight's left profile.

Leslie was a very pretty girl, even for Hackett's. All her life, until she came to Hackett's, she had played a subordinate role to her two sisters. As a result, she had a reserved air which the other salesgirls in her department mistook for hauteur. To them, she looked like one of these aristocrats who work for "experience and take bread out of honest girls' mouths."

They made a point of squeezing past her in the narrow aisle between counter and stock shelves, and stepping on her feet. A two-inch spike heel driven into your toes can hurt. Even though they always said: "Beg pardon!" or "Excuse it, please!" in a very refined way.

Her name was not Quinn for nothing. On her second day, she came suitably armed with spike heels, and after that, there was no trouble. They decided Leslie was all right. "You are O. K., kid," Alice Carr told her some time later. "I'll be sorry when you leave us."

"I'm not going to leave."

"With those eyes and that complexion! Don't tell me there isn't some man around."

"Honestly there isn't."

"There will be," Alice predicted.

But for some time Leslie's only man was the handsome knight, who faced the jewelry department. He was nice, but unsatisfactory.

Then J. Wilkie Smith discovered her, on one of his stalking expeditions. He made a specialty of girls in Hackett's. He was standing by the knight's statue one day, and his eyes met Leslie's.

SHE had been looking at him for some time, attracted by his height, his broad shoulders, his red face, his gray military mustache. Sartorially, he ran to wing collars and spats, but they went well with his English walking stick and his noble appearance.

He crossed the court to her counter, and there they talked together for a few minutes.

"What did he say to you?" Alice demanded, after he had gone.

"He asked me to have dinner with him," Leslie admitted.

"Are you going?"

"Certainly I am. Why not?"

"Don't you know J. Wilkie Smith? I thought everybody knew who he was. He's God's gift to wild women."

"Well, he's just an evening out to me. I can take care of myself," Leslie remarked.

"All right, kid. You might as well learn for yourself. I went out to dinner with him, when I was new here. He'll pull the same old line on you. Trip to the Mediterranean, Egypt, cover you with diamonds, and all the rest of it."

Leslie looked thoughtful. Her salary was $12 a week. Her parents were dead and she shared expenses with her two sisters. "Does he mean it?"

"Of course he means it, if that interests you," Alice said suspiciously. "He has plenty of money and he spends it like a drunken bootlegger. You can have anything you want, except a wedding ring."

Leslie went to dinner, a theater and a night club with J. Wilkie Smith. At the night club, he leaned across the table and took both her hands in his. "Little girl," he husked. "Dear little girl!"

"Here it comes," Leslie thought. She felt grand, and not at all frightened. He went on with his routine.

"Let me take you out of all this," he was saying. "A trip to the Mediterranean, Egypt—where would you like to go? You're too fine to let your beauty fade behind a counter at Hackett's."

Leslie sat looking at him. They had dined luxuriously on the roof of a famous hotel, they had sat in theater seats costing six dollars and sixty cents apiece, they were then in a night club whose cover charge was more than her whole weekly budget allowed for food.

And then she burst out laughing. "I couldn't help it," she confided to Alice the next day. "I just got a fit of the giggles. He was red in the face, and there was a crumb stuck in his mustache, like a raft going over Niagara Falls, and—oh, you know. It was awful. I couldn't stop laughing. So finally, he sent me home in a taxi."

Alice laughed, delighted. "He musta been wild," she observed.

"Was he!"

"They can stand anything from you, so long as you don't laugh at 'em," Alice said wisely.

Life went on. Leslie continued behind the counter, and sometimes J. Wilkie Smith passed by, or stood in the court, looking them over, on one of his hunting days. He made no sign that he had ever seen Leslie before, although everyone said she was prettier than ever.

Standing there eight hours a day, you were soon able to recognize a lot of people who kept their appointments at the Knight's Court. Alice used to point out married couples, and would swear that she could remember them when they were only keeping company.

"After they're married, you don't see them so often, but it's kinda interesting, to see how they've changed. Makes you feel glad you're not keeping house for some man. Get a load of that couple over there, scrapping about how late he is. I remember when they were like a couple of love birds."

Leslie was looking at the other side of the court, where a young man was leaning against a pillar. "There's that fellow again," she said, with a sigh. "He comes in every day."

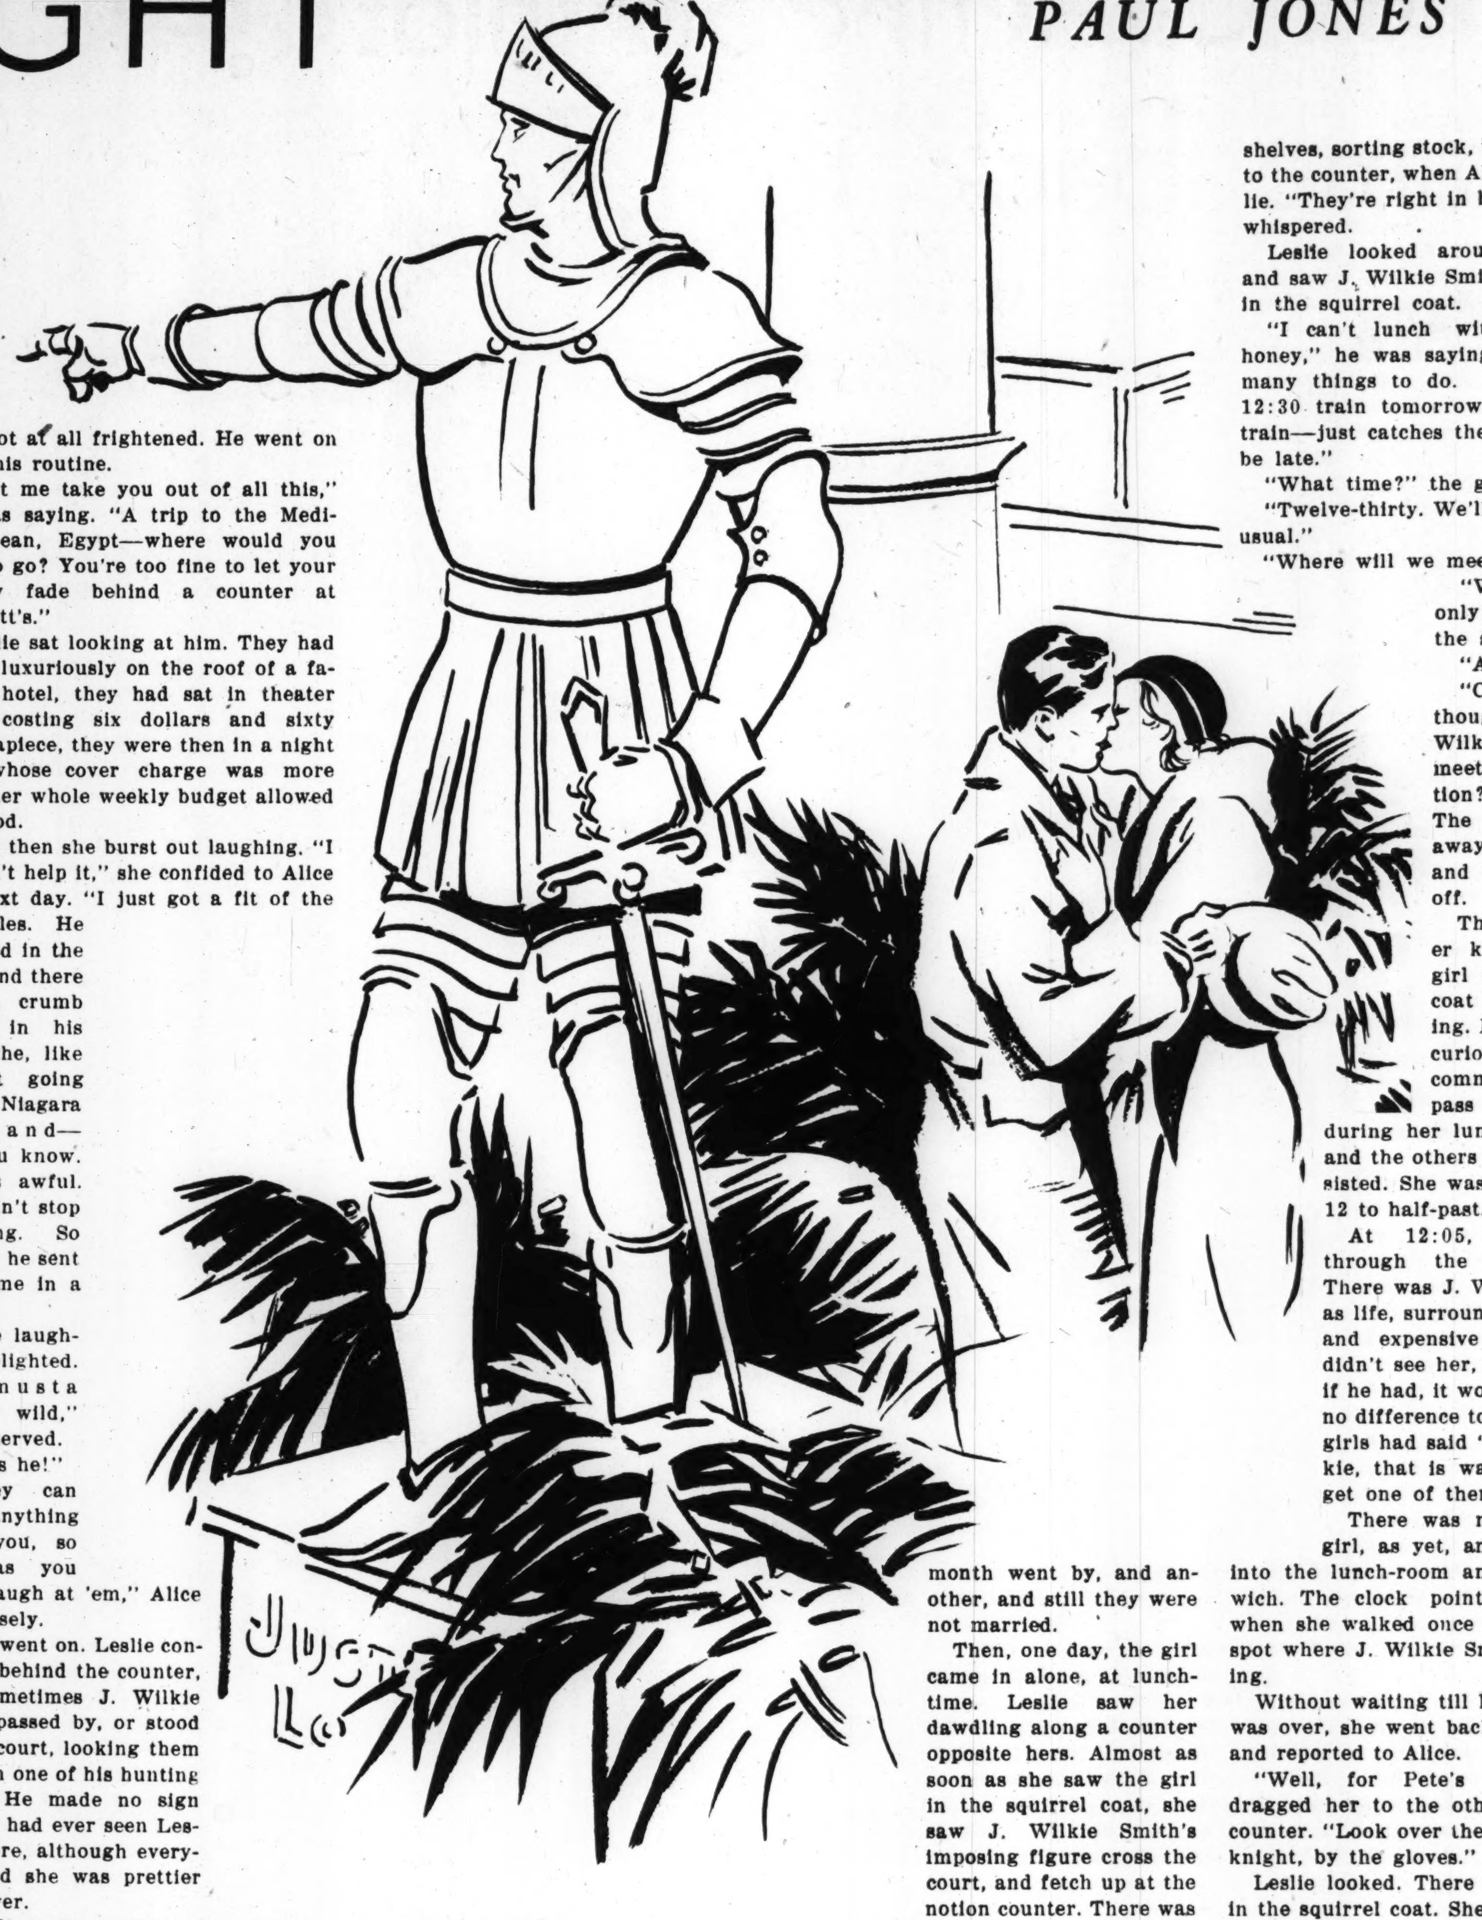
"Mm. I don't see what he can see in her."

Nor did she. Leslie really thought the young man resembled the Knight. It was hard to say just where the resemblance began and where it ended, but for her it was as plain as day.



Alice looked at her. "Have you got a crush on that bird?"

Leslie sighed again. "Gee," she said, "if he asked me to dinner, I'd go in a minute. Why is it the people you want to speak to you never do?"

"That's life, dearie," said Alice briskly.

The man used to get there about half-past four, and the girl, a fragile blonde, would arrive 10 or 15 minutes later. They had been meeting every week-day for two months. For Leslie, the whole store used to brighten when he came in, and darken when he left. And then one day he did speak to her.

He was leaning on the counter, not 10 feet from Leslie. When he turned and spoke to her, her heart made one slow revolution and paused.

The young man looked at her in an embarrassed way, and said: "Pardon me, but—"

"Yes?"

"Could you tell me where the jewelry department is?"

Her heart sank. "Right through the arch," she explained. "Right where the knight's pointing."

He thanked her, and departed.

"He has the nicest voice," Leslie told Alice.

"FOR Pete's sake," her friend said, "if you want him that bad, why don't you go get him? You could do it."

"Do you think I could?" Leslie wondered.

"You could unless he's crazy. Give him the old eye. That little blonde hasn't got a mortgage on him. She doesn't wear a ring."

They had both noticed that. Sometimes, when the girl stood by their counter, they could see that her hands, ungloved, were bare, except for a school ring on the little finger of her left hand.

But on the following day, the girl got there first, and her hand, resting on the counter, bore, on the third finger, a diamond engagement ring.

After that, of course, the thing to do was to forget him. Leslie met a fellow in the sporting goods, who Alice declared was a really interesting prospect. But he didn't look anything like the knight.

On the other hand, she saw Redhead and the girl in the squirrel coat meeting every afternoon, as before. A month went by, and another, and still they were not married.

Then, one day, the girl came in alone, at lunchtime. Leslie saw her dawdling along a counter opposite hers. Almost as soon as she saw the girl in the squirrel coat, she saw J. Wilkie Smith's imposing figure cross the court, and fetch up at the notion counter. There was nothing there that could interest J. Wilkie except the girl.

When Alice came back from lunch, Leslie told her the whole story. "He brushed against her, and then he raised his hat and apologized, and they stood there talking to each other."

She looked at Alice indignantly.

"It's being done every day," Alice commented.

"I know, but they went out together. I'll bet he took her to lunch."

"And he took you to dinner, but it didn't get him anything."

That evening, the girl and the young man met as usual, and Leslie watched them walk out, with the girl's arm tucked under Redhead's and her fresh little face turned up toward his.

Then it became very interesting. Even Alice became excited about it. Every day, at noon, the girl met J. Wilkie Smith, and every evening, at a quarter to five, she met the young man who looked like the knight.

They watched, day after day, and it was evident that J. Wilkie had been hooked. There was one noon, when Leslie had gone out to lunch early, that Alice thought she saw signs of the girl's yielding.

"Old J. Wilkie was down at the jewelry counter, and then he came in here and walked up and down with a little package in his hand, before the squirrel coat came in to meet him." Alice was giving Leslie the low-down, and Leslie was listening breathlessly. "So I went down to the jewelry, and Hattie Klein told me he bought a platinum and diamond bracelet."

There was no sign of the bracelet on the girl's wrist that evening, of course, when she met the young man with the red hair, but on the following day, when she was waiting for J. Wilkie, they saw the bracelet gleaming under her cuff.

"It's all over now," Alice said. "J. Wilkie usually goes away about this time, and she'll go with him. You see if she don't."

A week went by, and the situation was unchanged. At noon, the squirrel coat and a large, expensive bracelet. At a quarter to five, the squirrel coat and a diamond engagement ring. At lunch, J. Wilkie Smith, large and opulent. At dinner, a young man with red hair, and shabby clothes, who looked like a Burne-Jones knight.

Another day, and Alice and Leslie were bending down to the lower stock shelves, sorting stock, with their backs to the counter, when Alice nudged Leslie. "They're right in back of us," she whispered.

Leslie looked around, cautiously, and saw J. Wilkie Smith, and the girl in the squirrel coat.

"I can't lunch with you today, honey," he was saying. "There's so many things to do. We'll take the 12:30 train tomorrow. It's a special train—just catches the boat, so don't be late."

"What time?" the girl whispered.

"Twelve-thirty. We'll meet at 12, as usual."

"Where will we meet? Here?"

"Why not? It's only five minutes to the station."

"All right."

"On second thought," said J. Wilkie, "why not meet at the station? After all—" The voices faded away as the man and the girl moved off.

The whole counter knew what the girl in the squirrel coat had been doing. Even if Leslie's curiosity had not commanded her to pass by the station, during her lunch time, Alice and the others would have insisted. She was only off from 12 to half-past.

At 12:05, she walked through the waiting-room. There was J. Wilkie, as large as life, surrounded by porters and expensive luggage. He didn't see her, of course, and if he had, it would have made no difference to him. So many girls had said "no" to J. Wilkie, that is was easy to forget one of them.

There was no sign of the girl, as yet, and Leslie went into the lunch-room and ate a sandwich. The clock pointed to 12:10, when she walked once more past the spot where J. Wilkie Smith was waiting.

Without waiting till her lunch time was over, she went back to the store, and reported to Alice.

"Well, for Pete's sake!" Alice dragged her to the other end of the counter. "Look over there, beyond the knight, by the gloves."

Leslie looked. There stood the girl in the squirrel coat. She wore a tweed traveling suit under her fur, and a smart little suitcase was at her feet. She was looking at the big clock which said 12:20.

Then the girl stooped and picked up her suitcase. With it in her hand, she hesitated and then came over to Leslie.

"I beg your pardon," she said, "but have you seen anything of a tall gentleman with a gray mustache? I was supposed to meet him here, but I was a little late, and I'm afraid I've missed him."

Leslie looked at her. She wasn't a bad kid.

"I'm sorry," she said clearly. "I haven't."

"I SUPPOSE I ought to go to the station," the girl hesitated, "but I'm afraid we might miss each other on the way."

"If I were you," said Leslie, "I'd wait right here."

She waited until one o'clock, and then they saw her take her suitcase and go.

At 4:30, the girl was back again. But this time without the traveling suit, without the suitcase, without the bracelet.

"Can you tie that?" Alice observed, when the young man came in. While they watched, the girl threw herself into his arms, and kissed him. "I never saw them do that before."

"It's sort of nice," Leslie declared, feeling a little like God.

When Steve, from the Sporting Goods, met her outside that evening, she looked at him with eyes that were so bright and liquid that he began to think seriously of a diamond ring he had seen in a window.

All the girls who get married come back, afterwards, to see the girls who stay in the store.

"You look fine," Alice said to Leslie. "You don't look married."

"I miss the old counter."

"I wouldn't, if I could get hold of a man," Alice returned. "Pretty soft." They were both lying and both telling the truth. There was a little envy on both sides.

"Look, Les," Alice said suddenly. "Across the court. See them? She's still wearing that old fur coat. It must be six years old now."

"Who's the man with her?"

"That's Redhead. Don't you remember?" Leslie looked puzzled.

"Don't you know, you always said he looked like the knight?"

"Did I?"

St. Louis' Little Theater GROWS UP

Having Produced Its Fiftieth Play, It Looks Forward to the Day When It May Become a Playhouse of National Consequence.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

IF the walls of the Artists' Guild, where the Little Theater of St. Louis has its home, were not made of pretty solid brick, it is doubtful if they could contain all the drama that has raged there during the current season, possibly the most eventful in the history of the organization. More than ever before the Little Theater approaches the status of a professional repertory theater.

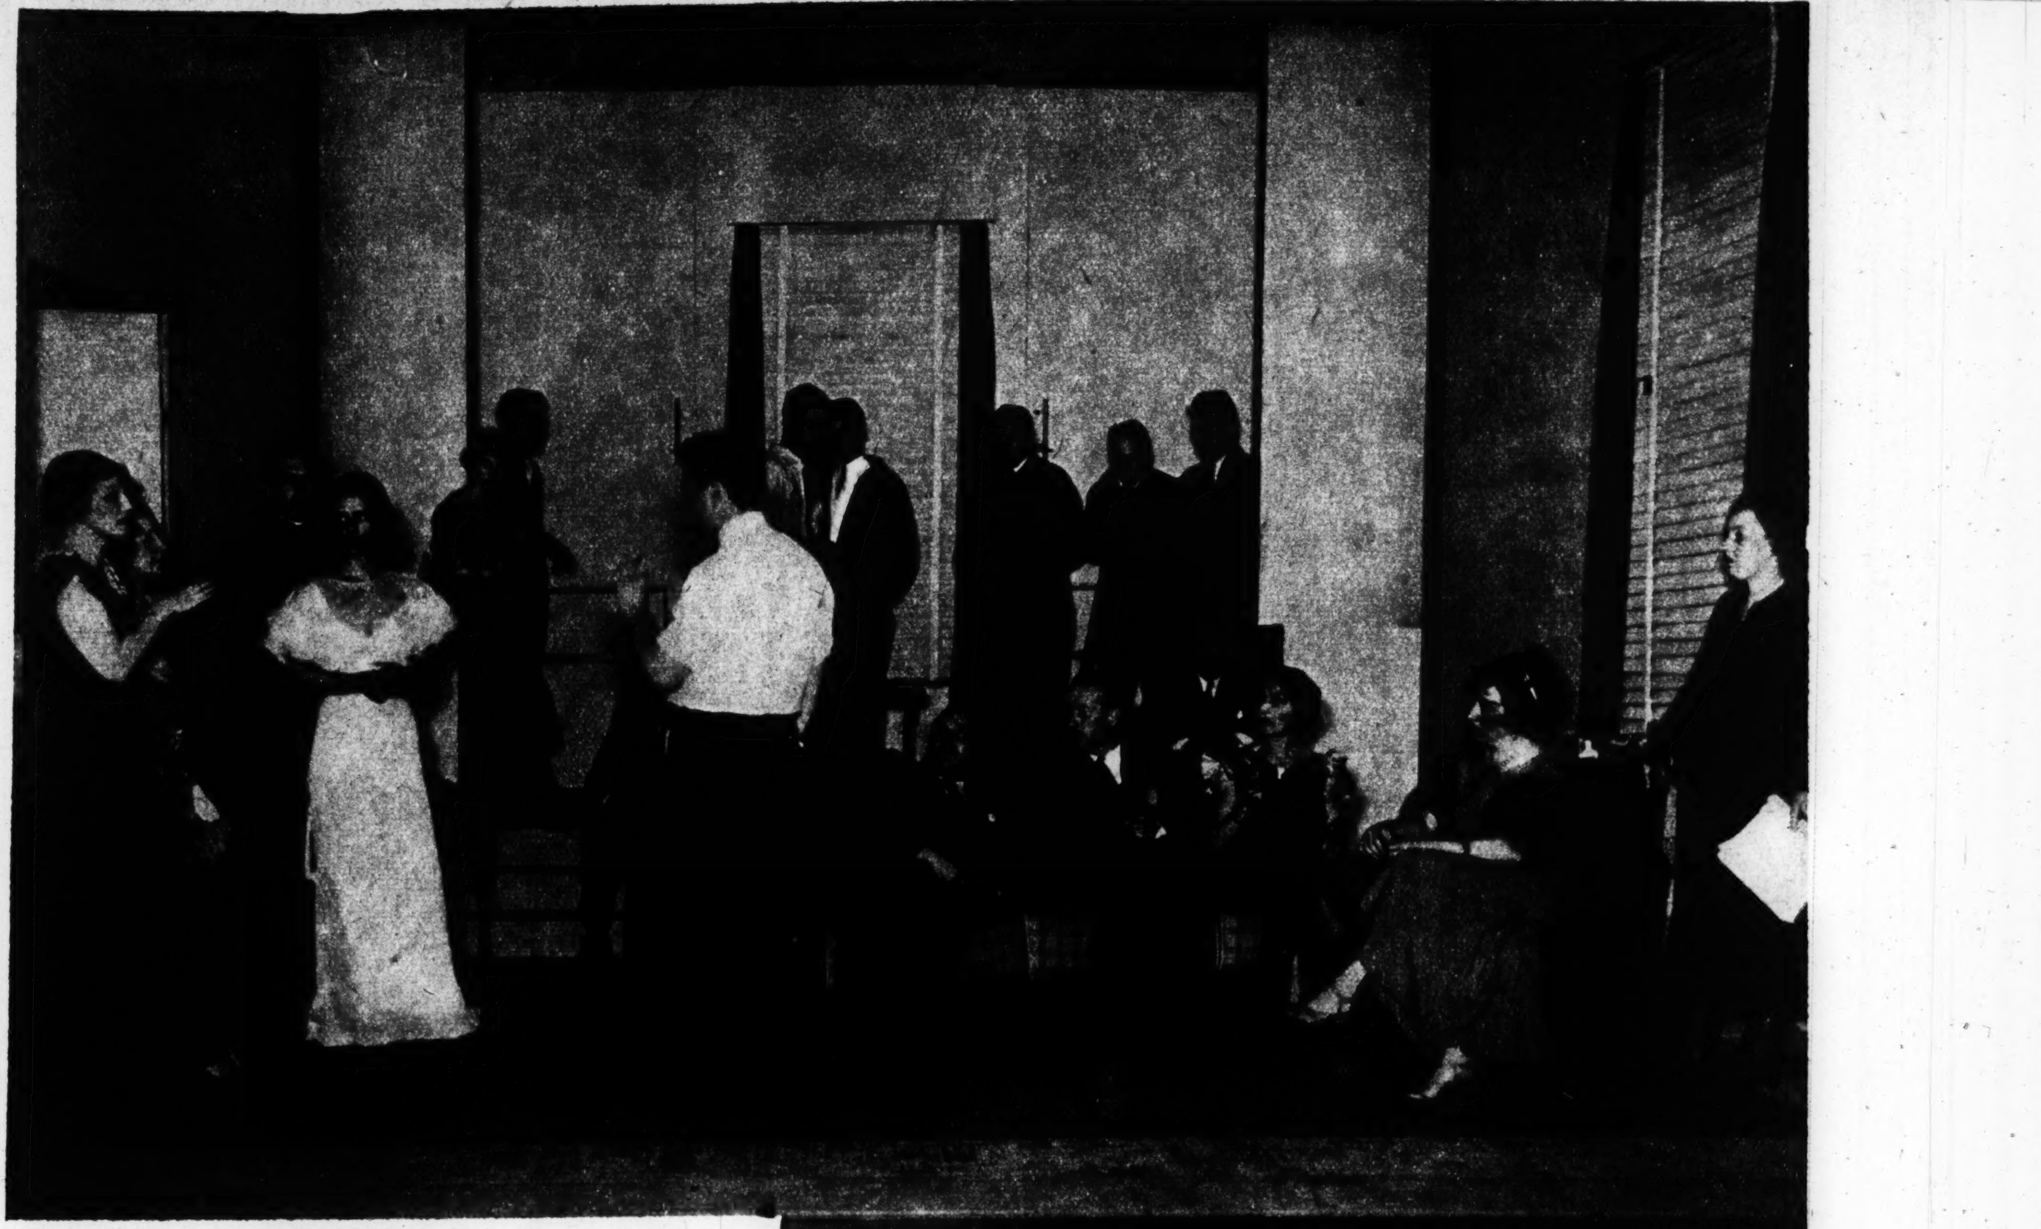
It has even grown up to the extent of having a laboratory theater which provides an outlet for the dramatic abilities and desires of those who are not given roles in the major productions.

Just the other day the fiftieth play produced by the present Little Theater group ended its run, the play "Lost Kisses," translated and adapted from the French of the playwright Andre Birabeau by two St. Louisans and produced in America for the first time at the Little Theater.

That is the pace—an American premiere—that this St. Louis organization has caught.

For 25 years, under various names and a variety of directors, this Little Theater group has been producing plays. Now one may foresee for them a semi-professional theater, although the leaders are not yet ready to talk about that prospect. As it is, the acting group from which Director F. Cowles Strickland has drawn most of his principals are professionals in all but one respect—they receive no pay for their services. Despite the fact that they all have regular jobs, by means of which they earn their living, they give as much time to the plays they produce as would professionals. For the average major production there are 30 rehearsals of four hours each, which figures up into quite a large number of hours.

The demands made upon the actors in the major productions were so heavy that the laboratory theater was started partly with the object of providing an outlet for the amateur who couldn't afford to give more than an amateur's time to acting. This laboratory theater is under the direction of the Cryptic Club, the social organization to which all members of the Little Theater group may belong. Every phase of play production, from playwriting to staging, the Cryptic Club members carry out themselves, without even so much as a suggestion from the professional director, Strickland. In fact, he says that he doesn't even see the plays until they are produced for an audience.



Rehearsing a play at the Little Theater. Director Strickland, in shirt sleeves, is at center.

But although most of the amateurs who take part in the Cryptic Club plays are unable to give four hours a night, seven nights a week, they are as enthusiastic as those in the first acting group. Some of them hope to graduate into that group. It is, in a sense, the minor league in which Director Strickland is able to survey talent in action for the big league.

He cites, to show what lengths the enthusiasm of these amateurs will go, their labors of a recent gala night. It had been the custom in connection with the laboratory evenings, when, customarily, two one-act plays are produced, to serve dinner to club members. Financially this was a losing venture. To economize in every possible way some of the club members decided to prepare the dinner themselves.

They came at noon, rolled up their sleeves, put on aprons and set to work. Charles Quest, the painter, was chief onion-peeler. Gordon Sommers, who took the lead in "Lost Kisses," was chief salad-maker. Mercer Orwig, the painter, marshaled the potato-peelers. Director Strickland worked along with the others. That night they served 220 persons in the crypt of the Artists' Guild and afterward everyone went upstairs to see the two one-acters. Some of the kitchen force took part in the two plays, "Caviar and Cabbage," by Williston P. Munger, and "The Loaned House," by Charlotte Taussig. When accounts were totaled, the club was able to show a profit on the dinner which they have put with a fund to buy special furniture needed for their laboratory productions.

So enthusiastic are these amateurs that they come twice a week, between 40 and 50 each time, to the class in acting and directing which Director Strickland gives on Tuesdays and Fridays. They have progressed as far as the problems of pantomime. Director Strickland puts them through impromptu scenes, makes them solve for themselves the various difficulties that arise in the course of play production.

"I think we are really close to a repertory theater such as the Abbey Theater in Dublin," says Strickland. "There are, after all, very stirring examples of theaters that have graduated into world importance. The Moscow Art Theater, for example.

"In each instance, of course, a great playwright has contributed to the greatness of the theater. With the Abbey Theater it was Synge. Chekhov developed with the Moscow Art Theater. And Eugene O'Neill played a large part in the success of the Provincetown Theater. We are looking for a Chekhov or an O'Neill. Who knows but that we may find him—or her."

Meanwhile Strickland and his players are not waiting for this piece of luck. They are bending every effort toward a theater with standards as high as those of the professional theater. It is part of Strickland's policy to bring professional people to the Little Theater. He brought Ted Shawn and his dancers and he asked Shawn to intersperse the dances with talks about the art of dancing. "I didn't care if the audience was bored," he adds. "The members of my group were benefiting from it." He expects to bring professionals such as Dorothy Sands with her well known "Styles in Acting" and others.

ALREADY two or three members of the Little Theater company have showed exceptional talent. One of the players will attend Strickland's summer school in acting at the Berkshire Playhouse, Stockbridge, Massachusetts. Two or three have contemplated an assault upon Broadway. Strickland has persuaded them to wait until they have more nearly perfected their art. They may become — stranger things have happened—leaders in the semi-professional repertory theater that seems about to evolve from this remarkable organization.

Their last play of the regular season, soon to go on, is "The Pursuit of Happiness," which is still running on Broadway. It will probably be St. Louis' only opportunity to see it on the stage. With only one legitimate theater left in the city, these amateurs feel that there will be more and more of an opportunity for a repertory theater that has grown out of the locality itself, a native product, not one superimposed by the taste or ideas of another section.

that the Count was at heart a lover of dogs. The witnesses were Howard Chandler Christy, the artist; Edward J. Barber, head of a steamship line; Louis Nathan Clark, an executive of the American Locomotive works and Shell Oil and Seton Porter, president of the National Distillery Company.

The defendant spent a bad half hour on the stand, harassed by the "three I's" of the lawyer—incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial—which were hurled as objections by Assistant District Attorney Philip Wagner. Practically all of his testimony was stricken from the record and his elaborate floor plans and engineering measurements went for naught, even the information that the floor of the apartment elevator was 5x5 feet. As the Count wandered, only to be jerked back by objections, Magistrate Dreyer remarked that the witness was probably unfamiliar with American court procedure, and Da Gama gave him a grateful bow as he wiped his brow with a silk handkerchief.

He had recovered enough, in fact, to bow low and say: "Thank you," when Magistrate Dreyer said: "Thirty days." It was then that he spent his first stretch in jail, while Michael Halperin, his lawyer, scurried about for a writ that gained his release on bond.

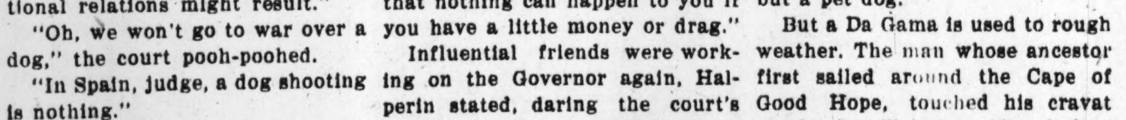
The Appellate Division approved the conviction January 26 last, much to the surprise of Halperin and Da Gama. Immediately they appealed to Governor Lehman in Albany. The Governor said he would be glad to do something if the trial judge and the District Attorney recommended clemency. They wouldn't.

MAGISTRATE Benjamin Greenspan was sitting in West Side court when Da Gama appeared on February 14, the date set for execution of the sentence. Halperin appealed for more delay, stating: "Your honor, Senor Don Juan Francisco Cardenas, the Spanish Ambassador, is negotiating with the State Department in behalf of my client and it is possible President Roosevelt may order a pardon. Your honor can see that if my client goes to jail and the pardon comes through later, a serious break in international relations might result."

"Oh, we won't go to war over a dog," the court pooh-poohed.

"In Spain, judge, a dog shooting is nothing."

"The shooting of a dog is an important matter here," the court said sternly. "Perhaps they shoot dogs in Spain, but not in the United States."



However, when reminded that Spain had extended clemency to four Americans convicted of assaulting a civil guard, Magistrate Greenspan agreed to an adjournment of two weeks, over the protest of the Greens' lawyer, who asserted the fear that Da Gama might leave the country and escape punishment.

All the legal delays merely served to anger Magistrate Overton Harris, who was sitting when the case came up again. When reminded that the defendant was a Spanish nobleman, he said:

"I don't care if he's a Spanish King. The bigger the Count is the greater should be his sensibility to the sufferings of other people and animals. People seem to be getting the idea all over the world, as indicated now by the trouble in France (the Stavisky scandal), that nothing can happen to you if you have a little money or drag."

Influential friends were working on the Governor again, Halperin stated, daring the court's anger once more, and if just two more weeks delay were ordered—.

"I am between the upper and nether millstone," soliloquized Magistrate Harris, rolling his eyes ceilingward. "If I delay execution, I might be considered going beyond my authority. Yet to refuse delay might seem a defiance of Governor Lehman."

"His honor, Presiding Justice Edward F. Finch, of the Appellate Division, didn't see fit to order further delay," a representative of the District Attorney's office volunteered.

"THAT is true," agreed the magistrate. "Why should I, with my little discretion, adjourn the case when Justice Finch, with his much larger discretion, did not?"

There was no adequate reply and Count Vasco da Gama, whose reputation as a big-game hunter is unassailable, went to jail for the rest of his term, eight days, for shooting, not a Bengal tiger, or a python, or a black panther, but a pet dog.

Pain disappears with "Ben-Gay"—it penetrates deeper, faster, lasts longer

The pains of lumbago, sciatica, neuritis go down to defeat with a good thorough application of "Ben-Gay," the original baume analgesique. For "Ben-Gay's" hyposensitizing (pain relieving) action penetrates right through the skin, through the flesh, into the very joints—directly to the pain area. That is why it works faster, gives relief more surely than any of its many imitators.

JOHN BOLES

A different movie star will make his or her appearance in this space every week. Accompanying will be three costumes this particular player wore in various roles played on the screen. Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in his proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correctly.

This week's star is John Boles. The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by him in these roles in the following movies:

Next week: Helen Vinson.

Bill Bunny certainly is inspired. Never before has he painted with so much ease and freedom. And never before has he painted his eggs with such queer looking designs, nor has he ever used his colors like he is using them tonight. Yes, sir, Bill Bunny's eggs don't look anything like they did last year, but that doesn't bother Bill and we find him painting as

THE PLAY BEGINS

BILL BUNNY—Ah, at last I've got something, something that will make folks think. When they see these eggs they won't simply say, "Aren't they pretty?" No sir, they are going to think. Well, this is the last egg; when I get it done I'd better start hiding them. It will soon be daylight. (So Bill puts on a few more brush strokes and when he has finished he places the eggs in his basket and hops along. When he reaches Hickory Hollow he hides the eggs and hops away, and none to soon. Barely has he hidden the last egg when the folks start hunting them. And when they find them they look at them, but hardly know what to say. At last they find their voices.)

GRUMPY—This is the craziest egg I ever saw. I think there is something wrong with that rabbit.

CLEO CLUCK—Mercy! Look at these! Think what would happen if they were to hatch.

PAT O'POSSUM—I think it's terrible.

WILLIE WISDOM—I don't know what to think. But I'm going to find out. (So he flys away and we next see him seated in a tree talking to Bill Bunny.)

WILLIE WISDOM—So you say you painted the eggs like you did to make folks think? Well, most of them think you're crazy.

BILL BUNNY—That's because they don't know anything about art. (So Willie, who wants to know everything, gets a book on art, which we see him reading.)

WILLIE WISDOM—I wonder if that rabbit is a fool or if—wait a minute! Modern art! And isn't this April the first—Hm-m-m. I wonder-r-r.

I LIKE THE NEW NEIGHBORHOOD ALL RIGHT, ELLA, EXCEPT ON ACCOUNT OF POOR LITTLE TED. HE'S SO FRAIL THE OTHER CHILDREN PICK ON HIM---- ESPECIALLY THAT TERRIBLE TOMMY BROWN.
TWO MINUTES LATER...
TOMMY BROWN--- YOU STOP THAT THIS INSTANT! YOU OUGHT TO BE ASHAMED OF YOURSELF PICKING ON SOMEONE SMALLER THAN YOU!
GOOD HEAVENS!
AW---HE'S AS OLD AS I AM!
REALLY, I'M JUST AT MY WIT'S END HE'S SO THIN AND WEAK-AND HARDLY EATS A THING AT MEALS ALWAYS TURNS HIS NOSE UP AT CEREAL AND VEGETABLES AND SIMPLY WON'T DRINK MILK.
WHY DON'T YOU TRY GIVING HIM OVALTINE?
OVALTINE? YOU MEAN THAT SWISS FOOD-DRINK YOU HEAR SO MUCH ABOUT THESE DAYS?
YES, AND THEY'VE FOUND IT SIMPLY AMAZING FOR MAKING POOR EATERS EAT!--BUILDS THEM UP AT THE RATE OF A POUND A WEEK. OR MORE! IT TELLS ABOUT IT IN THIS MAGAZINE AD RIGHT HERE!
SEE? YOU REALLY OUGHT TO TRY IT FOR TED!
I'LL CERTAINLY GET A CAN AND START RIGHT IN TODAY.

OVALTINE PLEASE!
GEE, MOM---I BET THIS IS THE BEST-TASTING DRINK IN THE WHOLE WORLD! WHAT DO YOU CALL IT?
IT'S OVALTINE, DEAR--- AND YOU CAN HAVE ALL YOU WANT WHENEVER YOU WANT---BECAUSE IT BUILDS YOU UP AND MAKES YOU HEALTHY AND STRONG!
LATER..
ANOTHER HELPING? WHY OF COURSE!
SA-AY! WHO'S THIS CHAMPION SPINACH EATER WE'VE GOT HERE? IT CAN'T BE TED-- HE ALWAYS HATED SPINACH
BUT I LIKE IT NOW, DAD IT TASTES DIFFERENT THAN IT USED TO. AN' BESIDES I'M SO HUNGRY LATELY I COULD EAT MOST ANYTHING AT ALL!
STILL LATER.
WELL, LOOK AT THIS! TEN POUNDS GAIN ALREADY!
THAT'S THE STUFF SON!
JUST WAIT TILL THAT TOMMY BROWN TRIES TO PICK ON ME AGAIN!

WELL, IT LOOKS AS THOUGH TED COULD TAKE CARE OF HIMSELF WITHOUT ANY HELP FROM NOW ON! HE'S AS HUSKY AS ANY YOUNGSTER ON THIS BLOCK!
GOSH, FEEL THIS MUSCLE!
IT CERTAINLY WAS A LUCKY DAY WHEN ELLA TOLD ME ABOUT OVALTINE!

Mothers! Here's How Ovaltine Adds a Pound a Week or More —And Makes "Poor Eaters" Hungry, Even For Vegetables And Milk

OVALTINE is a scientific food concentrate—approved by more than 20,000 doctors and child specialists. And given religiously by hundreds of thousands of mothers as an important part of the health-building program so widely urged today.

So remarkable are its building powers that, by commencing now, you may almost literally make your child over within a few weeks' time. For it acts 3 ways to build up a child who is underweight or nervous—who shuns health-giving vegetables and milk.

First: It adds weight, often at the rate of 8 ounces to 1½ pounds a week.

Second: At the same time, the desire to eat is stimulated in a scientific way. Not by merely "tempting" the taste, but by actually creating the natural sensation of hunger. Thus, when a child drinks Ovaltine, he not only inclines to eat more of such healthful foods as vegetables, oatmeal and bread—but because of better digestion, he gets more nourishment out of every meal he eats.

Milk is also taken much more readily when it is mixed with Ovaltine. And Ovaltine has a delicious taste that the fussiest child is unable to resist.

Third: As appetite and weight increase, nervousness is simultaneously curbed to a marked degree. Thus breaking up the vicious circle that underweight and nervousness usually tend to create.

So remarkable are the results accredited to Ovaltine that, during the World War, medical authorities made it a standard ration for rebuilding shell-shocked, nerve-shattered soldiers. Physicians also recommend it highly for sleeplessness—and as a strengthening food for nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged.

For the sake of your child, try Ovaltine. You simply mix it with milk—either hot or cold—and children love it for its delicious taste. You can obtain Ovaltine at any drug or grocery store. Get a can of it today. (Note the special free mug offer of the genuine Little Orphan Annie Mug for serving hot Ovaltine. It adds that "party touch" at mealtime that every child delights in.)

A TRUE STORY — HOW JOE CRANE DREAMED OF BECOMING A CHAMPION PARACHUTE JUMPER AND MADE HIS DREAM COME TRUE
GEE WHISKERS, JOE, LOOKIT THAT GUY. HE FELL OUT OF THE BALLOON.
HE DIDN'T FALL. HE'S A PARSHOOT JUMPER. LETS GO OVER AND TALK TO HIM.
BIG BALLOON ASCENSION WITH PARACHUTE JUMP AT FAIR TODAY
HELLO BOYS, HOW'D YOU LIKE THE JUMP?
GOLLY, THAT WAS SOME JUMP.
HURT YOU MUCH, MISTER?
ON THE WAY HOME
PA—KNOW WHAT—I DON'T WANT TO BE AN ENGINEER WHEN I GROW UP ANY MORE. I WANNA BE A PARSHOOT JUMPER.
YEAH. ME TOO, POP.

OH, DEAR, I HOPE JOE DOESN'T GET HURT.
OH, JOE!
SO YOU WANT TO BE A PARACHUTE JUMPER, EH? WELL, LET'S SEE YOU CLIMB THAT FLAGPOLE OVER THERE.
YES, SIR.
IS THIS FAR ENOUGH, SIR?
O.K. ROOKIE. COME ON DOWN.
HE'LL DO.
FIRST — YOU'VE GOT TO LEARN TO INSPECT AND FOLD PARACHUTES. YOU'VE GOT TO KNOW YOUR 'CHUTES.
YES, SIR. BUT WHEN DO I JUMP?
OH, YOU'LL JUMP SOON ENOUGH.
OVER YOU GO. JUMP CLEAR AND COUNT 3 BEFORE YOU PULL THE RIP CORD.
YES, SIR (STEADY NOW, JOE, STEADY.)
HIS FIRST JUMP
ONE! TWO! THREE!
THAT WASN'T SO TOUGH. NOW IF I CAN MAKE A GOOD LANDING!
WHOA THERE!
ARE YOU O.K. CRANE? THAT JUMP WAS A WOW!
TODAY
FAMOUS AFTER 500 PARACHUTE JUMPS — JOE CRANE IS THE NATIONAL SPOT-JUMP CHAMPION. WHAT DARING IDEA WILL HE THINK OF NEXT?
WHAT STUNT TODAY, JOE?
I'VE GOT TO DROP HALF A MILE AND HIT A 100-FT. CIRCLE.
TARGET — A 100-FOOT CIRCLE DRAWN ON THE GROUND 2600 FEET DOWN. CAN HE MAKE IT?
HERE I GO FOR A BULL'S-EYE.

2 DROPS A WHILE — THEN DOES IT AGAIN.
3 LANDS WITH HIS THIRD AND LAST CHUTE.
THAT WAS MARVELOUS, JOE.
THANKS, RUTH, HAVE A CAMEL?
YES, I LIKE CAMELS, TOO. ARE THEY REALLY BETTER FOR THE NERVES?
what JOE CRANE, NATIONAL SPOT-JUMP PARACHUTE CHAMPION, told RUTH DODD
IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BAIL OUT OF A PLANE — WITH A HALF MILE OF EMPTY AIR UNDER YOU. I KNOW BECAUSE I HAVE DONE IT 556 TIMES. I SMOKE STEADILY — HAVE FOR YEARS. AND I STICK TO CAMELS. THEY DON'T INTERFERE WITH MY NERVES. THEY ARE MILDER!
I ENJOY A SMOKE ANY TIME — AND SMOKE STEADILY, TOO. MY CIGARETTE? CAMELS. THEY'RE MILDER, TASTE MARVELOUSLY — AND DON'T INTERFERE WITH HEALTHY NERVES.

What Makes Skin Smooth—Wrinkle-Free?

TWO REASONS!

1 Active Oil Glands in Under Skin

2 Natural Moisture in Outer Skin

You have Two Skins. You need Two Creams—a different cream for each skin

THE APPLE TELLS THE STORY

SMOOTH—GLOSSY	SOFT—SPONGY	WRINKLED—DISCOLORED
1 At its peak, the inner and outer skin of the apple are both firm and smooth—perfect!	2 A little past its prime, the inner tissue of the apple has shrunken away from the outer skin.	3 Still later, the outer skin has wrinkled to fit the shrunken under skin. That's what causes wrinkles in human skin, too!

READ THE STORY of the apple above!

Amazing, that your skin, too, which consists of two skins—is subject to changes like those!

But there is a way to keep it smooth . . . gloriously free from dreaded lines! That way is to give each of your two skins the different care it needs.

To Avoid Wrinkles, keep your Under Skin firm—Long before the first telltale lines begin to show on your face, changes are taking place in your under skin that will surely produce them.

Begin early to help this under skin. When its oil glands begin to fail, you can supply the oils that keep it firm and young. You need an oil cream that goes down into the under skin. That is exactly what Pond's Cold Cream does.

This delicious oil-rich cream penetrates to the very under skin, brings it just the oils it needs. Your skin feels toned, renewed—way down. Actually firmer—and fresher. Soon you can see the little lines smooth out. You feel and look years younger!

Use this satiny cream for cleansing, too. Because it goes so deep, it removes every particle of dirt and make-up—frees your pores thoroughly. No wonder it is so refreshing, invigorating!

UNDER SKIN
WHERE
DRYNESS STARTS

To Correct Dryness—What to do for your Outer Skin—Here it's an entirely different need! Not oils but natural skin moisture is needed to keep this outer skin from growing rough and dry and chapped.

Pond's Vanishing Cream is made especially for the outer skin. It is greaseless. Instead of oils, it contains a marvelous substance that prevents loss of skin moisture—actually replaces lost moisture.

You can test this yourself by a single application of Pond's Vanishing Cream on dry chapped skin! The roughness is smoothed away! Your skin is pearly looking. And Pond's Vanishing Cream will keep it that way. It will hold powder and rouge smoothly for hours!

Send for the samples offered in the coupon below. Or go right out and buy yourself a small jar of each of these famous creams. In a few days begin to know the joy of what they can do for you. See your own skin growing daily clearer, smoother, lovelier!

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Roosevelt, of Washington, though not yet 20, has started her Pond's Régime. She guards her skin's Youthful Freshness with Pond's Cold Cream for her Under Skin and Pond's Vanishing Cream for her Outer Skin.

The Countess of Warwick, one of the most admired women in British Aristocracy, keeps the transparent loveliness of her skin with Pond's Two Creams.

Miss Anne Gould, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould, describes for you the Two-Skin Treatment Society Women use

These are her own words:

"I know women who use dozens of preparations on their face. They spend hours night and morning applying all these different things to their skin. Yet they are not beautiful! Their skin looks worn-out—lifeless—long before its time. I am convinced that those women have actually hurt their skin with all that overattention!

"I believe there is a sensible basis for keeping one's skin beautiful—to find out what the skin really needs, and then give it those things in absolutely reliable preparations. This is what I do:

1 "Every Night, I cleanse my skin to its depths with a cream the whole world knows you can trust—Pond's Cold Cream. It's a delicious soft melty kind of cream that has a way of coaxing out every speck of make-up, powder, and dust from your pores. I wipe it all off with Pond's Tissues. Then I go all over face and neck with Pond's Cold Cream a second time. I pat it in to bring up the circulation. This makes any skin feel young deep down, and from inside out! Then I wipe that off, too. (Sometimes I use Pond's Liquefying Cream. It's a grand cleanser, too, and goes equally deep.)

2 "Next, Pond's Vanishing Cream for overnight. It is greaseless, light. Makes you look and feel fresh, and never soils your pillow. And smooths and softens the skin divinely. I apply it liberally over face, neck, arms and hands, and I use it all the time to keep my elbows soft and white.

3 "In the Morning, and during the day when needed, I just repeat this performance. A Pond's Cold-Cream cleansing, then Pond's Vanishing Cream. This last is the grandest foundation cream ever. It makes your skin so smooth. And it holds powder amazingly. There isn't any simpler, surer way of caring for skin than with these Two wonderful Creams."

C
Cleansing

Mrs. Henry Field, of Chicago, thrilling Society beauty, keeps her gloriously white skin satin-smooth and young with just two creams—Pond's Cold Cream for her under skin, Pond's Vanishing Cream for her outer skin.

For your Under Skin—Pond's delicious Cold Cream. Or, Pond's new Liquefying Cream if you prefer a cream that melts more rapidly into the skin.
